Had I in front of me a serious opponent I could figure out where the second front would come. But with these military idiots one never knows where they will attack. The maddest enterprise may be launched and—this is the only disagreeable thing—one never knows what next when faced with such lunatics and drunkards. Of course we must prepare everywhere. Let me assure Mr. Churchill that wherever he may choose for his next attack he may consider himself lucky if he remains on land for nine hours.

There was no such heavy sarcasm yesterday.—Manchester Guardian.

GIVE YOUR BLOOD NOW!

THE NEED IS SO VERY URGENT....

The most glorious help a civilian can give to a fighing man is also one of the easiest to give. It is three-quarters of a pint of blood . . . blood you'll never miss.

Today a Blood Donor Service—serving all branches of the armed forces—is carrying on the greatest life-saving business in the whole history of mankind.

Through it, any healthy adult—with no harm to himself or herself, and with almost no inconvenience—can directly and certainly save the lives of three, four, five, even six Canadian fighting men each year. Men who will be dead unless some one gives three-quarters of a pint of their blood.

If you live within reach of the Blood Donor Clinic, call now for your appointment.

Somewhere, months later, a man will come back to his home, where he never would have come again except for you. Surely you could spare a little blood to see one of your family return home safely—maybe your own son, husband, or sweetheart is out in the field wounded and is badly in need of a transfusion. Won't you help to bri ng him back?

At blood donors' service headquarters, name, address and phone are taken.

Prospective donors wait their turn to give 450 CC. (approx. 3-4 pint) of blood.

Both Men and Women

Both Men and Women between the ages of 18 and 60 years of age are urgently needed to help fill the Peterborough Blood Banks

At present they need 1,000 new donors to reach this year's quota. Surely you can register your name as the offensive is all ready in progress and the blood plasma is constantly in use so that the reserve must be built up to help the seriously wounded.

Don't let the boys over there down by not doing your part at home!

Nurses' aide checks pulse and temperature. Donor must be healthy.

Nurse checks blood pressure and tests hemoglobin content — then a thorough doctor's examination.

Nurse watches donor while blood is taken from vein.

Refreshments are served by canteen worker. Next visit: Men 8 weeks — women 12 weeks.

Army Officials Consider Sports Problem

By KENNETH C. CRAGG

OTTAWA, Oct. 19—Competitive practices in obtaining sports players in army military districts are due shortly to come under headquarters restrictions which will go far in checking the wide-open system of peacetime procedure, it was learned today.

The matter has been under consideration in army headquarters in a more or less dreamy way for some time.

It was brought to a head last week-end, however, by the spectacular induction on Friday of Turk Broda, Toronto Maple Leafs' goalkeeper in the National Hockey League, in M.D. No. 2, Toronto, in the face, apparently, of strong bidding from Montreal units.

Reports that an inquiry is to be held concerning Broda were denied by both army and National Selective Service spokesmen. So far as the army is concerned, at least, no inquiry has been ordered and its attitude is that Broda, at the time he was removed from a Montreal-bound train last Thursday night by Royal Canadian Mounted Police, and taken to Stanley Barracks, was not "our baby"; he belonged to Selective Service.

Director of National Selective Service, Arthur MacNamara said today: "So far as Broda is concerned, all I know about him, he is a good goalkeeper." He added that headquarters of Selective Service was not interested in making an inquiry into the matter.

Broda, it was reported, was removed from the train on the outskirts of Toronto, a few minutes after midnight. His National Selective Service call-up had expired at midnight. Aside from the goalkeeper's tardiness in reporting, the deep significance of the incident is drawn in the report that, accompanying Broda at the time, was an army sergeant-major who is said to have had some connection with a Montreal army hockey team.

Army and National Selective Service authorities asserted that Broda because of his goalkeeping prowess, held a certain bargaining position with the military districts which were striving to build a hockey team. Apparently, they said, he had been swithering for some time, between one and the other, "looking for the best place to light."

Their reports suggest that Montreal, finally, sent up an army envoy to Toronto and that he persuaded Broda to sign up in that city. In the meantime, M.D. No. 2 sports men wised up to the situation and set in motion the action that detained the goalkeeper in Toronto.

The army, it is stated, has recognized there has been a large-scale stealing of players and other irregularities more in keeping with halcyon days of peace than a serious sports program of an army organization in time of war and has now been moved to do something about it.

Details of the new policy have not been worked out, it is stated. But in general terms, it will strive to control and make regular that which at times was casually irregular before and did much to bring the service into disrepute in the public mind.

Assuming, it was suggested, that Toronto had a good depot hockey team and might have two or three good players left over, and Montreal had a good team, but needed strengthening on the forward line, there was no reason why a policy could not be worked out that would enable a proper transfer of the Toronto spares to Montreal.

In the meantime, there is apparently a tendency to wash the hands of Broda. He is in the army, is the official attitude, and that is the main thing.

And if he did happen to be more or less shanghaied and put into uniform in Toronto, the general opinion seems that seven years' connection with the Maple Leafs gives M.D. No. 2 a certain priority over the Broda puck skill.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The first shot in the drive that is hoped will see Peterborough provided with a modern and adequate artificial ice hockey arena after the war was fired at a meeting of the city council last night when at the suggestion of Ald. Herb Bradburn, seconded by Ald. J. E. Sullivan a resolution was passed authorizing Mayor Hamilton to call a public meeting to discuss preliminary plans. It is the intention to call together representatives of the Chamber of Commerce, service clubs, industries, and all others interested in hockey to take the first steps in the campaign for a modern arena for this community. Municipalities will be expected to have ready a program of construction work to be launched as soon as the war is over to help take care of the unemployment slack that will inevitably follow the cessation of hostilities and in planning to have the erection of a hockey arena as part of the local program the city council is following a course that this column is sure will meet with general approval. The need of such a building is recognized on all sides. Proper facilities for hockey are a necessity in every Ontario centre and the citizens of Peterborough are unanimous in their belief that the providing of a suitable arena is one of the things that must be undertaken as soon as the war is over.

* * * * * *

Obviously, however, we cannot afford to wait until then to do the planning. That is why Ald. Bradburn has brought the matter up now and why the city council has decided to consult representative bodies and individuals so that the whole setup can be blue-printed and prepared for immediate action as soon as the proper times comes. Ald. Bradburn was one of a city deputation which recently inspected the beautiful arena at St. Catharines and he came back enthusiastic not only about the building itself but about the manner in which the scheme was promoted in the Garden City and the splendid results financially that have followed the opening of the Arena there. The city fathers are firmly of the opinion that what has been done in St. Catharines can and should be done here. They are moving in the right direction in giving leadership in the matter and in making arrangements by which the community can get in behind the scheme and set the stage for action after the war. It is a movement that should have the last ounce of co-operation from the citizens generally. Peterborough has too long been without proper hockey facilities and at long last we are beginning to do something about it.

* * * * * *

A Chance For The Kids

The city council is also to be congratulated upon the decision to allow the lacrosse bowl on Townsend street to be used for hockey purposes this coming winter and on appointing a committee to look after the task of providing the necessary facilities. The proposition that the lacrosse stadium should be utilized for the purpose of giving young teams a chance to play and thus keep hockey alive in Peterborough in the absence of any O.H.A. action came from Herb Payne who has offered to set up a league for young teams if the city fathers would authorize the use of the lacrosse cushion for hockey purposes. The council has very wisely agreed to the proposal and the result cannot but be beneficial to the game here. The arena is just about the right size for hockey and with its high sides is all ready for use as a rink. With no ice available at Brock street rink, the lacrosse cushion will make a very welcome substitute. Hockey for 'teen age players should flourish there, especially if older players offer their services as coaches for the teams that will be organized.

Peterborough's new junior rugby squad under the coaching of Rich Jackson are beginning to round into form and the fans may get an opportunity this week-end to see them in action against the Trinity College School team of Port Hope. Efforts are being made to arrange this game to be held at Riverside Park on Saturday afternoon and local rugby fans, hungry for some action, would certainly welcome an announcement that the fixture is definitely on. The team has secured possession of the rugby uniforms obtained several seasons ago when the game folded up here and will be able to take the field adequately equipped. The majority of the local youngsters have had no experience in organized rugby but they are keen to learn the game and some of them have been showing great promise in practice. A few of the outfit including Bob Crowe and Tommy Craig played football with Collegiate but for most of the players this will be their first appearance. They deserve credit for their attempt to revive the fall pastime in Peterborough at a time when many teams have folded up for the duration and it is to be hoped they will be successful in arranging a series of games.

* * * * * *

A Well-Balanced Card

Tonight's wrestling bill at Brock St. Arena looks like the best-balanced card that Promoter Frank Tunney has yet offered the Peterborough fans. The main bout between Gentleman Jack Clayborne and Palermo John Katan needs little comment. The two battlers have met here twice before and both times a grim tussle has resulted. Katan won the first time on a doubtful decision by Referee Bert Maxwell and Clayborne took the return engagement on a ruling by the same official that did not look any better than the one called on Clayborne. So tonight is the rubber contest and with a chance to meet British Empire champion Whipper Watson as the prize for the winner there is every incentive for both men to give all they have and they will probably do just that. It looks like a tossup. The other two bouts are almost equally classy. Jan Gotch who showed a lot of stuff in his first appearance here a week ago tangles with Irish Pat Flanagan and it would appear that the popular Toronto boy is in for a tough session unless he can manage to introduce one of his devastating mule kicks at the proper moment. Gotch is fast, tough and ruthless and the agile Flanagan need expect no tea party tonight. As for Mike Demetre, the Montreal speedster who is just graduating into the heavyweight class after a successful career as a light heavy, he is meeting a tough baby in the person of Al Bunny Dunlop. The Toronto strong man plays them all alike, and unless Demetre is a real acrobat he'll have quite a time keeping away from the rough stuff that Dunlop dishes out to all and sundry. All three bouts look promising and there should be plenty of action all the way through.

The other day this column referred to the fact that a replay had been ordered in the Oshawa Minor Baseball Association finals because the team that had won the title by taking both ends of a double-header on Thanksgiving Day had been found to have used a player that wasn't eligible. There has been an unusual sequel to the affair. Victors were the team who had won out and their opponents were the Coca Colas. Friday afternoon representatives of the latter club waited on the league president and notified him that they had been beaten on the diamond fairly and squarely and so far as they were concerned they didn't want any back door entrance to the championship. They had had a meeting the night before and the players of the losing team had voted to let the final series stand and not to play again. Accordingly the arrangement for a re-play Saturday was called off and the Victors, the winning team on the field, were declared champions. The Coca Colas incidentally, as George Campbell points out have grabbed off the big share of the glory by their sporting gesture. The youngsters have set an example that older players in a lot of places could follow with advantage.

Bowlers Raise $620 For War During Season

Before one of the largest gatherings to ever attend our annual meeting, the shareholders of the Peterborough Lawn Bowling Club Ltd elected their Board of Directors for the 1943-44 season.

Three of last year's board, R. F. Downey, P. Moore and R. Payne were successful; B. Chesler and K. Sloane, both past-presidents, return to the board after an absence of a few years and H. Beatty and H. Freeman are the two newcomers.

In opening the meeting, President Ross F. Downey expressed his thanks for the support of all. He said these were difficult times and it was not all just plain sailing. But he went on to say that in spite of all this the club was able to raise $620.00 for War purposes.

Must Do More

He hoped that next year the club would do better. He referred to many of our bowlers who are now overseas and asked the bowlers, at all times, to remember the boys.

Mr. F. M. Brown secretary-treasurer, gave his report and also the financial report and both were received with great applause.

Mrs. H. Beatty read a lengthy report of the ladies' activities.

During the evening the members stood for a minute's silence out of respect for the late Mr. Lyle.

The reports of the different committees were read and the gathering showed their appreciation.

Hear Reports

G. Gimblett for the Games and Open Tournaments; H. Beatty for the Property and R. Payne for the membership.

During the election of the Board Judge S. Smoke occupied the chair. R. Hendry and Dr. Fulford were re-elected the nominating committee. G. Soulby and H. Clegg were appointed auditors.

A hearty vote of thanks was tendered to the following—the auditors, the nominating committee, the secretary, Mr. C. Wiley, the Ladies, the Peterborough Examiner and the retiring board.

After the result of the election had been made known and the prizes had been presented one of the most successful Lawn Bowling seasons was brought to a close with the singing of the National Anthem.

And now fellow bowlers don't forget to give the Victory Loan a big boost.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 19—(CP)—The Broda case adds fuel to the belief, common among Canadian sport fans, that players on certain service hockey teams receive more than regular service pay.

Canadians don't take kindly to the idea that a few men of military age may be making extra money by staying in Canada to play hockey while others fight overseas.

This belief reflects more seriously upon the services than upon the players. When any man enlists he places himself at disposal of Army, Navy or Air Force. If hockey ability influences his posting it is the services' responsibility. But hockey is an infinitely lesser role than that of a fighting man and the hockey player deserves no special favors.

On good authority it is learned the boys overseas don't take kindly to reports of enlisted hockey players remaining in Canada season after season while other less athletically-gifted men move to the fighting fronts.

The Broda case is an off-shoot of the problem. Turk Broda, 29, goalkeeper for Toronto Leafs in the National Hockey League, received his call-up notice to report before midnight Oct. 14 in Toronto. He has indicated intention to join the Army and play hockey with the Toronto Army team next winter.

Early on Oct. 15 Broda was taken from a Montreal-bound train by R.C.M.P. after he had failed to report in Toronto as ordered. He was promptly turned over to the Army for induction. It was reported that a man connected with the Montreal Army hockey team was with Broda on the train.

The inference is that Broda had been offered financial inducement to enlist in Montreal at the last minute and had decided to accept.

This Corner believes without question that the Services themselves pay no extra money to hockey players. It is accepted further that in many cities where Service hockey is played the players receive no extra money from any source. However, Snapshots joins in the fans' suspicion that those financially interested in hockey entice high-class players into the services in certain cities with attractive money offers.

If such is the case, the Services should take steps to stop the practice. Regulations prohibiting service personnel from accepting outside employment should be enforced. Acceptance of money for playing hockey would classify that sport as employment.

Admittedly there is a catch. Money paid to amateur hockey players is invariably described by both parties to the transaction as a "gift." But offending players should either be prohibited from playing hockey or be transferred elsewhere. Probably no greater punishment could be given such men than to make them play hockey for nothing.

Tip-off Brought Police Into Broda Picture

TORONTO, Oct. 19 (CP)—Col. R. H. Davidson, assistant National Mobilization Registrar for the Toronto district, said today his office had been informed Turk Broda was planning to leave Toronto before his military callup notice expired last Thursday midnight, and if the former Toronto Maple Leafs' goalie hadn't been taken from the Toronto-Montreal train a few minutes before that time "he would definitely have been arrested the following morning as a draft evader."

"It was my duty to see that Broda did not beat his draft," Col. Davidson said. "Time was not an important factor in detaining him, for we had received information that he intended to leave the area in which he had been ordered to report before midnight. As matters were when we took him from the train at Don station, it would have been impossible for him to have reported in time to avoid being a delinquent."

(Broda was taken by R.C.M.P. from the train to Stanley Barracks here, where he spent the night. The following day he was accepted for induction to the Canadian Army).

Col. Davidson did not say who had provided the information that Broda intended to leave Toronto without reporting for military service, but said that "when he was picked up, berth accommodation for him and a ticket to Montreal were found; he was also in the company of a non-commissioned officer of a Montreal unit."

He said Broda's position in sport had not influenced the manner in which his case was handled..."It makes no difference to me whether he is Turk Broda, well-known, hockey player, or not...I would have acted the same had he been a comparative unknown."

KINGSTON, Oct. 19. — Kingston's Army entry in the O.H.A. Senior series is rushing in training this week for its opening games on Friday and Saturday with Cornwall of the Quebec Senior League. The annual pre-season interleague series will be played on Friday in Cornwall, with the second game in Kingston the following night. ..

Kingston will have practically a complete new team for the O.H.A. senior season. Under the direction of Red Hamill, formerly of Chicago Black Hawks, the Kingston seniors will specialize in speed.

Kingston seems extra strong in goal, with Herb Mortimer, formerly of Toronto Marlboros, and Doug. Stevenson, formerly sub-goaltender for Chicago Hawks, trying for the regular net-tending job. Mortimer is taking an officer's course in Kingston and Stevenson recently joined the Army.

Bill Mortimer, former Oshawa and Winnipeg junior star; Bill Booth, Calgary Army team last year; Rhys Thompson, who played a season with Toronto Leafs; Ted Nicholson, a graduate of Kingston minor ranks, and Red Hamill are candidates for the Kingston defence positions.

Kingston is also well protected at centre ice with Steve Latoski, formerly of Cornwall Seniors; Ron Nelson and Red Tilson, last year with Oshawa junior champions.

Perc Nichols, Chuck Corrigan, and Glen Brydson are working on the roght rail, and Hub Macey, Jerry Cooper, and Joe Blewett are candidates for the left wing.

Art Wiebe has been too busy making dough to join the Chicago Black Hawks' training camp at Minneapolis to date. The rugged defenceman is missing for the same reason he missed half of last season—he can't find anone to look after his bakery. But he's expected to show up in the next few days.

Lester Patrick doesn't believe all he hears about infants playing in the N.H.L. this season. He has sent Ladislav Simkanin, 14-year-old Fort William prospect, back home after four days in the Ranger training camp at Winnipeg. Patrick considered him too young even for the Rangers' farm club, the amateur New York Rovers.

The Black Hawks now have six veterans in camp— Doug Bentley, Bill Thoms, Johnny Gottselig, Fido Purpur, Mush March, and William Mitchell. Four more are expected today—Art Wiebe, George Allen, Joe Papike and Cully Dahlstrom.

Hawks Doing Well.

Coach Paul Thompson claimed the Hawks were "really flying" yesterday. Bill Mosienko of Winnipeg may make a first-string forward berth. Vic Heyliger, hockey coach at Illinois University, will play in Chicago home games.

The Toronto Maple Leaf camp at St. Catharines has been strengthened by arrival of Babe Pratt and Mel Hill. Pratt worked in three practices yesterday and Hill starts to-day. This helped to offset the loss in manpower caused with Rookie Ted Kennedy being laid up with illness and Rookie Roger Giesecke of Toronto being out with a broken collarbone.

The Leafs have got at least one durable rookie. Gus Rodnar of Fort William was flying around the ice yesterday, although it was expected he would have been laid up for two weeks after receiving a knee injury in an ice collision on Saturday.

Coach Happy Day said yesterday the Leafs won't sign the young Toronto trio, Zip Thompson, Harding and McNabney, and they will play for Toronto Marlboroughs in O.H.A. junior "A" hockey this winter.

Play at St. Kitts.

The Leafs have two pre-season games lined up, against Nels Stewart's St. Catharines O.H.A. Senior "A" club on Oct. 27 at St. Catharines, and the annual "Blues vs. Whites" game at Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens Oct. 28. They open the season at home against New York Rangers Oct. 30.

Harvey Bennett of the Oshawa Generals and Maurice Courteau formerly of the Washington Lions, are still fighting it out for the goalie's berth with the Boston Bruins in their training camp at Quebec. Art Ross also has a third candidate for the nets, Jean Paul Renaud, formerly of the Quebec Senior League Royals.

The Bruins gave the new N.H.L playing rules a good workout and found that generally speaking, they do speed up the play, by eliminating many halts for offsides. Captain Dit Clapper says he likes them. The changes allow a pass from defence to centre while players facing-off now face the opponents' goal instead of the rinkside.

Losers Fail To Gain League Finals

Queen Alexandra went into the play-off positions along with King George when they gained a decision over King Edward by the score of 1-0 although the latter had most of the opportunities to get the verdict. M. Courneya got the only counter after he had hit the post the first time.

First Half

From the kick off, King Edward made progress until they met the defence of Morgan and Crawford that conceded no favours within the shooting zone, in fact, Crawford at this point, saving his team from defeat as Lawson and Byers did everything but score. Eventually Queen Alexandra half back line checked closely to keep the forwards from getting within shooting distance although Lawson tested the goalie with a rising shot. Exchanges continued even with combination from the attacking forwards harassing the half back division in which Byers tried hard to get his team-mates on the move as they bombarded the Queen Alexandra citadel until the interval. Half time: No scoring.

Second Half

On resuming, Queen Alexandra settled down to play combination that resulted in the King Edward boys wilting against the steady pressue put on by Simmonds and Dracup as they dribbled their way into goal. This time Murray repeated by punting clear at the critical moment to send his forwards away to the other end, King Edward kept the play inside the Queen Alexandra goal area and had a succession of corner kicks. Murray placing every one of them right in the centre of the goal. Scrimmage after scrimmage ensued with the Northenders always being able to clear the situation amidst a sea of legs. With only five minutes to go, the Queen Alexandra boys took advantage of the Southenders over-enthusiasm to score and they broke away fast to find Simmonds beating three men in a row and centred the ball into goal where a King Edward full back made a faulty clearance as the ball twirled off his boot to the left wing. Jary and Courneya both had a try at goal but the latter hit the psot the first time but picked the far corner on the next attempt to get the winning counter. King Edward dominated the play thereafter to hold Queen Alexandra on the defensive until the final whistle.

King Edward: A. Riches, goal; A. Crocker and W. Dolan, full backs; H. Dibben, J. Byers and J. Murray, halves; L. Eakins, N. Lane, K. Lawson, D. Floyd and R. Clark, forwards; Subs. J. Robertson and M. Chambers.

Queen Alexandra: H. Johnson, goal; R. Morgan and D. Crawford, full backs; C. Jewell, D. Richardson and T. Morin, halves; J. Nicholls, J. Simmonds, G. Dracup, W. Jary and M. Courneya, forwards.

Referee: Stroyan Leith, senior.

NEW YORK, Oct. 19—(CP)—One of the best world series stories has to do with a meeting between Frankie Frisch and Umpire Jocko Conlan en route to St. Louis. He's the man who put me out of all those games this season and took the money I was saving to buy you a new fur coat."

Council Defeats Move To Obtain Particulars On Windsor Houses

By a division of 7-3, the City Council last night defeated a resolution by Aldermen Dutto[n and] Sands to inquire of Wartime Housing Limited particulars, especially of terms, of a reported arrangement by which 1,500 of the company's houses in Windsor may be purchased by present occupants desiring to obtain full possesion of them.

The attitude of the majority ranged from "the time is inopportune" and "too early" to opposition in the opinion that the company's houses in Peterborough might eventually become a detriment to the community as a whole.

Alderman Mark voted with Aldermen Sands and Dutton, and all the other members were nays, as follows: Aldermen Bradburn, Cotton, Gordon, Curtis, Sullivan, Glover and Swanston.

Introducing his motion, Alderman Dutton said the members had probably read the press report of the Windsor development.

"We have considered at times," said Alderman Dutton, "the idea that people living in the Wartime houses might wish to purchase them and make them more permanent. It seemed to me we might ask for information as to the terms the Housing Company offered to the Windsor tenants."

Opinions Differ.

A phrase in the resolution that the Council "would welcome information" aroused objection. Mayor Hamilton suggested that it might be deleted, and that he did not see any "harm in asking for information."

"I thought the intention all along was these houses were to be torn down within six months after the war," Alderman Glover remarked.

Alderman Dutton said that if the Dominion Government could afford to build the houses and eventually to "junk them,' it could also be generous in allowing people to buy them. He understood that in the Windsor purchase agreement Wartime Housing was crediting to the buyers all the money they have paid in rent. "It seems to me the houses as they stand are just about as well built as any houses of that type could be. It should not require much extra expense to put in foundations and probably revamp the plumbing."

Alderman Glover said he had an impression that Alderman Dutton favored the removal of the Wartime houses after they had served their present emergency purpose.

Hatton Property Again.

Alderman Dutton answered that he always tried to express his position clearly, but that possibly he had failed to do so.

"I have said on more than one occasion," he continued, "that I was in favor of the removal of the houses on the Hatton property after the war, but not the houses on the other properties."

Alderman Gordon said he had no objection to getting the information from Wartime Housing, but he considered that it was too early to reach any decision on such a project as that introduced by Alderman Dutton. He recalled that Windsor, during the depression, had been one of the most seriously affected cities in Ontario, and that its affairs had to be administered by a commission appointed by the Provincial Government."

"I am not impressed by anything Windsor does," Alderman Gordon said. "We don't know what is going to develop after the war, what employment there is going to be. If tenants began buying these houses and became unemployed, they might have to abandon them, and we would be called upon to assist them. I don't think the time is opportune to go into this matter. We shouldn't encourage people to buy them. We have to think of the citizens who have a stake here."

Alderman Bradburn said he was opposed to the resolution. He had viisted the Parkhill Road housing section and noticed houses developing into disrepair although they had been up only a year. His opinion was that poor material was used or the houses were not properly constructed, and in the long run they were likely to develop into slum areas.

When the vote was taken, Alderman Dutton asked whether it reflected the attitude of the City Council toward encouraging low wage earners securing houses for themselves.

Mayor Hamilton replied that the Council's decision carried no implication on that point.

"The Council is not enthusiastic about it," Alderman Dutton commented.

"Not about that kind of house," said Alderman Gordon.

"We'll hear about the Windsor arrangement in due time,"' Mayor Hamilton suggested.

take place this afternoon between the representatives of the three countries, who are expected to discuss not only wartime but post-war matters of a military, political and economic nature.

Eden Happy.

A joint three-Power statement was issued at 11 oclock last night announcing the personnel of the delegations and quoting the brief statements made by Mr. Eden and Mr. Hull on their arrival.

Mr. Eden said: "I am very happy to come back to Moscow for this conference and to have this opportunity of returning the visit paid by Mr. Molotov to London last year. I look forward greatly to the coming discussions with him and Mr. Hull."

"It gives me special satisfaction to visit Moscow, the capital of a great country united with my own in a common cause," Mr. Hull said.

"I also have a pleasing opportunity of returning the visit to Washington of the Soviet Foreign Minister, Mr. Molotov, and I am looking forward to the conversations with him and Mr. Eden."

Subject Unknown.

While the subjects which will be discussed here are a matter of speculation, it was recalled that the communist party organ Pravda declared last week that the Russians intend to use the meeting to broach the issue of a "second front," by which they mean the opening of an Allied offensive across the English Channel and the North Sea, an operation which they have repeatedly urged the Western Allies to undertake.

It is not Russia's intention at this time, Pravda added, to discuss post-war frontiers or the status of the Baltic States.

(Despite this assertion by Pravda, the view prevailed generally in Washington to-day that the meeting is expected to deal largely with post-war political problems—what should be done to preserve the peace and what sort of Europe is to be fashioned after victory is won.

(Acting United States State Secretary Edward R. Stettinius took both military and political problems into account yesterday, declaring the conference should contribute greatly to the acievement of what "we are all striving for, the complete defeat of the ruthless Nazis and the establishment of a just and lasting peace.)

which the Canadian 1st Division is a part, continued to push back the Germans and captured the towns of Eanto Stefano and Montecilfone in their drive from the Adriatic coast.

The 5th Army push put them astride the Titerno River where enemy resistance slackened. They captured the villages of Gioia, Liberi, Faicchio, Pontelatone and Albignano and also Bressa, near the west coast north of the Volturno.

(The Cairo radio said the Germans had taken up new positions on the mountain slopes north of the Volturno in the Mondragone region.)

Bressa, near the west coast north of Volturno, also was captured.

The North African Air Force maintained its battle supremacy, hammering at the Germans from one end of the line to the other.

A Middle East air communique said R.A.F. heavy bombers had attacked airfields at Martiza and at Calato in Rhodes Sunday night, at Kastel and Heraklin on Crete and at Skyros Harbor in the Aegean on the same night.

Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's troops showed signs of weakening in their desperate defence against the east flank of the 5th Army line, but the five villages in rough mountain country had to be taken by bitter, hard-won infantry advances.

The capture of the towns coincided with a tribute by General Dwight D. Eisenhower to the infantry's "footslogger" who has to fight long and hard, and who sometimes is overlooked because of the more colorful exploits of other arms.

Must Withdraw

"These gains on the mountain heights are where they count," a military spokesman said. "If the mountains are taken the Germans will be forced to abandon the low lands along the coast.".

As the military spokesman told of the gains word was flashed from the 5th Army that "all the British troops between Capua and the sea had crossed the Volturno."

This ended the battle of the Volturno proper and the 5th Army now is fighting for the high ground on the northern side of the river which leads to a main mountain ridge expected to be Kesselring's next defence line.

Some of the hardest fighting of the day came on the 8th Army front when Santo Stefano was captured. The Germans launched a number of severe counter-attacks that were beaten back. The capture of the town represented a gain of about four miles.

General Montgomery's troops had entered Montecilfone Sunday, were driven out in street fighting but came back to take the town.

Official reports said the Germans were depending largely on machine-guns and artillery in their defensive stands.

Lesson from Salerno

It's this:

The war isn't won yet. Disaster may stare us in the face again, just as it did at Salerno.

Victory will be ours—but it won't be a walk-over.

Let us all make this our motto: "No letting up until the last shot is fired." For if we do let up, others will pay for it . . . with their lives.

DR. CHASE'S PARADOL FOR THE RELIEF OF PAIN

RHEUMATIC PAINS?

"I can jump about with ease now!"

You may not be interested in how Mr. Thomas contracted his rheumatic pains, but you will surely be interested in how he relieved them:

"For a number of years," he writes, "I used to drive about with a pony and cart in all kinds of weather. Sometimes I have had to change my clothes as often as three times a day during wet weather. This brought on rheumatic pains so badly that I could hardly lift my legs on to the steps of the cart. I used to read about people being relieved of rheumatic pains through Kruschen, so I bought a bottle. I persevered with taking it, and can assure you it has greatly helped me. I am 61 next month, and can jump about with ease now and I suffer no pain. I am never without Kruschen now, and take it regularly every day."—C. Thomas.

Most rheumatic pains arise from accumulations of uric acid in muscles and joints. Two of the ingredients of Kruschen Salts are effectual solvents of uric acid. Other ingredients of Kruschen assist the kidneys to expel the dissolved acid through the natural channel. Still others prevent food fermentation taking place in the intestine, and thereby help check further formation of trouble-causing uric acid.

Ask your druggist for Kruschen Salts: 25c and 75c.

PAYROLL GROUPS EXCEED OBJECTIVE

13,000 Scots Girls Are Working In Midlands

By PROF. JAMES A. ROY

(Editor's Note: Following is the 18th in a series of articles written for The Examiner by Prof. James A. Roy, of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Britain.)

I have already given my first general impressions of Scotland. The following notes are the result of closer study of the economic situation in that country during wartime.

Although of necessity on a much smaller scale than in England, industrial war expansion in Scotland is in many ways far more remarkable than it is in England.

The tide of industrial war expansion and development did not cross the border at once and for a long time Scotland remained apart from industry and manufacture that settled south of the Tweed. Her original heavy industries began to tune up to wartime needs the first, but there was insufficient war work in the lighter industries in which women particularly could be employed. The consequence was that in the first years after the outbreak of war large numbers of women were transferred to the south. Since the outbreak of the war approximately 13,000 Scots girls have gone south to work in munitions, mainly in factories established in the Midlands.

In 1939 Scotldan's heavy industries, e.g., shipbuilding, engineering, iron, steel, and coal, were after a long spell of under-employment beginning to work in full production.

In shipbuilding there has been a steady increase of men, women, boys and girls. The number of women at present employed in shipbuilding in the industrial west, is steadily increasing. In one shipyard 60 per cent of the employees are women. Women have proved themselves particularly adept as electricians and welders. There are 70 yard committees in the shipbuilding industry. These come under the Essential Work Order. On the whole the yard committees have worked well although the managements have been reluctant to adopt what seemed to them to be an encroachment on their preserves, while workers tended to regard the committees as an attempt to control industry.

Strikes in Industry.

At the present moment about 4,000 shipwrights are on strike in the west in a demand for payment on a piecemeal basis. This is practically the total strength of shipwrights in the area and their continued absence from work is bound to have a serious effect on production. The causes of the many strikes in Britain at this time are difficult to analyze. They result in part from the lingering bitterness of the depression years; from anxiety with regard to the post-war position of the industry. Perhaps the strikes are caused partly because the workers feel that the war is already more or less won and because they wish to make the most of the present high wages and the prosperous state of the shipbuilding industry. But the epidemic of strikes is causing anxiety in Britain and stirring up a good deal of bitterness towards the strikers. Mr. Bevin's slogan 'First in, first out" of the Army, is causing more uneasiness and there are possibilities of trouble in call-up of married women of from 45 to 50. If the women should be "directed" into various industries away from their homes, it is feared there may be difficulties. So far the women have not yet been "directed."

South America Offers Trade

A racy talk on South America in which the speaker deftly painted word pictures of various sections of the continent in most entertaining style was given at Monday's luncheon of the Rotary Club when Dr. W. H. Cook, director of applied biology of the National Research Council addressed the members.

Dr. Cook described the high lights of an airplane trip around South America and his address supplied a wealth of new information about the continent.

Incidentally he stressed the fact that the outstanding characteristic of the people of South America was their tendency to put off things until to-morrow, and their inability to make rapid decisions.

Dr. oCok declared that South America offered distinct possibilities for trade with Canada after the war. The continent, he said, needed many of the things Canada produced.

The speaker was introduced by Rotarian J. M. R. Fairbairn and President M. H. Riddle expressed the thanks of the Rotarians to Dr. Cook for his very informative and interesting talk.

11 Employees In One Firm Subscribe $2,450

Lucky Strike Bait Works, 505 Sherbrooke street, Frank H Edgar, proprietor, was first to fulfillment of their objective in the group payroll section of Peterborough's Fifth Victory Loan, as reported at local headquarters this morning.

Nine or ten other firms were close behind them, and the "Speed the Victory spirit of the Fifth Loan's slogan was carrying momentum in all directions through the second day's progress of the campaign in the city.

Eleven emloyees at Lucky Strike subscribed for $2,450 or 163 per cent of their allotted amount. The plant is actually credited with four more applications than their total of eleven of the staff would indicate. That indicates not only bonds bought on the group payroll plan, but four others purchased with cash on the line.

Monday's featured announcement was A. Wander Limited in payroll savings division, first to pass their quota of bonds. Interest this morning passed to the group payroll establishments of which Lucky Strike was the first under the wire, their job done until the next Loan comes around.

Other firms in the group payroll section were reported this morning as follows:—

Barries Limited: 16 of 17 employees subscribed $1,850, or 109% of their $1,700 objective.

Canadian Department Stores: every employee is a bond buyer; total $2,300 or 104.5% of their $2,200 objective.

Campbell's Dairy: another 100-per center in the number of its employees buying; total subscription $5,050, or 126% of their $4,000 goal.

Grant's Cleaners: 11 of their 12 employees accounted for $1,800, or 133% of their $1,350 allotment.

Lucky Strike's total value of bonds bought was $2,450 or 163% of their $1,500.

Mayfair Restaurant: 12 employess; ten subscribers; $1,400 objective; subscription $2,500 or 178 per cent. That was the highest percentage announced this morning. The fact was disclosed in the canvass item that the indivdual purchase at the Mayfair was $250.

Hood and Cummings garage telephoned at 11 a.m. that they had passed their mark with more returns expected.

G. Whitaker and Company, Hunter street, customarily among the first flight, had not quite completed their effort this morning. They had a total of $7,550 subscription and their objective is $7,500. They were comfortably out in front and were likely to add to their margin of surplus.

Special Names $100,000

Reports from the larger industries were all stimulating, and from all accounts the investment aspect of the war loans is more broadly appreciated than ever.

Subscriptions Monday in the "special names" section amounted to $100,000, adn the "general canvass" yielded $39,000.

The quickest action seems to be coming from the payroll savings and group payroll divisions.

Two More At Noon

Two more firms in the "group payroll" branch, with their Fifth Loan securely behind them were:—

Woolworths with 105 per cent of their objective for a total of $1,500.

Hamilton Furriers, Charlotte street, also complete, showing 150 per cent total subscription, $1,050.

Club Members Rededicated To Task Ahead

Fleeting pictures of Peterborough's happy warriors, of the grim battles in Europe, and of the men who won't come back flashed in kaleidoscopic review through the minds of Lions Club members Monday night as the sad muted notes of the "Last Post" sounded by Trumpeter Cecil Gallagher echoed through the Kawartha Club banquet room.

It was a program of rededication to the stern job that lies ahead, and at the same time a tribute to the men and women who are facing the enemy in the front lines. During the evening Jim Dutton, Jr. president of the club read a telegram of commendation from Finance Minister Ilsley indicating the latter's appreciation for the splendid wartime contribution, the Lions club is making both to the country and to the city of Peterborough.

The short and dignified ceremonial was conducted by the Rev. Cecil Moore, of the Lions Club, and Rev. E. W. Filer of All Saints' church. Lions Fraser Watson of the 4th Battery and Lion Arnold Deyell of the Prince of Wales Rangers attended in uniform and acted as flag-bearers. The scripture reading was taken by Mr. Moore, and Mr. Filer read a treatise on "Last Post" the bugle call that has been part and parcel of British military procedure down through the centuries. Repeating the Lord's Prayer concluded the brief ceremony.

Frank Edgar, chairman of the committee in charge of the program explained that the affair was designed as a review of Canada's war effort and a re-dedication to the high purpose of winning this war through individual and combined effort. He stressed that the element of entertainment was foreign to such a program, and he said the paramount thought in everyone's mind during the weeks to come should be to "Speed the Victory", adding a well-worded reference to the 5th Victory Loan.

Stanley Darling, past president of the club delivered a brief, meaty talk on the need and significance of Canada's Victory Loan, driving home to his audience with plain facts and a few statistics a picture of things as they stand today. He outlined the dangers of inflation, the responsibility of supporting the Allied effort, and the personal pride each should cherish in seeing that they carry a fair share of the load.

Robertson Davies, editor of the Examiner was the guest speaker and was introduced by Bruce Sargent. The vote of thanks was voiced by Walter Smook.

Mr. Davies spoke briefly about the work of a newspaper editor. He stressed the importance of a newspaper as the voice of its community, not merely within its own area of circulation, but in the country as a whole; a newspaper comment on a matter of general interest might be quoted in 40 or 50 other papers throughout the Dominion. He also urged that more frequent use be made of the newspaper's correspondence columns by citizens who wanted to set forth their views on matters of widespread interest. Concluding, Mr. Davies said that the only sure thing about the post-war world was that it would provide disagreeable surprises both for the complacent and for the eager post-war planners.

Ontario Chairman Urged Support Of Victory Loan

"For four years we have held the line against inflation; it would be tragic if we were to lose the fight now. There is nothing in warfare, except the loss of the human lives, so evil as inflation," it was emphasized by F. D'Arcy Leonard, K.C., Provincial Chairman of the National War Finance Committee, speaking at the opening dinner of the 5th Victory Loan campaign in the Genelco Cafeteria Monday night.

"Today we face a test of our nationhood," Mr. Leonard said. "This is a critical time in the history of the war, and therefore in the history of the world. We go into the 5th Victory Loan feeling that this is the beginning of the end, that the end is perhaps not far off, and that victory is sure."

"But," Mr. Leonard cautioned, "though Hitler knows now he cannot beat us in battle, it is his hope that through war-weariness and over-confidence on our side and by the shortening of his lines he can force a stalemate and compel us to come to terms. We have all seen championship teams which have beaten themselves with over-confidence, an insidious danger which we must avoid today, because it is as dangerous to ourselves as any of our past difficulties."

Great Changes

Glancing in retrospect over the last few years, the speaker compared the situations confronting Canadians at the time of other loans with the encouraging position of the Allied nations to-day. "In 1940 Britain stood alone, before the period of the 3rd Loan we had known nothing but defeats and bitter days. We went into the 4th Loan knowing that the time had come for us to attack. Now we know that victory is sure."

Giving the background of the setting of the national objective of $1,200,000,000, Mr. Leonard stated that this figure, $200,000,000 less than the actual sum required to balance the budget this year, had been decided on as the minimum that might be attained by the exercise of an average spirit of enthusiasm and sacrifice. Because the task of spreading out quotas over provinces, communities, industries and individual canvassers was so full of uncertainty, it was, he said, thought best to allow for some leeway. "We hope, of course to go 10 per cent or even more over that objective."

"Advantages are with us in the present campaign that we did not have before," Mr. Leonard said. "Today there are more people on our side, because those who have bought bonds before know they're better off because they did, and better off in proportion to the amount they purchased."

Armed Forces Help

He said he had been greatly impressed by the splendid job done by the Armed forces in the 4th Loan, when their quota had been oversubscribed, and added that plans made for this campaign indicated the contribution of servicemen would this time be even better.

Speaking of inflation, Mr. Leonard pointed out that pressures are in evidence all around on price ceilings. "To every $15 of income, after payment of taxes, there is only $10 of goods. It is our job to draw off that extra $5 and to draw out the savings which lie in banks, now at a larger figure than ever. In doing all we can to avoid the calamities of inflation, we are working in the finest way to build up the morale and the character and the well-being of our citizens.

"Our victories, made possible by the superiority we possess in the weapons of war, are proof of all that we had hoped for and all that we have said would come true. In buying bonds, we are saving lives."

Drew Up Plan

Mr. Leonard was introduced by Gordon Fraser, M.P., who revealed that the speaker of the evening was the man chosen to draw up the War Risk Insurance plan a year ago. In thanking Mr. Leonard, the Rev. Dr. George Easton praised the speaker for basing his plea upon the national heritage of liberty and freedom which Canada is fighting for.

Seated at the speakers table were Gordon Matthews, Chairman for the County of Peterborough in the 5th Victory Loan, who presided at the meeting; Honorary Chairman Vincent Eastwood; Gordon Fraser, M.P.; Ian McRae; Robert Abbott. At table flanking the speaker's table were D. G. H. Melton, Dennis J. Fitzgerald, and Frank Paterson, Judge Sheldon Smoke, Major James Turnbull, Reeve Melville Johnston, G. Wilson Craw, Mayor James Hamilton, H. L. Garner, Senator Iva Campbell Fallis, Lt. Col. Walter Bapty, Harold Scott, M.P.P., and Rev. Dr. George Easton.

During the dinner hour the 30 piece R.C.A.F. band from the Trenton air station marched into the hall and played a number of stirring martial selections.

Court Withdraws Traffic Charge Against Meharry

A charge against George Meharry, Victoria Avenue, of failing to remain at the scene of an accident was withdrawn in police court this morning.

The charge originated from an accident on the extension of Park Street running through the Park Hill division of Wartime Housing.

According to the police report Mrs. Ray Bennett, Princess Street, stated that as she was walking along the side of the road a dump truck that was passing swerved, struck her, knocked her down and injured her knees, and then was driven off without stopping.

Police afterward arrested Meharry as the alleged driver of the hit-and-run truck.

The case was adjourned until today, and this morning Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry stated that it was being withdrawn. "There are some civil aspects to this case," he said, "and restitution has been made."

John A. Bradshaw appeared for Meharry.

Woman Is Thrown Against Windshield

Thrown against the windshield of the car in which she was riding after a collision at Water and Dublin streets Monday afternoon, Mrs. Clark H. Garbutt, R.R. 3, Lakefield, sustained a bad cut on the right hand, a minor cut on the forehead and a severe bruise on her knee.

Her husband, driver of one of the cars escaped with a cut on the head.

The accident happened when B. M. Frederick, 102 Dublin street, who had been driving south on Water street made a left turn into Dublin street just as Garbutt's car, north bound, reached the intersection.

Both cars were considerably damaged by the impact. Mrs. Garbutt was taken into the residence of Alfred Pink, Water and Dublin street and Dr. J. C. Smith of Lakefield who happened to be passing rendered first aid, after which the injured woman was taken to her home.

Rockets Flash, Guns Roar In Loan Opening

The heavy roar of simulated ack ack fire and brilliant flash of rockets being set off Monday night gave the citizens of Peterborough a somewhat startled idea of which it is like to be hemmed in by these guns setting up terrific barrages to keep out deadly enemy planes, as the Victory Loan got off to an enthusiastic start. One of the reason Canadians are asked to subscribe to this Loan is so that guns overseas can keep on firing.

The 4th Heavy Anti Aircraft Battery (R) under the command of Capt. R. A. Phillips brought out their 3.7 anti-aircraft guns for the occasion and stationed them at four points in the city, the Market Square, Riverside Park, Inverlea Park and near the Staff House.

Everything except the expected planes moved like clock work. The Battery left the Armouries at 8:15 sharp and the seven vehicles drew the guns and their crews to their appointed places. One group turned north at the corner of Murray and George, the others going down George where a second group turned left at Hunter and the remaining two groups continued to Charlotte street, turning east and west.

No Planes Ready

The plan was to fire two of the nine rounds of rockets about 8:45 to liven things up and create interest and then at 9 o'clock to fire the remaining seven rounds. Somehow the wires got crossed and at 9:10 when no planes had appeared the battery crews set off their noisemakers. About 75 men from the Battery took part, 36 of whom were members of the four gun crews.

A crowd gathered at the Market and as the flare soared high into the air like a fiery rocket and exploded with plenty of noise, they had the opportunity of watching what might have been an air attack without any of the danger which their cousins across the sea face so frequently.

R.C.A.F. Band Parades

Another feature of the opening day of the Victory Loan was the parade sponsored by the R.C.A.F. and the Air Cadets. Leaving the C.P.R. station at 7:45 the R.C.A.F. band paraded smartly up George street before a fair sized crowd which listened appreciatively to the lively martial airs which set many feet atapping.

Led by A.C.F.O. Ward Smith, officer commanding the Peterborough Air Cadet Squadron, the cadets marched smartly behind the visiting band, their own bugle band preceding them. A.C.P.O. William Hamilton whose son recently won the D.F.C. for his part in a raid on Berlin, marched at the head of a newly formed flight, whose recruits have not yet received their uniforms.

They paraded up George street to Hunter and across to Aylmer and back down to the Salvation Army Temple where the R.C.A.F. band did a 15-minute broadcast of a variety of airs which included military marches, "There'll Always Be An England," and "Drigo's Serenade." They continued their program for another 15 minutes after they went off the air.

The mock firing which was carried out in a spirit of fun for the onlookers might easily have been a real tragedy if Canadians had not in other loans provided the means to keep equipment rolling to the fronts where the enemy is actively engaged. It could still happen for victory has yet to be wrenched from the enemy's slipping hold. The only way to finish the job is to get behind the 5th Victory Loan and as many more as are needed so that Canada will not be a country driven to its knees like Poland, Greece, Holland, Yugoslavia and others, where the blood of their citizens has stained peaceful countrysides red.

104 Jap Planes Shot Down Allies Lose Two

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 19— (AP)—Allied airmen have blasted 104—and probably 147—more planes out of the Japanese air force in the Southwest Pacific.

In a series of brilliant victories Friday and Saturday, announced today, Allied flyers shot down 92 planes and destroyed 12 on the ground. Twenty-four more probably were shot down and 19 probably destroyed or damaged on the ground.

The most one-sided victory was scored over New Guinea's Oro Bay Friday. The Japanese lost 26 bombers and 20 fighters and probably 11 other aircraft. Not one Allied plane was missing.

The Japanese sent approximately 62 bombers and fighters against Oro Bay. Allied fighters intercepted the bombers and dog-fights raged from altitudes of 100 feet to 23,000 feet.

The enemy found it impossible to get through to Allied shipping in the bay. But when those still in the air gave up and streaked for home they found it nearly as impossible to escape. Allied fighters pursued them all the way to New Britain.

Fleet Annihilated

The communique from Allied Headquarters said the big force of enemy planes was "virtually annihilated."

The same day the Japanese sent 15 bombers and 12 fighters against Finschhafen. A small formation of fighters intercepted and shot down five bombers and a fighter and probably got three more fighters.

Saturday, medium bombers, covered by fighters, swept in over Wewak and the adjoining Boram airrome at tree-top height, destroying six bombers and four fighters on the ground and destroying or badly damaging 12 other bombers. Accompanying fighters shot down 16 of 20 to 30 intercepting enemy fighters and probably destroyed three others.

Sixteen Japanese fighters, out of 30 to 40 that attempted to intercept Allied raiders on Mandang the same day, were shot down. Seven were listed as probables and two were destroyed on the ground. One Allied plane failed to return.

Today's communique said nothing about the progress of Australian troops advancing upon the Japanese base at Madang.

Wartime Houses May Be Sold In Windsor Area

WINDSOR, Oct. 19 — Assurance that the present occupants of the 1,500 wartime houses in Windsor will in the near future be presented with an opportunity to purchase the cottages was voiced by Mayor Arthur J. Reaume at a meeting of the Windsor Wartime Housing Community Council in Ward 1 Sunday afternoon. But, His Worship warned, that the onus rested with the occupants of these homes to take immediate action and place their case before the proper authorities.

Post-War Plans

Mayor Reaume addressed a meeting of approximately 75 renters of wartime houses gathered to hear city officials and Community Council members discuss post-war plans for these sections of the community which have been a direct outgrowth of increased employment due to war industries.

His Worship injected an additional punch to his announcement when he stated that rent money paid by occupants of wartime houses will be ear-marked to serve as a down payment on the home when the occupant gives notice that he wishes to buy the dwelling and make it his permanent home.

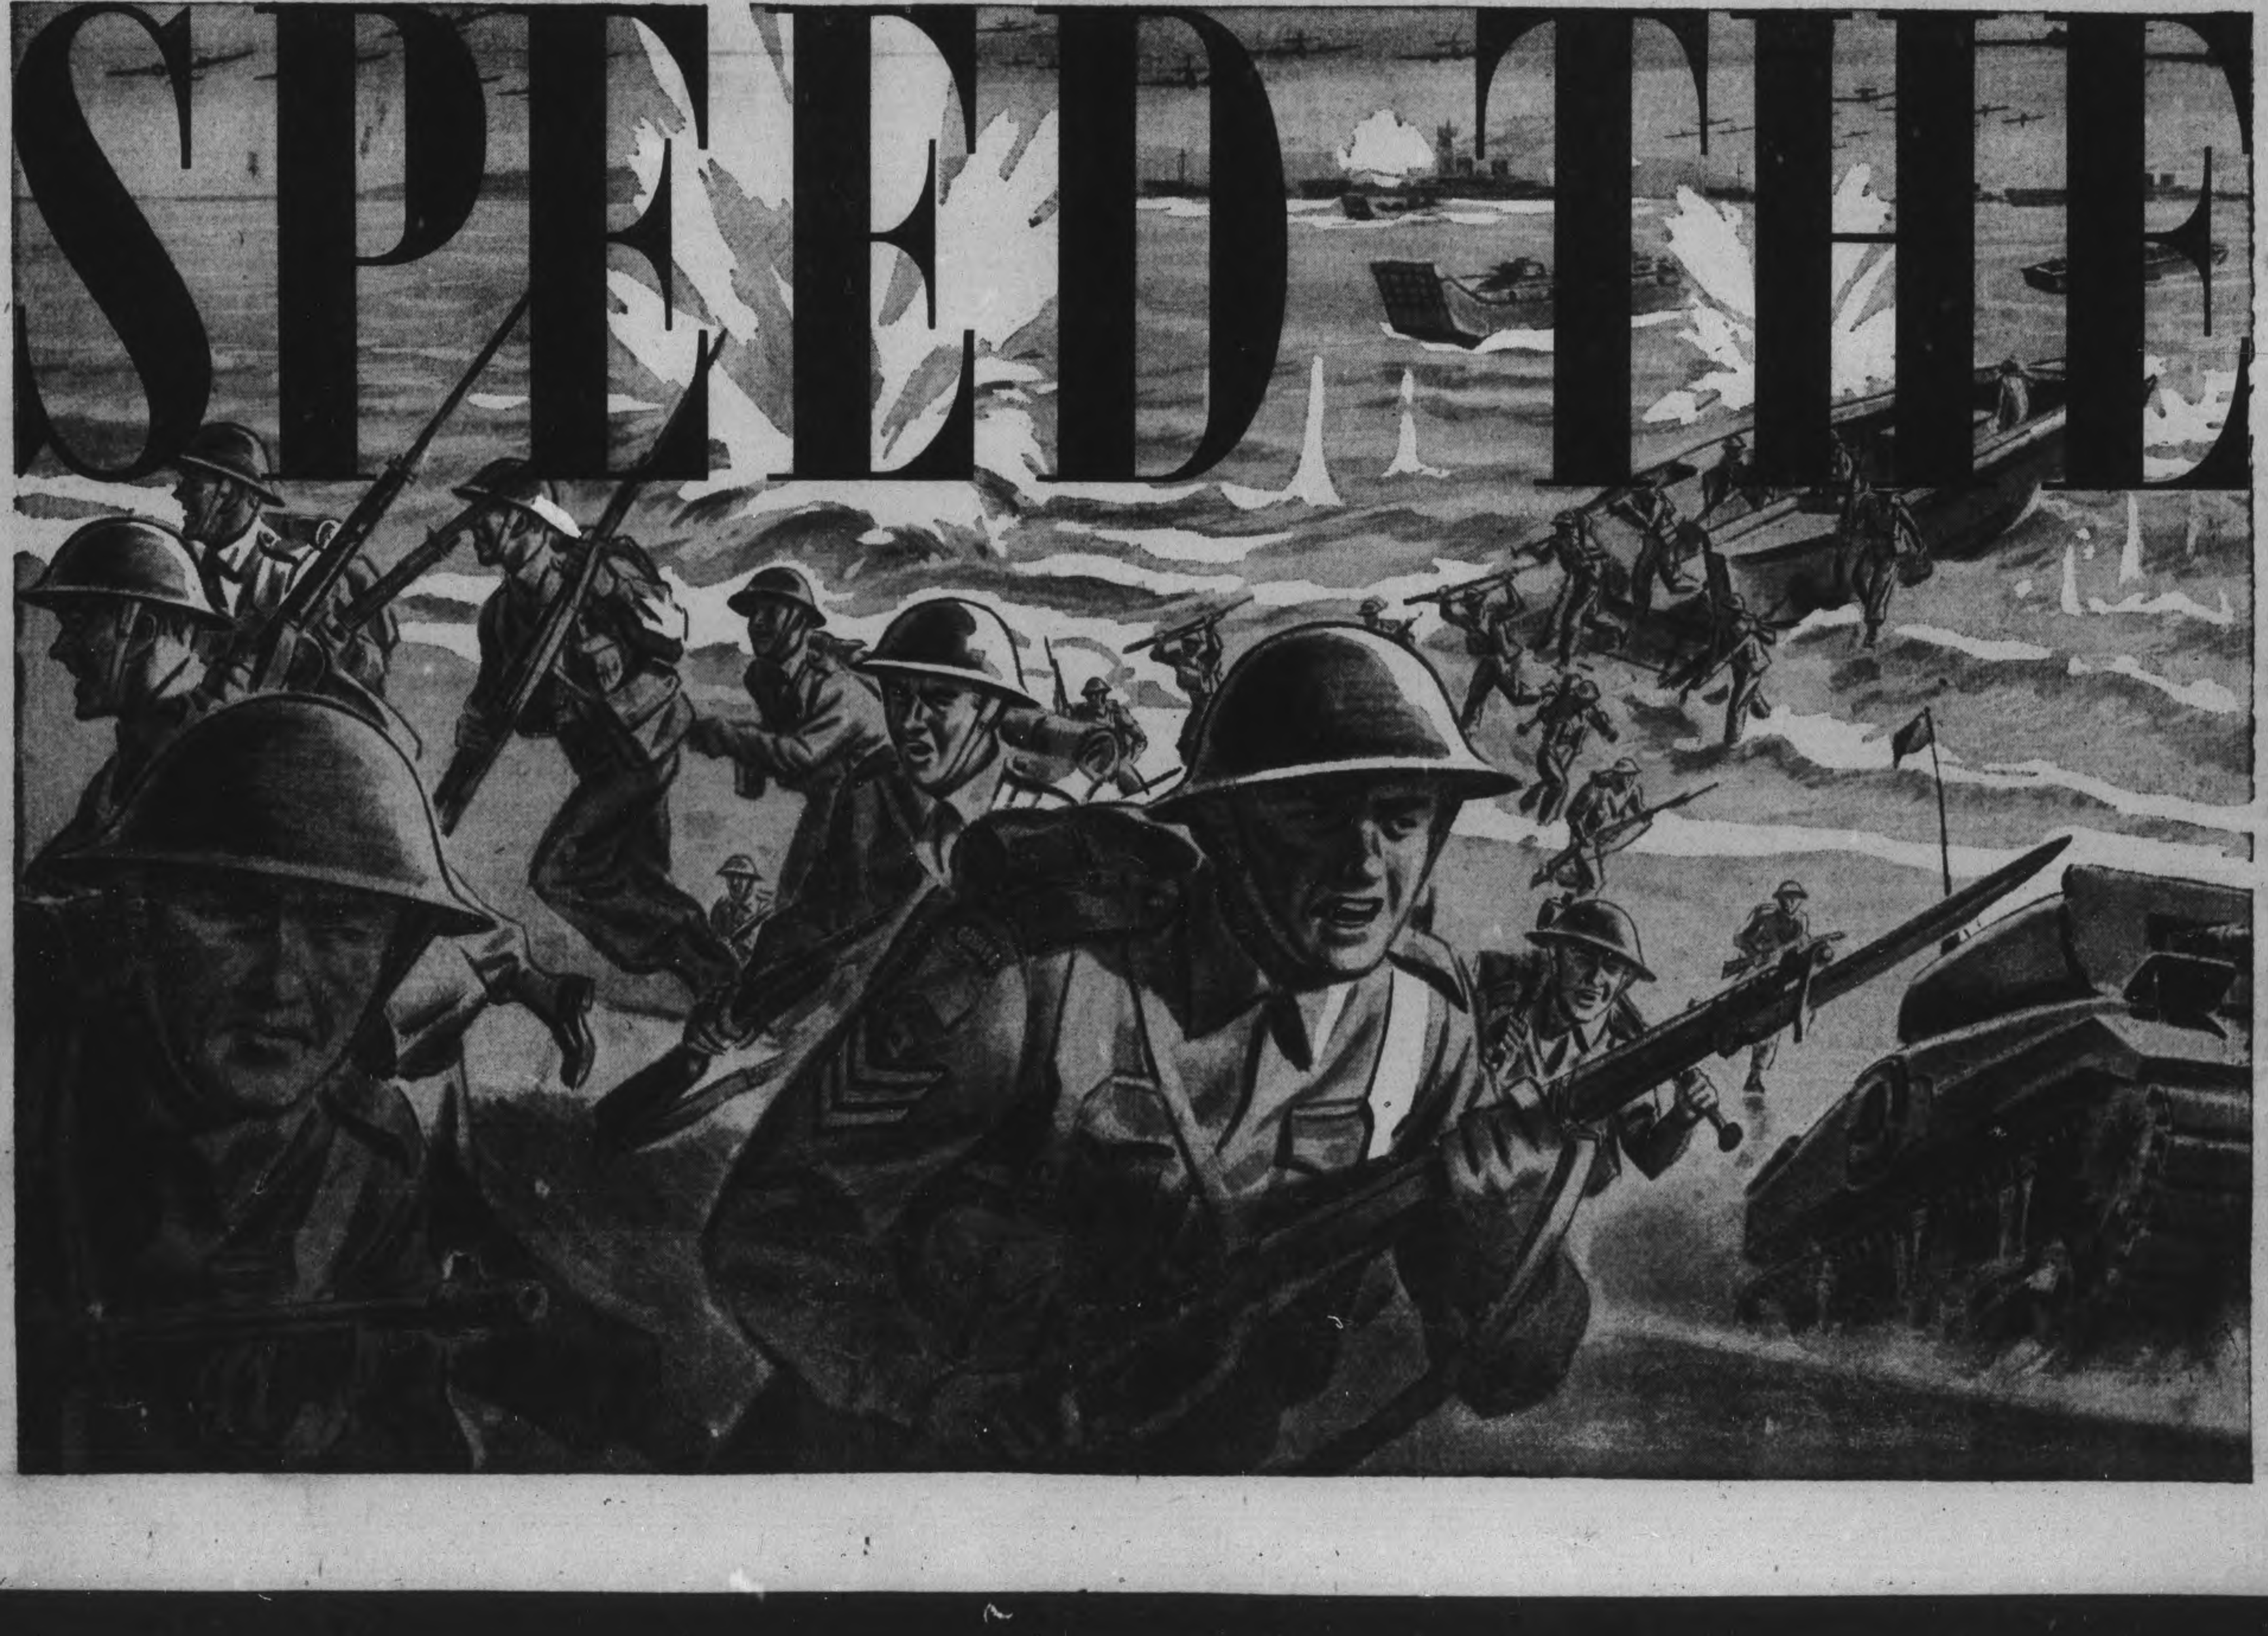
Rumors to the effect that the 1,500 one and two floor homes erected by Wartime Housing Ltd. in Windsor would be torn down after the war were definitely squashed by the mayor. "These homes are here, and as far as I am concerned they are going to stay here," His Worship stated.

"I have stuck my neck out before and I don't mind doing it again," Mayor Reaume said, "when I tell you that I have proposed a plan that when the war is over the occupants of these homes can make them their permanent homes. People have come to Windsor and have made up their minds to stay here. There is no government strong enough to tell a man he has to move out. If he wants to stay here he can and there is no government —I don't care who they are—that can make that man move."

Meeting Advised

"I would advise you to hold a joint meeting," His Worship continued," and agree on the principle that these homes can be made permanent. Then I shall be glad to go to the proper authorities and lay your case before them. I feel sure that some day very soon we can have you as owners of your own homes.

"I am convinced that at an early date we can find the actual cost price of these homes—without being padded."



Fuel Report Sent Back To Committee

The report of the fuel committee of the City Council was sent back last night for further consideration, especially of the following clause:

"That there be charged to the operating costs of the city's fuel business the sum of $500 to be paid to A. G. Metheral for his work in administering the city's fuel business, and for other emergency expense purposes."

When the report, comprising the four clauses, was read by Alderman Glover, Alderman Swanston said: "I had no notice of a meeting of the committee, and all this is more or less new to me. When was it held?"

"On Friday following the relief committee; you were out of the town," Alderman Glover said.

"No notice of a meeting of the fuel committee was sent to me," Alderman Swanston repeated.

"Is there anything in the report you object to?" Alderman Glover enquired.

Alderman Gordon stated that he was still a member of the fuel committee, but he had resigned as chairman when he accepted the annexation committee chairmanship.

Alderman Swanston said he was under the impression that Alderman Gordon had retired from the committee.

Doing Fine Job

"I introduced a motion that $500 be paid to Mr. Metheral, that it should be charged against this year's business in a certain proportion," Alderman Gordon said. "We thought the council made the $500 payable now, but it could be adjusted later on as between the 1943 and 1944 business when everything was finally settled. We felt we ought to do something because Mr. Metheral had been doing a fine job. I was in the Apsley and Coe Hill district, and I was impressed with information I happened to get about deals Mr. Metheral was making for wood, even as late as midnight. I thought he was giving a great deal of attention to the work we asked him to do, being around at all hours, and that he was entitled to something extra."

Alderman Curtis interposed the comment: "Anybody with $75,000 to spend can buy wood."

Alderman Bradburn said the committee's action was disrupting the salary schedule, that Mr. Metheral was receiving an increase in salary."

Not An Increase

"It's a gratuity," Alderman Gordon explained.

Alderman Bradburn replied that the Council had relieved Mr. Metheral of some of his regular work because it was expected that he would have to devote considerable time to getting wood for the city.

Alderman Glover said that the resolution did not provide any increase in salary for this year alone, but if the Council wished to strike out the clause he would agree.

"Metheral will more than earn it before he's through," said Alderman Gordon. "I don't know any other man who could have done what he has done for us. In Toronto they are paying the superintendent of their fuel yard $75 a week. He saved us more than $500 in a purchase he made at Coe Hill."

Alderman Dutton said he understood the $500 was to be set aside so that Mr. Metheral would not be out of pocket expenses that were bound to arise. As to the salary schedule, he said it should not be used as a club over the head of the council, and might have to be reviewed again.

"I agree with Alderman Bradburn," said Alderman Sullivan. "If any adjustment is to be made in salary it should be referred to that committee. Otherwise, we might as well go back to where we were before we set up the salary schedule. I think Mr. Metheral is doing a fine job, but we have other men on salary in our civic service who are on call any time within the entire twenty-four hours. What about Street Commissioner Burgess?"

"Or City Clerk Outram?" Alderman Bradburn added.

"That's their regular business," Alderman Gordon replied. "They knew that when they were engaged. This work of Metheral's is an emergency."

All Work Extra

"There are times when every civil servant, and some employees of industry, are called upon to do extra work, but they are not always paid an extra remuneration," Alderman Sullivan stated.

"Leave the $500 where it is and get rid of the salary schedule committee," Alderman Gordon laughingly suggested.

Alderman Sullivan is chairman of that committee.

"Mr. Metheral was granted $100 for car expenses," said Alderman Swanston. "The only place he said the wood job would interfere was with his plumbing inspections. I told him to get the people who do inspections for him when he is on his holidays or whenever he may be away."

"He does his inspections when he gets back from his wood trips," Alderman Gordon said.

"I understood, Mr. Mayor, that you were not at the meeting of the committee," Alderman Swanston said.

"I was not in the city that day," His Worship explained.

It mentioned then that members of the committee were Aldermen Glover, Swanston and Gordon and Mayor Hamilton, and the question was raised whether there was a quorum at th recent meeting from which the Mayor and Alderman Swanston were absent.

"I feel I should have been notified," Alderman Swanston said. "I don't miss very many. If I am on a committee that is spending money I want to be here. We don't know what the slabs are costing. I move that the report be sent back to the fuel committee."

G. N. Stays On

Alderman Gordon: "It was unanimous of all the members. I'm not going back to reconsider this."

Alderman Swanston: "I understood you were resigning from the fuel committee."

Alderman Gordon: "No, just as chairman."

Alderman Glover: "Im afraid there may not have been a quorum."

Mayor Hamilton: "It that's the case we had better return it to the committee."

Alderman Glover: "I certainly did not consider Mr. Metheral was getting a salary increase of $500. I am willing to withdraw the report."

Alderman Gordon: "If there is any doubt of a quorum, that's different. It had better go back."

Alderman Glover moved the return of the report to the fuel committee. Alderman Sullivan seconded the motion, and it carried.

Alderman Glover told the council that up to October 18 orders had been placed for 7,000 cords of wood, although possibly some of it might not be delivered. Receipts of wood were: 308 cords of No. 1 harwood; 55½ cords of No. 2; 28 cords of soft wood; 4⅛ cords of hardwood slabs and 10⅛ cords of soft waad slabs. "The best man we've had so far is Moldaver. He's doing a mighty fine job. We got three cars of hardwood in to-day. It came by train. We are taking it that way if we have to. We have sold about 400 cords of the hemlock slabs."

The discussion included a warm tribute of the service of Mr. Metheral by Alderman Dutton.

Dominion Strikes Service Medal To Honor Meritorious Service

OTTAWA, Oct. 16 — (CP). — Canadians who serve the Dominion or their fellow citizens with outstanding merit, and citizens of other countries whom Canada desires to honor now may be recommended for the "Canada Medal," whose creation was announced last night by Prime Minister Mackenzie King.

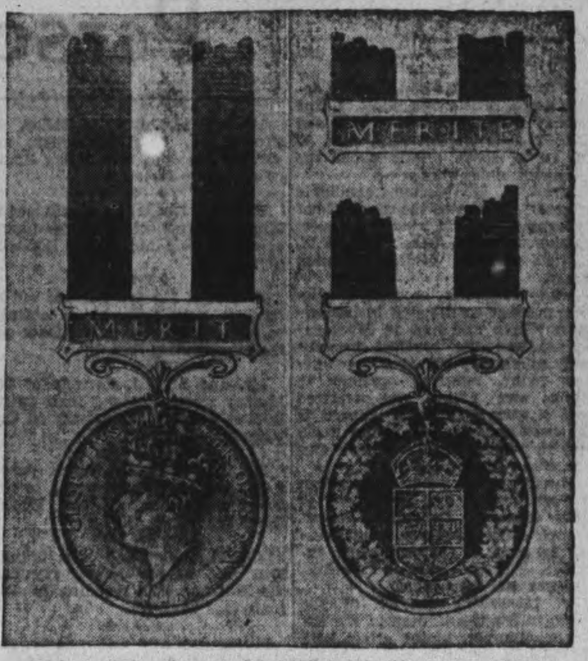
The medal, which has received approval by the King and will be produced at the Royal Canadian Mint here, is the result of a decision to strike the first distinctive Canadian decoration, reached nearly a year ago. It was designed by the Art Section of the R.C.A.F.

Prime Minister King, in a brief statement announcing the institution of the Canada Medal, said it would help to meet the need for "suitable recognition of meritorious service above and beyond the faithful performance of duties by citizens of Canada, whether as civilians or members of the armed forces or the merchant navy."

"It will make possible acknowledgment of such service, not only by Canadians, but also by citizens of other countries whom Canada desires to honor."

The Canada Medal is a silver disc bearing on the observe the crowned effigy of King George and on the reverse the arms of the Dominion and the word "Canada." A bar attached to the mount of the medal bears the inscription "Merit" for English-speaking and "Merite" for French-speaking recipients.

New "Canada Medal"



This is "The Canada Medal," institution of which has been approved by His Majesty the King on recommendation of the Canadian Government. The medal is the first distinctly Canadian decoration. It is to be awarded in recognation of "meriterious service above and beyond the faithful performance of duties." Personnel of the armed forces and the merchant navy and civilians are eligible for the decoration. Although the majority of the recipients will be Canadians, the medal may be awarded to citizens of other countries whom Canada desires to honor. Recipients will be entitled to add the letters C.M. after their names, but the award of the medal will not confer any individual precedence. The ribbon is of equal stripes of red, white, and red and is worn immediately before general service and campaign war medals.

Alfred De Marigny Pleads Not Guilty

NASSAU, Bahamas Oct. 19 (CP) —Alfred de Marigny stood before a red-robed, white-wigged justice today and in a firm voice pleaded not guilty to the charge he murdered his wealthy father-in-law, Sir Harry Oakes.

It was the 35-year-old yachting enthusiast's first formal plea since he was arrested July 9, the day after Sir Harry's badly-beaten body was found in a smoking bedroom at his sea-side villa.

The Supreme Court chamber was crowded to capacity as Chief Justice Sir Oscar Beford Daily entered to open the most sensational trial in the history of this tropical island. Hundreds stood outside.

Starting his fight for life, De Marigny was armed with the knowledge of the prosecution's main evidence against him.

The Government's cards were laid on the table at the lengthy preliminary hearing.

De Marigny has not yet shown his hand formally, but has stated through his pretty young wife, Nancy Oakes de Marigny, that he is "confident of the outcome."

Allied Troops Block Jap Landing

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The Southwest Pacific, Oct. 19 (AP)—Allied troops and airmen have beat back an attempted Japanese landing near Finschhafen, New Guinea, and destroyed 24 of 35 planes bent on raiding Allied shipping.

The Japanese sent three troop-laden barges in towards the Finschhafen beach before dawn Sunday. Heavy fire from Australians, who had captured the former Japanese base Oct. 2, sank two of the barges. The third disappeared but an Allied Headquarters communique said the enemy troops "were largely destroyed."

A Headquarters spokesman said the Japanese still have a considerable force in the Sattelberg area, about 15 miles northwest of Finschhafen. Two attacks from that area were repulsed by the Australians.

24 Shot Down

Enemy air attacks were no more successful. Thirty-five planes were sent against shipping in Oro Bay. Allied fighters intercepted and shot down 24 and probably destroyed six others. Four Allied fighter planes were lost.

Today's communique told of another attack on Wewak, a Japanese base some 300 miles northwest of Finschhafen, in which 15 grounded planes were destroyed and four Japanese fighters were shot down.

In the northwestern sector, Allied bombers for the first time raided Ternate, an important port on Halmahera Island in the Molukka Sea. Pilots who flew the 2,200-mile round trip said the heart of Ternate was left in ruins.

Heavy and medium bombers hit Buin hard. Ballale airdrome was attacked from three-top level at night and Kara airdrome was bombed by daylight. Fires and explosions resulted.

Fighter planes destroyed a barge, loaded with troops, and a coastal vessel in Tonolei harbor, Bougainville Island.

Conservative Women Hear Local Leaders Speak

The local Conservative Women's Association held a well-attended meeting at the Paragon Hall on Monday afternoon, with the president, Mrs. J. H. Cridland, in the chair. Reports of work done during the elections were heard from the ward chairman, and Mrs. E. Fisher of the South Ward reported excellent results from a bingo in aid of the British War Victims' Fund. Other wards are planning different activities. Mrs. R. Pilling was appointed temporary chairman for Claraday.

Senator Iva C. Fallis, in a brief talk, suggested that during the Victory Loan campaign was no time for partisan criticism of government policy. She said that two things were necessary for the carrying out of our objective, the honor of our country and the support of our fighting men overseas, and that it was a time to forget differences. Mrs. Fallis also suggested the formation of study clubs to meet once a month and study the policies of the major political parties with a view to being better informed and to be able to talk convincingly to others.

Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., announced the provincial annual meeting to be held at the Royal York Hotel on November 12, with the ladies meeting to be held at 11 a.m. He also announced the county annual meeting to be held October 26 in the Co-op Hall, and said that plans were underway for a visit from Mr. John Bracken and Mrs. Bracken early in the New Year.

Mr. Harold Scott, M.P.P., commented briefly on the various members of the Drew cabinet and said that he was impressed with the sincerity and earnestness with which they were taking up their new work.

Mrs. Cridland spoke briefly on the need for women in industry and at the close of the meeting the ladies were guests at tea of the executive officers of the Conservative Association.

Dr. R. Trotter Addresses Queen's Alumni

Dr. Reginald Trotter, head of the history department of Queen's University, was guest of the Peterborough branch of the Queen's Alumni Association at their annual dinner. About 65 Queen's graduates and their friends sat down to dinner at the Kawartha Club.

After a toast to the King, Mr. Leo Copp proposed the toast to the university, which was responded to by the Queen's yell. Miss A. Parkinson, accompanied by Miss E. Chambers, sang two delightful solos and Mr. Arnold Noftall led the group in college songs with Mr. McKinney at the piano.

Mr. John Londerville, a Queen's graduate, now on active service, was present and introduced Dr. Trotter to the group.

Dr. Trotter spoke on "Canada's Responsibility in United States-British Commonwealth Relations," a field in which he is recognized as an authority.

He reviewed briefly Canada's historical development, saying that in the common view there are two threads to follow. First, that in the development of a large measure of autonomy in our relations with Britain, Canadians are inclined to think of our national unity as something achieved against resistance from Britain, whereas, in reality, such dissension as there was came from within. In the second place, Canadians are inclined to think of themselves as heroes, creating a nation in the face of hostility from across both the Atlantic and the border. Canada's full nationhood was reached with the Statute of Westminster and the opening of legations, both in Washington and Ottawa.

"As the thirties advanced, the liaison became closer with Britain and our relations became more friendly with United States in economic matters. Thus, at the time of the war, Canada was fourth in industry among the Allied nations and third in external trade, producing a large surplus than any other country except U.S.A. She became Britain's principal ally and industrial supporter and the most important associate of the United States."

Isolation Roots

Dr. Trotter traced through the collapse of the isolationist view in the United States showing how deeply the roots of such isolation went and consequently how deeply outraged the exponents of the policy felt and still feel even though United States has found inter-dependence a necessity for her own survival.

He said that while Britain has never been more powerful than at present she has also never been more dependent on associations with individual allies, which, in a sense, nullifies the power.

Canada, too, is interdependent and, the speaker said, we would destroy the nation if people insisted on their own complete independence of others. In Dr. Trotter's opinion, to be a really good Canadian involves the responsibility of being something more than a Canadian. The ideal as a nation should be interdependence rather than individuality, and only as we fulfill our part in such a plan can we be of any use either to Great Britain or the United States.

The report of the nominating committee, headed by Dr. C. M. Scott, was received and the evening was rounded out with musical games and dancing, under the capable direction of Mr. McKinney. Officers for the ensuing year are as follows:

President, Mr. R. Lawlor, Norwood; honorary president, Miss Verna Burgess; 1st vice-president, Mr. V. R. Henry; 2nd vice-president, Mr. R. J. Corneil; secretary, Miss Elizabeth Stuart; associate secretary, Mrs. Leo Copp; treasurer, Mr. Arnold Noftall; executive committee, Miss Helen McGregor, Dr. W. J. Gordon, Mr. E. R. Shirley, Mr. Windrim, Miss Earla MacVannel; chaplain, Mr. H. E. Kerr.

Boxer Abe Attell, Injured In An Auto Accident, Was Featherweight Champ At Turn of Century

Jewish Battler Lost His Crown To John Kilbane

(By Central Press Canadian)

Abe Attell, "the little champ" who is in critical condition in New York after being struck by an automobile, was one of the veteran campaigners of the ring.

Featherweight champion for several years in the early 1900's, Attell fought all the best little men in the ring from 1900 to 1913 when he hung up his gloves.

In recent years Attell has operated a restaurant in New York and refereed boxing bouts. At a show in Cleveland several months ago he refereed a bout between two old featherweight campaigners, Johnny Kilbane, who lifted Attell's title in 1912, and Matt Brock.

Frisco Battler

Born in San Francisco Feb. 22, 1884, the Jewish-American battler began his pro boxing career when only 16 years old, fighting mostly in San Francisco and the western states.

For two years Attell was undefeated, running up a string of kayoes that long. He lost his first bout to Benny Yanger in St. Louis in 1902.

When Young Corbett, who had knocked out Terry McGovern for the feather title, abandoned the 126-pound division in 1901. Attell claimed the feather championship.

His claim, however was disputed by Brooklyn Tommy Sullivan. On Oct. 13, 1904, the two met in a widely publicized bout in St. Louis and Sullivan won on a foul in five rounds.

Attell continued to campaign for the title, and April 30, 1908, he met Sullivan again, knocking him out in San Francisco in four rounds.

The Frisco battler held his crown until Feb. 22, 1912, when Kilbane outpointed him in 20 rounds in Los Angeles.

Attell participated in 166 bouts, losing but nine. He was knocked out only once in his career — by Tommy Sullivan.

Want Prisoners To Relieve The Pinboy Shortage

By BOB HERDIEN
Associated Press Sport Writer.

CHICAGO, Oct. 19—(AP). — The Bowling Association of America, a spokesman disclosed today, is seeking the use of prisoners of war to alleviate the shortage of pinboys in bowling alleys.

The plan was announced by Charles V. Falkenberg, the association's attorney, who said that it had been submitted to Government authorities. No decision has been given, he said.

In Chicago, one of the nation's front ranking bowling centres, the shortage of pinboys threatens to curtail bowling for thousands of the estimated 700,000 keglers in the city and suburban areas, said Falkenberg. Similar situations exist in other major bowling centres, he said.

Lose 2,500.

Louie Petersen, chairman of the association and founder of the Petersen bowling classic tournament, said that of a peace time force of 4,000 pinboys in Chicago, there now are 1,500 working in the association's 125 establishments.

Describing bowling as a $35,000,000 business," Petersen said he believed "the idea would work." He added that manufacturing concerns in Michigan were "using 80 per cent. war prisoner help."

"If we can't do something about it, bowling will have to start all over again after the war—and we've come a long way in the last five years," Petersen said.

He explained "a good pinboy can make $50 a week at the present union scale of eight cents a line, but they don't care—if they decide to go home, who's to stop them? The war prisoners would be paid, too, but they couldn't be able to go home when they pleased."

He said girls had been used as pin setters in many alleys but "they can't take it. They'll just set two or three lines, then quit and go home."

Winnipeg before enlistment, Sqn. Ldr. G. A. McMurdy, 25, has been appointed commander of the R.C.A.F. Moose squadron overseas, according to a cable from London last night. He joined the Air Force in 1940.

Manager Joe McCarthy of the New York Yankees returned to his Buffalo, N.Y., home yesterday and was acclaimed the city's "No. 1 citizen in the world of sport," to which was attached his appointment as honorary commissioner of the Buffalo Police Department, badge and all, during a civic welcome.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The new forward-pass playing rule in hockey underwent its first game test at the hands of the Boston Bruins and Quebec Aces when they staged an exhibition contest at the ancient citadel in the immediate presence of Manager Ross and Captain Dit Clapper of the N.H.L. club. The rule permits the defending team to pass the puck to a red line across centre ice, regardless of the blue lines.

The game, although merely a practice which resulted in a 3-all tie, was speeded up through rapid breakaways and the elimination of stops for illegal play. Clapper expressed satisfaction with the new code and Manager Ross gave it his official approval. They were also pleased with the showing of the squad, generally speaking, although the players had been on the ice only a few days before Sunday, the day of the rehearsal.

Release Veteran.

The Boston Red Sox yesterday announced the unconditional release of the 40-year-old veteran, Al Simmons, who, as a member of the Philadelphia Athletics, led the American League in batting in 1930 and 1931 with average of .381 and .390 During the past season he hit .203 in 41 games.

Bert Gardiner, on loan to Chicago Black Hawks last season has been recalled by Canadiens for the goal position to replace Paul Bibeault who has gone to the Army. Also available is the veteran Bill Durnan of the Montreal Royals. Capt. Toe Blake will be back and Habitants hope to bring Ray Getliffe out of retirement.

Phil Terranova, of New York, N.B.A. featherweight champion, lost a 10-round verdict last night at Providence to Tony Costa of Woonsocket, R.I., who scaled 130 pounds against the champion's 124¾. The decision was unpopular with the crowd.

Katan Seeks Revenge Over Comet

Tonight's the big night at the Brock Arena when John Katan—all two hundred and thirty-seven pounds of him—smashes into Gentleman Jack Clayborne in the main bout of a three-ply card that will likely be the most exciting program of wrestling ever promoted here. The massive Katan and the flaming black grappler are expected to provide fireworks of an extravagant order. John "the Crawler" is out for revenge and that's no kidding. Clayborne slipped one over the Palermo Panther in their match here two weeks ago and Katan has been at the boiling point ever since. Well, it's do or die for both of them tonight, but from this distance, we can see that there is going to be one merry old scrap before it is finished. And the extra time-limit of ninety assures something definite at last.

The Gotch-Flanagan fracas is another bout that will produce its share of the "heat." Gotch believes that one day he will be just as famous as his once-brilliant namesake who ruled the wrestling world some thirty years ago. But in the meantime Jarring Jan will have to get past Irish Pat Flanagan tonight and that may well prove a stumbling block to his rather grandiose plans.

Mike Demetre of Montreal will wrestle here for the first time and certainly is being handed no set-up in Bunny Dunlop. The last time he wrestled here Dunlop was just about split open by Toar Morgan, but although he lost considerable blood, the beefy Bunny managed to stick out the time-limit proving he can take it when he has to.

Rolls Royce Engines.

In Scotland engineering was mainly of the heavy variety, and manufacturing firms were adapted and tuned up to war production. Rolls Royce engines, for example, are now for the first time being manufactured on a mass production basis. The building of flying boats, the manufacture of Rolls Royce aero-engines, and the repair of various types of aircraft are three industries that are now established in Scotland.

In Scotland the iron and steel industry has turned whole-heartedly to war production. Light casting foundries which formerly produced gutters, pipes and baths, now make bomb castings, grenades, etc. There has been a great development in the use of her high duty cast iron, which can be used to replace steel. Scotland has now the most up-to-date mechanized rolling machines for alloy steel in Britain. Sixteen per cent of the thousands of employees within the iron and steel industry in Scotland are women.

In Scotland, as distinct from England, the emphasis in the Government's war constructional program, begun in 1939, was not on the building of factories, but primarily on civil engineering works—airdromes, defence works, docks, etc. A great proportion of this work has been in the sparsely populated Highland areas. These large works had to be manned almost entirely by workers drawn from the industrial areas and many camps to accommodate them had to be erected. Almost all these workers lived away from home in hutted camp accommodation.

Council Refuses Plea For Church Banner

"We had Safety Week last week trying to save lives; these people are trying to save souls," was the comment of Alderman Curtis last night as the council refused permission to Bethany Tabernacle to string a banner across George street opposite their church announcing special service with a preacher from Norway November 8.

The resolution by Aldermen Gordon and Dutton directed City Clerk Outram to write Rev. Walter S. Crone, pastor, that the council had long ago adopted a policy of permitting as few banners as possible to be placed in the city's streets, and that permission was granted only for the advertising of general community purposes," and that we feel we should adhere to this policy."

MEMORY POEMS

"And the little toy soldier is red with rust,
And his musket moulds in his hands,
Time was when the little toy dog was new
And the soldier was passing fair,
And that was the time when our little Boy Blue Kissed them and put them there."

—Poignant words from the well-known poem "Little Boy Blue," by Eugene Field.

Our 32-page booklet is full of poems that have been read over and over again by lovers of good poetry—songs that are ageless because they have appealed to many generations.

They are beloved because they speak in simple language of the things that move us most deeply — love, religion, nature, children, hope and courage. Some you know already; a few have been heard as songs.

Among them you will find words to cheer you on the way—
"I am the master of my fate;
"I am the captain of my soul."
—Strong words from William Ernest Henley's "Invictus."

For your copy of WORLD'S BEST-LOVED POEMS send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

LEADING DUMMY'S SUIT

WHEN YOUR partner leads a suit which the dummy had bid and rebid, against a game contract in another suit, what was his reason? Should it not be pretty clear that, under all ordinary circumstances, that is just about the most dangerous opening that can be made? Doesn't that risk helping declarer set up the suit? Your partner then must have some purpose in the lead. It is almost sure to be one of two things. Either he has so many of it he expects you can get a first or second round ruff, or else he has led a singleton expecting a ruff himself.

	♠ 6 3 ♥ 9 ♦ K 8 5 ♣ A K 9 7 6 4 3
♠ 5 4 2 ♥ Q 7 6 4 2 ♦ 9 7 6 4 ♣ 8	N W E S	♠ A Q J 9 8 7 ♥ 8 ♦ Q J 2 ♣ J 10 2
	♠ K 10 ♥ A K J 10 5 3 ♦ A 10 3 ♣ Q 5

(Dealer: South. East-West vulnerable.)

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	Pass	2 ♣	Pass

It is good for even the best player's bridge to watch once in a while the quality of game exhibited by the players on this deal, as it represents a large percentage of all the bridge played anywhere, by devotees who know a good deal about the game, but do not apply their knowledge well, as they constantly overlook certain factors while observing others.

With his long trumps, and not much else, West refrained from opening his longest suit, diamonds, to force the declarer, but used his singleton club. The Q won that, then South went to dummy with the diamond K and led the heart 9, which he sent through, West letting it run because later he hoped to "see a signal from his partner." South then led a diamond to his A and led the heart A, K and J. West won with the Q. Having seen a high spade from East, he now led to the A. After East cashed the diamond Q, West was jubilant, with visions of a ruff of a club with his last trump.

East, however, could not imagine his partner as having had five trumps, so returned his spade Q. The declarer, of course, won with the K, dropped the last trump and made his contract.

Tomorrow's Problem

	♠ 9 ♥ A K 9 7 3 ♦ K 9 ♣ A K 8 5 4
♠ K 10 8 5 ♥ J 6 5 ♦ 8 7 6 3 ♣ 7 3	N W E S	♠ A Q J 4 3 2 ♥ Q 4 ♦ Q 5 4 ♣ Q 10
	♠ 7 6 ♦ 10 8 2 ♥ A J 10 2 ♣ J 9 6 2

(Dealer: East. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the soundest return for East to make, against South's 6-Clubs, if West leads the spade 5 to his A, after having supported spades during the bidding, which was marked by diamond and club bids from South?

Yugoslavs Fight Near Allies Minus Weapons

By DANIEL DE LUCE
Associated Press War Correspondent

AT AN ITALIAN ADRIATIC PORT, Oct. 16.—(Delayed)—(AP). —A short span of storm-whipped sea divides the British and American bases in Italy from Partisan forces in Yugoslavia.

Cross that sea and you cross from a land of military plenty to the direst poverty.

You leave the front where your air force has at least 10 to 1 superiority and find yourself where not a friendly plane exists.

You forsake operations where tanks and heavy guns are numbered in the hundreds and meet Allies who have no tanks of their own and attack the German armored units suicidally with hand grenades.

The first trickle of Allied supplies now is beginning to reach Josip Broz (Drug Tito) and his army along the Adriatic coast.

When I went there two weeks ago that trickle was but a promise —a promise upon which the commanders founded hope of early victory.

I reached Yugoslavia in a fishing boat with a wheezy engine.

I am not comparing myself with Russian Marshal Semeon Timoshenko but if Timoshenko should suddenly appear in Grand Junction, Colorado, he would probably create something of the same sort of sensation aroused in the little mountain town where I was taken to Partisan brigade headquarters.

There was never any difficulty about persuading the Partisans to tell their story. They were anxious that all aspects of their political and military movement should be given me in detail and they brought in relative outsiders like the local priests and town mayor to expand their picture.

Pope Prays For End Of War In Italy

Pope Pius XII, arms outstretched, prays for the end of the bombing of Rome and the end of the war. His Holiness visited bombed areas helping the morale of the natives. His prayers were answered a few days later when Italy bowed out of World War II, on September 3rd.

Vatican Honors Toronto Archbishop McGuigan

TORONTO, Oct. 19. — Opening the first Canadian National Missionary Congress at an impressive service in crowded St. Michael's Cathedral on Saturday night, in the presence of nearly 50 Canadian prelates, the Most Rev. Ildebrando Antoniutti, Apostolic Delegate to Canada and Newfoundland, announced that a signal honor had been conferred by His Holiness the Pope on Archbishop J. C. McGuigan, of Toronto, Congress president.

Archbishop McGuigan, he said, has been appointed as assistant to the Pontifical Throne and a Roman Count.

"This high honor comes as an official recognition of the fruitful successes achieved during his episcopate and as an omen for the work still to be accomplished in this diocese," he said.

Speaking of the missions, the Papal Delegate said the close union with the Pope during these dark days was particularly significant, and as the faithful in the first days of the Church united in prayer for Peter, the first Pope, prisoner of Herod, Catholic congregations to-day were praying and suffering with the same spirit for Pope Pius "that the Lord preserve him and deliver him not up to the will of his enemies."

Proof Church United.

He regarded the missionary congress as a proof of the continued union of the Church for "the horrors of the present war, the distance of space, the differences of race do not forbid us to be united in the charity of God."

He welcomed to the congress Bishop Paul Yu-Pin of China, and Canadian-born Bishop Cuthbert O'Gara, who narrowly missed execution by the Japanese at the fall of Hong Kong. "In their person," he said, "we salute with emotion the great army of the native clergy laboring in all continents to bring 'on earth peace to men of goodwill.'"

Welcoming the delegates and the Pope's personal representative, Archbishop McGuigan said, "Catholic Toronto throws wide the gates of her hospitality to a gathering whose object is to spread the knowledge of Christ and the blessings of Christian civilization. We wish by our zeal for the missions to make up for the losses caused by tyranny and war."

After the Cathedral service the Papal Delegate and other distinguished clergy opened the missionary exhibition in Varsity Arena, where are portrayed the many-sided works of some 30 religious orders serving in all parts of the world.

High Mass Celebrated.

At noon on Sunday His Excellency celebrated Pontifical High Mass at St. Michael's, and Most Rev. F. P. Carroll, formerly of Toronto and now Bishop of Calgary, spoke of the duty of all Catholics to assist in the extension of the Church.

"Every Catholic," he said, "must be a missionary." He said the serious dislocation and suspension of foreign missions, the "desperate shortage of priests and nuns" was a challenge to missionary zeal in Canada.

Mess Room Chatter

By ALAN RANDAL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

WITH THE R.C.A.F. SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct 19 — (CP). — Promotions come fast in Fighter Command, particularly in Canada's Wolf Squadron where the commanders have followed each other in amazing rapidity since last spring.

During the spring, Chuck Maggood, D.F.C., of Toronto, was the Wolf's squadron leader. He completed his tour of operations and Flt. Lt. Hugh Godefroy, D.F.C., of Toronto, one of his flight leaders, moved up to lead the squadron. Godefroy's tour was completed soon after his promotion and for a time Dean Dover of Toronto who in the spring was flying officer was leading the squadron as a flight lieutenant. Then Norman Fowlow of Windsor, N.S., a flying officer as recently as last July 10 took over squadron leadership with the rank of squadron leader.

On its first sweep into France under Fowlow's leadership the squadron bagged two German planes. They were shot down in flames by FO. Harry Dowding of Sarnia, Ont., and Flt. Lt. H. J. Southwood of Calgary.

Fowlow, whose squadron is at one of the better known fighter bases in the South of England, came overseas in May, 1941, about the same time as his father, Capt. R. Fowlow, a Church of England padre now stationed in Halifax.

The 22-year-old squadron leader was married this year to a Canadian nurse he met in England, the former Elsie Ogilvie of Parrsboro, N.S., now a lieutenant nursing sister in No. 7 Canadian General Hospital in Britain.

He has four planes shot down to his credit, and one damaged. Once while flying over Malta, he was shot down himself and was rescued from the sea where he floated in his dinghy.

Wing Cmdr. W. V. Crawford-Comton, 28-year-old former R.A.F. mechanic from New Zealand, who now leads one of the Fighter Command's top squadrons, has been awarded the D.S.O. The winco has destroyed 14½ enemy planes.

Air Marshal Harold (Gus) Edwards, officer commanding R.C.A.F. overseas, paid a visit to a London aircraft factory producing Halifax bombers and talked to the thousands of workers. He thanked them for the work they were doing, "for saving the lives of many of our men by the quality of the work."

Air Chief Marshal Lor Dowding, who was Commander-in-Chief of the Fighter Command during the Battle of Britain, told veterans of that battle who attended an anniversary luncheon that "I always feel uncomfortable when I hear nice things said about me and the Battle of Britain for two reasons. I know that the people who won the battle were not sitting in headquarters operations rooms. They were at the stations....They fought and saved the country."

Civil Servants Threaten Strike

OTTAWA, Oct. 19 — (CP). — Dominion Bureau of Statistics clerks were at work this morning with a threatened strike averted and the promise that their demand for immediate promotion to grade 2 status would be discussed at a Treasury Board meeting this afternoon.

Saturday 61 clerks — four men and the remainder girls — staged a protest march to Civil Service Commission and Trade and Commerce Department offices demanding that the promotions be granted at once.

This morning, following a meeting with Herbert Marshall, Assistant Dominion Statistician, the clerks agreed to continue at work.

In all, some 275 clerks in the Census Division of the Bureau would be affected by the grade 2 ruling which is sought.

Mr. Marshall told a committee of the clerks this morning that representations on their behalf had been made by the Bureau and by the Trade Department on the basis of departmental recommendations had been delayed because of the imminence of a new Treasury Board ruling concerning the grade 1 employees and also because an examination to qualify grade 2 standing was to be held.

The Treasury Board had granted an increase to clerks with 18 months' service, raising renumeration from the $65 granted grade 1 employees to $70 a month.

The explanation was for the purpose of establishing an eligible list for grade 2 positions at $90 a month.

These measures did not satisfy the grade 1 census workers who desired a final settlement by October 15. The eligible list for the grade 2 could not be established by that date, but the department was pressing for immediate action, said Mr. Marshall.

BANCROFT

Two Men Given Light Sentence For Tire Theft

BANCROFT, Oct. 19 (ENS). — Bancroft Police Court was held last week, presided over by Magistrate J. L. Lloyd, with Assistant Crown Attorney S. G. Robertson of Belleville being present. The following cases were disposed of:

Cuthbert Baragar of Lake St. Peter, charged with the theft of two tires and tubes and rims from a trailer owned by K. Helin of Toronto. The trailer was parked on a bush road eight miles north of Maynooth. Baragar and Victor LaFee drove an employee of Jones' pulpwood camp back to his place, and after leaving him they stole the goods on their way back to Maynooth. Stolen property was valued at $20, and was recovered the following day by Provincial Constable S. Palmateer in Baragar's garage.

Baragar was taken into custody and sentenced to two years' suspended sentence on payment of $24 court costs. Victor LaFee, aged 16 years, charged also with the theft, was found guilty and was given two weeks to pay $16 court costs. The conviction against LaFee was later discharged due to his age and no previous police record.

John Peters of Cheddar, arrested on October 7 charged ith the theft of money from Peter Kelly of Baptiste was fined $25, and $13.50 court costs.

Takes Ammunition.

Royce Seymour of Bancroft, charged with the theft of 100 rounds of 25-20 ammunition from his father Fred Seymour, was arrested on October 12. The ammunition was later recovered and Royce appeared in court charged with the theft. He received two years' suspended sentence, and ordered to report to the local police once a month, and also had to go to work.

Philip Golden of Maynooth was found guilty on a charge of allowone head of cattle to run at large on Highway 62, and paid a fine of $6.00.

Mac Fitzgerald of Combermere paid $10, and costs, when found guilty on a charge of a breach of the L.C.A.

Arnold Wannamaker of Fort Stewart paid $5, and costs, when found guilty on a charge of careless driving.

Merkley Windover of Belleville was assessed $5, and costs, when found guilty on a charge of breach of the H.T.A.

Personals.

A number of local residents attended the fowl supper held at Birch Cliff Lodge, Baptiste, on Friday evening, the supper being held to raise funds in aid of the new United Church being completed at Baptiste.

W. A. Clarke, former divisional engineer of the Department of Highways at Bancroft, and who recently was transferred to the Hamilton Division, has moved his wife and family from Bancroft to Hamilton.

The absence of rain in Bancroft and surrounding district during the past couple of months has been a serious handicap to local residents in that their cisterns are low and in some cases dry. Farmers are having to draw water for their stock.

GERMANS RETREAT TO NEW POSITION

Lt. D. Weese, Sgt. H. Osborne In Thick of Italian Campaign

By LOUIS V. HUNTER—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 18—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—German resistance stiffened today (Monday) along the Canadian section of the Italian front and several counter-thrusts by enemy forces fighting a slow, rearguard action were successfully held by our troops.

There has been bitter fighting during the intense patrolling by both sides in the thickly wooded, hilly country beyond the last two objectives taken by the Canadian troops. Heavy artillery duels for the past two days have continued spasmodically and the enemy has reinforced his troops facing the Canadians, apparently in an attempt to slow up the satisfactory progress our troops have been making the last few weeks.

Would Groom Princess To Be Democratic Members Suggest Remove Restrictions

LONDON, Oct. 20—(CP)—Suggestions that Princess Elizabeth should be given more opportunity of mixing with the public and other men and women of her age have been made in the House of Commons.

The subject came up yesterday during the second reading of the Regency Bill to allow the Princess to become a counsellor of state when she reaches the age of 18 next year instead of waiting until she is 21.

Arthur Greenwood, Labor member, proposed that her education should be conducted in association and co-operation with others of her own age "so that she might fulfill her responsibilities with knowledge and experiences of life."

"It is the desire of the King and Queen that Princess Elizabeth should have every opportunity of gaining experience in the duties which would fall on her in the event of her accession to the throne," said Herbert Morrison, home secretary, speaking for the government."

Royal Canadian Regiment Captures Foggia Flatlands

By WILLIAM STEWART—Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 2-—(Delayed)—(CP Cable).—Canadian forces are fighting their way into the hills northwest of the Foggia plain after a 150-mile move from the Potenza area of southern Italy.

The Canadians swung in a wide arc from a base they had established in the hilly Potenza area after spending more than a week resting up and overhauling equipment, which had been hard used in the drive through the toe of Italy and on up the Gulf of Taranto to Potenza which they occupied last month.

The long move over a hard black road from Potenza up central Italy through Stinazzola, Canosa and Cerignola, and across the Lush plain of Foggia, was accomplished in only a few hours.

Ontario troops took the lead in the drive across the Foggia flatlands.

An infantry unit of the Royal Canadian Regiment supported by tanks led the march beyond the edge of the plain and up into the hilltop town of Motta where stronger German resistance was encountered than at any time since the start of the Italian campaign.

Fierce Shell Fire.

The Royals started up a twisting road to the little town late Friday, and ran into machine-gun and shell fire as they approached the sloping, cobblestoned town square.

They were forced to retire but mounted a pre-dawn attack and scrambled up the slopes into the town, following a concentrated artillery barrage. Infantry moved through the winding streets and out toward an important crossroads beyond as heavy rain started to fall.

Sunday Charges Anger Public

TORONTO, Oct. 20 — (CP). — Hearing of charges against 33 Toronto and district residents for violating a Dominion statute prohibiting "profanation of the Lord's Day'" by picking vegetables last Sunday today was given a one-week hoist to next Wednesday while Ontario government and the church officials argued publicly the right of farmers to work on Sunday in the harvest of war-vital food crops.

Crown attorney George Gardhouse in Ontario County police court said that "the Department of Agriculture called and asked for an adjournment of the charges, which were laid by the York Township police.

At Queen's Park, it was understood that Attorney - General Blackwell of Ontario had called into conference Chief Robert Alexander of the York Township police to discuss the charges, but that Chief Alexander had been insistent that the charges were properly laid and should be proceeded with.

In the flood of public comment on the case, these statements represented the most important groups of opinion:

Mayor Hamilton On Committee

TORONTO, Oct. 20 — (CP). — Mayor Garfield Case of Owen Sound told the annual convention of the Ontario Mayors' Association today that in his opinion "our constant concern, as municipalities, should be to lessen the burden of taxation on real property."

Delegates attending the two-day conference were welcomed to Toronto by Mayor F. J. Conboy on behalf of the city and by Hon. George H. Dunbar, Ontario Minister of Municipal Affairs, on behalf of the Provincial Government.

Mayor Case said municipalities should seek to "make it attractive for citizens to own their own homes." We should seek to become not only a nation of homes, but a nation of home-owners, he said.

He suggested that the Dominion and Provincial Governments assume the entire costs of education and asserted that "either new sources of taxation must be discovered or grants-in-aid must be available to municipalities."

A resolution committee of seven delegates was appointed to review resolutions which will come before the convention tomorrow. They were: Mayor J. E. Brunette, Timmins; Mayor C. L. Goddard, Chatham; Mayor Garfield Anderson, Fort William; Mayor James Hamilton, Peterborough; Mayor W. C. Hipple, Sarnia; Reeve J. Warren, York East Township, and Mayor G. R. Inglis of Niagara Falls. They will elect their own chairman tonight.

Postwar Aviation Outlined

British Ready With Complete Program

LONDON, Oct. 20 —(CP)—Lord Beaverbrook announced today that Britain has an "extensive and complete" plan for postwar civil aviation ready to present to an international conference.

The newspaper peer, Lord Privy Seal in the Churchill government, told the House of Lords the plan was adopted at the recent empire air conference in London and awaited only approval of the dominion governments.

Lord Beaverbrook who has been entrusted by Prime Minister Churchill with direction of the British air transport policy forecast forces of 2,000 aircraft engaged in civil aviation in Britain after the war.

He said however that this estimate —which would be four times the number of commercial planes used in the United States before the war —"will not afford a great basis for production of aircraft after the war."

Speaking in response to a request from Lord Londonderry, a former air secretary, for a statement on British air policy, Lord Beaverbrook said the empire meeting which was held in secret "reached unanimous agreement on every issue."

Slavic Army Repels Nazi Landing

Seaborne Troops Forced Back Along Dalmatia

LONDON, Oct. 20.—(CP).—Yugoslav Partisans have smashed a German seaborne attempt to land troops on the Dalmatian coast and two nearby islands in the Adriatic, a communique issued by Gen. Drug Tito's Headquarters and broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio said today.

The landing attempts, the bulletin declared, were directed against the Peljesac Peninsula, which juts northwestward into the Adriatic between Split and Dubrovnik, and against the Islands of Hvar and Mljet, which guards the approaches to those ports.

The Yugoslavs said the islands and peninsula were firmly in their hands. The importance of the islands in the Balkan picture was emphasized by the increased activity in that area.

A communique issued Sunday by Allied Headquarters in North Africa told of a sortie by small British craft between Mljet and Dobrovnik and said they withdrew undamaged under fire from German shore batteries.

Capture 2 Towns.

Fighting on widely-scattered mainland fronts, to-day's Yugoslav bulletin said, was high-spotted by the capture of two towns by Partisan forces—Bilece, 15 miles northeast of Dubrovnik in Herzegovina, and Nova Varos, northeast of Plevlje in Bosnia.

Details of sharp clashes between the patriots and German forces were carried in the communique. On October 15 Partisans troops launched a series of attacks on the town of Travnik, 15 miles west of Zenica backed up by artillery support they stormed all the important fortifications around the town but the Germans came back the next day with a strong motorized counter - attacks and the Paritsans were forced to retire

Rommel's Touch

Other patriot columns operating between Travnik and Serajevo were said to have clashed with the German raiders and supply detachments during the week-end. The Germans sent in a motorized force but the Yuogslavs said their men stood firm and fighting was reported to be continuing today.

Germans attacked a Croat column between Split and Trogir, but were hurled back and when they tried to storm the latter town the communique declared.

However, further up the Dalmation coast Nazi motorized units reinforced by a division of one hundred tanks, rushed from Italy by Marshal Erwin Rommel, cracked Partisan defences around the towns of Susak and Ogulin and succeeded in capturing them despite fierce resistance.

Old Maestro, Ben Bernie Dies At Age 52 Stricken While Entertaining War Workers

BEVERLY HILLS, Calif., Oct. 20—(AP)—Ben Bernie, the old maestro of the stage, screen and radio, died at his apartment this morning after a long illness from a pulmonary affection with heart complications.

At his bedside, were his wife, his son, Private Jason Bernie of the U.S. Army, his brother-manager, Herman Bernie, and the latter's wife.

The 52-year-old band leader was stricken with pleurisy while playing an engagement in Chicago last February. After a short period abed he disregarded his physician's orders and came to the west coast to fulfill entertainment engagements in war plants.

Soon after arriving here he suffered a relapse and for 11 weeks was confined to an oxygen tent. During most of the period his life was despaired of.

Hundreds Dying In Streets In Terrible Indian Famine

By FOSTER BARCLAY—Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 20—(CP).—A grim picture of death, disease and starvation which has struck down thousands of natives in Bengal has reached London along with word that grain and cereal are being rushed to that Indian province to stem a mounting death roll.

Dispatches to London newspapers describe Calcutta as the "city of slow death," a place where parents and children share food with beasts in the gutters, where famished fathers snatch scraps from their youngsters' grasp and where babies, if not still born, survive only a few minutes.

That was the situation when Lord Woolton, Minister of Food, announced that Britain would dig into her grain supplies to help relieve the famine. Shipments from Australia and the Persian Gulf are expected to arrive this week and it was understood that large supplies would also be sent from the west coast of the United States.

Will Take Weeks.

But even with the speeding up of grain ships and relief work, food experts have estimated it will be weeks before conditions improve.

Calcutta correspondents reported that whole families, abandoning their homes in towns and villages, have converged on the city with their entire possessions—a few plates and mugs wrapped in a piece of cloth. Everything else has been sold.

Behind the walls of the Indian quarters, middle-class families, too proud to beg or go to soup kitchens, were reported slowly starving to death. Railways throughout the country are thronged with beggars, living on rice raked from under the doors of goods trucks.

(This year's rice harvest will not be on the market until December.)

Stanley Wills, Daily Herald correspondent, painted this stark picture in a series of articles:

Unable To Walk.

"The magnitude of the tragedy hits you right in the pit of the stomach immediately you set foot in Calcutta. Immediately you pass out of Howrah Station you begin to pick your way through hundreds of starving homeless. They are huddled up beside the warehouses with tattered clothes drawn tightly round their chilled, shrivelling bodies.

"They do not stir or mumble protests if anybody stumbles over them. They do not waste their remaining strength in that way, for the wearisome trudge for food will soon begin again. It is dangerous to stay resting too long; death strikes more subtly when you are lying down.

"You see no smiles. People have

Kiska Soldiers Buying Bonds

OTTAWA, Oct. 20—(CP). — Subscriptions yesterday to the $1,200,000,000 Fifth Victory Loan totalled $58,857,700, raising to $126,587,150 the value of bonds sold in the first two days of the three-week campaign, national loan headquarters announced today.

The cumulative total is $8,341,900 higher than the corresponding figure for the first two days of the Fourth Victory Loan last spring when the objective was $1,100,000,000.

"The Fifth Loan thus has yielded in the first two days an average of $63,293,575, against a required daily average of $66,666,666," said headquarters. "Tuesday's total was $4,000,000 higher than the corresponding day of the previous loan, which yielded $54,949,500."

Yesterday, as in the opening day of the drive, the armed services, both at home and overseas, led the Dominion.

The R.C.A.F. announced subscriptions of $2,819,200 on an $8,862,000 quota, while the army came through with $2,178,950 on a $10,000,000 objective. There were no reports available from the navy, which is aiming for $2,475,000 in Canada and $25,000 overseas.

The army's total included a report from Kiska—the Canadian occupation troops there have subscribed $115,000, 115 per cent. of their quota. The men received a message of congratulation from Lt.-Gen. Kenneth Stuart, chief of general staff.

The army total included $1,910,750 from the forces in Canada and $153,200 from those stationed overseas.

Nazis Massacre Italians Put Torch To Farms As 5th Army Drives Ahead

Montgomery's Famous Unit
Takes Petacciato In Drive Along Adriatic

By N. NORGAARD—Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 20 — (AP). — Threatened on their left flank by a swift Allied drive that cut forward five miles, the Germans fell back today from the Volturno Valley to a fresh mountain line, it was announced, leaving behind them one of the war's worst scenes of destruction.

The Germans are retreating to establish a strong new mountain line anchored on the high Massico Ridge and the town of Mondragone, six miles north of the Volturno River mouth, and extending 27 miles northeast to Venafro.

Official dispatches from the 5th Army headquarters said the Nazis were burning houses, shooting civilians, destroying livestock, tearing up railroads, dynamiting roads and firing haystacks to provide smoke-screens to cover the retreat.

The devastation of the countryside and wiping out of civilians as well as their farms was the most complete yet encountered as the German fury towards the Italians reached a new peak.

The new enemy line is made up of a series of high, difficult ridges intersected by deep valleys through which pass the main highways from Naples to Rome.

Break Counter

Attacking heavily along the Adriatic coast in the face of increasing resistance by reinforced Nazi troops, the British 8th Army captured Petacciato nine miles west of Termoli. Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's infantry made a successful attack on the village, converted by the Germans into a heavily fortified zone, with the support of British tanks and artillery.

South of the Adriatic coast, other 8th Army units beat back a heavy enemy counter-attack on Montecilfone, occupied Monday.

Sharp clashes occurred in the area of Baranello three miles northwest of Montecilfone, where the enemy massed large reinforcements to hold the mountain heights controlling the main lateral road west and northwest from Vinchiaturo. The German Paris radio reported Canadians are fighting in the Vinchiatro area.

"The Germans are offering much stronger resistance all along the 8th Army front, and obviously they brought up fresh troops to aid the tired troops in the line, some of whom were badly knocked about in Africa and Sicily," a headquarters officer said.

German Forces In Crimea Face Dire Peril

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Oct. 20 —(AP)—The whole German position inside the Dnieper River elbow has threatened today as harassed Nazi commanders hurled fresh divisions of men, tanks and artillery into the fight in an attempt to halt the Red Army's flanking drive to the west of the river.

The Russians' major break-through southeast of Kremenchug has swept into 130 settlements and the railway junction of Pyatikhatka to outflank Dneprodezerzhink, 40 miles to the east, and Dnepropetrovsk, 70 miles to the east.

Pyatikhatka is at the junction of the main railway between Znamekna and Dnepropetrovsk and one running south of Krivoi Rog. Its capture leaves the Germans but one line, through Krivoi Rog, to evacuate the whole Dnieper bend.

This most recent Soviet advance actually has carried the Red Army to a geographical position west of the Crimea. The German army southward of the Zaporozhe-Melitopol line is in a precarious position.

Hitler's commanders have not got themselves into such a serious tactical situation since they were cut off in Stalingrad.

Red Star said the Germans were counter-attacking in the Dnieper elbow. A Pravda dispatch said a considerable number of German bombers had been shifted here from the deep rear and western Europe. All indications are the Nazis want to stand and fight.

A second sore spot for the Germans on the long Russian front today was north of Kiev where in the face of furious counter-attacks the Red Army is bearing down upon Kiev, capturing Vyshgorod, six miles away.

Invasion, Paramount Topic at Parley

Russians May Embarrass Eden, Hull With Demands For Action

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

There's only one point remaining to be settled in connection with the burning "second front" issue which the Russians have made the paramount question before the tripartite Allied conference in Moscow — and that's when the cross-Channel invasion of France shall take place.

The Allied High Command has decided that there shall be such an operation—when the time seems right. Active preparations for this invasion—which will be in the nature of a coup de grace for Hitler—are continuing.

Talk in the camp of the Anglo-American allies in the past few days has been emphasizing next spring as the favorable time for invasion.

Could Come In '43.

Preparations proceed apace — but that doesn't guarantee invasion in the near future. As remarked in this column before, the best we can say is that there's still time for the operation this year, although the season is late.

The Western Allies certainly have justification for proceeding with circumspection in this dangerous adventure. Failure would be catastrophic.

Assembly of the colossal invasion forces with supplies and equipment is only the beginning of the problems. We had an illustration of that in miniature in the invasion of Dieppe last year, when close to half a force of 6,000 or more men—five-sixth of whom were Canadians—were killed, wounded or captured.

Valuable lessons were learned at Dieppe, and in the subsequent invasions of North Africa, Sicily and Italy. The Allies have much better forewarning for the French invasion than they have had before.

Shore Protected.

One threat, of course, lies in the fact that the great invasion fleet of barges and warships will be under intense fire of German land batteries, as well as all the bombers Hitler can muster. The book, "Combined Operations," British official story of the Commandos, reminds us of Nelson's dictum that "three guns in a well-constructed battery, properly placed, would beat off or destroy any ship in the world."

Another menace is mines—both sea and land. The employment of this defence against amphibious attacks has been developed to a fine point by the Germans.

Whatever way you look at it, the invasion is going to be a costly thing unless Hitler is rendered virtually impotent in advance. What the Allies have to figure out in answering Moscow is whether the present status of the war warrants taking such a chance right now.

Senators Want Frank Talk

Says Round Table Parley Would Clear Air

WASHINGTON, Oct. 20 —(AP)—Two of the five United States senators who aroused the British press recently by their critical observations on lend-lease and other Allied operations called today for a frank discussion of Anglo-American relationships.

If "minor problems" can't be settled now, said Senator Richard Russell (Dem., Ga.), "it dims my hopes for international collaboration in the peace—and I have great hopes for such collaboration."

Senator Albert Chandler (Dem. Ky.), another member of the party that toured Allied battlefronts, said the returning senators had spoken more in sorrow at the shortcomings of American representatives abroad than in anger at Britain.

Chandler said, "we were not trying to lecture the British about their actions — in fact, we complimented them for being on their toes and being better prepared to take care of their interests all over the world than we."

The Kentuckian added that matters probably could be smoothed out easily "if we have a frank discussion, based on realities, without anybody getting mad."

Tri-Partite Talks Cover Urgent Matters

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer.

MOSCOW, Oct. 20 — (AP). — Apparently satisfied with the results of their first formal talk last night, Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, United States State Secretary Cordell Hull, and Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov settled down to-day to a program of daily conferences on war-time and post-war matters.

Their initial meeting lasted for two hours and 15 minutes, and while no details were announced it was understood the session was satisfactory.

The conferees disclosed they will meet once a day in Spiridonovka Palace until their discussions are concluded. No formal announcement concerning the progress of the talks will be issued while they are under way.

Before last night's session, which started at 6 p.m., a spokesman said it would give the three diplomats a chance to share "frankly and freely what's on one another's mind." Eden and Hull conversed at the official residence of the U. S. Ambassador before the meeting.

Lay Foundations.

The foundation for future vital discussions among United Nations leaders will be largely laid at this conference, which is not expected to hit any lasting snags, although urgent matters will be discussed for the first time. It is expected the talks will iron out numerous issues before other leaders confer.

(Prime Minister Churchill has expressed hope for a Churchill-Roosevelt-Stalin meeting this year.)

No military men attended the first meeting.

Meanwhile, the signing of the third lend-lease protocol, which will bring another years flow of British, Canadian and American supplies to Russia, was taken here to indicate co-operation between the countries is assured.

Presumably, complete agreements would require a balance between Soviet demands for heightened military activity and Allied desires for political co-operation after the war.

4 Crack Divisions Routed As Rail Point Falls

LONDON, Oct. 20 — (CP). — Unleashing a mass power drive which breached the "impregnable" German defence lines south-east of Kremenchug, Red Army troops have captured the key rail junction of Pyatikhatka, 70 miles west of Dnepropetrovsk to cut a main Nazi escape corridor in one of the bloodiest battles of the great 1943 Russian offensive.

Four crack divisions were routed by the tank-supported Russian attack, which rolled westward for from 9 to 12 miles yesterday to liberate more than 100 towns, said a broadcast Moscow communique announcing the fall of Pyatikhatka.

At the end of the day's fighting the German garrison at Dnepropetrovsk was left with but a single railroad line running south-west to Nikolaev on the Black Sea, severance of which would isolate the large Nazi forces crowded in the pocket of the big Dnieper River bend.

Huge amounts of booty were abandoned by the Germans at Pyatikhatka, which lies astride the main rail line between Znamenka and Dnepropetrovsk, said the Soviet war bulletin.

Further Red Army progress was reported north and south of the Ukrainian capital of Kiev. Here Soviet troops "completed the annihilation of remnants" of motorized Nazi units striving to prevent encirclement of the great stronghold, the communique said.

South of Gomel, southern anchor of the German defence lines in White Russia, the Russians swept more Germans from the day) penetrated three towns. A company of a Pacific coast battalion went into one town but withdrew later when the Germans shelled the spot heavily. Heavy fighting now is going on in that area and the infantry is being well supported in these attacks.

Men from an Eastern Ontario battalion engaging the enemy in the neighborhood of the other two penetrated towns have taken part in a number of skirmishes during the last 48 hours.

One of the towns was occupied by a company commanded by Maj. Clinton Nickle of Madoc, Ontario. His troops now are patrolling beyond the town.

A section from a company led by Capt. R. F. Dafoe of Madoc, Ontario, was detailed to occupy another town. The men ran into heavy mortar fire from strong enemy positions across the river and engaged enemy patrols in the town. The entire area was controlled by a number of enemy observation posts which directed artillery and mortar fire on the town forcing the Canadians to withdraw and prepare for a new assault.

Take High Ground

During the fighting in this area the Canadians encountered considerable machine-gun and mortar fire with casualties being inflicted on both sides. Our troops were supported by mortar fire and carrier-borne automatic weapons.

The Canadians now occupy the high ground overlooking the town. The men who succeeded in penetrating the town brought back two prisoners before being driven out.

The prisoners were captured by Sgt. E. R. Leroux of Cornwall, Ont., who was in charge of a party of four men. They set out from headquarters just after dark on Sunday and returned at three the next morning with much valuable information as well as the brace of prisoners.

A Bancroft Man

The prisoners had been with their unit only five hours before the Canadians nabbed them and one had arrived on the Italian front right from Russia. Leroux and his party were from the company commanded by Dafoe, whose second in command was Capt. Les Yates, 23, of Athens, Ont.

Platoon commanders were Lieut. Don Fogg of Montreal and Lieut. Don Weese of Peterborough.

An enemy machine-gun post was wiped out by Sgt. H. Osborne, also of Peterborough, who risked his life to get a Bren gun into a firing position after some of his men had made repeated unsuccessful attempts.

E. C. Mooney of Bancroft, Ont., a mortar platoon sergeant, was instrumental in keeping casualties in his group at a minimum. He went ahead of his unit for a considerable distance to act as an observation officer and to direct the mortar fire. This enabled his unit to lob some 300 mortars accurately into the enemy positions and allowed the men to move around to better positions.

COBOURG

Legion Given Ground For New Building

COBOURG, Oct. 20 — (ENS).— Cobourg branch of the Canadian Legion was donated part of the former Henderson property south of the business section for the site of the proposed new Legion Hall, at the regular meeting of the town council on Monday night. Mayor Jack Burnet pointed out that it was the desire of the Legion to have the building ready for occupation by the boys when they returned from overseas. It was desired to avoid the trials and tribulations of the veterans of the Great War, experienced when they were organizing the Legion, the mayor said.

Council passed a motion that a letter of sympathy be sent to Mrs. T. J. Turpin, widow of the late fire chief. Mayor Burnet said that the passing of the fire chief last week was a great loss to the community. On motion of councillors D. Gleen and J. Rollings, James Campbell was named to carry on the work as chief of the fire department. The Fire, Water and Light Committee announced that it was negotiating with the Port Hope Fire Department in regard to the interchanging of the equipment, if the need should arise, as both outfits use the same size hose connections.

Council decided to instruct the town solicitor to write property owners in arrears of taxes for 3 years or more that some reasonable response must be forthcoming or the properties would be placed on the tax sale list.

Too Many Dogs

Councillor W. Wenn commented on the number of dogs running at large without collars or tags. Recently a child had been bitten while on Division Street, he stated. He felt that no dog should be allowed at large without a collar or tag, and that they should be impounded if so found.

In connection with the industry which Cobourg has been trying to secure, Mayor Burnet told the council that it was a case of the company deciding between Cobourg and a location near Montreal. When a decision was reached, it would immediately be announced by him, the mayor said.

Dieppe Heroes Buying Bonds

KINGSTON, Oct. 20—Heroes of the Canadian Army, who stormed the beaches of Dieppe, now in training for commissions at the Officers' Training Centre at Brockville, were among the first to subscribe to the loan in Military District No. 3.

A number of them remarked as they purchased bonds "We want the boys over there to know that we are not forgetting them," while another, realizing the importance of having enough fighting equipment, stated "I want to know that when I return overseas everything will be waiting for me to go to work."

Lt. T. V. Savage, who heads the camp Victory Loan committee, reports company offices have cards showing the daily standing and each company is endeavoring to hold the top position in bond purchases.

Camp Libraries Discussed At I.O.D.E. Meet

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. Oct. 19 — A recommendation from the executive committee that an objective for camp libraries for the Province of Ontario be set at $100,000 was unanimously approved by the Provincial Chapter of Ontario I.O.D.E., delegates at the semi-annual meeting yesterday.

The delegates also approved a second recommendation from the executive that an intensive collection of books be undertaken in conjunction with a drive for the funds, the collection of books to be continued in order to provide a constant flow of books.

The committee in charge of the campaign includes Mrs. K. I. Drope, Mrs. W. G. Lumbers, Mrs. C. R. Brown of Toronto; Mrs. O. M. Main, Miss Jeanne Knapman, Mrs. C. D. Hickey, Mrs. Gordon Fairclough, Mrs. W. C. Vaughan and Mrs. C. L. Brown, Hamilton; Mrs M. S. Somers, Tillsonburg; Mrs. A. P. Sharpe, Preston; Mrs. J. N. Noble and Miss Ethel Raymond, Brantford; Mrs. Lionel Millen, Port Nelson, and Mrs. T. E. Briant, Welland.

The drive will be held early in the new year and is in response to the Government appeal for books for the men and women in the services.

The vote was taken by President Mrs. Ryland H. New after the delegates listened to a dramatic word picture of life at sea given by Capt. J. P. Connolly, director of special services, R.C.N.; Sub-Lieut. C. A. Hutchins, R. C. N., and the reports of Mrs Garth Smith, Hamilton, convener of the "adopted ships" committee in the chapter Miss Jeanne Knapman of Hamilton, camp libraries convener.

Mrs. Smith reported that 91 ships have been adopted since April, making a total of 200, and 43 chapters are waiting to adopt ships.

Miss Knapman said that in the four years which have elapsed since the I.O.D.E. was asked to undertake the task of supplying books for the services, the work has grown until today they have requests from the navy for 25,000 books and from the army for 100,00 and the air force requisitions are not yet in.

Mrs. C. D. Hickey, Hamilton, war work convener, said that the war service department has grown from a very small beginning to a well-organized unit of the war service auxiliary. She stressed the importance of there not being any relaxation of effort until the war is over.

Ditty bags are taking the spotlight, 8,500 of these bags being promised to the Navy League by the Province of Ontario. The deadline is November 15, and up to the present time 7,736 empty bags have been distributed.

Veterans Push Serum Charge

VANCOUVER, Oct. 20 (CP)—Lt.-Col. John Wise of Vancouver, executive secretary of the Disabled Veterans' Association, said Tuesday his organization will seek appointment of a royal commission to investigate charges of a Canadian soldier that a "truth serum" injection was used on him in England by a medical doctor without the soldier's consent.

(At Ottawa today defence headquarters said intravenous injection of drugs like sodium amytal to produce semi-consciousness or sleep in the treatment of anxiety and hysterical states is used in both British and American armed forces and is "thoroughly accepted" as sound practice by both American and British authorities.)

The soldier claimed, Col. Wise said, that when the medical board was unable to cure a pain in his back, they diagnosed his trouble as mental and accused him of malingering.

Defence Counsel Grills Oakes' Friend

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 20 — (AP). — With question after question, defence counsel Godfrey Higgs pounded today at Harold G. Christie's testimony about the finding last July of the burned beaten body of wealthy Sir Harry Oakes, Canadian gold mine operator.

The third day of trial of Alfred de Marigny on a charge of murdering the 68-year-old baronet opened with Higgs resuming his cross examination of Christie, a house guest at Sir Harry's home the night of the killing, who told yesterday of discovering the crime when he went to summon Sir Harry to breakfast.

Christie had testified he saw a burned mosquito bar over Oakes' bed, rushed into the room and tried to revive the man he described as 'one of my best friends.'

"Did any blood come from Sir Harry when you shook him?" Higgs asked.

"I did not notice," replied the witness.

"Was there a bad rainstorm during the night?"

"There was."

Tried To Revive Him

"When you stayed overnight at Sir Harry's home, did you usually get out of bed and go barefooted straight to the porch where you and Harry had breakfast together?"

"Sometimes. Sometimes I was first on the porch, but usually Harry was first at the table outside of his room."

"Why did you touch the body?"

"If you walk into room and find your best friend you do everything possible."

Once de Marigny, watching from the prisoner's dock, passed a note through the bars to Higgs.

"Look at this photograph," the lawyer said during the questioning, "does it look like a living man?"

"No, but the body still was warm when I first saw it."

"Did you know when you called to the servant that she was not there?"

"I didn't know."

"Show this photograph to the jury," Higgs told the court crier, and the latter took the picture of the death scene from Christie and passed it to the jurors.

"You didn't have much hope of saving Harry's life?" Higgs demanded.

Shouted Reply.

Christie lifted his voice and almost shouted his reply:

"Yes. I had hopes of saving my best friend's life."

The courtroom was packed, and spectators sat on the edges of their chairs after Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedford Daly had read from his hand-written record the end of yesterday's proceedings and Higgs launched into his vigorous cross-examination.

Higgs brought out that Christie called the maid, a watchman and Mrs. Newell Kelly, wife of the manager of the Oakes Nassau properties, but had not summoned a doctor.

He then questioned Christie about his statement that he had left Sir Harry's partly burned room to see whether there was fire in his own room or any other place in the estate, known as Westbourne.

Higgs asked whether Christie had seen De Marigny at Westbourne before lunch on the day the body was found.

"Yes," replied the witness. "I spoke with him. He asked me what happened."

Higgs read from a typewritten sheet the answer Christie had given to previous questions.

"You remember telling him Sir Harry had a wound on the temple?"

"I may have told him that."

It Signals Fine Patriotism

This flag will be awarded to those establishments where 90 per cent. or more of the employees invest 15 per cent. or more of the monthly payroll in Victory Bonds or War Savings Certificates. The "V" Flag will be half maroon and half dark blue, with border of white piping around it. On this field will be a golden yellow V surrounded by a laurel wreath in the same color. Three stars will be affixed to the lower right hand corner of the flag. The awards will be provided in two sizes, 4 ft. 6 in. by 9 ft., and 2 ft. 1 in. by 4 ft. 2 in. The larger size is No. 1 Admiralty bunting which will withstand outdoor conditions.

Man Believed Buried At Windsor 7 Years Ago Visits His Own Grave, Pays Back Insurance

LONDON, Oct. 20 — (CP Cable) —Tpr. Arthur J. Foster, probably the only man in the world who learned about his death in casual conversation with one of his pallbearers, turned up in The Canadian Press London Bureau yesterday to fill in some of the gaps in the weird story in which a body was taken from the Detroit River on July 19, 1936, identified as his, and buried.

It was only last March while on a visit to his former home in Windsor, Ont., after six years in the Merchant Marine and seven months in the Canadian Army, that he learned he was supposed to have drowned nearly six years before and paid a courtesy visit to the grave bearing his name.

(Early this month this story first was made public by the Windsor Star, which said his sister in Windsor and his wife, Mrs. Betty Foster of Detroit, had learned only a few months before, when Foster visited Windsor on embarkation leave, that he was alive.)

Foster explained his meagre and unsuspecting part in the story this way: He left home in 1936, hitch-hiked to Montreal and found a job with Canadian National Steamships. He sailed with that company until August, 1942, when he traveled to Montreal from Boston and enlisted. Last March he visited Windsor, saw his old friends (much to their astonishment) and visited his wife in Detroit. Shortly after, he went overseas.

He said when he first heard that he was supposed to have drowned, he accepted it as a joke and did nothing to refute it.

(Windsor police said October 9 they had seen Mrs. Foster who told them she had identified as her husband "in good faith" the body taken from the Detroit river, and did not know he was alive until he visited her last March. She said that the insurance company which paid her death claim had since written to her, and that she had replied she was working in Detroit and would return the insurance money in instalments.

(L. R. MacTavish, acting crown attorney at Windsor, said at that time a thorough investigation was being made into the case.)

Tpr. Foster, who is about 44 years old, is a veteran of the First Great War. His next-of-kin is listed as George Foster, a brother living in Dorchester, Mass.

Long Fight Ahead

Sixty Planes Riddled Over Rabaul

2 More Warships Destroyed In Air Offensive

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 20. — (AP).—Medium bombers, flying so low that pursuing Zeros inadvertently dipped wings in the sea and crashed, have destroyed 60 more planes and sunk two more warships at the Japanese key base of Rabaul.

This second air pounding within a week of the New Britain fortress to which the enemy's New Guinea and Solomons defences are hinged was announced to-day by Headquarters. But a spokesman also disclosed Japanese troops have gone over to the offensive against the Australians in the Finschaffen, New Guinea, area.

The attack Monday on Rabaul heaped new destruction on the 177 enemy planes demolished or damaged and the three warships sunk in the 350-ton bombing assault of Oct. 12.

In addition to blasting Rabaul, on the northeast tip of the island, Allied bombers also struck the Cape Hoskins airdrome midway along the north coast and the Cape Gloucester field on the western tip.

Japs Make Gains.

Across narrow Dampier strait from Cape Gloucester, Japanese troops achieved "some progress," an Allied spokesman said, in a drive southeastward from Satteiberg toward Finschhafen, 15 miles away. Finschhafen was captured by Australians Oct. 2. Sunday the Japanese also tried to land from three barges near Finschhafen but two of the barges were sunk and to-day Headquarters said the troops which succeeded in landing had been wiped out.

The bombers flew alone in bad weather Monday but they surprised the Japanese with the same tree-top and mast height tactics they employed in the Oct. 2 attack in which they were escorted.

In the resultant sky battles, 24 Japanese were shot down and three bombers were lost. The other 36 enemy planes were destroyed on the ground at the Rapopo and Tobera airfields.

A destroyer and gunboat were the warships sunk. A 6,000-ton cargo boat also went down and another of similar size and a Corvette were damaged severely. A heavy bomber patrolling off Kavieng, New Ireland, bombed and sank an 8,000-ton transport crowded with troops.

Signals Band To Boost Victory Loan

COBOURG, Oct. 20 — (ENS)— When the Royal Canadian Corps of Signals Brass Band visits Cobourg on Friday and Saturday, the people of Cobourg will have an opportunity to again see and hear for the first time in two years, one of the finest military musical aggregations in Canada. Under the baton of W.O. 1. Cruickshanks, who trained as a boy at Kneller Hall, a noted and famous English school of music, this band will be he guest of the town under the auspices of the National War Finance Committee for Northumberland county.

The visit of this band to Cobourg has a special significance in that seven of the bandsmen are Cobourg boys who received their early training in the Cobourg Kiltie band under Bandmaster J. H. Goldring. They are: Alf Carter and Bill Juby, clarinetists; the horn section which is strictly Cobourg, Bill Medhurst and Harry Carter; E. Cowin and Bert Cowin, trumpet players and trombonist Art Hilliard.

From the time the Signal Corps band arrives in Cobourg at 4 o'clock on Friday until they leave Saturday night, the townspeople will have numerous opportunities to see and hear them perform. Just after their arrival in Cobourg, the band will make its first appearance in a short march from the armouries along King street to College street to the town hall where they will be accorded a civic welcome by Mayor J. D. Burnett.

Play For Dance

On Friday evening the dance band section will provide the music at a Victory Loan dance being held at the Ontario Hospital auditorium. Farmers Work Sundays Face Charges

TORONTO, Oct. 20. — Because wartime labour shortage forced them to work on Sunday to get their carrots and celery crops in before the ground froze, three York Township farmers and their 30 helpers will appear in court next Wednesday under charges laid by York Township police.

The charges were laid Sunday, Oct. 10, under an act of 1845 forbidding carrying on of weekday work on Sundays, according to V. S. Milburn, secretary of the Ontario Federation of Agriculture, quoting James C. Hay, assistant law clerk in the Ontario Department of Agriculture. Defendants are W. J. Smith, W. C. Mason and J. Rennie, who occupy neighboring farms in the valley at the foot of Eglinton Ave.

Twenty-two workers, most of them from Toronto offices and war plants, had pulled 1,000 bushels of carrots on Mr. Smith's farm before police arrived, Mr. Smith told The Globe and Mail last night.

"I wasn't doing it for more money," Mr. Smith said. "I'm well fixed financially. But, under war conditions, there's a terrible shortage of labor on week-days. We have to rely on help from office workers over the week-end to bring in the crops before the freeze-up ruins them," he declared.

"I don't like working Sundays, and I never have before," he continued. "But last year I lost thousands of bushels of vegetables from not getting them out of the ground on time. My carrot crop runs to 40,000 bushels a year—it's a large volume of stuff to be lifted, and there's no weekday help to do it," he said.

Sought Advance Advice

"I phoned Rev. George Webber, general secretary of the Lord's Day Alliance, the day before the Sunday I wanted to work," Mr. Smith said. "He was away, but Mrs. Webber said that wartime has made many exceptions for Sunday work, and she was sure it would be all right. And growers out at Dixie tell me they do more work Sundays than any other day, because they have more help," he asserted.

"What I like least about the whole thing, apart from the necessity of getting in the crops no matter what day it is, is that 30 other people have to leave their jobs to appear in court," he added. "I don't think that's patriotic."

Police asked for "the Smith gang," but seeing a few men at work at the two neighboring farms, laid charges against Mr. Mason and Mr. Rennie as well, Mr. Smith said. "Their workers were crating celery. It froze that night, and if they hadn't worked that day, they would have lost hundreds of bushels," he declared.

When further investigations have been completed by the local director of the Vegetable Growers' Association, the Ontario Federation of Agriculture will decide whether or not to take action, Mr. Milburn said last night.

"The food situation is desperate—more desperate than people realize," he commented. "Knowing the importance of getting food, and the difficulties of getting labor, thousands of farmers have taken advantage of good weather on Sundays by enlisting the help of citizens who work elsewhere during the week," he said.

"Jails Not Big Enough."

"There wouldn't be jails big enough to hold the farmers who have been working Sundays," he said. "In a group of milk producers I saw today, every man said he didn't like to work Sundays, but he had to do it. One said he took advantage of good weather to bring in 22 acres of corn; another got office help to gather tomatoes for canning before they rotted in the field," he added.

"One man asked me: 'What's going to happen to the dairymen? I'd like to be able to breed a cow that only gave milk six days a week'," Mr. Milburn asserted. "Dairymen don't like to work Sundays, but they have to."

"I don't know when the Act was made, but it forbids the carrying on of regular occupations on Sundays," said Chief Constable Robert Alexander, York township police. "That's why we laid charges." He refused to make further comment.

COBOURG, Oct. 20 — (ENS)— Judgment in favor of Keith Ormiston and co-plaintiff Ross Stevens of Bowmanville was given by the jury at the sittings of Supreme Court yesterday. Ormiston was granted $355 and Stevens $1,080. The defendant was Lorne Stevens of Bowmanville. The action was the result of a motor accident.

The case, Luxton vs. Luxton, a dispute between members of the same family in connection with a promissory note, was settled out of court with judgment going in favor of the plaintiff according to the minutes of settlement.

Grand Jury Report

Following was the presentment of the grand jury at the close of the sittings of Supreme Court:

"The gaol of the counties was inspected and we found things quite satisfactory. The prisoners were interviewed and they had no complaints. We suggest, however, that paint be supplied to paint one corridor every year. We also recommend a coil for the furnace to heat water, so that the jacke-heater would not be used in the winter and thereby save coal.

"The House of Refuge was visited and things were found to be satisfactory. The 108 inmates appear to be happy and well-cared for. We noted that there was only one half-ton of hard coal for the cooking purposes of this institution which hardly seems adequate.

"Everything in the Ontario Hospital was in excellent condition and the treatment accorded the patients was kind and considerate. We feel that Dr. Kidd and his staff are doing good work. We were taken through the Girls' Training School and it was apparent that this institution is under excellent supervision. At the present time there are seventy inmates in this school.

"We would recommend a floor covering for the grand jury room."

Hospitalized Soldiers To Get Extra Parcels

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 20 (ENS) —Parcels for hospitalized soldiers are in the forefront of the news in so far as the local branch of the Red Cross is concerned. According to an announcement made following their meeting yesterday an effort is being made to learn the names of all wounded soldiers from the district with a view to sending them comfort bags at Christmas.

The present capacity of five packing depots is 100,000 parcels a week and 70,000 of these are being supplied each week to British and Canadian prisoners. The financing of these is almost 50 per cent done by the Canadian Red Cross which pays for 30,000 of them, while the Australian Red Cross pay for 6,000 a week and the British Red Cross 34,000 a week.

In addition to food parcels, 2 million cigarettes per month are being sent to the Geneva pool to take care of Canadian prisoners. A large number of capture parcels are also sent as well as medicines, special invalid food comforts, clothing, games, books, and musical instruments. Recently 100 complete sets of band instruments were sent, and these were purchased at a cost of nearly $50,000 in funds raised by the Junior Red Cross.

2 WAYS TO MAKE PRECIOUS JELL-O and JELL-O PUDDINGS Go Farther

UNFORTUNATELY, due to wartime conditions, no housewife is getting all the Jell-O and Jell-O Puddings she would like to get. But when you are able to get either, you are sure of satisfaction. Use them carefully and make them go as far as possible. Here are two ideas to help you.

TWO GRAND DESSERTS—limited in supply just now, but unchanged in quality.

JELL-O CUBES WITH CUSTARD

2 cups hot water
1 cup custard sauce
1 package JELL-O (Strawberry, Raspberry or Cherry)

Dissolve Jell-O in hot water. Turn into shallow pan. Chill until firm. Cut in cubes. Pile cubes lightly in sherbert or parfait glasses. Pour custard sauce over the cubes of shimmering Jell-O. Serves 6 to 8.

Easy, isn't it? And here's an idea for Jell-O Puddings:

JELL-O TRIFLE

1 package JELL-O PUDDING
(any flavor, but vanilla is specially good)
6 or 7 squares plain cake
Home-made jam

Prepare Jell-O Pudding as directed on the package. Spread top of each square of cake with jam. Place squares of cake in individual dessert dishes. When pudding is cool, pour over cake and chill.

This recipe gives 6 or 7 servings of as delightful a dessert as you ever tasted. You can thank the unvarying quality of Jell-O Puddings for that full, rich flavor—that smooth, creamy consistency.

The Canadian Merit Medal

We think that most Canadians will approve the establishment of a Canada Medal, to be awarded "for meritorious service above and beyond the faithful performance of duty". The Examiner is glad to see such an award founded, because we think that orders and decorations have a well-defined and useful place in our democracy, just as our monarchy has, and because we think that the request once addressed to the King that he should not decorate Canadians with titles and orders was a churlish and foolish one, and should be retracted—as indeed it was during the regime of the Hon. R. B. Bennett.

Already, however, there is a tendency to speak of the new award as "the Canadian Order of Merit". It is nothing of the kind, and this error should be nipped in the bud. The Order of Merit is a British decoration, carrying special precedence, and confined to 24 members and a very few foreign members. It is generally given to men whose service and distinction would be ill-rewarded by a knighthood, but who, for one reason or another, do not wish to become peers. Lloyd George has the Order of Merit, and so has the Poet Laureate; these men are clearly of greater distinction than the majority of Knights, but they would perhaps lose some of their special character if they became Lord Carnarvon or Baron Masefield. The Order of Merit is one of the most precious decorations in the gift of the Sovereign, and one of the highest honours to which a British subject may aspire. It is also, it must be noticed, one of the few honours suitable for presentation to great artists, authors and playwrights.

Our Canadian Merit Medal will doubtless be fairly freely distributed, and there will soon be several hundred C.Ms. in the Dominion. Our medal will carry its own aura of distinction, but we must not confuse it with the Order of Merit, which is a very different thing.

Post-War Economic Controls

It is possible for us in Canada to benefit from the political discussions of our allies, and to pick their brains for a solution of our own problems. We shall do well to listen closely to the discussions now going on in Britain on the subject of post-war economic controls. There are those who think that all controls should be abandoned as soon as the victory is won, and there are others who think that the controls should not be relaxed, but increased, in order to hasten the coming of the socialist state. But the middle-of-the-road view is that we shall have to keep our controls in effect for some time after the war, relaxing them gradually as national and international trade adjusts itself to the new condition of the world.

In Britain the most prominent exponent of the moderate view is Herbert Morrison, the Home Secretary and Minister of Home Security; Mr. Morrison is prominent in the Labour party and may well be its next leader. When the war is over, he says, Britain will be a weary nation. "Controls and rationing will seem to be part of the grim and gloomy memory of war. The promise of peace will seem to beckon away from these things toward the visionary prospect of relief and freedom". But if the controls and the rationing are hastily discarded, what will be the result? Mr. Morrison sets forth his opinion very clearly in these words:

> "What we need to understand is that, if we are to avoid social and economic catastrophe after the war, we shall have to continue this system of control, subject, as it may be, to suitable and sensible modifications for as long as abnormal conditions persist.
> "The alternative to control is that the man with the long purse will bring home the bacon. In times of economic difficulty, if the Government is silent, money talks.
> "If the community does not keep a firm hold on the economic system through public action, folks with money will get in first. The demand for luxury building and luxury goods will take precedence over the demand for necessities. Prices will rise. The wrong industries will get a start in the race. Export trades will be crowded out. We shall be well on our way to ruin and chaos again."

The dispute about the maintenance of post-war controls has been going on in Canada for some time. Our problem will be substantially the same as that facing Britain—to make sure that in the scramble for post-war trade the right industries are given a chance to re-establish themselves before work of lesser importance takes the field. By "right" industries, of course, is understood those upon which the economic welfare of the nation chiefly depends.

Most people, we think, realize the need for maintaining economic controls during a post-war period of reconstruction. What we must guard against, however, is any attempt to maintain controls merely because someone thinks that Canada would be easier to run that way. Our eventual aim is to rid ourselves of controls, and although we do not want to do so with a haste which might be injurious to the national well-being, we must never lose sight of that goal, however persuasively controllers may talk to us.

India Needs Our Help

For several weeks there has been severe famine in the Bengal area of India. Famine is an old story in that huge country, and whenever it strikes millions of people of the poorer classes die of starvation, with every attendant circumstance of misery and degradation. Help, if it is to be effective, must be on an enormous scale. It is reported that at present the Calcutta Rotary Club is feeding 1,000 people a day—a tremendous effort for one organization—but what are 1,000 when millions are without resource of any kind? The American Red Cross is doing what it can, but its efforts are a drop in the bucket.

Assistance is necessary at once, and many Canadians will wish to know whether our country is going to do anything about it. We have stores of wheat which would do much to help the Indians, if we could get it to them. Transport is the real problem in efforts of this kind. Australia, which is nearer to India but quite as badly handicapped for ships as Canada, has already sent several cargoes of food and supplies, and has promised that more will follow. Is Canada going to do anything in this emergency?

Let those who are tempted to dismiss the whole matter as no concern of ours reflect that in the present war the effectiveness of the British Commonwealth is, to some degree, on trial. The Germans have aspersed our good faith, and among our allies the United States has not been backward in saying that our interest in India is a wholly selfish one; if we are to disprove these charges we cannot let Indians starve while we have bursting granaries.

If it is in any way possible, with the shipping situation as it stands, we should give immediate and substantial aid to India.

Inter-Allied Squabbling

The grumbling of the five U.S. senators who toured the battle-fronts and found so much to displease them has started a lively little squabble between Britain and the U.S. It is not important, but it is heated. Opinions differ in the matter; we feel that the senators were looking for things to complain of, and of course they found them. Other observers, better-informed than they, have covered the same ground and have seen no reason to complain. Mr. Willkie did not feel it necessary to asperse the motives of Britain when he returned from his tour: Miss Dorothy Thompson has seen all that the senators saw and she is not alarmed. The senators would not have been so greatly alarmed if they had travelled more. If they started on their journey fed full with the idea that their country was carrying on the war almost single-handed, and had the final say in all matters concerning the war, and was the only country in the world with post-war aims, it is not surprising that they had a rude awakening. Their error lay in expressing their enlightenment in decidedly ungracious terms.

President Roosevelt's comment on the uproar is, "In one sense it's a damned nuisance, and in another sense it's probably a good thing". Winston Churchill, speaking in London, referred to "the example of some countries which I would not venture to name, where the soldiers are fighting abroad and the politicians are fighting at home with equal vigour and ferocity".

One of the permanent results of the squabble, we fear, may be its prolongation of the belief—not uncommon even in Canada—that lease-lend is a purely American affair, and that Uncle Sam is being made a sucker by cleverer and shiftier peoples. That is utterly without foundation, and well-informed Americans know it. Let no one be deceived by that sort of self-pitying, and grossly inaccurate, nonsense.

NOTE AND COMMENT

The railings which used to be around Hyde Park in London have been made into sixteen anti-aircraft guns. They still say "Keep Out".

A Competition In Democracy

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

THE English-speaking peoples appear to be convinced that there will be great changes for the better after this war. That there will be changes, no one can doubt: that they will be for the better is a more debatable point. They will only be for the better if enough people determine to make them so, and if enough people make up their minds as to what really is "better." We have been forced into a war with the Axis powers, and as they are clearly fighting for totalitarianism we have declared ourselves to be fighting for its opposite, which we call democracy. Now there is not much doubt as to what totalitarianism is, but there are very few people who have a comprehensive notion of democracy. It has, indeed, been turned into one of those useful and vague words which any one of us can use to describe what he himself approves of. Socialists are convinced that socialism is a high form of democracy, although it is clear enough that socialism is totalitarian. Capitalists say that capitalism is democracy, although it is quite clear that capitalism creates many artificial inequalities between man and man. Democracy, indeed, is in a fair way to become a discredited word.

NOT the least disturbing circumstance in this connection is the competition which is growing up between Great Britain and the United States—a competition not in trade, but in democracy. The two countries seem to be vying with each other to see which shall be the more democratic after the war. So far as I can determine, they are neck and neck at present. The U.S. may be said to have a verbal advantage. For a century and more it has told the world that it is a democratic state, and the world has accepted it at its own valuation. But it is obvious that many conditions exist in the U.S. which are far from democratic, and that it has an aristocracy, a peasantry and a number of striking inequalities. Britain has disadvantages which correspond to this. It acknowledges the existence of an aristocracy and a peasantry and does not care much about abolishing these. But Britain has certain advantages over the U.S. in the democratic race. Its social services are more closely co-ordinated, it has no virtually disenfranchised groups (like the southern negroes), and its parliamentary form of government and its constitutional monarchy provide a more supple governmental system than the republican machinery of the U.S. Britain will not lose the democratic race by deeds, but she may well be out-talked by her voluble ally.

BUT Britain is developing her own talkers. Sir William Beveridge has talked and written to great advantage, and whatever we may think of his Report it is undeniably the result of a desire for a better state. Professor Laski talks all the time in books, lectures and in the remorselessly indignant columns of "The New Statesman and Nation." J. B. Priestley also talks, over the BBC, in books, and in magazines. In the latest copy of "Britain"—a little magazine published chiefly for consumption in the U.S.—he has an article called "It Won't Be Pre-War Britain." Obviously it won't, but Priestley is shy of telling us what it will be, or even hinting at what he wants. Change for its own sake is not necessarily good, and few of the prophets of the post-war world have told of any definite desires of their own which would be certain to improve on the past. The past was rotten in many respects, but the post-war planners do not seem to be planning for anything more definite than a new set of mistakes.

IT IS a truism that all reform begins with the individual, and like most truisms nobody pays any attention to it. The belief that the war has been a refiner's fire from which the English-speaking nations will emerge as pure gold, with all their dross purged away, is sheer nonsense. There is too much dross, and though dross may glow in the fire, it turns dull and heavy as soon as the fire abates. Says Priestley: "I am confident that the worst features of.... pre-war life, the shocking extremes of wealth and poverty, the dingy decaying industrialism, the widespread apathy and inertia, the outworn gentleman-with-private-income tradition, the greedy imperialism of a small acquisitive class, will have gone for good." How pleasant it would be to agree with this, but who can dismiss the questions: Will the people who made these things possible all be dead, or will they be entirely reformed, or will they be in prison? No, they will not. All reform is a struggle with human nature, and human nature does not change suddenly, nor is it ever unrelievedly good. Advances there will certainly be in the post-war world, and extensions of the idea of democracy in some of its aspects, but hopes for a violent change are bound to be disappointed, and no violent means will bring them about. "The more revolution, the less change"; there is another truism for the competing democracies to chew on.

More Small Fruits

This year, with its scarcity of fruit, has served to impress on many Albertans that we are not growing nearly so much of our own fruit requirements as we could.

A Didsbury farmer, from his strawberry patch of not more than 50 feet square, this year picked 53 crates or 636 pounds of strawberries. That shows what can be done.

Certain cherries and plums can, it is proven by Brooks horticultural experimental farm experience, be grown to a much greater extent than most of us know. It may be that commercial growing of fruits in south Alberta will never be practicable, but the farm family should grow much of what is needed for the farm table, as the Didsbury farmer showed this year to be quite possible.—Lethbridge Herald.

Note of Correction

At the risk of seeming churlish, may one offer a mild reproof to the Ministry of Food for helping to perpetuate a common error? In one of its recent instructions it referred to a dish which it called "Welsh Rarebit." There is, of course, no such dish, though there is a delicacy, made by melting cheese on toast, called a Welsh Rabbit. This favourite dish is named on the same principle as the Scotch Woodcock, which is made with eggs and anchovies; or Whitechapel Pheasant, which is a bloater; or Essex Duck, which is another name for a sheep's head. And when a poached egg is laid on top of the cheese the dish becomes a Buck Rabbit. But with eggs at their present rarity that species of Welsh rabbit is almost as extinct as the dodo.

At the Centre of Empire

(By DOUG HOW, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Oct. 19 (CP)—The streets were full. The pubs were emptied of their drinkers of beer and their singers of song.

The biggest show in town was rolling across the skies and the people flouted the shrapnel to watch because this was a show that didn't cost a farthing, there was room for all and our side was going all out.

London hadn't seen the beat of this in months. This was a night replete with bombs and casualties and three enemy planes destroyed.

The Londoner over his breakfast or on the bus or the underground would read next day about the barrage and the three planes and he would smile. He liked that.

He'd stood out there in the streets last night and peered into the heavens and watched the searchlights and the gunfire and he's probably thought about the blitz. He wouldn't have stood out there then. We were losing then.

Now we weren't losing. We'd grown up since the blitz. We'd got tough. We had so many guns now we could argue over the beers whether the neighbourhood ack-ack fire came from the roof of that apartment house down the street or from the park a few blocks away.

And he got a bang out of just standing there in the streets, the Londoners did. Those were friendly skies, our skies again, because the bully of 1940 was inheriting his reward.

Three planes down. Well, he'd seen one, he'd wondered whether the blighter would get away. Twenty searchlights at least had him so he looked like the crest of a giant maypole which swayed in the night.

When the guns got him everybody had cheered, he remembered, a throaty, spontaneous cheer which echoed along the street and vanished into the caverns that had been windows and the rubble that had been a home.

Then, just before he went back to his neglected beer, a new roar had stirred the distorted symphony of this night. The guns had stopped over parts of the city.

He had argued this turn with the rest. And here the paper proved him right.

The monsters, our four-engined monsters, had disturbed the show for a time, but not for long. They had business of their own. They were heading east.

With the Greek Poets

SAPPHO'S fragments are redolent of flowers; her woven verse, a "rich-red chlamys" in the sunshine, has a silver sheen in the moonlight. We hear the full-throated passion of "the herald of the spring, the nightingale"; the breeze moves the apple boughs, the wind shakes the oak trees. Her allusions to "the hyacinths, darkening the ground, when trampled under foot of shepherds"; the "fine, soft bloom of grass, trodden by the tender feet of Cretan women as they dance"; or the "golden pulse growing on the shore,"—all these seem inevitable to one who has seen the acres of bright flowers that carpet the islands or the nearby littoral of the Asian coast. Her comparison of a bridegroom to a "supple sapling" recalls how Nausicaa, vigorous, tall, and straight as the modern athletic maiden, is likened by Odysseus to the "young shaft of a palm tree" that he had once seen "springing up in Delos by Apollo's altar." In her Lesbian orchards the sweet quince-apple is still left hanging "solitary on the topmost bough, upon its very end"; and there is heard "cool murmuring through apple boughs while slumber floateth down from quivering leaves."...."The Graces," she says, "turn their faces from those who wear no garlands." And at banquets wreaths were an essential also for masculine full-dress....Against the green background passes Evadne with her silver pitcher and her girdle of rich crimson woof, and her child is seen "hidden in the rushes of the thicket unexplored, his tender flesh all steeped in golden and deep purple light from pansy flowers."

To follow through the poetry of the Greeks the unfailing delight in the radiance of the moon would be to follow her diurnal course as she passes over Greek lands from east to west. The full moon looked down on all the Olympian festivals and Pindar's pages are illuminated with her glittering argentry. — From "Greek Lands and Letters," by Francis Greenleaf Allinson and Anne C. E. Allinson. (Boston: Houghton Mifflin.)

Helicopters in New York

Among the many uses of the helicopter which become apparent as this interesting aircraft develops, another was brought out the other day by its designer, Igor I. Sikorsky, at the meeting of the New York section of the Institute of Aeronautical Sciences. This is the evacuation of wounded men from difficult terrain. Motion pictures of the new army-type helicopter, a two-man machine, clearly established its adaptability to such service. Over thick jungle country, for example, it can stand still in the air, lower medical assistance by rope-ladder, and thus render invaluably prompt first aid.

Although development work for the armed services naturally is of a confidential character, Mr. Sikorsky was able to indicate that speeds of about 140 to 150 miles an hour might be expected of his unique machine. He again made it clear that the helicopter is not expected to supplant the large airplane, but that its inherent abilities to fly slowly, to stand still in the air, to move in any direction, including straight up and down, offer possibilities not only for such military service as anti-submarine patrol, reconnaissance, the landing of "hell-troopers" rather than paratroopers, but for many types of civilian flying—New York Times.

Against Loose Talk

A phase of our war effort of which not many people are aware but which nevertheless is of vi[illegible]mportance, is the work of the Security In[illegible]ence Branch of the combined service, Pa[illegible] Command. The average citizen, in all like[illegible]ood, has his only contact with this work through reading certain advertisements which from time to time have appeared in the daily press, carrying the general injunction, "Cut the Cackle."

One of the jobs of Security Intelligence is to secure the co-operation of the public with the armed forces eliminating gossip dangerous to the safety of our soldiers, sailors and airmen and to the state generally in war. In doing so they have secured the co-operation of commercial organizations which are sponsoring advertisements in the press.

Work of this sort, no matter how ably directed depends in the end on the intelligent co-operation of the public. But it is excellent and worthy work and the public can play its part by remembering that loose talk may cost lives and battles. —Vancouver Sun.

Cripps Gives Warning

To those of us who share the responsibilities of the Factory Front here at home this lightening of our anxieties should bring a fresh determination to put our very greatest efforts into war production. We must not allow over-optimism to sap our strength. Our efforts are more liable to be undermined by success than by failure. Failure and even disaster only redoubled our determination in 1940. We must not let our successes do what our reverses could not do: that is, help the enemy by lessening our output when the need is greater than ever.

There are still long months of the hardest fighting in front of us all. The call upon us for weapons and especially for aircraft is more insistent than ever. It would be treachery to our country and to our fighting men if, because we thought the prospects brighter we were in any degree to slack off and so to fail them. I want to warn all my friends and comrades in the aircraft industry against this insiduous danger of over-optimism. The war is a long way from over as yet. Long trials lie ahead of us. We must not let up for a moment until victory over the Nazis and the Japanese is finally secured. (From a Broadcast by Sir Stafford Cripps, British Minister of Air Production.)

A Bible Message

Know ye not, that so many of us as were baptized into Jesus Christ were baptized into his death? Therefore we are buried with him by baptism into death: that like as Christ was raised up from the dead by the glory of the Father, even so we also should walk in newness of life. For if we have been planted together in the likeness of his death, we shall be also in the likeness of his resurrection. (Rom. 6: 3-5.)

Behold, I shew you a mystery: We shall not all sleep, but we shall all be changed, in a moment, in the twinkling of an eye, at the last trump: for the trumpet shall sound, and the dead shall be raised incorruptible, and we shall be changed. (I Cor. 15: 51, 52.)

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches: To him that overcometh will I give to eat of the tree of life, which is in the midst of the paradise of God. (Rev. 2: 7.)

Letter To The Editor

"WHO IS A CANADIAN."

Sir,—Examiner of Thursday, September 23, just received, and was interested in editorial "Who Is a Canadian?" This must be a matter of concern to many who, like myself, have moved from Canada to another part of the Empire, and though entering through regular immigration channels ascertain one has to apply once a year for five years to retain Canadian domicile (in my case after living 32 years in Canada and 24 in England). Also have to reside in Bermuda for 7 years (with government permission) before one can become a Bermudian.

In the closing paragraph of editorial it is suggested Canadian Government deal with problem, "Who Is a Canadian?"

Don't you think the better plan would be that Canada refer the matter to an Imperial Conference or to Dominions and Colonial Offices? My suggestion: There be framed a recipocal agreement by which a Britisher or one born in any Dominion or Colony would, on regular entry to any part of the Empire, become entitled to be a citizen of that country while there, and also be eligible to full rights on return to original homeland. This is a heart-burning problem to many from Canada now resident in Bermuda who were ignorant of the law as to Canadian domicile, and are now without a country!

The Examiner would be doing a worthwhile effort if it could interest the proper government authority to initiate some such move, not only for ex-Canadians but for others of British stock who for various reasons have emigrated from their original abode.—Yours truly,

ALFRED O. PHILLIPS.

Hamilton, Bermuda.

Price of Wheat

Consider now the position of Canada as a wheat producer which, in war-time and for war reasons, has decided to pay at least $1.25 a bushel to her wheat farmers. Is this price to be maintained in the world scheme that is to be set up on the morrow of victory?

Is Canada to sit down to co-operate with the other nations of the world on the basis of demanding that the world which wants to eat Canadian wheat is to pay $1.25 a bushel for it? Or is the Canadian taxpayer to continue to pay the $1.25 and the government arrange to see that the wheat gets to where it is most needed at a smaller price, the taxpayers absorbing the deficit?

We raise these questions without attempting ourselves at this time to answer them. But it is important that they should be fully and carefully considered by the farmers who receive the $1.25 and by the taxpayers who provide the money.—Winnipeg Free Press.

Rescue By Sea Off British Columbia Coast

Fast teamwork between air and sea rescue services of the R.C.A.F. made this picture possible. It was taken from a search aircraft and shows five members of an Anson bomber crew being rescued after crashing into the sea 60 miles off the British Columbia coast. They were but three hours in their rubber dinghy.

Lt. Jack Raine Claims Whales Excite Sub Detecting Apparatus

(A Canadian Press staff writer has just completed a voyage with a convoy travelling from a North Atlantic port to Canada. This is the first of three stories on the trip.)

By JOHN LEBLANC
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

AT SEA WITH A CONVOY, Oct. 20 (CP) — Action stations sounded. The strident clang of alarm bell echoed through every corner of the ship, tumbling sleeply-eyed men from bunks, signalling others to drop routine shipboard tasks and sending them all racing pell-mell for battle posts. In a matter of seconds the little escort ship was geared for instant attack for whatever lay underwater.

The black contact flag ran up the mast and fluttered there in the spanking breeze to warn the rest of the escort group, and the freighters of the convoy, that possible danger threatened.

Up in the asdic cabin the operator probing ceaselessly for sub-surface objects had picked up a contact through that sensitive instrument's electrical feelers. Some big body was coursing near us beneath the water.

On The Spot.

The Bangor escort cratf, on which this reporter was making a western Atlantic convoy run, heeled far over as she came about to point her nose in the direction of uncertain footing. She shook in every plate as the engine-room crew, in response to the bridge's call for speed, squeezed out the last revolution in the big reciprocating engines.

Across the intervening stretch of ruffled water, in the sparkling afternoon sunlight, the convoy could be seen getting set for a possible attack. From the bridge of the merchantman bearing the convoy commodore, lamp signals winked out to his little flock.

A couple of stragglers among the freighters, which had been idling along well out of their designated positions, hastily pulled up their socks. The coal was being poured to their boilers as they scurried to get back within the effective protecting range of the escorts.

On board our ship there was a look of happy anticipation on the faces of the men at the depth charges and the guns, and down the rows of ammunition passers leading from the guns to the magazines. Outside practices, this was their first call to action stations in two months.

Had Experience.

Action was not new to them, though. Earlier, they had engaged in a four-hour tussle with a submerged U-boat, dropping 15 "patterns" of depth charges on an intruder that threatened the convoy they were guarding. At the end of that series of jolting wallops the asdic could pick up the sub no longer. However, they did not claim credit for a kill.

Now, the prospect of another scrap brightened them. They watched the bridge eagerly for indications of the progress of the hunt as the Bangor, like a hound on the scent, nosed frantically to a dead stop to better catch any sound from below, then starting off at top speed in another direction.

The freighters, meanwhile, plodded on, keeping pre-arranged stations in perfect order.

But nothing, eventually, came of the alarm. The contact petered out after some time, and the convoy was unmolested.

Probably Whales.

"A school of whales, most likely," was the verdict of Lieut. Jack Raine of Peterborough, Ont., commander of the Bangor, as he came down from the bridge after all chance of immediate danger had been passed and the crew had been ordered to "secure action stations."

"You get them around these waters fairly often, and they're a nuisance," said the 32-year-old skipper, a veteran of four years of the war at sea.

But it was not put down as without worth, for vigilance pays off when the convoy is at sea. And the payoff comes when—as in the case of this convoy — the merchantmen are checked into the port at the end of the run, their numbers undiminished from the count at the start.

MARMORA

St. Andrew's Has Anniversary

MARMORA, Oct. 20 (ENS). — Anniversary services were held at St. Andrew's United Church on Sunday with Rev. Gordon N. Maxwell, B.A., B.D., of Campbellford delivering sermons at both of the services.

His text in the morning was "Follow Me and I will make fishers of men," while in the evening he discussed "The New Order." At the morning service the choir sang and Mrs. P. Fletcher joined Mrs. W. R. Hamilton in a duet.

Girls of the C.G.I.T. augmented by graduates of that organization made up a choir of twenty-three for the evening service to lead in the musical portion.

Next year the church will be observing its seventieth anniversary and St. Paul's Anglican Church will be marking its seventieth anniversary also.

Legion Membership Over Five Hundred

The Canadian Legion monthly meeting was held on Monday night with a good turnout of the members. President George Gimblett occupied the chair.

Peter Wallace, reporting on property, stated that any further alterations to the building have been suspended until next spring. Considerable changes have taken place this summer and the various rooms throughout the building are now in splendid shape.

Harold Yelland informed the meeting that 14 comrades had been visited since our last meeting and also that cigarettes had been forwarded to J. Airriess and Leo Fontaine confined to Christie Street Hospital.

On motion of Robert Hotrum a vote of thanks was passed to those who are helping at the various weekly entertainments. Eight new members were initiated, bringing the present membership over the five hundred mark.

An invitation was accepted to attend divine worship at Trinity United Church on November 7 at 11 a.m., and a parade will be held, with further particulars to be given later.

The Lady's Tough

CAMDEN, N.J., Oct. 20 — (AP).—Leaving a courtroom here, Mrs. Bessie Thomas, 61, gulped, grabbed her throat, and told Sheriff John F. Gorman she had swallowed 70 cents which was hidden in her mouth. X-ray examinations at a hospital showed the change in various parts of her body, and also three bullets. "I've been shot six or seven times," she said, off-handedly.

Murder Trial Now Underway

By E. V. W. JONES
Associated Press Staff Writer.

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 20 — (AP).—A housemaid told today how she innocently provided the insecticide used by Sir Harry Oakes' murderer in an unsuccessful attempt to burn the millionaire's body after he was beaten to death in a bedroom of his estate last July.

Mabel Ellis, domestic at the estate, was the first witness called as the trial of Alfred de Marigny, the son-in-law charged with killing Oakes, went into the second day.

In the prisoner's dock De Marigny wore a tie bought by his wife Nancy, Sir Harry's eldest daughter, especially for his courtroom appearances.

Jurors frequently consulted a floor plan of Westbourne, the estate, as the witness told of events before she left about 11 p.m. Chief Justice Sir Oscar Bedord Daly wrote down the testimony in longhand.

Maid Ellis said she served dinner to Sir Harry and three guests, and left them laughing and talking.

Before leaving, she said, she had prepared Sir Harry's bed for the night and placed inside the door a spray gun containing about half a pint of insecticide.

One of the guests, she said, was Harold G. Christie, who remained overnight at Westbourne, and found Sir Harry's body the next morning.

Questioning by Sir Oscar drew the information there is a bedchamber and bathroom between the rooms occupied by Sir Harry and Christie.

Try This Old Home-Mixed Cough Relief. Surprising!

Anyone Can Make It.
No Cooking. Big Saving.

You may not know it, but, in your own kitchen, and in just a moment, you can easily prepare a really surprising relief for coughs due to colds. It's old-fashioned—your mother probably used it—but for real results, it is hard to beat.

First, make a syrup by stirring 2 cups granulated sugar and one cup of water a few moments, until dissolved. No cooking needed. No trouble at all. Or you can use corn syrup or liquid honey, instead of sugar syrup.

Then get 2½ ounces of Pinex from any druggist. This is a special compound of proven ingredients, in concentrated form, well known for prompt action in throat and bronchial irritations.

Put the Pinex into a 16 ounce bottle, and add your syrup. Thus you make sixteen ounces of really splendid cough syrup, and you get about four times as much for your money. It never spoils, and children love it.

And for quick relief, it's splendid. It loosens the phlegm, soothes the irritated membranes, eases the soreness, makes breathing easy, and lets you get restful sleep. Just try it, and if not pleased, your money will be refunded.

To clean it, wring out an old thin sheet from warm water and press it into the folds, over the back and arms of your upholstered furniture. Beat it with a little stick, methodically and carefully. As the sheet soils, rinse it, wring it out and repeat the performance. Into the last rinse water put 2 tablespoons of Household Ammonia. This will brighten the colors and leave the furniture not as good as new of course but clean looking.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK, Oct. 20—(AP).—After appearing in two games, Bob Fenimore, the Oklahoma Aggies' 17-year-old freshman halfback, was called the best runner, best passer, best kicker and best pass defender the cowboys have had in some years. ...Then, not satisfied with all those superlatives, he came down with the worst charley horse the Aggies' athletic heads could remember any athlete suffering.

Quote, unquote:

Carl Hubbell (back home in Oklahoma): "When someone asks me where the Giants finished, I just tell him we finished in St. Louis and I was glad it was the end of the season."

Texas tall one:

You can blame Dick (Houston Chronicle) Freeman for publication of this yarn....Lieut. Lynn Bishop, former Arkansas U. tackle from Beeville, Tex., went hunting and or fishing in Alaska recently....He had just tied into an 18-inch rainbow trout when he saw two ducks approaching... Dropping his rod where he could hold it with one foot, Bishop grabbed a shotgun, downed the ducks with two shots, then resumed playing the trout....Just as he reeled in the fish, the ducks floated by and Bishop grabbed them....And to the amazed Eskimo soldier who accompanied him Bishop explained: "That is the way we usually do it in Texas."

Service Dept.:

Johnny Kelley, who was discharged from the United States army this summer, has won the National A.A.U. 20 and 25-kilometre running titles, the New England 15-kilometre crown and wants to go to San Francisco for the 30-kilo run in November....Wonder if he was let out because he couldn't march?

That was a thrilling finish in the $1,300 Weston Handicap which feature the program at Dufferin Park in Toronto yesterday. Nat Northwood's Teeworth came from away back to beat the favorite Tulachmore by an eyelash, with Mugwump third. Time for the eight furlongs was 2:01, over a heavy track.

The Schenectady fighter, Vinnie Vines, has come to a sudden halt in his fistic climb. Vines recently was stiffened by none other than Fritzie Zivic at Madison Square Garden. At the Broadway arena in New York last night Vines, at 151½, was knocked out in the fourth round by Ernest Robinson, 150, of New York.

Another young hockey player has left Niagara Falls in search of ice fame. Billy Whittet is accompanying Coach Johnny Mitchell of the Providence American League club to the minor league club's training camp at Hershey, Pa. Whittet has a substantial record in amateur hockey, including a term with the Philadelphia club of the Eastern United States Amateur Hockey League.

Ray Getliffe, the Stratford flash who played on the Montreal Canadiens' forward line in former years, has reversed his decision not to return to hockey this winter. Getliffe announced at Stratford yesterday that he is leaving shortly for the Canadiens training camp at St. Hyacinthe.

Referee Tossed Out Of Ring In Final Melee

Frank Tunney's weekly wrestling card at the Brock Street Arena wound up in a near riot last night when Gentleman Jack Clayborne went berserk at the end of his main bout battle with Palermo John Katan and fought Referee Maxwell, Katan, two other wrestlers, who tried to break up the melee, and Sergt. W. E. Wigg of the City Police Force, who was bowled over in the mixup.

The colored grappler tore his nickname of Gentleman Jack Clayborne into rags and tatters in the wild demonstration he staged after he had been disqualified by Referee Maxwell.

Katan took the first fall after 20 minutes with his favorite unconcious chin lock, despite protests from Clayborne that the Panther had clamped on the hold too low and was strangling him.

When the battlers came back atfer the rest the Black Comet tangled with Maxwell on a number of occasions when the official made him break several head locks and scissors holds. Clayborne was seeing more red all the time and the climax came when Katan on the receiving end of a series of punches from the colored star took refuge in the corner of the ring.

Clayborne kept pounding him as he crouched on the mat in the corner, and every time Referee Maxwell went to the rescue of the Palermo battler the negro grabbed him by the arm and flung him half way across the ring. Then he went back to pound Katan. Finally Maxwell had enough of being tossed around.

Running across the ring he raised Katan's arm to signify that he awarded the Panther the second fall and the match—and then the fireworks started.

Attacks Referee.

The maddened Clayborne rushed at the referee, picked him up and hurled him through the ropes. Then he felled Katan with a vicious swing and began to pummel his prostrate rival.

With the fans surging around the ring, most of them cheering madly for Clayborne, Al Bunny Dunlop and Mike Demetre, who had wrestled in the preliminary bout, went to the rescue of Katan and pulled the angry negro away from his opponent. Clayborne continued to battle like a madman, and when Sergt. Wigg climbed into the ring he was met with a shoulder slam from the fighting Black Flash that knocked him to the canvass.

Clayborne was finally subdued enough to give Referee Maxwell and Katan an opportunity to leave the ring. Then the Comet made a mad dash for the dressing-room, but he was intercepted en route by Irish Pat Flanagan, who managed to get him under control and to avert further trouble.

It was a tumultuous ending to a hard-fought bout. Katan had the edge in the early stages. His chin locks had the negro in trouble frequently and he also punished Clayborne with a few painful arm and toe holds. The Comet came back at him with several fast rallies that brought the crowd to its feet, but Katan weathered the storm on each occasion and finally clamped his chin lock hold on Clayborne and applied the pressure until the South African was limp as a rag. Then he lowered him to the canvas and flopped on him for the fall.

Clayborne protested the decision and when he saw he was getting nowhere with Referee Maxell he grabbed the official around the neck, tossed him to the mat, and strode out of the ring.

When the battle was resumed the negro tried to hand Katan some of his own medicine with a chin lock, but Maxwell made him break the hold, calling it a strangle and that was the start of the feud. From then on Clayborne did not seem to know whether he was fighting Katan, the referee, or both. Maxwell made him release Katan four or five times and the battle gradually worked up to the disqualification of the colored grappler at the 17 minute mark.

Plenty of Action.

There was lots of action in the other two bouts. In the semi-final Irish Pat Flanagan and Jan Gotch went 30 lively minutes to a draw. Gotch, who was added to the list of public enemies a week ago started off as if he had reformed since then, and for the first few minutes he was clean and fast in his methods. It was too good to last, however, and it wasn't long before he started kicking Flanagan in the back and slipping in the odd punch and gouge. On one occasion he tossed Flanagan out of the ring; but the Toronto Irishman came back as lively as even and nearly wound up the bout a few minutes afterward when he caught Gotch squarely with a perfect demonstration of his favorite mule kick. A little later when Flanagan took refuge outside the ropes after a series of wallops from Gotch, the latter tried to pull him back in again. The Irish battler suddenly launched a pile-driver from between the ropes that knocked Gotch half way across the ring, and jarred him from head to toe. Flanagan was doing the pressing when the final bell sounded and he had his rival in bad shape.

Dunlop Wins One.

Al Bunny Dunlop was too powerful for Mike Demetre, the Montreal Greek wrestler in the preliminary, but the grappler from the Canadian metropolis put up quite a battle before he finally succumbed. The Toronto strong man made it tough for him all the way, but Demetre wasn't always on the receiving end. He handed

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Turk Broda incident, because of the fame of the central figure and the unusual celerity with which selective service officials went into action is likely to cause repercussions in a lot of places. One of these should be the headquarters of the Canadian Army where is should be somebody's business to see that officers in that army who have not learned after more than four years that they are supposed to be actively engaged in running a war are firmly reminded of their duty. The country is being mobilized just now in behalf of the Victory Loan under the apt slogan "Speed the Victory." Unfortunately there seems to be in the military setup a percentage of officers who apparently think that the victory to be speeded up is to be won in the hockey arenas of the Dominion rather than on foreign fields. No one objects to sport for soldiers; in fact practically everybody approves of it but what the majority of folk are asking now is that soldier athletes should be primarily soldiers and that they should not be kept out of the firing line because of their athletic ability. There is a firm conviction in the minds of many people, especially among the parents of boys overseas that able-bodied hockey players have been kept out of overseas drafts and shoved into staff jobs to hold them in Canada for the benefit of some army hockey outfit. And there is growing resentment over such a condition of affairs. If the army heads are reading Canadian sporting pages these days they should be able to find plenty of signs of that resentment.

* * * * * *

The Canadian Press for example speaks of "reports of enlisted hockey players remaining in Canada season after season while other less athletically-gifted men move to the fighting fronts." The Examiner published a story from Kingston yesterday as to the players turning out with the army team there. It throws a lot of light upon the condition referred to in that paragraph. There are some well known names in the list. Perc. Nicholls who played with the Petes two seasons ago when he was a soldier at the local camp, was with Kingston last season, was moved here near the close of the season and played a few games with the local outfit, was then turned down by the O.H.A. and moved out of here again by the military authorities, has turned up for a new season with the Kingston Soldiers. So has Hub Macey who was with Kingston in last winter's campaign and who like Nicholls was in Peterborough for a short time and then was waved on by the army. Jerry Cooper who formerly played with Whitby against the Petes and who was with the Ottawa Commando army team last winter is still fighting the military hockey wars as a candidate for the Kingston team. So is Latoski, the centre ice star of the Cornwall Army team a year ago and still wearing the army uniform as a centre possibility for the Kingston military outfit. Bill Booth, the defence player, has moved a little closer to the firing line since last season. He was a member of the Calgary army team a year ago and now lines up with the Hamill team. How many of these men and many others in the same position elsewhere are fit for the front line this column can't begin to guess but the feeling is strong that if they are fit they shouldn't be kept in Canada for another season while other fellows who cannot skate or shoot a hockey puck skilfully are named for overseas drafts. And if they're not fit why should they be kept in the army at the country's expense with hockey as their principal duty when they might be more usefully employed somewhere else?

The Papers Speak Out

The general situation in regard to military hockey players is causing newspapers to speak right out in meeting. For instance W. L. Clark of the Windsor Daily Star says: "Hockey has started this season with another star player being picked off the train by Mounted Police to make sure he reported at the right place for military duty. A lot of lads who never starred in sports are playing a stellar role over there where more than pucks are flying around." And J. P. Fitzgerald, veteran sports editor of the Telegram after quoting the Canadian Press paragraph printed above says: "Whether there are any such athletes this column is not in a position to know but if there are it requires no mind-reader to know that the reaction of the men on the fighting fronts goes a lot farther than just not "taking kindly" to the idea. In fact the word 'contempt' would fit much better." And then the dean of Toronto sports scribes says: "After all this Broda case would not be considered any cause celebre nor would anybody outside the squabbling army teams of Montreal and Toronto care a hoot where the Turk played, provided he and other hockey soldiers were military men first, with hockey as a sideline."

* * * * * *

Jim Coleman sports commentator of the Globe and Mail says the Army authorities might clear the air by announcing that Broda will not play any hockey this winter. We hardly agree with that but the Coleman article is interesting, nevertheless. Here it is: "Judging from the mail that has reached this desk since the week-end, three questions are uppermost in the mind of the public: 1. Do the Selective Service officials maintain an hour-by-hour check on ALL civilians who have been ordered to report for military service? If not, how did they know that Broda was planning to leave for Montreal? 2. What inducements were offered to Broda to join the Army in Montreal instead of joining at Toronto? 3. If any inducements were made, who made them? The Department of National Defense has made it abundantly clear before this that it resents any sportive suggestions or criticism from civilian quarters, but one thing seems quite obvious to most people: The Army can obviate a lot of criticism by announcing immediately that Broda will play no hockey this winter—regardless of where he is stationed. And, for that matter, it wouldn't be a bad idea to bar from athletic competitions any athletes who have been transferred to new military districts within recent months."

* * * * * *

Calls For Explanation

Chick Appel, sports columnist of the Stratford Beacon-Herald in no uncertain language demands an inquiry into the situation. Says the Stratford commentator: "Hockey fans are not concerned about where a star goalie like Broda enlists, and it should not make much difference whether he dons the King's uniform and is stationed at Toronto or Montreal, but they would like to know if hockey authorities weren't guilty of interfering with the workings of the National Mobilization Act. From this distance it would seem that certain army hockey officials are more concerned over icing an Allan Cup championships team than they are over increasing Canada's army personnel. The accusation has been made in veiled manner that some army officials pay more attention to assembling a winning hockey team than they do to the most important angle of their jobs, and that is winning the war. If they think they're kidding the public they had better think again, because the average citizen is hardly that gullible. Sport, including hockey, has a place in our armed forces, because it aids in building morale, but there are limits to all things, and the Broda incident would appear to be one of them. The incident should be thoroughly explained by those in authority, otherwise it is certain to leave a bad taste in the mouths of the public, to say nothing of our young men and women now fighting our battles against a relentless foe."

* * * * * *

It should be understood, of course, that in what we and other sport writers have been saying about this army hockey situation that we are not blaming the members of the Kingston or any other military team. The blame is not on their doorstep; but with the practice that seems to have grown up of giving preference to hockey players and other athletes who are wearing army uniforms. The players themselves have nothing to say or do about where they are stationed or what their duties are. They can't move around at their own free will; they're in the army and under orders and if those in command want to jump them around the country to get strong teams together and keep them in staff

Buffalo Bisons Corral Hockey Talent

(By The Canadian Press)

National Hockey League coaches must have looked longingly at the surplus of talent on display at Hamilton, Ont., last night. St. Catharines Saints of the Ontario Hockey Association's Senior "A" series defeated Buffalo Bisons of the American League 8-3 in an exhibition game, but Manager Eddie Shore had so many rookie prospects on hand they overflowed the player's bench and spilled along the boards like rail-seat spectators. Coach Art Chapman needed a huge chart and a recording secretary to look after the surplus. Asked for an estimate of the number at the rink, Shore said: "Somebody might be listening."

One of the slickest performers at the St. Catharines, Ont., training camp of Toronto Maple Leafs won't lift a stick for Leafs this season. He's Billy Taylor (rank unavailable) of the Canadian Army, spending a furlough with the Leafs. The former Toronto centre star is ticketed to coach Toronto's junior Marlboros this season.

Chicago Black Hawks, in training at Minneapolis, have announced purchase of veteran centre Clint Smith from New York Rangers.

Performs Like Pro

Coach Frank Boucher of Rangers is high on Fred Shero, a junior with St. James Canadians in the Winnipeg league last season. "He carries himself like a veteran professional player," says Boucher.

An other promising rookie in the Ranger camp at Winnipeg is Bill Tindall, who played defence for Winnipeg Rangers when they won the Memorial Cup last season. Incidentally, there's a Tom Tindall from Morrisburg, Ont., trying out with Montreal Canadiens at St. Hyacinthe, Que.

The world champion Detroit Red Wings will be nobody's pushovers this season. The Red Wings smothered Cleveland Barons of the American League 9-2 in an exhibition game last night at Detroit, Captain Modere (Mud) Bruneteau caging three of the goals and Carl Liscombe two. Rookies Frank (Red) Kane and Tony Bukovich scored singles along with veterans Joe Carveth and Adam Brown.

Rinkside rumor in Montreal has it that Bert Gardiner may go to Boston Bruins to fill the gap left by Frankie Brimsek's departure. Gardiner is Canadiens' property and played last season with Chicago Black Hawks.

If Jack McDonald gains a berth with Rangers, he'll be reunited with Bill Gooden. Both played for Portage la Prairie Terriers when they won the Memorial Cup in 1942.

Veteran Carr Ready For Big Year

By FRASER MacDOUGALL
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 20 — (CP)—Thirteen years of professional hockey's turbulent competition rest lightly on the slim shoulders of fleet Lorne Carr, high scoring right wing of Toronto Maple Leafs in the National Hockey League.

The speed and dash the 33-year-old native of Stoughton, Sask., is showing in Toronto's pre-season workouts here belie his own description of the current crop of N.H.L. performers as being either "too young or too old."

One of the five veterans of the 1942-43 Toronto team preparing for the coming season, Carr is essentially a team player. He emphasized that unconsciously when discussing his best year in hockey.

"I guess if you were talking about individual performance you'd call last year my best," he said, "but I figure my best year was 1941-42 when we won the Stanley Cup."

The records show that last season—his 13th—was his best. He scored 27 goals and had 33 assists for 60 points ranking fifth in N.H.L. scoring the first among the Toronto players.

His performance won him higher recognition as he was named to The Canadian Press all star team in the annual poll conducted among sport writers in N.H.L. cities.

He didn't mention it, but he was an outstanding goal-scorer in his junior days when he played with Canadians of Calgary where his family moved from Stoughton with a year in Toronto intervening.

Lorne moved up to Canadiens after getting his start in hockey with Calgary school teams.

His goal-scoring total for the 13 years he has been in pro ranks is 185, including minor league and play-off games. He has had 189 assists for a point total of 374.

Two Top Pros Seek Induction

PHILADELPHIA, Oct. 20—(AP)—The Philadelphia district faced loss of two of the leading golf professionals in the United States today, in sudden developments affecting Harold (Jug) McSpaden and Sammy Byrd, who battled for the unofficial 1943 championship at Chicago recently, with McSpaden the victor.

McSpaden has been called by his draft board for his army physical examination Nov. 2, it became known last night, and friends revealed he had asked the board to reconsider his 3-A classification and give him an early call.

Almost simultaneously, word came from Detroit that Byrd had agreed to succeed Jimmy Demaret as pro at the Plum Hollow Golf Club there.

Discussing the reports that he had volunteered, McSpaden said, "I have not been reclassified 1A. But it is true that I have asked to be called. I figure that if they want me, it's time I went."

He is married and the father of two small children. Last summer he added the Tam O' Shanter All-American Open Title to his long list of victories, while Byrd captured the Chicago Victory Open. They were the only tournaments attracting country-wide representation this year.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 20 — (CP). — It always has seemed inappropriate that the National Stud, owned by the taxpayers of Britain, should be situated in neutral Eire, so hopes for transfer of the establishment to England received a stimulant when the Agriculture Ministry purchased the Sandley estate in Dorset.

The estate, offered at auction by executors of the late Lord Furness, was sold for approximately $73,000. The belief is that it was bought on behalf of the National Stud. It houses stables and other training equipment.

The National Stud, Tully, County Kildare, covering 980 acres, was presented to the British nation by Col. Hall Walker, later Lord Wavertree, in 1916. All Col. Walker's thoroughbreds were included in the gift which had a total monetary value of $450,000. Since then, it has realized a similar amount in profit for the Exchequer.

Some of the most famous racehorses of the past three decades have been bred there. Among outstanding ones of recent years were Sun Chariot and Big Game, leased to the King. Between them they won four of Britain's five classics last year, including the Oaks and the St. Leger. The taxpaying Briton benefitted by more than $13,000 as a result.

Yearlings from the Stud realize some of the highest prices at the bloodstock sales, usually held at the Doncaster St. Leger in September, but which in these war days are held at Newmarket.

At present there are about 47 thoroughbred two-year-olds, and many yearlings and retired winners of notable races, including Sun Chariot, at Tully.

The question of disposing of the Stud has been raised from time to time over a considerable number of years and in 1935 there were informal discussions between the British Government and the Irish Free State as to its future. The latest negotiations began four months ago.

A London bookmaker who holds a staunch belief that more long-distance races should be promoted after the war presented six gold cups to the Jockey Club as challenge trophies.

The trophies, won by the late Sir Charles Hyde and purchased by Bookmaker Tom Golby, include an Ascot Gold Vase presented by King George V. It is probable they will be awarded to winners of races of a minimum distance of two miles with a plate or sweepstakes added.

The cups, to be held by winning owners for a year, likely will be known as the Sefton Challenge Cups, in honor of Lord Sefton, the chief steward of the Jockey Club.

Football Final Set For November 27

(By The Canadian Press)

The Ontario Rugby Football Union's remaining schedule has been revised and dates have been announced leading to a Canadian football final for the Grey Cup at Toronto Nov. 27. Harold Bailey, O.R.F.U. secretary-treasurer, announced the changes last night.

The two major changes in the O.R.F.U. schedule provide for transferring to Toronto Oct. 30 a game between Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes and Hamilton Flying Wildcats originally scheduled for Hamilton the same day, and for telescoping the last week of the original list of games to permit a play-off between the O.R.F.U. and the Quebec Rugby Union.

Under the second change, a game between Ottawa Combines and Toronto Indians set originally for Nov. 13 at Toronto is cancelled and the Indian-Ottawa game Nov. 6 will be worth four points to the winner. The original Nov. 13 engagement between Toronto Balmy Beach and Hamilton Wildcats will be played at Hamilton tonight, leaving Nov. 13 for a play-off between the O.R.F.U.'s two top teams "at a point to be designated by the two leading clubs and the O.R.F.U.'s senior executive."

The O.R.F.U. champion will meet the Quebec Union representative the following Saturday with the winner meeting the western champions in the Grey Cup final here Nov. 27.

Officials of the Pacific Coast Amateur Hockey Association announced yesterday the six-team senior league schedule will open Nov. 5 at Victoria with sea island R.C.A.F. meeting Victoria machinery depot.

Any doubt that Dave (Sweeney) Schriner wouldn't play hockey for the Navy team of Calgary in the Alberta Service Senior League during the 1943-44 season was dispelled yesterday when the former National League scoring flash was sworn in at H.M.C.S. Tecumseh. When Schriner gets his call for duty, which may not be for several weeks, he will be an ordinary seaman.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 20 — (CP). — Questions asked of professional hockey prospects by 1943-44 model scouts, in the order of importance, are: 1. Have you got a passport? 2. Can you skate?....They say Lester Patrick took one look at his crop of rookies at New York Rangers Winnipeg camp and almost cried. However, one figure caught Patrick's eye and he shouted to a henchman: "Get that man's signature on a contract.". Mr. Henchman took a quick look, recognized the 42-year-old Ranger coach, Frank Boucher. "Never mind who he is," roared Patrick. "He can skate."

Suggestion box:

The Canadian Rugby Union rejected Halifax Navy's application for entry in the Grey Cup competition because the application was not received until after the October 1 deadline. It's too bad the Halifax team is not included in the play-off scheme because the Canadian game is just taking hold in the Maritimes and a little C.R.U. encouragement right now would help. It would be too bad to lose the foothold which war conditions have gained for football in the Maritimes.

Incidentally:

W. A. (Bill) Fry, former president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and of the Amateur Athletic Union of Canada, still takes a keen interest in sport. Writing in his Dunnville, Ont., Chronicle, Bill puts in a plug for Welland's campaign to raise funds for a $150,000 modern arena. The Fund Committee is within sight of its objective....Remember the youngster from Alberta's Peace River district who had such a burning desire to be a sports writer that he started a little sports paper of his own? His name is Ned Powers and early this year he lost his mother when fire destroyed his home. We now hear that young Ned, his father and his brothers are living in Regina. Ned attends school, but writes pieces for the Regina Leader-Post.

Sport scents:

Centrals of the Toronto major Ladies' Five-Pin League rolled a three-game team score of 3,911 last week-end. They claim a world record for teams of five women.. ..Chick Appel of Stratford Beacon-Herald says Montreal Canadiens still hope to coax Ray Getliffe out of retirement. Appel says Dick Irvin telephoned Getliffe offering a substantial pay boost over last season.

Indians-Navy Deadlocked On Lower Rung

By The Canadian Press

Toronto Balmy Beach bid tonight to close the four-point gap separating them from first place in the Ontario Rugby Football Union when they meet Hamilton Flying Wildcats on Hamilton home grounds. Beaches have three victories compared with five triumphs for Hamilton and the co-leading Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes.

In the other contest billed on the league's first two-game program under floodlights, Toronto Indians meet Toronto Navy at Maple Leaf Stadium in a fourth-place duel. Indians and Navy now are deadlocked with one victory and four losses apiece. Indians defeated the Sailors 14-13 last time the teams met with a converted touchdown in the last three minutes of play.

Beaches will be reinforced by the return of Bill Zock, who missed his team's first clash with Wildcats because of injuries. Veteran Inside Bob Reid has signed and will be in the Beach lineup.

PO. Jimmy Smith, Wildcat quarterback, is expected to play despite a sore knee, but the Hamilton club may be forced to play without Murray Crowe, now stationed with the R.C.A.F. a considerable distance from Hamilton.

U.S. Navy Makes Successful Raid On Wake Island

Great columns of smoke rise into the Pacific sky over Wake Island from fires that resulted from bomb and shell hits on installations during the U.S. navy's aerial and sea bombardment of Wake Island, October 5-6. Many Jap planes were caught on the ground and destroyed. Note ship sunk in foreground.

Campbellford Man Now Brigadier Gets Post In Pacific Command

OTTAWA, Oct. 20.—(CP).— Defence Headquarters to-day announced appointment of a new brigadier-general staff in Pacific command, a new brigadier in charge of administration in the command, commanders for three tactical brigade groups and a commander for a combined operations school.

The appointments:

1. Brig. W. M. S. Macklin, 44, a permanent force officer from Scarboro, Ont., who has been brigadier in charge of administration at Pacific Command, as Brigadier General Staff, Pacific Command. Brig. Macklin succeeds Brig. V. N. Bostock, 40, of Kamloops, B.C., who is returning overseas.

2. Brig. A. H. W. Landon, M.C., 54, a permanent force officer who formerly served in the British Army and has been officer commanding Vancouver defences, as Brigadier in charge of administration, Pacific command, succeeding Brig. Macklin.

3. Brig. H. W. Foster, 41, of Picton, Ont., and Halifax, commander of the Canadian forces which combined with United States troops earlier this year to occupy Kiska in the Aleutians, as officer commanding a tactical brigade group.

In Kiska Raid.

4. Lt.-Col. R. H. Beattie, M.C., 48, of London, Ont, commander of a regiment on coast defence duty and a member of the Canadian Kiska force, as officer commanding a tactical brigade group, with rank of acting brigadier

5. Lt. Col. A. R. Roy, 41, of Ottawa, a permanent force who has been general staff officer (first grade) with the now-disbanded 7th Canadian infantry division on duty in Atlantic command, as officer commanding a tactical brigrade group, with the rank of acting brigadier.

6. Brig. D. R. Sargent, 47, of Campbellford, Ont., and Nanaimo, B.C., commander of an infantry brigade on coast defence duty, as officer commanding a combined operations school. Location of the school was not given in the Army statement.

A Defence Department spokesman said the appointments carry "no special significance" and that they are designed to bring the army organization up-to-date and fill gaps in the Pacific area caused by previous transfers of officers.

Brig. Sargent was born in Campbellford, Ont., and enlisted in the ranks in the First Great War. In 1916 he was appointed a lieutenant in the 232nd Battalion and went overseas. After serving in France he was sent to England as an instructor.

On his return to Canada he served with the Canadian Scottish at Victoria, commanding the regiment from 1930 to 1934. Shortly after the outbreak of war he was given command of the 1st Battalion Canadian Scottish and in 1940 was made brigadier in command of the 6th infantry brigade. He went overseas with the First division but was recalled in December, 1941, to take command of a western coastal defence area.

In civil life he was a transportation executive at Nanaimo.

Forcible evacuation of Kiev's wartime population of 150,000 was also reported by Cassidy. According to the Russians, he said, civilians are being driven west along the road to Zhitomar in two groups, destined for slave labor camps in Germany.

The advance carried the 5th Army into the towns of Pignataro, six miles north of Capua, Roccaromana, five miles northwest of Liberi, and the highway junction and town of Dragoni, 2½ miles northwest of Alvignano.

These advances put them 11 miles north of the Volturno. On the Adriatic, the 8th Army captured Petacciato, eight miles north of Termoli, but Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's British, Canadian and Indian troops were meeting greatly-increasing resistance as Field Marshal Albert Kesselring made a strong defensive stand.

Allied fighter bombers, continuing their assault on Nazi airfields, strafed the Viterbo and Tarquina airdromes, destroying many grounded enemy planes.

The retreating Germans were employing a scorched earth policy, destroying all roads, houses and cattle and also shooting considerable numbers of civilians.

In a lightning assault on bridges, American Liberators, the type that bombed the Ploesti oil fields in Rumania two months ago, knocked out the Nazi railway from Ancona to Pescara along the Adriatic coast.

Heavy Raids

Medium bombers attacked Frosinone, Terracina and Bojano on the 5th Army front while light bombers swarmed over the entire area just behind the 5th and 8th Army fronts, attacking motor transport, bridges and railroad junctions.

No losses were suffered by Allied planes in the operations, the communique said, and one enemy aircraft was destroyed.

A Middle East communique, disclosing widespread aerial operations yesterday and Sunday, told of attacks on Antimachia airfield on Cos, Herakleion on Crete, harbor installations at Skyros and an enemy convoy off the north coast of Crete. One Allied plane was lost in these operations.

The raid on Skyros took place in daylight yesterday and two small vessels in the harbor were hit.

Radio France at Algiers said the Germans were hurling counter-attacks at the Allies all along the front.

DOMINION WOOLLENS OVER THE TOP

Scotland's Industrial Front Now All Changed By War

By PROF. JAMES A. ROY

(Editor's Note: Following is the 19th in a series of articles written for The Examiner by Prof. James A. Roy of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Britain.)

The war has seen a great increase in factories manufacturing various kinds of explosives, chemicals, and incendiary bombs. For various reasons these factories have been built where there was no immediate supply of suitable labor available. This has led to considerable shifting and changing in population and an influx of industrial workers into districts where formerly there were none.

Since the importation of nitrates from South America has decreased, Scotland has begun to produce the nitric acid synthetically. The fertilizer manufacturers in the chemical industry in Scotland are trying to produce the maximum output for next year's crops and what was in peacetime a season industry has developed into production all the year round. The manufacture of aluminum is increasing. A new war industry in Scotland is the manufacture of magnesium. Scotland is also making the new medicinal chemicals like sulphonamide; also anti-malarial drugs which are now vitally needed since the loss of the Dutch East Indies and the shortage in the quinine supply. Since 1942 Scotland has begun the production of aero-gun sights.

One of the most striking features in the development of light engineering in Scotland has been the contribution of women. Their numbers were negligible at the beginning of the war; in 1943 they represent 30% of it.

I spent one whole day mainly with the Women's Timber Corps and in order to visit a number of their camps I travelled over an incredible number of miles in the Highlands. One camp was run entirely by women, with women foremen, women cooks, etc. The camp was one of the larger establishments. The girls lived in huts which were clean, comfortable, and orderly. At another camp some of the girls lived in huts, some in a country house that had been requisitioned. There were showers, baths, foot-baths, drying rooms, recreation rooms, books to read, magazines to skip, a radio. There was no central heating but the rooms were adequately heated. I was told, and none of the girls I spoke with had any complaints. Some of them were old hands at the game, cutting and sawing and sewing as if to the manner born. One of them had worked in a brewer's warehouse before joining up; another had been a tailoress. Most of them seemed mad to get to Canada after the war. Most of them seemed to think that all they had to do was to go to Canada where they would have the offer of all sorts of jobs they weren't qualified for. Others seemed to think that life on the prairies was like a Gene Autry film. Most of them thought the best thing was to marry a Canadian So I gave them a little talk about a lot of things. Then I turned to and had a lesson in the proper use of the axe. Then we had a cutting competition and a lot of fun.

A Nova Scotia Camp

Later in the day I visited a Nova Scotia camp and watched the men at work. Stout fellows these, with a very high degree of skill. They had cleared an enormous acreage and are now moving camp buildings and machinery to another site. Another camp, where both boys and girls were employed, was deep in the Grampians. Tractors ran about on the steep hillsides, tilting at a dangerous angle, leaping with their caterpillar treads over incredible obstacles, hauling huge loads. I had expected to find most of the

SUPPORTS CHEX.

A resolution by Aldermen Gordon and Cotton on Monday night recommended to the Board of Governors of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation the granting of national network privileges to CHEX, "so that the Peterborough station might still better serve this community. CHEX has been well operated, and in our opinion holds practically the same place as a public utility in its relation to this community, which at present does not get national programs as satisfactorily as they should, and to which they are entitled."

An ordinary Dodge passenger car was seen on the street this morning bearing a sign "caution, right hand drive." It was not a mistake either, as the car actually did have the steering wheel on the right side, a characteristic peculiar of military vehicles and cars made for use in the British Isles.

The thousands of citizens who expected a flight of five bombers from Trenton Monday night as a demonstration for the opening day of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign should be informed that this feature had to be cancelled because of adverse conditions at Trenton. The planes had to be kept grounded Monday evening.

Clinic Planned For Otonabee

The executive of Otonabee Red Cross Society met in the town hall on Monday with the president, the Rev. George Murray in the chair.

The reports showed the finances in good condition and that a large and varied amount of work had been done for hospitals, clothing for Greeks, refugees, etc. The president reported that he had visited seven groups in the Township and expressed appreciation of the splendid work done by those groups of willing workers. More voluntary workers are needed for sewing and knitting, come and give your help for this needy work.

The main business of the meeting was to consider the need for Blood Donors and to co-operate with the Red Cross Blood Donors Clinic in Peterborough. The call is to all who are between the ages of 13 and 60 years to become blood donors, it is hoped that there will be a good response and that Otonabee will live up to its reputation by "Going over the top" in this. The Clinic is open at 135 Brock street, Peterborough on Monday from 8.15 to 11 a.m. and Wednesday from 8.15 to 11 a.m. Those who go must eat a special diet for breakfast the morning the blood is taken and must watch diet from the evening meal of the day before. Diet, all fats must be eliminated from breakfast (butter cream, bacon, and eggs) because the blood will not dry with fat in it.

A special evening clinic for Otonabee on November 4th at 7.30 p.m. when it is hoped to have the Keene bus take from 30 to 40 donors. For this evening clinic it is necessary to have a special diet for breakfast, lunch and supper of the 4th of November. Full information will be given, application forms can be received from the local sewing groups or from the president, phone Keene 26 ring 3. Each person receives a good medical examination at the clinic before being permitted to become a donor, there is no pain, a local anaesthetic is given, food and rest is given at clinic after blood is given. Time spent at clinic — about one hour.

Great Britain last year asked Canada to provide six thousand donations per week. This year she asked us for fifteen thousand donations per week as a minimum. The clinic in Peterborough has a quota of two hundred per week. For those who can give this much needed blood, here is an opportunity to help save a life, to help win this war.

14 Canvassers Secure $15,300 In Bonds

The Dominion Woollens Ltd., whose employees believe in backing up their 59 fellow workers who have enlisted in the forces, did such a good job of digging down in their pockets for Victory Bonds that this morning they had reached $15,300, for a quota of $14,850. The final returns have not yet been made, but the company has gone nicely over the top.

This campaign the employees have managed to beat their record of a year ago when for the same period they had reached 96 per cent. of their objective. Now with 103 per cent. attained they are aiming at a still higher goal.

Eight of the fourteen salesmen exceeded their individual quotas. They are: A. Black, D. Hillier, R. Green, F. Traviss, A. Armstrong, A. Rutter, F. Rappe, G. Hartshorne and J. Caravaggie has not yet been heard from. The other canvassers are: D. McGregor, V. McDonald, F. Thirnbeck, C. Murray and Mrs. D. Hope.

Three of the retail firms in the group payroll section of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign sent in reports this morning that contributed sustenance to the enthusiasm at headquarters.

Employees of the Stedman Store, Charlotte street, with 71 per cent. participating, reported 110 per cent. of their objective, and their canvass completed.

The staff of Grafton and Company wrote 100 per cent. across the board, all the employees subscribing for the full amount of the store's quota.

Robert Fair and Company, with only 35 per cent. of their employees canvassed this morning, were 105 per cent. of their objective.

The canvass at the Fair store is not yet complete, and it is expected that the percentage of subscriptions will be appreciably larger when all the returns are in.

Subscriptions in Smith began to climb toward the township's $90,000 objective with the first report from Gordon Hancock this morning of fifteen subscriptions amounting to $13,650.

Headquarters sent in a little story this morning about a salesman who sold his car and converted the money into Victory Bonds. It was an anonymous reference, but there seems to be no reason why this salesman should not be identified as Bob Everett of the Empress Hotel staff.

A Cavan farmer, who declined to give his name, called at headquarters first thing Monday morning, enquiring about Victory Bonds. He said he had not yet been canvassed for the previous loans. The $50 and $100 denominations were explained to him, and then he asked how one went about buying a $1,000 bond. With that he went his way, leaving a rather definite impression that he had some cash that wasn't working, and he would be in on the Fifth Loan.

Citizens Pay Up Taxes Sooner

Progress of the collection of taxes at the city hall was still out in front of the payments last year.

City Treasurer Shaver informed the Examiner this morning that Peterborough's ratepayers had paid up to October 18 the total of $750,068 of this year's taxes, or 95.19 per cent of the total amount due.

At the corresponding date last year, the total which had passed through Tax Collector A. S. Couper's hands was $704,398 or 93.34 per cent of the current taxes for 1942.

Other receipts of taxes include those in arrears but which are paid from time to time in addition to the currently due taxes. These sums are not included in the total of $750,068 and the comparative amount last year.

No Extra Eggs To Be Found In Peterborough

Peterborough is consuming nealy all the eggs produced in its immediate area of supply, R. M. Pierson of Co-Op told the Examiner today.

"We have a meat shortage, as one factor," Mr. Peirson said," and we are coming into the season of low production of eggs, and the demand for the rest of Canada and for export overseas is high."

Egg production here has mounted throughout this year to an increase of 45 per cent, and the city people are buying just about all the top grade eggs that are handled and sold with the Co-Op brand of quality.

Ottawa Scarcity

Mr. Peirson confirmed news reports of a sharp scarcity in the Ottawa district at the week end, becoming almost a famine. "We sent all we could spare to Ottawa. Perhaps their shortage will continue for the next month or more."

Influences in the egg section of the provisions trade, Mr. Peirson said, are: high quotas for the armed forces which have absolute priority in supplies;

Canada's contract to ship Britain 63,000,000 dozens of eggs in powdered form this year. Mr. Peirson said he understood Canada was trailing about fifty per cent behind that objective.

Poor Season

Late autumn is an off-time for egg production; abnormal domestic demand resulting from meat rationing; a reduction in storage eggs from 6,000,000 dozen a year ago to 428,000 dozen now.

Mr. Peirson said people here were buying the top grades for the simple reason that they got "more egg". The No. 1 grade had to be 24 ounces and might be more, but the medium would not exceed 24 and might be down to 22½ ounces.

The workers in the Y.M.C.A. men's membership campaign met last night for the final report of the intensive campaign and a fine total was recorded. When the last captain had been heard from the board showed 514 members secured, with some to come later. This figure compares very favorably with a total of 465 at the same time last year. 170 new members were enrolled which replaces by a good margin the 108 members who have enlisted since last October. This brings the total enlistments from the membership of the association to over 300 since the war started.

President J. R. Marshall in thanking the workers pointed out that it would be reasonable to expect that at least 200 of the men in the armed forces would still be active members if they were at home and with this additional number the membership strength would be well over 700 in the men's division. All members who have enlisted are being carried as members, and a letter with membership cards enclosed is being sent to each individual. Many letters of appreciation were received last year from many parts of the world where these letters had been received.

12 Men Taken In Police Raid

With the object of rounding up possible military delinquents and other men who had failed to comply with selective service regulations a raid was made Tuesday afternoon by local police by the authority of the Chief of Police under the Vagrancy Act. Twelve men were rounded up in the downtown section for examination.

Officers C. J. McGillen and Harold Mesley visited pool rooms and other spots and garnered in the men, who were brought to the police station.

There a board comprising four visiting selective service officials and a representative of the local office was set up in the guard-room and the men brought in were thoroughly grilled as to the work in which they were engaged. Of the twelve, Selective Service officials stated to-day that 9 had been directed to essential employment and were already at work this morning. The cases of the remaining three were taken under investigation.

Obituary

LUCIA ELIZABETH TATE.

The death occurred on Tuesday at Toronto General Hospital of Lucia Elizabeth Tate, 85, following a long illness. A resident of Toronto for 30 years, she was a member of one of Peterborough's prominent families, the daughter of the late Col. John W. Tate and Mrs Tate. She was a sister of A. O. Tate of Brooklyn, New York, well-known as a secretary of Thomas Edison and the author of a biography of the famous inventor.

The body is resting at the Bates and Maddocks Funeral Chapel, 124 Avenue Road, Toronto, for service in the chapel this evening at 8 o'clock. Interment will be made at Little Lake cemetery, Peterborough, on Thursday.

$239,700 Raised First 2 Days Of Fifth Loan

In the last war some one wrote a whimsical parody, or more correctly a paraphrase, of one of the most popular songs of those years, of which there was a memorable line "It's a stiffish bit to go to Tipperary," and that identifiable adjective thrusts up from memory when you look at and ponder Peterborough's undertaking of subscribing a grand total of $4,600,000 in this Fifth Victory Loan.

It will stand out challengingly in the daily reports from the local Loan headquarters as it did last night when the first statement recorded total subscriptions amounting to $239,700 for the first two days, or 5.21 per cent in contrast with the required percentage of 11.11 per cent.

Divisional objectives and amounts secured in the first two days were summarized as follows:—

Rural general canvass: Objective $600,000; subscriptionus $16,250; per centage 2.78.

(In each instance the expected per centage is 11.11.)

Total city and county general canvass: Objective $2,150,000; subscriptions $132,850; per centage 6.18.

Peterborough employees' canvass: Objective $950,000; subscriptions $6,850; per centage .72.

Total general and employees' canvass: Objective $3,100,000; subscriptions $139,700; per centage 4.55.

Special names: Objective $1,500,000; subscriptions $100,000; per centage 6.66.

County grand total: Objective $4,600,000; subscriptions for two days $239,700; per centage 5.21.

First County Returns

Just as they did last Spring two East Peterborough municipalities stepped out in front of the rest of the county—Belmont-Methuen with 10 per cent and Havelock with 8.29 per cent.

The combined northern townships, Harvey, Burleigh, Chandos and Anstruther were third with 7.78% and North Monaghan fourth with 6.86%.

No reports were received from Asphodel Douro and Ennismore, and Otonabee and Smith, the big two, were only breaking ground in this autumn campaign.

Objectives and two-day returns, with percentages, from rural Peterborough were as follows:—

N. Monaghan	$35,000;	$2,400—6.86
Otonabee	$130,000;	$1,250— .96
Asphodel	$38,000;
Norwood	$58,000;	$150— .25
Smith	$90,000;	$1,100—1.22
Lakefield	$60,000;	$2,000—3.33
Ennismore	$12,000;
Douro	$35,000;
Dummer	$34,000;	$200— .50
Belmont-Methuen	$25,000;	$2,500—10.
Havelock	$38,000;	$3,150—8.29

City's Beginning

Peterborough city's objective is $1,550,000; subscriptions for two days $116,600; and per centage 7.52.

It was pointed out prior to the opening of the campaign that the city's allotment of the Fifth Victory Loan has been increased $100,000. In fact urban Peterborough is absorbing the increase, or at least is setting its face to that height.

Two Teams Tied

The Tuesday evening statement of the city canvass showed the teams captained by Ken Smylie and Gordon Monkman tied with subscriptions of $9,100 each.

The Smylie trio are: Walter Metheral $2,000; James Skinner $6,100; Victor Tully $100.

And Gordon Monkman's team: A. J. McClellan $8,650; A. E. Cauley $300 and Stanley Darling $150.

Team totals for the two days were:

Alex Sollitt, captain, R. Payne, L. Brooks and W. V. Drury—$550.

C. H. Elliott, captain, J. Curtis, E. S. Bent and Bruce Sargent—$3,600.

Norman Hamley, captain, C. A. McFadgen, C. A. Gallagher and Victor Gallon—$850.

C. J. Ray, captain, Joseph Mackness, John H. Seels and William S. Rose—$1,600.

E. G. Pridham, captain, M. H. White, J. D. Anderson and F. Revoy—$4,000.

W. J. Hamilton, captain, S. G Cole John Lee, and W. P. Kinlin—$2,750.

And the two leading teams those of Gordon Monkman and K. S. Smylie.

out plenty himself and had Dunlop running for cover on more than one occasion, but Dunlop finally settled the argument after 19 minutes with a body slam and spread. Just before the finish Dunlop nearly strangled the Montrealer by hanging him in the ropes, but when he tried to repeat the feat Demetre deftly turned the tables and left Dunlop helpless in the ropes. The crowd got a big kick out of that.

Referee Maxwell, who was on the catching end all the way, refereed the three bouts, and Fred Scates was responsible for the timing and announcing.

M.D. No. 3 Leads Districts In Victory Loan

KINGSTON, Oct. 10.—(Special.)—Military District No. 3, with $381,400 or sixty-nine per cent. of its $550,000 objective leads the Canadan Army Military Districts across Canada in the Fifth Victory Loan, according to National Victory Loan Headquarters at Ottawa. The total number of bond buyers in the district reached 4,727 when, on the end of the second day of the loan, 956 men in khaki were reported to have purchased $79,800 worth of bonds.

No. 31 CA(B)TC Cornwall recorded the most remarkable effort in the district by buying $37,800 in bonds which was 186 per cent. of its $20,000 objective. Colonel Rudolph Larose, officer commanding expects the Centre to pass the $40,000 mark.

Runners-up in the remarkable achievement is the Officers' Training Centre at Brockville, which has subscribed 113 per cent. of its $85,000 quota. Canadian Ordnance Corps Training Centre at Kingston is holding a mammoth bingo Wednesday night in the main drill hall to give impetus to the campaign and Victory Bonds will be offered as prizes.

The probe was re-opened by order of the Attorney-General's office.

Canadian Legion Pass $1,600 For War Victims

The Wednesdy night Bingo games conducted by the members of Branch 52 of the Canadian Legion are proving more than ever to be a success, for with the same portion being given to the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund, what may be the largest amount for one month is credited in today's receipts, giving the fund a fine $80.00 boost, which is all the more acceptable on account of the special objective now engaged in to send over for the Christmas season, together with an extra to provide Christmas Cheer for the boys and girls in Britain.

To Bob Hotrum and the committee of which he is chairman in charge of this event goes considerable credit, which is shared by those loyal members in the persons of Bob and Art Mitchel (father and son) Art Moscroft, Tom Chapman, Jack Ridyard, Percy Golds, Ted Williams, Pete Wallace, Art Padgett and Speed Currie, who give their services in the cause of these weekly meetings, which have been so productive on behalf of their own welfare work, and continued assistance which has come to the fund ever since it began to operate.

With today's contribution of $80.00, the total credit that goes to these veterans of World War I. now stands at the splendid amount of $1,626.63, more than fully realizing the expectations of their president, G. Gimblett, when he pledged at the outset that they would give a regular portion of their proceeds from the bingo games on a monthly basis.

In addition to this, these same boys work on Friday nights in a similar manner, from which a large number of cigarettes are sent regularly to members of the various sevices now actually engaged in His Majesty's forces, a laudable work indeed, the need of which they probably know from experience in the previous war.

Mark Birthday by Giving

October 20 is the birthday of A. E. Thompson, and he has recognized this all important landmark in his own personal history for the past three years in giving a donation of $25.00 to the fund, on each and every occasion.

The general custom on an event of this nature is for one to be the recipient of gifts to mark the day, but how much better it is to make it the occasion for doing good for others as a thankoffering instead, and particularly in such days as the present, when so many in the war zone are suffering through the loss of their homes and even life itself in the front line in Britain.

The fund now has $740 on hand in the bank towards the special Christmas donations which will require a total of $6,720.00 if last year's achievement is to be duplicated, the need for which was expressed in the last letter received from the Lord Mayor of London a short while ago.

2-Day Conference

TORONTO, Oct. 20—(CP)—Sister M. Evangeline of Pembroke presided yesterday at an opening session of a two-day annual conference of the Ontario Hospital Association, attended by more than 120 delegates.

Speed The Victory

Mrs. Anna Whatman, Sherbrooke street, again comes through. During the Fourth Victory Loan she bought a $50.00 bond. When the canvasser called on her yesterday she bought a $50.00 bond. Mrs. Whatman, who has a son in the Army overseas, is a widow and not only does she realize that her dollars and cents will bring her son home again by buying cash bonds, but she insisted that the canvasser take her application for buying another $50.00 on the installment plan. This means that Mrs. Whatman bought two bonds during the present drive.

Another interesting, yet rather pathetic story came into headquarters this morning, when one of the canvassers reported visiting a soldier's wife. Her husband is a private in England and she is managing to keep the home fires burning for her two small children and herself. Unfortunately though, she is having a tough time. Sickness has intervened and at the present time she is convalescing from a serious operation.

Although very weak from her illness, she received the canvasser with consideration and kindness and had her mind made up that she was going to try in some way to buy a bond. The canvasser explained the instalment plan and arrangements were completed whereby she could purchase a bond on this basis. Another $50.00 from one who can hardly afford it—to help bring the loved ones home.

Man Sells Car To Buy Bonds

In Canada, everyone must get a new sense of values. They must make the old one do or doing without? For many Canadians this goes against the grain because all have prided themselves on being "up-to-date."

After the war is won, new homes, furniture, electrical appliances, etc., etc., will be made available. Wise use, then, of the spending power which we may accumulate now through saving will bring standards of convenience far beyond anything achieved in pre-war years, to say nothing of the personal comfort which arises out of having money saved.

Tuesday a city canvasser reported that a potential customer had sold his car. Did he go marketing around for another or go out on a spree with his new-found wealth? No, sir, he had been waiting for the Victory Loan salesman to call and invested the full amount in Victory Bonds.

Counsel Charges Police Asleep

"You'll all have to come back. The police force has been asleep here" announced Hon. G. N. Gordon, K.C., in police court this morning to a coterie of witnesses who had been waiting for action to begin in the hearing of a number of charges against B. R. Strano for selling potatoes at a higher price by the bag than the ceiling price set by the Wartime Prices and Trade Regulations.

Mr. Gordon was present to prosecute the charges for the board and at the outset applied for a bench warrant for the arrest of Strano who had not appeared.

Then it transpired that the accused had not been summonsed although subpoenas had been sent out to the witnesses in the case.

"There is nothing I can do about it now" commented Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. "You cannot show that the man has ever been summonsed."

"I did not receive any instructions about a summons" said Police Inspector J. F. Reid.

"You shouldn't need any instructions" declared Mr. Gordon. "You shouldn't have sent out subpoenas for witnesses without first making sure that the man himself had been summonsed first. Now the witnesses are all here and the accused has not received his summons. I think the police commission would be interested in knowing how things are run around here."

"All this time is wasted" continued the counsel for the Wartime Prices and Trade Board. "Now we will have to start all over again."

Coldwell Sticks To Guns In Money Probe

OTTAWA, Oct. 19 —(CP)—M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, said today in a prepared statement that it was his duty to "condemn the actions of our own government in facilitating the building up of a powerful world monopoly" in respect to aluminum production.

Mr. Coldwell issued his statement following evidence given by Frank Brown, munitions department financial adviser, before a House of Commons war expenditures subcommittee which is investigating Aluminum Co., of Canada plant expansion and power developments on the Saguenay River near Arvida.

The evidence was heard in camera at the sub-committee last week issued a summary.

Mr. Coldwell said he was glad to acknowledge that the statement issued by the sub-committee, of which he is a member, was "an accurate summary of some of Mr. Brown's evidence."

But, Mr. Coldwell said, he believed it against the public interest to allow it to go unchallenged.

"The report of evidence given by one person to a committee sitting in private presents a wholly wrong impression of the issues involved," he said.

Applies to Many

Mr. Coldwell's statement said in part:

"Mr. Brown's answer to my criticism regarding the huge special depreciation allowed the company "on taxation purposes" was "that the money which bought the aluminum was not our money, it was foreign money" and that otherwise "there would have been no plant facilities and there would have been nothing to tax...."

"If this criterion were applied generally, a good many Canadian industries would escape taxation, for a substantial proportion of Canadian industry has at one time or another been financed by "foreign" money. The Aluminum Co., built its plants and facilities on a Canadian power resource belonging to the people. Part of the Canadian economy, subject to Canada laws, benefitting from Canadian resources and manpower, it is and must be subject to the same taxation as every other industry in Canada.

"It is not for me to say whether the British and United States governments were wise to supply a private monopoly with the capital on the terms contained in their contracts but it is my duty to point out and condemn the actions of our own government in facilitating the building up of a powerful world monopoly...."

J. E. Keyes Urges Buying Of Victory Bonds

"A Victory Bond is our Country's promise to return our money to us at a fixed future date, and in the interval to pay us interest semi-annually."

With this definition, J. E. Keyes, manager of the Bank of Commerce, began his address over CHEX, Tuesday evening, first of a series by local bankers explaining and supporting the Fifth Victory Loan.

"This promise to pay on the part of the Dominion of Canada results in Victory Bonds ranking as the prime investment an individual or a Company can make. The obligation is undoubted and it is backed by our Country's reputation for paying every obligation in full.

"This promise to pay is in reality a first mortgage on the physical and productive assets of the Dominion of Canada, for the reason, that, the power to impose taxation whether it be by way of Income, Inheritence, Excess profit, —or any other tax and—which is a prior claim over all other creditors—is vested with the Federal Government.

"It follows that the buyer of a Victory Bond is purchasing a first charge on all assets and incomes and he continues to hold that claim until such time as his bond has been redeemed.

Recommended By Banks

"Whatever your occupation or however dependent you may be upon either the principal or the interest. Victory Loan Bonds are a security that you need not hesitate about buying and holding.

"The Chartered Banks in Canada have no hesitancy in urging their depositors to invest in Victory Bonds as large a portion of their bank accounts as can be set aside and in addition as much of their future earnings as they can afford.

"The money which will be raised by the sale of Victory Bonds is required in connection with a great war financing effort on the part of our Country and I am sure that the result of the drive will receive the support of Canadians in every walk of life. The canvassers are now making their calls and I ask each one of you to give YOUR canvasser every consideration. A subscription placed with him will give him encouragement for the heavy task he has undertaken. There are thousands of calls to be made and in the event of anyone being missed I would suggest that you call at any bank and arrange for your subscription to be placed.

It Can Be Done

"The Nation is asking One Billion, Two Hundred Million Dollars which is required to buy the equipment of all kinds. The minimum objective for the County of Peterborough is Four Million, Six Hundred Thousand Dollars. This is a large sum of money but I am confident that with a full measure of co-operation on the part of all of us and provided that we are seized with the responsibility of doing everything possible to assist our fighting forces that the Peterborough County objective will be exceeded."

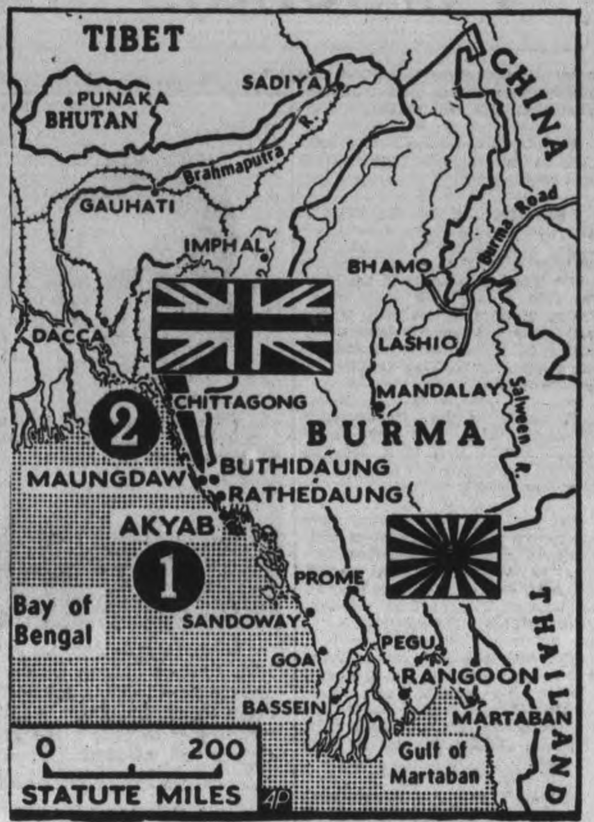
countryside denuded of its woods. Nothing of the sort. In some remote parts of the highlands, I was told, a difference in the landscape can be noticed. But I saw not the slightest difference in the pattern of the landscape where I was and I saw a great deal of it. Scotland, despite the tremendous amount of timber the Canadian Forestry Corps and the Women's Timber Corps have cut, is a beautiful as ever and the scars made by the woodsmen can hardly be noticed, if they can be noticed at all. And there is a tremendous governmental scheme afoot already that will see to the reforestation of the denuded lands. If the contribution of timber to the war effort could be told it would prove to be one of the most interesting stories we have. I certainly learned facts that amazed me.

The girls in the Timber Corps have to be young, adaptable, and strong. They have to be able to stand cold and wettings and must have a liking for the country if they are to be happy in their work. During their period of preliminary training they are "let out" if they are not likely to be good at the job or if they find the work is going to be too hard for them. They work a minimum of 44 hours a week and get, if I remember rightly, 1s 6d to 1s 9d per hour. They are paid overtime, and more overtime is possible in summer than in winter when daylight is shorter. The reasons the girls gave me for joining the Timber Corps were various. One said that she wanted a life in the country; she came from Glasgow. Another said she joined because she didn't want to be drafted to England as mobile labor. Another because she was engaged to a Canadian.

The country house where the division inspector and I had tea with the camp supervisor and her secretary, was a lovely old place. It was typical of most country houses in Britain. And like most country houses in Britain its day as a country house is ended. These places mark a vanished epoch. The day of the country house is dead, quite dead. Most of them cannot even be converted into schools. And the people who lived in them have disappeared. If you want to find them you will find them in a cottage somewhere on what most probably used to be their estates, and are their estate no longer. Nobody wants to buy a country house nowadays. They are nothing but white elephants. But the agent will sell you one if you are fool enough to want to buy one.

British Start Drive On Burma



British troops have made a successful attack on the Japanese-held town of Maungdaw (2), as shown on the map of Burma (ABOVE). Wellington bombers also attacked Akyab (1) about 55 miles south, scene of a previous unsuccessful attack on Jap-held Burma. Observers say that Lord Louis Mountbatten, Allied commander-in-chief in southeast Asia, is starting a big new drive against the enemy.

Bombers Mauled Along Sea Lanes

NEW YORK, Oct. 20 — (AP).—The United States First Bomber Command disclosed today that two —possibly four — Nazi bombers bent on the destruction of Allied shipping were shot down by the planes of the United States army air forces anti-submarine units in bomber dogfights over the Atlantic.

The aerial battles, three in all, were between long - range heavy bombers operating from overseas bases and German Focke - Wulf Kuriers, reputedly the most powerful bomber of the Nazi air force the First Bomber Command said.

In one encounter, an American plane attacked two Kuriers at once, destroying one and probably downing the second. The United States bomber also was shot down.

The enemy planes were making a parallel bombing run on a convoy when sighted and the violent dogfight was staged in full view of the convoy.

Sandwiched between the two Nazi planes, the U.S. bomber — two engines knocked off, a wing aflame—unsucessfully tried to ram one of the Focke-Wulfs as gunners poured fire into the enemy. Every member of the crew was wounded.

The bomber crashed, but only after its work had been done. A minute later, one Kurier hit the water. The second staggered away but seamen said they saw it fall later.

Survivors of the United States plane were picked up by one of vessels in the convoy.

In another battle an American bomber surprised a Kurier nosing its way along a sea lane. That Nazi pilot tried to zoom out of range but gunners peppered him with gunfire, scoring numerous hits and the plane crashed.

A third dogfight occurred when a U.S. bomber intercepted a Kurier while on convoy coverage. The American planes scored many hits and the bomber crew expressed doubt that the German plane ever reached its base.

Cocky Nazis Mistake Liberators For Heinkels Scoot For Shelter While Prisoners Grin

Aboard the Exchange Ship Drottingholm, Goteberg, Sweden, Oct. 18.—(Delayed) — (AP). — Several British soldiers awaiting repatriation in this neutral port told with evident relish to-day how they were caught in a raid by Allied heavy bombers on Marienburg Oct. 9.

"We were in a work command being escorted to our jobs by a German guard when the planes came over," said George Magee, a soldier from North Ireland. "The Jerries, watching proudly, pointed upward saying: 'Look how strong our Luftwaffe has become.'

"'Man,' one of our boys said, 'that's not the Luftwaffe — those are Liberators.' The words were hardly spoken before the Germans were scooting at top speed for the nearest shelter."

NATIONAL SELECTIVE SERVICE

Farmers and Farm Workers

If Your Farm Work has Slackened for the Winter, You are Needed Elsewhere in Essential Employment

LACK of fuel wood will be serious to our population. A shortage of saw-logs and other forest products would threaten our war effort. Woods operations and other essential industries varying with the district—base metals and coal mining, railway track work, longshore work, meat and fish packing—face Winter labour shortages. Therefore, any man on the farm not needed at home during the Fall and Winter, should offer his services at once for work in one of these other essential industries until the farm again requires him. Men on the land available for the Winter are the Nation's chief hope for securing the needed workers.

Farmers engaged in essential work during the off season will be allowed to return home when needed. Also, those on postponement under Mobilization Regulations will continue on postponement while in approved essential work during the slack on the farm.

Just short of knee length, cut on box lines but with a generous hand, this light gray cashmere wool coat is collared and lined with nutria fur. Note the wide, new hat silhouette shown.

By PRUNELLA WOOD

IT'S inevitable that in a season of short, warm coats, Mr. Winston Churchill's pea jacket would get a nod from fashion designers. It's just as smart and just as cozy for a woman as for a Prime Minister, and we can predict that the silhouette beginning for Winter will continue into Spring and Summer with mounting success.

15 Children In Shelter Create Problem for C.A.S.

The October meeting of the Children's Aid Society was held on Tuesday afternoon in the Council Chamber with the president, Mr. James Dutton, in the chair. Miss Rachael Young, superintendent, read her report for the preceding month, in which she again stressed the difficulty of keeping children at school after they had had a taste of work during the summer.

Forty-four children came to the attention of the Society and the problems included death of the mother, search for a delinquent father, drinking, physical neglect of children, and poor companionship. Ten children were admitted to care during the month, three while their mother is receiving medical care, three found alone at night, two owing to the ill-health of the mother and two on an adoption-probation basis. Five adoptions were completed, 46 children in the society's care were seen during the month, six cases in the unmarried parents work came to the attention of the Society.

No Help.

There have been 15 children in the shelter during the past month, and with no regular help, the situation has become almost impossible, and further difficulties have been met in the matter of getting foster homes for children who wish to attend collegiate. The question of clothing is causing the staff considerable anxiety as the difficulty of getting children's clothing has never been as great as it is this year. A group of women from St. Paul's Presbyterian church has been vey helpful in making clothes for the children and Miss Young said that any help from other women's groups would be deeply appreciated.

Mrs. J. R. Marshall said that she and Mrs. Lawrence had been going to the Shelter on Thursday afternoons from two until 4.30 and doing the mending and other sewing She suggested that if any other ladies cared to come, a great deal of sewing might be accomplished.

Mr. Dutton announced that two doctors from the Ontario Hospital at Whitby would hold a mental health clinic in the city on Friday. The appointment of Miss Margaret Stevenson to the staff to conduct investigation for the Dependant's Board of Trustees was confirmed, and the meeting voted to support the resolution of the Children's Aid Society of Toronto recommending an amendment to the war-income-tax law.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Thursday, October 21

A FAIRLY successful day is shown by the lunar aspects, although it may be heightened in advancement and pleasure by resolving to get along with employers and those in authority. Expect little cooperation from this source. Young people should have a happy day in youthful pastimes. It is a time for celebrations and activities of social, sentimental, or athletic nature. But be discreet and have a care for the health.

Those whose birthday it is may have a fairly progressive year, provided they take care to placate elders, employers and those in authority. But little support or understanding is to be expected from this quarter. Young folks will find much gaiety in social, affectional and athletic activities. But have a care for the physical safety and health. Be prudent and all will be well.

A child born on this day may be active, energetic and prone to social enjoyments, thereby creating the antagonism of elders and employers. Some early training in this direction would be advisable.

DOROTHY DIX

PATCHED UP MARRIAGES SURE TO SHOW PERMANENT CRACKS

Youthful Ideals Trampled Into Mire When Husband, Wife Become Unfaithful.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am a member of a profession in which a man needs to have peace of mind and heart. I was successful until a short time ago when my wife had a love affair with another man. I broke it up, but it broke me up too, and I was so miserable I went to another woman for consolation. But I was not made for the double life and I became so disgusted with my own conduct that I repented and confessed everything to my wife. I expected forgiveness, but she became very bitter towards me and my life is very unhappy.

I have left the city I lived in and located in another place, but I have little heart for my work or interest in it. Do my wife and I have much chance for happiness together now? We have several children.

DISILLUSIONED.

Cracks in Love Cannot Be Obliterated

ANSWER—After a husband and wife have been unfaithful to each other they naturally cannot have the same sort of married happiness that they had before when they trusted each other.

They have been disillusioned, disappointed. Their ideals have been trampled into the mire. Their alabaster vase has been shattered and, no matter how they patch it up, the cracks are still there and the mended places show.

But, it seems to me, that it should be easier for two sinners to forgive each other than it would be if one had been faultless and the other a betrayer. It must be hard for saints to ever understand sinners, or for the strong to sympathize with the weak, or for the full-fed to be able to excuse the starving for stealing bread.

The austere souls who have never felt any temptation cannot comprehend why everyone does not walk the straight and narrow path as they do. It is only those who are the victims of their own passions and emotions and impulses who know how easy it is to stray into the primrose path when one is lonely or depressed, or perhaps only so tired of the monotony of a humdrum life that they crave excitement, as a drunkard does drink.

So, this being the case and you and your wife both being weaklings who have fallen into the same pit, why cannot you forgive each other and wipe your slate off and make a fresh beginning? And perhaps because of your knowledge of your common frailty you may be drawn closer together.

You remember in Barrie's lovely little play "The Twelve Pound Look" how the wife who has left her smug husband to go and live among poor, common people says: "And they say 'poor soul' to me and I say 'poor soul' to them, and we are happy together."

So my advice to you is to pull yourself together. Quit thinking about your nerves and whether you are happy or not and plunge into your work so you will not have too much time to think. And not only forgive your wife, but forget, and make a happy, cheerful home for your children.

DEAR MISS DIX—Is it bad luck to keep old love letters? I have quite a collection and I wouldn't want to get rid of them because I love to read them over once in a while.

LOU.

Old Love Letters Will Hoodoo Marriage

ANSWER—It is the worst possible luck to keep old love letters. They will hoodoo practically any marriage, so take my advice and make a bonfire of them and every other sentimental trinket that you have, including all of your old beaux' photographs.

Of course, women hate like the mischief to do this, because their old love letters are a tie that binds them to their youth and when they get them out and read them they feel that they are slim young girls again instead of fat, middle-aged women. And it is a solace when their husbands are growling over the bills to know that there was one once who told them that they were the most beautiful and wonderful creatures on earth and that he would give them the moon if they wanted it, and that they have the written words to prove it!

But, all the same, the little packets of yellow old letters tied up in faded blue ribbon can wreck a home as surely as a dynamite bomb, because when a married woman takes to reading them she begins to sentimentalize over her old sweetheart and wish she had married him.

And, anyway, it isn't fair to the men to keep their old love letters, for they have long ago forgotten that they were ever guilty of such foolishness as writing such slush.

DEAR MISS DIX—My husband and I are in our late forties. We have reared our family and made a good job of it and they are all fine men and women. But now they are married, with homes of their own scattered about in different cities, and we are by ourselves and lonesome.

Now we both love babies and we would like to adopt a little girl. I would like to have one who has no show in life and who I could make into a good woman by God's help, and who would bring happiness to us, too. Do you think it would be advisable for us to adopt a child at our time of life? So many tell us not to do it.

A. M. H.

Middle-Aged Mother Can Adopt Child

ANSWER—I can see no reason why you should not do so, unless it is because of the age factor, but, after all healthy people in their late forties have a long enough expectation of life to cover the rearing of a child. And if, unfortunately, you should die before the little girl is grown, no doubt one of your good daughters would take her and mother her in your place.

I do not think that there is any finer, nobler work that anybody can do than to take a little motherless, homeless, friendless baby and give it the love and tenderness it has missed, and a chance to develop into a fine personality.

So if you want your baby girl, take her, and God bless you both.

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Brock Street Arena was heated for the wrestling card last night but not nearly so much so as was Jack Clayborne at the end of the main bout....Ottawa military headquarters officer is quoted as saying that dealing with such incidents as the Broda affair is up to the district command....Offhand we would say that it was about time Ottawa should agree on a general policy about sports and the army. ....Anyway it must have been the first time on record that selective service officials beat the gun in rounding up a man called for military service....Observation suggests that they are not usually anything like that quick on the draw....Jack Adams' Red Wings, with Mud Bruneteau firing three goals smothered the Cleveland Barons 9 to 2 last night....Edgar LaPrade, Port Arthur hockey star has enlisted in the army and rumor has it that he is ticketed for the Ottawa Commandos....Jack Adams will use Jud McAtee, former Stratford star in games in Montreal and Toronto....McAtee is working on war work.

Treat Your Dog Right and He'll Be Happy

PICK HIM UP RIGHT

There is definitely a correct and a wrong way to pick up a puppy. You can meaningless be very cruel to your pet sometimes. The correct way is shown in the sketch above, placing both hands as depicted. This gives you a firm hold and offers support for the dog. Never pick him up by the forelegs only.

If you're going to have a pet, learn to give him the best treatment.

Lessons in manners begin with short words of command—"Come," "Go," "Down"—taught one at a time and by one person only, using the same tone of voice.

No whippings! When a dog becomes confused, the thing to do is pet him. Then when he catches on give him a tasty bit of food as reward.

Properly fed and cared for, your pet should put up a jolly fight against such ills as distemper—that particular enemy of puppies which often strikes at grown dogs, too. Do you know how distemper starts? Its symptoms?

Our 32-page booklet explains symptoms and treatment of distemper and many other doggish ills. Tells how to raise a dog from puppyhood on, give him a proper diet, grooming, training. Explains the teaching of amusing tricks.

For your copy of HOW TO CHOOSE AND CARE FOR YOUR DOG send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner's Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

CARDS YOU DON'T LEAD

WHEN YOUR side holds the queen and jack of a suit, with two little cards to act as guards for one of them and at least one little fellow to protect the other, you are absolutely certain to have the card which controls the third round of the suit, after the ace and king are gone, unless your side leads the suit. Such being the case, it is sound to make an effort to avoid leading if you can, when you hold one of those cards, as your partner may have the other one.

Please don't try to explain South's wild-man bidding here, including his second-hand psychic of 1-Diamond, the bid of 3-Clubs on his second turn and his rebid of clubs at the range of five on his third turn. South couldn't make a lucid explanation of it himself, but he had enough luck to make up for lack of soundness.

West led the spade 5 to the A, and East began a process of elimination in his thinking about the return. A club lead was out of the question because his Q had a possible chance to win a finesse, he reckoned, if he waited, though of course a very slight chance. A diamond lead from that Q would obviously be bad, into South's first-bid suit, since it would give South the chance to stick in an intermediate and have a gratuitous finesse toward the K. Next he reckoned that South had the spade K, as West would have led it if he held it. So he led the heart Q.

That made it a cinch for South, who won the trick in dummy and later finessed against the heart J. Otherwise a heart trick, the setting one, would have been sure for East and West.

The one clear-cut return for East, which could not hurt, would have been a spade. Even if South had the K, the Q lead would have been harmless, and that was the only way to avoid leading from one of the three side suits which contained queens. The heart Q lead necessitated finding West with both the J and 10, since the 9 was in dummy, to keep it from being harmful.

What is the right way for South to play this deal at 5-Hearts, with West leading first the spade K, next the club A and then the diamond 2?

H.M.C.S. Georgian Rescues U. S. Fliers Adrift On Atlantic

Important things to do

1 Use the side-bank method of firing, alternating the firings to left and right sides, or front and back.

2 Avoid covering hot coals with fresh coal. Fresh coal, as far as possible, should be added to the side of hot coal. Move hot coals from area of the grate which is to receive the fresh coal. Do not fire fresh coal until at least one-fourth of grate area can be cleared of hot coals. Break up clinkers and work fine ash through the grate area which is to receive fresh coal. Place fresh coal at one side of fire pot, put coarser pieces on bottom and finer particles on top next to the wall of fire pot. After placing fresh coal use oblique-angled poker to break up the hot coke from the previous charge so that it will burn uniformly and not form a hole in the center of the fuel bed. Make certain that the hot coals have ignited the gas before leaving the heater. Light tightly crumpled papers if necessary to start the gas flame.

3 Leave the vent in the fire door open. The gas given off by soft coal contains one-third to one-half of the heat value and must be mixed with air to burn. This air enters through the vent.

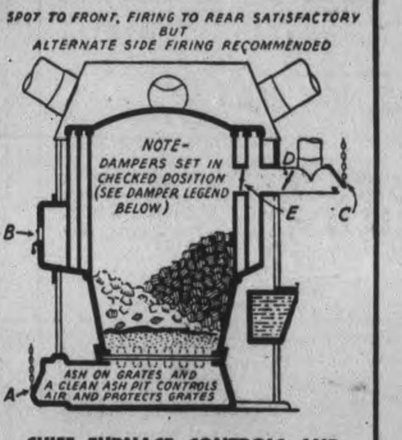
4 Always keep a large glowing surface of hot coals exposed to burn the gas and smoke.

5 Keep the ashpit clean. A clogged ashpit will warp or BURN OUT THE GRATE BARS.

6 Keep a fair depth of ash on the grate. The fire will hold better and will be more readily controlled.

7 Do not shake the grate unnecessarily. Use oblique-angled poker GENTLY to break up clinker and work fine ash through the grate leaving the heavy ash and broken up clinker as a base for the fresh coal. Clinkers too hard to break should be removed with hooked poker or tongs.

8 Handle the dampers carefully. As soon as the gas continues to BURN FREELY above the freshly added coal, check-off the chimney damper and ashpit draught so as to control the rate of burning and prevent waste.



CHIEF FURNACE CONTROLS AND HOW TO USE THEM

A. Ashpit Damper. Open to speed up fire, close to check.

B. Fire-door Damper. Leave wide open for these fuels.

C. Main Check Damper. Close to speed up, open to check.

D. Key Damper. Leave partly closed except when building new fire.

E. Direct Damper. (on some furnaces) Open when attending fire. Close at all other times.

N.B. BEFORE OPENING THE FIRE DOOR CLOSE C AND OPEN E AND/OR D.

In firing a mixture of 25 per cent soft coal and 75 per cent hard coal, the usual firing practice for hard coal may be used, provided that the soft coal is relatively free of fine coal and that the coals are well mixed in the proper proportion.

The householder is urged to accept any fuel suitable to his equipment, which may be available through his dealer, thus assuring himself a supply of coal before the cold weather sets in.

CAUTIONS

Important DON'TS to remember

1 DON'T let the fire "roar."

2 DON'T let the chimney pipes get overheated.

3 DON'T wet the coal. It quenches the flame and gives chimney pipe condensation.

4 DON'T burn garbage or place any foreign material in the heater. Clinker trouble will result.

5 NEVER leave the heater unattended:
(a) while the draughts are fully open,
(b) after firing fresh coal, until the gas is burning freely. Should the gas stop burning, open chimney pipe damper and fire-door, then insert a piece of burning paper to ignite the gas. After the flame is self-supporting close the fire-door, then check as described above.

6 ALWAYS open the chimney pipe damper before opening the fire-door so that smoke or gas will not escape into the room.

7 ALWAYS have a glowing spot of hot coals exposed.

8 Remove soot regularly and frequently, keeping the heating surfaces and passages clean. Soot accumulations clog passages, reduce draught and prevent the useful transfer of heat from the heater to the room.

9 If for any reason the method of firing illustrated above cannot be strictly adhered to and the hot coals cannot be completely moved to one side, THEN FIRE LITTLE AND OFTEN until the proper depth of fuel bed is obtained. Filling the heater with a large amount of fresh coal will not produce a hot fire, but will create gas and fire hazards, waste coal and increase smoke.

BOMB BARRAGE SATURATES LEIPZIG

See Wreckage Of Bomber Along River

24 Men Missing In Liberator Since Tuesday Night

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (CP)—Searchers for a missing Liberator aircraft carrying 24 R.C.A.F. personnel from eastern air stations to Montreal have sighted wreckage off the mouth of the Saguenay River and it is feared the plane crashed into the St. Lawrence, R.C.A.F. headquarters announced today.

Next-of-kin of the missing men have been notified and their names will be made public shortly.

Following is the text of the headquarters statement:

"Wreckage has been sighted off the mouth of the Saguenay River by searchers for a Liberator aircraft carrying 24 men.

"The aircraft, carrying men from stations of eastern air command, left on a routine transport flight Tuesday. Some of the passengers were en route to Dorval. Others were on their way home on leave.

"Last word of the missing aircraft was over Mont Joli, (Que.) at 10 p.m. Tuesday, when it reported that a low ceiling made landing impossible and that it would head for Dorval.

Bad Weather

"It is feared that due to weather conditions the aircraft crashed into the St. Lawrence River.

"All available aircraft have been ordered out to search for the missing Liberator. Weather conditions prevalent since Tuesday have made the task of the searching parties extremely difficult.

"Next-of-kin of the missing men have been notified and as soon as headquarters receives confirmation that notice has reached families of the men, names will be announced."

The search for the missing four-motored aircraft has drawn out one of the biggest searching forces ever gathered in Canada.

Eastern air command at Halifax previously announced that six of the 24 persons aboard the big aircraft were crew members and that the other 18 were passengers.

Yesterday squadrons of search planes were reported to have covered every inch of the St. Lawrence and its banks between Gaspe and Quebec, including the Saguenay. When the wreckage was sighted was not known here, but presumably it was this morning.

Reports from the Montreal-Quebec area said the search planes and naval craft on the river were hampered by thick, low-flying clouds.

Japanese Build Big Airfields

By OLEN CLEMENTS
Associated Press War Correspondent

Somewhere in Northwestern Australia, Oct. 18 (delayed)—(AP)—The Japanese are building up airfields in the Netherlands East Indies to give them strong protection against any move by Gen. Douglas MacArthur's Southwest Pacific forces or those of Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten in southeast Asia.

The heaviest developments have been noted by Allied reconnaissance on the islands of Timor, Celebes, Amboina, Doom, Kai, Tanimbar, Selaroe and Ceram, sprinkled through the Arafura and Banda Seas, northeast of Australia. Some are but an hour away from Allied bomber bases in northwestern Australia.

The Japanese now face growing Allied air power in the Southwest Pacific backdoor to the rich Netherlands which they captured early in 1942, as well as the threat of offensive blows from the direction of the new southeast Asia command.

Claims Oakes Still Alive When Fire Started In Room

By E. V. W. JONES—Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 21—(AP).—The Nassau coroner testified today that Sir Harry Oakes apparently still was alive last July when his body was set afire by an attacker who had beaten him over the head.

Dr. L. W. Fitzmaurice, testifying at the trial of Oakes' accused son-in-law, Alfred de Marigny, said he found burn blisters on the millionaire's body.

"Are post-mortem blisters possible?" asked a cross-examining defence counsel, W. A. E. Callender.

"Not according to any text-book I have seen," the physician replied.

Action dragged for the first time since the sensational trial was opened Monday as Dr. Fitzmaurice and Dr. H. A. Quackenbush, first physician to reach the death scene, described the wounds and burns which caused death.

2 Women Testify.

A pick up in the pace was in prospect for the afternoon session, however, with the testimony of two young women who previously have testified that De Marigny was near the death scene—Sir Harry's estate known as Westbourne—on the night of the slaying.

Mrs. Jean Ainslie and Mrs. Dorothy Clark, wives of Royal Air Force fliers, waited until the medical testimony was over to tell of attending a dinner party at De Marigny's cottage on the fatal night.

They have testified that De Marigny drove them after midnight to their homes near Westbourne.

Speaking from memory, Dr. Fitzmaurice described in minute detail wounds and burns.

The second witness to take the stand on the fourth day of Alfred De Marigny's trial for murder, Dr Fitzmaurice gave his involved, technical testimony without referring to a note.

The 35 year old De Marigny, husband of Sir Harry's eldest daughter Nancy, listened calmly from the prisoner's dock.

Court opened with the conclusion of cross-examination by defence counsel Godfrey Higgs of Dr H. A Quackenbush, first physician summoned after Harold G. Christie, an overnight guest at the Oakes estate, discovered the baronet's beaten and burned body.

Referrring again to Christie's testimony that he tried to revive Oakes, Higgs showed a photograph to Dr. Quakenbush.

"If the face had been wiped twice with a wet towel," the attorney asked, "would the blood on the face be as shown in this photograph."

"Yes," replied the physician, "it is possible."

FRENCHMEN ESCAPE

LONDON—The News Chronicle reported today that a party of 18 prominent Frenchmen has reached Britain after escaping from France.

Prisoner Swap Made In Sweden

By EDWIN SHANKE
Associated Press Staff Writer

GOTEBORG, Sweden, Oct. 21—(AP)—The Swedish part of the exchange of approximately 5,000 wounded, British, Canadian, Australian and American soldiers sailors and airmen for a similar number of German invalids was completed today with the sailing of three hospital ships for Britain and two for Germany.

The German hospital ship Meteor, once the Kaiser's yacht, sailed first with hundreds of Germans, brought here from Britain and Canada. The British Atlantis pulled out 15 minutes later filled with men from German prisoner-of-war camps. Then followed the Canadian Pacific liner Empress of Russia and the Swedish Drottningholm, bound for Britain and the Ruegen, headed for Germany.

Soldiers crowded the rails of the Britain-bound craft as they cast off, tossing gaily-colored streamers across the dock and giving rousing cheers.

One blind Tommie hummed a jazz tune on the Atlantis and danced a jig.

The exchange on Swedish soil was handled smoothly by the Swedish Red Cross, requiring four days. In another four days the repatriates will be in Britain.

Some of the repatriates said one of the main needs of prisoners still held in Germany is more Red Cross packages.

"If they don't get more Red Cross help, they are facing a grim winter," said one soldier before he boarded ship.

A further exchange is being arranged through Barcelona, Spain.

Nazi Forces Retreat From Crimea

Russian Advances Imperil Great Hun Army

LONDON, Oct. 21 (CP)—German armies in the Crimea have begun a mass withdrawal from the peninsula via the Perekop land bridge, Moscow advices indicated today, to escape intrapment by a powerful Russian advance threatening their line of retreat.

Trying furiously to stem the steady progress of the Red Army troops pouring through the Kremenchug bridgehead west of the Dnieper River, the German command was said to be throwing all available reserves into the breach. But the Soviet drive, hourly increasing in momentum, smashed further to the west through the Ukrainian steppe country to overlap the Crimea on the north, a Russian communique disclosed.

35 Miles To Go

A second Red Army column was racing south toward Krivoi Rog, important rail junction and centre of the South Russian iron industry, and today was reported to be within 35 miles of that key German stronghold guarding the last escape railway route from the Crimea.

Capture of Krivoi Rog would virtually seal off the tens of thousands of Germans huddled in Dnepropetrovsk and in the Dnieper bend above Melitopol.

Elimination of the German forces in the Dnieper bend, which the Russian communique indicated was practically assured after yesterday's advances, would leave the way open for a swift Red Army drive across the Steppes to Perekop Peninsula and the mouth of the Dnieper River where it flows into the Black Sea.

Unless the Nazis make good their escape from their Crimean positions, they face the possibility of a debacle unequalled since Stalingrad.

North of Kiev and south of Rec Itsa, the Moscow war bulletin said, the Germans were falling back before determined Red Army thrusts

Whiskey Quota Remains The Same

TORONTO, Oct. 21.—(CP).— A. St. Clair Gordon, chairman of the Liquor Control Board of Ontario, said to-day his department "does not foresee any increase in the present Ontario liquor ration for the duration of the war."

Commenting on a report from Vancouver that the British Columbia ration will be increased from 13 to 26 ounces for November and December, Mr. Gordon said no such increase was planned for Ontario. The ration in Ontario is 40 ounces of spirits and 18 quarts of beer a month, and two bottles of wine weekly.

Report Claims Coffee Rationing Near End Shipping Situation Greatly Improved

TORONTO, Oct. 21 —(CP). — A Toronto paper says to-day "it is believed in well-informed sources that coffee rationing in Canada will be lifted within the next five weeks."

Saying that Prices Board officials have refused comment on the report, the story added:

"It is known that the shipping situation has improved so much recently that supplies reaching Canada . . . during September totalled more than 6,000,000 pounds."

Toronto coffee dealers were quoted as saying that Canada's normal consumption of coffee was about 48,000,000 pounds annually.

Present coffee ration in Canada is approximately 1½ pounds a month per person.

Jap-Americans From Hawaii Smash Huns Above Volturno

By RELMAN MORIN—Associated Press War Correspondent

WITH THE 5TH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 21—(AP). — The "Guinea Pigs from Pearl Harbor," a unit of American infantry composed almost entirely of men of Japanese descent, have won the praises of their fellow soldiers.

It was the first such unit to go overseas and now has returned from its first active combat along the Volturno front.

Officers who witnessed the action were unrestrained in their admiration. They said they never saw troops handle themselves better in their first trial under fire.

The unit was in the line four days during the heaviest fighting through the mountains north of Benevento. It accomplished every assigned mission and took every objective, including one small but heavily defended village.

A Bitter Test.

The men fought their way through powerful concentration of German artillery fire and had what they called "duck soup," clearing mazes of machine-gun nests which the Germans always leave behind when forced to abandon a position.

Every one of the non-commissioned ranks is from the Hawaiian Islands. They average five-feet-four but their officers declare they can outmarch and outwork most ordinary troops. Only a few of their junior officers and their commanding officer are not of Japanese descent.

Their motto is "remember Pearl Harbor" and they refer to themselves as guinea pigs—test unit. They probably are a criterion for the loyalty of all Americans of Japanese blood.

Everybody is kidding Pte. Shizuo Takeshige of Honolulu about being a "tenderfoot." It seems the Islanders, who often play football without shoes, are proud of the toughness of their feet.

Takeshige absorbed a lot of shrapnel from a German mortar shell. They dug it out of his back, arms and legs, then he insisted on returning to action. However, one foot kept hurting him. He couldn't believe he was footsore. He removed his shoes and found another chunk of shrapnel embedded in the tough skin of the ball of his foot.

The "Guinea Pigs" have passed their test with the highest marks the army can give, their officers said.

Chief Withdraws Farm Charges

TORONTO, Oct. 21—(CP).—Chief Constable Robert Alexander of York Township asked today in county police court for withdrawal of charges he laid against 33 farm workers for harvesting vegetable crops last Sunday, but was advised by the magistrate to make his withdrawal request when the cases came up for trial next Wednesday.

It was considered almost certain the request for withdrawal will be accepted then, and the charges which excited widespread comment among Provincial Government and church officials yesterday dropped.

Charged under an Upper Canada statute of 1845 enacted to "prevent the profanation of the Lord's Day" were three York township farmers: W. J. Smith, W. C. Mason and George Rennie, and their 30 helpers.

Chief Constable Alexander said before making his request for withdrawal of the charges that his reversed decision "is based on what I am told, that the action of the York township police in laying the charges was unpatriotic." Reeve F. J. MacRae of York township said he had told the Chief Constable yesterday he would like the charges withdrawn and "I don't think there will be any delay about it."

Commenting on the case last night, Col. T. L. Kennedy, Ontario Minister of Agriculture, termed the charges "these stupid annoyances" and said he had spent a recent Sunday harvesting apples in his own orchard. Premier George Drew also said that unless there were circumstances in the case that had not been disclosed "there would appear to be no justification" for the charges when the need for food was so great.

Americans Batter Duren Mosquitoes Hit Berlin 20 German Fighters Bagged

Night's Operations Cost 17 Bombers Americans Lose Eight First Heavy Raids On Duren-Leipzig

By HENRY B. JAMESON—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 21—(AP).—A great fleet of R.A.F.-R.C.A.F. heavy bombers, out for the eighth night this month, smashed at the Germans' second line of industrial defence last night, hitting the big city of Leipzig, where many of the Ruhr's bombed-out industries have moved.

Mosquito bombers flew over Berlin for the third time this week, while other bombers ranged over widespread areas of the Reich.

The night cost 17 bombers, the same number as in the last big raid on Hanover Monday. One was a Canadian craft.

Leipzig, Germany's sixth industrial city, is situated in the middle of the country, 100 miles southwest of Berlin, and almost on the Czechoslovak border.

Rail Terminal.

Leipzig has one of the world's largest railroad terminals on lines linking it with other important industrial centres like Berlin, Regensburg and Kassel, also recently blasted by Britain-based Allied bombers.

R.C.A.F. Lancaster squadrons participated in the attack.

Leipzig's big railroad yard is one of the prime junctions for traffic to the Nazis' dire-pressed Russian front.

Its airplane plants include engine and assembly factories for the Junkers-88, which is believed to be one of the chief types engaged in recent London night bombings, and Messerschmitt 109s.

It was the first big attack of the war on Leipzig. Deep in Germany, the city is about 100 miles southwest of Berlin, forcing a roundtrip flight of more than 1,000 miles.

The city, with a normal peacetime population of about 700,000, is the site of important factories engaged in manufacture of chemicals and scientific instruments.

The night attack followed a daylight assault yesterday by American heavy bombers which hit an important non-ferrous metal works at Duren in western Germany.

The American attack on the Duren metal works in the Ruhr, the first assault on this target, was pounded home simultaneously with another U.S. raid on an enemy airfield at Gilze-Rijen, Holland. Eight bombers were lost.

The operation was the first for the daylight bombers since the obliteration assault carried out last Thursday on the Schweinfurt Roller and Ball Bearing Works.

Last night's R.A.F. and R.C.A.F.C. activity came as a climax to a day throughout which the Allied bombers and fighters kept up intensive attacks across the Channel and shot down at least 20 German fighters.

A German communique, broadcast by Berlin, asserted Nazi bombers "carried out a strong attack against the harbor district of Hull," east coast port about 160 miles north of London, last night.

At least 12 persons were killed in the attack on London, three of them in a suburb which was straddled by a stick of four bombs. An anti-aircraft shell killed a man and two children in suburban Sydenham.

The London alert system sounded soon after midnight for the fifth succesive night as the Nazi raiders swooped in over the capital area, some of them trying to dive or glide noiselessly over the city. Bombs were dropped at a number of spots, resulting in some casualties.

Sagging Morale Prompts Talks

By E. C. DANIEL
Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 21.—(AP).— The third "crisis conference" in a little more than two weeks has been held in Germany to shore up Nazi morale for the winter. A meeting of the chief agents of Nazi "justice" was announced last night by the German news agency D.N.B. in a broadcast recorded by the British Ministry of Information.

The Agency said Justice Minister Dr. Otto Thierack, former president of the ruthless people's court and friend of the assassinated "butcher" Reinhard Heydrich, spoke to the judges on "the significance of the administration of justice on the bearing and attitude of the home front in keeping with the demands of total war."

Watch Russians.

The meeting coincides with Stockholm reports of German fears of another and even greater Stalingrad as the result of the Russian breakthrough on the Dnieper.

"Who is master of Germany?" asked the Daily Mail in a Geneva dispatch suggesting Keitel's call to the High Command signified Hitler's final surrender of the grand strategy role to his generals.

The Mail's dispatch asserted nearly all the top generals except Nazi types like Kurt Zeitzler, Georg Von Kuechler, Gunther Von Kluege and Erwin Rommel want to cut military losses in Russia to avert another Stalingrad and so have abandoned Hitler's intuitive grand strategy.

Sir Dudley Martyr To Job

Critical Times Kept Him On Duty

By FOSTER BARCLAY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 21 — (CP) — Sir Dudley Pound, who died today after retiring as First Sea Lord early this month as a result of ill health was kept busy during the four years he directed Britain's naval strategy that he managed to get home for a night's rest only about four times a year.

Except on occasions when the 66-year-old admiral of the fleet journeyed with Prime Minister Churchill to the United States, Canada and North Africa he could be found at any hour of the day in or nearby the Admiralty's chart room where big naval actions were planned and followed. It was a 24-hours' watch for the bushy-browed First Sea Lord until he went to hospital and relinquished his position to Sir Andrew Cunningham.

Night after night Sir Dudley would phone his wife—she died last July—at their modest furnished flat in Kensington to tell her that he would not be able to get home. She understood and never complained.

When Lady Pound became ill he tried to get back to his flat in the evenings, but found it impossible. So he set aside his lunch hour to be with her. Then he hurried back to his work.

Bishops' Statement Startles Politicians

C.C.F. Leaders Interpret Decision To Mean R.C.'s May Support Party

QUEBEC, Oct 21.— (CP).— A statement by Roman Catholic bishops that their parishioners had liberty to join any political party so long as the party maintained "fundamental principles of Christianism. and taken by C.C.F. leaders as removing doubts on the right of Catholics to participate in C.C.F. activities, to-day recalled previous opposition to the party by church leaders.

The Bishops' declaration, contained in a statement issued here yesterday, condemned Communism as "abolishing liberty and degrading human personality" and added "in their capacity of spiritual advisers of the Catholic populataion, the Canadian Bishops declare that their worshippers have all liberty to join any political party as long as that party maintains the fundamental principles of Christianism which are traditonal in Canada, and as long as it favors, in the economic and social order, the necessary reforms asked for in Pontifical documents."

C.C.F. leaders, including M. J. Coldwell, national chief, said this clarified the position of Catholics in regard to his party.

Archbishop Gauthier of Montreal in 1934 and Cardinal Villeneuve in 1938 condemned the C.C.F. party However, Mr. Coldwell recalled that at the time of Archbishop Gauthier's remarks he had got a statement from Archbishop McGuigan to the effect that Catholics were free to support the C.C.F. or any other party then campaigning in Saskatchewan.

The current issue of the Canadian Register, official organ of Roman Catholic diocese in Ontario, commenting on the Bishops' statement declared: "The hierarchy does not name the C.C.F., or it would not wish to use words which could be interpreted or misinterpreted as favoring one political party exclusively, but it is made quite clear that Catholics have the same liberty of supporting this as the other parties."

Coldwell's View

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP). — Three leaders of the C. C. F., in a statement issued here yesterday, said they consider "of special importance" a declaration by Canadian archbishops and bishops of the Roman Catholic Church that Roman Catholics are free to support any political party in Canada maintaining the "fundamental principles of Christianity."

"This clarifies the position of Catholics with regard to the C.C.F. and removes any shadow of a doubt as to the right of Catholics to support and participate in the work of the C.C.F. although it should be stressed that many Catholics have been active in our movement since its inception," said the statement, issued by M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader; F. R. Scott of Montreal, C.C.F. national chairman; and David Lewis, C.C.F. national secretary.

The C.C.F. statement said the declaration by the archbishops and bishops made a broad national appeal not only to members of the Catholic faith but to all in authority to promote urgently-need social and economic reforms.

Pope Flouts Nazi Demands

Refuses To Deliver Fugitives To Germans

BERNE, Oct. 21—(AP).—A border dispatch to the newspaper La Suisse of Geneva said today the Vatican refused to deliver to the Germans anti-Fascist and anti-Nazi refugees who sought sanctuary within its walls, and "Germany bowed to this decision."

Included in the refugees, the dispatch from Chiasso said, were leaders of the former Fascist regime who became prominent anti-Fascists after Mussolini's fall.

Although the Lateran pact of 1929 provides that political refugees may not be given sanctuary in Vatican City, the situation has been altered inasmuch as the Holy See recognizes the government of Premier Pietro Badoglio and the German occupation of Rome in effect abrogates the treaty.

Relations between the Vatican and Germany improved after Luigi Cardinal Maglione, Papal Secretary of State, received assurances that the Reich had no intention "to protect Vatican territory as it had Bohemia and Moravia."

There has been much talk of the Pope's efforts to have Rome recognized as a holy city by the belligerents in order to save it from the ravages of war. There has been great reserve in Vatican circles regarding this proposal, but the possibility of such an accord is not excluded.

MYSTERY SHROUDS WHEREABOUTS OF GIANT AIRLINER IN QUEBEC

Plane With 26 Passengers Missing Along St. Lawrence

MONTREAL, Oct. 21—(CP).—By air, water and land one of the biggest searching forces ever gathered in Canada early today was concentrating in the St. Lawrence River area between Quebec and Montreal, where a big R.C.A.F. four-engined Liberator, possibly carrying 26 passengers, is believed down. The plane, bound from an Atlantic port to Montreal, was last checked over Quebec City at 10 p.m. Tuesday, a reliable report stated. However, there has been no official elaboration on the plane's disappearance with the exception of the statement that the search is continuing.

Yesterday squadrons of searching planes are reported to have have combed every inch of the big stream and its banks between Gaspe and Quebec and including the Saguenay, and wasted many precious hours following up unprofitable leads reported by persons who responded to day-long radio broadcasts for information.

"It was fine the way people cooperated but we found they were even reporting our searching planes" said an Air Force officer.

Low Ceiling.

The searching planes and naval craft on the river were hampered by thick low-lying clouds which, in the words of one Air Force officer, made the quest "extremely difficult."

Last night air force officials discounted a flood of second-hand reports from the lower St. Lawrence area that the big service plane had definitely crashed into the river there. The reports, attributed to various sources, could not be verified. They told of a big bomber plunging into the river between Murray Bay and Saint Simeon on the north shore of the St. Lawrence and 125 miles northeast of Quebec.

Police Chief Ulric Boulaine of Murray Bay told The Canadian Press office at Quebec that the travellers had told him a big passenger plane plunged into the river near his town late yesterday afternoon. He added his informers told him there were between 17 and 26 persons on board. He did not say how many were on the passenger list and he provided no other details as to the rescue if any or what was being done to salvage the aircraft.

Stan Musial's new three-year contract with the Cards calls for something over 10 G's next season with raises to follow each year....Watch for Henry Armstrong to start another comeback soon after the first of the year....And here's hoping the first guy he fights hits him just hard enough to knock the idea out of Hank's head.

Reverse play:

In a game against the Cheltenham Jayvees at Philadelphia the other day, Halfback Stewart Webster of the Willow Grove Bears took the ball on the 10-yard line and galloped 80 yards downfield....Then, thinking he had reached the goal, he touched the ball down and walked away....A Cheltenham end (still unidentified) picked it up and started in the other direction....As he reached midfield, the gun sounded, the end stopped and so did the game.

Sharks Defeat Red Sox 6 to 4

In the St. Peter's High School Rugby League on Tuesday night, the Sharks defeated the Red Sox by a score of 6-4 in a game that was as even as the score sounds. The game was the best battle of the league so far. Line-ups:

Red Sox — Lucano, C. Russell, Fontaine, Perren, Conlin, A. McDonald.

Sharks — Lynch, Connelly, O'Rourke, Crowley, Rudkins, H. Russell.

Scorers for Rex Sox, Hicks, McDonald 2, Perren, Lucano.

By a score of 26-13 the Cardinals went down under the pressure of the Wolves. Ice Club Gets Outdoor Rink

The Ice Club of Peterborough, recently formed, is progressing favorably with its organization.

Purchase of a property for a temporary outdoor rink, and suitable for expansion to five times present size has been effected.

While the first season's fee has been set at a low minimum of five dollars, to encourage enrolment, the organizer is inviting sponsors and charter members with a more than average contribution to join him now in leading the pioneer efforts.

Previous attempts at forming a club had failed, partly because of erronous attitude and partly because the group decided to use an ice surface not their own and having ice later taken from under them.

The present effort is being put forth with the sound idea of holding full control of ice surface by ownership.

The club fosters figure skating primarily, based on qualified tuition, using plenty of reserved ice surface (patches) and ice time not otherwise obtainable.

The Club is a member of the Canadian Figure Skating Association of amateur status without any view or aim at financial gain or profit.

Grove Firsts Beat Lindsay

LINDSAY, Oct. 21.—The Lindsay Collegiate football squad opened their schedule against the First team of the Grove School in a thrill-packed contest played here Wednesday. A deceptive passing attack paced the Grove team to a 13 to 6 victory.

Lindsay elected to receive at the beginning of the first quarter, and their superior bucking pushed Lakefield down the field. A "sleeper" pass from Hyde to Giroux opened the scoring for Lakefield, and Andy Harris placed-kicked the convert successfully.

The score at 6 to 0 for Lakefield, and aggressive Lindsay team plunged down the field, but the hard-hitting Grove secondaries slowed them up in time. An attempted drop-kick for Lakefield failed to click, and Hyde booted the point to bring the score to 7 to 0. Lindsay plunged hard, and ran the ends well, but they failed to score before half-time.

Shortly after the third quarter got underway, Harris intercepted a Lindsay pass, and dashed twenty yards for a touchdown. The convert was good, and the score stood at 13 to 0. Lindsay came close to scoring following a brilliant run-back by Schell, but again could not seem to make the most of their scoring opportunities.

In the last quarter, Roy of Lakefield intercepted a Lindsay pass and made a spectacular dash of 55 yards, but was finally nailed on the Lindsay ten yard line. Here Lindsay made a determined stand, and sparked by Schell, bucked their way up to the Lakefield three yard line. Schell carried the ball over the line for Lindsay's first score; the pass on the convert was ruled complete, because illegal interference on the part of the Lakefield team. The final score: Lakefield 13, Lindsay 6.

Outstanding for Lakefield in the backfield were Harris, Giroux, Hyde, Roy and Mackenzie; on the line, Smart, Strathy and Clare played well. Starring for Lindsay were Schell, Worsley, Snook and Trotter.

Lineups:

Lakefield—Snap, Smart; insides, Clare, Shanley; middles, Nanton, Gibaut; wings, Strathy, Patton; qurater, Harris; halves, Giroux, Mackenzie, Hyde; flying wing, Roy.

Lindsay—Snap, Vrooman; insides, Batt, O'Brien; middles, Logan, Davidson; wings, Trotter, Gregory; quarter, Worsley; halves, Hope, Mackey, Schell; flying wing, Snook.

Parent Agrees To Send Child To School

A charge against Norman Sweet under the School Attendance Act of failing to send his 13-year-old daughter to school was again adjourned at the request of the accused when it was called in police court this morning.

"My doctor has been out of town and is supposed to be back today," said Sweet. "He has been giving the girl medicine and told me that he wanted to make a final checkup before she returned to school."

"The girl has been examined by the school doctor," said Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., "and she is all right. Either she has been malingering and the parents do not know it or they have been guilty of not sending her to school. The trouble is the parents are both working and the child is running wild."

At the suggestion of Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., Sweet agreed to send his daughter to school tomorrow.

The case was adjourned until next Thursday for final disposition.

Peoples Score 2nd Win Over Hamilton

TORONTO, Oct. 21 — Peoples chalked up their second straight victory in the Ontario senior softball series when they came from behind to nose out Hamilton Majors by a 2-1 score. The sudden turn for the better in the weather brought a large crowd out to Acorn Park to witness the renewal of the pitching duel between Cam Ecclestone and Russ Johnson.

The locals won the ball game in the seventh inning when two of their five hits followed a walk and a sacrifice to score two runs and overcome a lead Hamilton had gained in the fifth inning when Phil Sweeney's double scored Jack Howard from second base. Ecclestone, in fine fettle all the way, gave the Hamilton crew only two hits while his teammates were getting five off Johnson. Johnson had the better of the duel up until the sixth inning, when Peoples wasted two hits and then came through with their winning runs in the seventh frame.

Peoples seemed to have lost their chance to knot the count in the sixth inning, when Cam Ecclestone opened the frame with a double, watched Bob Burkitt strike out and Red Gilbert walk, then tried to steal third and was thrown out easily. Fred Kennedy then doubled with what would have tied the score. Undaunted, however, Peoples came back fighting in their half of the seventh, and it was Jim Murchie's hit that tied the count and Cam Ecclestone's long fly that sent the winning run home.

8th Army Takes Oratino Occupy Busso

By EDWARD KENNEDY
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Allied 5th Army has made slight gains in the area north of the Volturno River, it was announced today, and advanced elements are probing the region to determine exactly where the Germans are setting up their new defences based on Massico Ridge.

The ditches and irrigation canals of this fertile, but now devastated, agricultural terrain slowed up the progress of Allied troops.

On the 8th Army front, Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery's troops stormed the high ground dominating the road running northwest from Vinchiaturo, occupied Busso, a mountain village about four miles due west of Campobasso, and swept into Oratino a few miles to the north.

Busso, situated 2,400 feet above sea level, overlooks Baranello to the south.

Hit Yugoslavia

Stabbing deeper into the Balkans than on any previous flights, Allied medium bombers from the northwest African forces wrecked the roundhouse and locomotives at Nis, Yugoslavia to lend an assist to the guerilla forces fighting the Germans there.

Nis lies between Belgrade and Sofia and is an important junction through which the Orient Express passes. From Nis the line branches to the south of Salonika through Skoplje, which recently was raided by the Northwest African Air Force.

Railway objectives at Nis were left a mass of flaming wreckage.

Had So Much Gas, Bloating Acidity, Was Afraid To Eat

"Food Lay Like a Heavy Lump In My Stomach," Says This Woman; Limbs, Back Became Sore and Painful; Rejoices Over Grand Relief Obtained By Taking Syntona.

MRS. MINNIE ARNIEL

"During the past year I suffered so badly with gas, bloating and acid indigestion, I was afraid to eat," said Mrs. Minnie Arniel, 809 Queen's Avenue, London, Ontario, in a recent statement.

"Food just lay like a heavy lump in my stomach. I'd belch up hot, sour liquids and have awful dizzy feelings with spots darting before my eyes. Rheumatic pains set in my limbs, joints, and muscles, and I got a dull aching pain right across the small of my back. Some days I felt stiff and sore all over. This condition got me very worried and nervous and I was often so upset at night that I didn't get to sleep for hours after going to bed.

"After trying one thing and another without getting any benefit, I read about Syntona and wasn't taking it long before my food began to digest better. I was free from all that gas, bloating and acidity. Then, as I kept taking it my nerves became relaxed so I could rest better. Gradually the aches and pains left me and I found I wasn't having that dizziness or sickening spots before my eyes. Now I enjoy all my meals and feel more healthy and energetic than I did in a long time. I highly recommend Syntona to other people who are suffering from troubles such as I had. It is a fine medicine."

The good results obtained by taking Syntona are vouched for by hundreds of men and women throughout this city and vicinity. It is made entirely from good old herbs, roots and barks and contains no harmful drugs.

Syntona is sold and recommended in Peterborough at Elliott's Drug Store.—(Advt.)

Government Has Detailed Plans For Women's Division In Peace

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (CP).—When Airwoman Janey Canadian comes marching home from service in the R.C.A.F. women's division she'll find that the nation's interest in her well-being doesn't end when her discharge certificate is handed to her.

The R.C.A.F. announced today in a press release the Defence Department will give her money to help her buy new "civvies" pay for 30 days after discharge if she has been in uniform six months or more and a ticket back home or to where she enlisted, whichever is nearest.

What's more, she can go back to the job she left to enlist, or one equal to it, if she asks her employer within three months after discharge, had been working there at least three months before she enlisted, and is still capable of carrying on the work.

Extra Credits.

If she worked at least 15 weeks in insurable employment, and then finds herself unemployed, the Department of Pensions and National Health will contribute on her behalf to the unemployment insurance for her period of service between July 1, 1941, and the date of discharge. Thus, she will have more credits on which to draw than the 15 or more weeks of contributions made since her discharge.

Perhaps Janey's experience in uniform has opened her eyes to possibilities in civilian life beyond her present qualifications. If so, and if she has the ability, she can get training either in a vocational course, or in undergrad or post-graduate university work. The Government will pay tuition and make a weekly grant toward living costs.

Forces Have Preference.

If she has no job to return to, and does not want to take a course, she can go to the nearest Government employment office. Here, preference is given to those who have served in Forces when vacancies occur on war contract jobs. Civil service also gives preference to those with overseas service when filling vacancies.

If other problems bob up within a year after her discharge, such as illness, or inability to get a job, Janey can get in touch with the Veterans' Welfare officer, who has an office in the Unemployment Insurance office of the larger centres. The Veterans' Welfare officer can advise her as to the possibility of medical care or placement. He is in close touch with citizens' committees.

Military Talk Moscow Agenda

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Oct. 21 — (AP). — The tri-partite conference dug into its agenda in a harmonious four-hour session yesterday, its longest meeting to date, and the presence of British and American military advisers suggested a land attack on Western Europe might have been a topic.

Although all official representatives stuck to the rule that nothing about the actual conversations can be made public until the wind-up of the conference, they relaxed sufficiently to say a cordial atmosphere prevailed throughout the second formal get-together.

Call Kharkov General

Aides participating will change as the various problems wherein they are experts come up. The call yesterday to Lt.-Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay and United States Maj.-Gen. John R. Deans left little doubt the main topic on the agenda worked out the day before was military.

As their Soviet counterpart, the Russian delegation called to the council rooms a high Red Army general, Col.-Gen. Filip I. Golikov, commander of the forces that captured Kharkov.

The Soviet press insisted before the conference opened that closer military co-operation must precede any improvement in political and economic co-ordination of the three great powers — Great Britain, the United States and Russia.

In an editorial entitled "Chief Task of the Moment," the Moscow News, an English language newspaper, yesterday declared that "if the Hitlerite army has not yet been defeated it is only because there is not yet a second front in the west . . ."

Canadian Hero On Way Home

TORONTO, Oct. 21 — (CP). — Don Morrison is on his way home again, his part in this war completed.

Behind him in England, pinned now, perhaps, on a sharp-shooting youngster with even less than Morrison's 2? years, is his old tag as "one of the hottest kids in the fighter command." Behind him in France or Germany, where he was shot down late last year after parking a little too long on the tail of an FW190, is his left leg.

For Don Morrison, who enlisted in the R.C.A.F. in October, 1940, when he was 19 went on his first operation a year later as a sergeant-pilot, got the D.F.M. and his commission for his part in the commando raid at Bruneval in March, 1942, and skipped the rank of flying officer to become a flight lieutenant after Dieppe, is one of the 50 sick or injured Canadian fighting men being exchanged for German war prisoners at Goteborg, Sweden, and at Oran.

Official information from Ottawa that the young fighter pilot was on the exchange list came to his parents here last night.

Holder of the D.F.C. as well as the D.F.M., Morrison was rapidly becoming a legendary character in fighter command when he was shot down. Once, after he was shot down into the sea and picked up by a rescue launch, he dove overboard to rescue a naval rating. Another time, when told that Flt. Sgt. Jack Nickleson, an old Toronto schoolmate, had been shot down, Morrison said he would "get one for him." He did, a few days later, one of the total of five destroyed, seven probables and five damaged that made up his score when he was shot down last November, suffering shrapnel wounds as well as the injuries that necessitated the leg amputation.

Jap Infantry Score Advance

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The South-west Pacific, Oct. 21 — (AP) —Several thousand Japanese and Australian troops waged a bloody battle to-day in the jungle a short distance north of Finschhafen, New Guinea, with the enemy on the offensive.

From strongly-held positions at Sattelberg, 15 miles inland, the Japanese achieved some success in a drive to join another force on the coast and thus form a solid line along the Song River. The river-mouth, toward which the enemy is on the move, is five miles north of Finschhafen.

This counter-offensive cost the Japanese more than 200 men Tuesday in fierce action against elements of Australia's famed Ninth Division. It was the first time in months opposing forces had come to grips on such a large scale, indicating Japanese determination not to continue further the withdrawals they made from Salamaua on September 12, Lae September 16, and Finschhafen.

Inland from this battle scene, other Australians moved slowly up the Ramu Valley less than 40 miles from Madang, the next important coastal base north-west of Finschhafen. Latest advices were that these Australians had extended their positions while the medium bombers pounded the enemy's main supply road.

In the Solomons, a raiding force of more than 109 Allied planes shot down 17 Japanese planes over Ballale on Shortland Island on Monday in the vicinity of Bougainville in the Northern Solomons.

Drawn Poultry Price Increases By 10 Cents

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP). — The Prices Board yesterday issued an order, effective to-day, providing that drawn poultry may be sold at 10 cents a pound above the maximum price for the same kind of dressed poultry not drawn.

The Board said that the bird's head, feet, and all internal organs must be removed before it can be sold at the price set for drawn poultry. The cleaned gizzard, heart and liver may be included in the weight of the drawn bird.

Where a retailer draws a bird at a customer's request after it has been weighed and sold undrawn, he may charge not more than 10 cents for doing so, the Board said.

A letter was read re the affiliation of the society with the W.M.S., but it was decided not to affiliate at present.

An invitation was received from the W.M.S. to attend the autumn Thankoffering meeting on Friday, November 5 in the church, to hear Miss Ida MacKenzie, Dominion Field Secretary, who will be guest speaker. The theme of the devotional period conducted by Mrs. A. Nill was "Thanksgiving."

Refreshments were served by the hostess following the closing.

University Initiations

In a speech made on the occasion of his retirement from the post of Dean of the Faculty of Arts, Dr. John Matheson of Queen's University said some pertinent things about university initiations. Unreservedly, Dr. Matheson declared himself opposed to them.

How anyone with a real sense of the nature of university education could speak in defence of them, we do not know. Initiations of all kinds are relics of man's primitive days, when admission to the tribe demanded trial by a series of ghastly rites. The boy who was soon to become a man had to prove his ability to bear pain before he was permitted a man's place in the hunt and at the tribal council: the man who wished to join the inner circle of the tribe had to be buried and dug up again before he was made free of the mystery of the tribal chiefs. Fraser's Golden Bough is rich in descriptions of these ceremonies, and it is not for us to scoff at them. They were serious matters to the primitive people who evolved them.

But a university initiation is not a serious matter. It is merely horseplay designed to give rough fun to sophomores by allowing them to humiliate freshmen. If a little rough fun were all, no one would greatly care about the matter, but what Dr. Matheson chose to describe as "coarseness and filth" also plays a great part in most initiations. In what may be called the Great "College Humour" Period of Canadian university education—between 1920 and 1930—not only humiliation but severe physical harm was often the result of sophomoric shenanigans.

Men and women go to the university to be given an introduction to the world of the sciences and the arts. Science and art are supposed to separate us from our savage ancestors. They will not do so as long as a student's introduction to university life is a violent reversion to savagery.

Now would be a good time for Canadian universities to drop initiations altogether. We hope that Dr. Matheson's words will be heeded.

Post-War Military Service

In a remarkably interesting address which he delivered last week, the publisher of the New York Times, Mr. Arthur Hays Sulzberger, recommended compulsory military training as part of the post-war United States' program. "When the hostilities are over and the cry comes to bring the boys home", he said, "I, for one, believe it should be answered with rousing cheers. But the ships I would send to bring them back would not be in ballast. They would be loaded to the rails with 18-year-olds, who would be going out to do their year or two of service". In other words, Mr. Sulzberger recommends a long post-war period during which the United Nations stand guard over Germany.

This same recommendation has been put forward very forcibly by Lord Vansittart, who is perhaps the most vigorous German-hater now in Britain. But make no mistake—Lord Vansittart does not hate the Germans because he is a hateful sort of man; he hates them because he has studied their history with the utmost care, and he thinks that they are an evil nation. In less than a century they have foisted no less than five wars of aggression on the world, and each of these has been more savage than its precursor. And as a former Under-Secretary for Foreign Affairs, and head of the British Secret Service, Lord Vansittart has had ample opportunity to observe the Germans at close range.

He thinks that the only hope we have of discouraging German aggressiveness is to put an army of occupation in Germany for at least half a century after this war is finished, to effect a complete demobilization of that country "down to the last sporting club", and through an enforced system of re-education. Obviously such an army of occupation would need continual changing, for countries tend to absorb armies of occupation which remain in them too long. Would Mr Sulzberger's plan of conscripted youth provide the necessary men?

General military service has always been distasteful to the English-speaking peoples. It is a show of force, and we do not like shows of force. But we shall have to decide what measures we mean to take when the war is over to ensure that we shall not be forced to fight the Germans again in twenty-five years. If universal military service is the price we must pay, it may not be so dear, after all. We cannot afford to allow the Germans to get a start on us again, for we cannot always depend on beating them, and defeat by them is too horrible to contemplate.

Degrading Music

We sometimes wonder where people get all their silly ideas. Recently someone developed the hideous notion that it would be a good thing to install a large organ in the Toronto Union Station, and have music played on it from time to time. There is such a device in Grand Central Station in New York, and perhaps that was the source of the inspiration. We cannot imagine anything less suitable to a busy depot than the pealing and roaring of an organ; it is a sound which fills us with a desire for lofty contemplation, and a station is the last place that any sensible person would choose to contemplate in.

But the matter has been ably put by Norman Wilks, the Principal of the Toronto Conservatory of Music. He says:

> "Surely music, in the sense I thought musicians understand it, is worthy of some respect. I fail to see what pleasure or enlightenment anyone in his, or her, senses will derive from a performance of the D minor Toccata and Fugue, a Rheinberger Sonata, or a Wagner transcription, to the accompaniment of loud speakers announcing when the next train leaves for Hamilton, mama telling Popsy to look out for grandma at Oakville, Myrtle shrieking that she has lost a glove, Dick whispering to Olive that he will be up again next week-end, or uncle, feeling pretty good, telling his latest fishing story. Have a hot dog. It is difficult enough for most of us these days to discover ourselves in stillness. We all need less, not more, noise."

Precisely so. What could an organ in the Union Station be but a noise? At best the proposed organ recitals would serve merely as a background for the doings of travellers, and the nasty modern habit of squirting music out of walls and ceilings at people who do not want to hear it would be encouraged. These days the habit of not listening to music is growing more quickly than the habit of music appreciation. Let us not degrade music by making it a background for our daily round of mundane, and frequently foolish, activities.

Little Blessings In The Home

For some time there has been a housing shortage in Canada, and as a result many letters have been written to the newspapers complaining of the iniquities of landlords who refuse to rent to people who have children. We are glad to see that a Toronto landlord has spoken up in defence of his kind. It is not children to whom landlords object, says he, but the strange code of behaviour which parents tacitly encourage in them. The idea seems to be that what does not belong to the parents themselves is fair prey for the destructive talents of the young. One landlord reports that a house which he rented to a family with four children was ruined, even the cold-air shaft being riddled with BB shot; almost every spoke had been pulled out of the verandah railing. Another landlord complains that children in a house which he rented drove nails into the pantry floor until he had to replace it. The tales from landlords of the pranks of such little dears as these strike chill upon the heart.

People who cannot control their children must expect to have trouble finding a home in which childish joy may be unconfined. Admittedly it is hard work controlling the destructive instinct of the young, and the modern tendency to resent the claims of private property make some parents unwilling to attempt such control. But if that is their attitude they need not expect to find houses to rent.

This problem is only a part of a greater one. Shirking responsibility is one of the great faults of our time, whether it is responsibility toward children, or toward the other party in a contract, such as a contract of rental. Unless people can learn to behave in a considerate manner toward others they need not expect to find the world an easy or pleasant place to live in. After all, civilization is largely a matter of showing reasonable consideration toward other people, and expecting the same treatment in return.

NOTE AND COMMENT

A wife who can make her husband eat out of her hand, says a contemporary, will save herself a lot of dishwashing.

In the U.S., we learn, a loaf of bread carries a total of 53 tax levies. How does the stuff ever manage to rise?

Afghanistan with a population of ten millions has no railways. Possibly the lack of level crossings keeps the numbers up.

Financing Education In Ontario

By ISABEL THOMAS, M.A.
York Memorial Collegiate

Do you know how much taxes you pay for education ? Do you think it's too much or too little?

Practically everyone is dissatisfied with our method of financing education, and the criticism has come from three main groups and for three quite different reasons, though the cure proposed by each is somewhat similar.

One group, the home-owners, object to the fact that most of the money for education is raised by a tax on real estate. About 13 per cent of the cost of education is paid by the provincial government in the form of department grants and about 87 per cent is raised by the local municipality by a tax on real estate. Home-owners complain with considerable justice that they bear an undue burden. The larger the house and the more improvements it has, the greater is the tax. The present system is definitely uneugenic; it places a heavy burden on young couples who want to own a home and bring up a family of children.

The costs of education which in a modern democratic society should be shared by all citizens are actually borne mainly by householders, and they are urging that a broader basis be established.

On the other hand, the real democrats and the educationists attack the present system because it fails to provide equal educational opportunity to all children. In education as in other fields of life we get what we pay for. The amount of money spent on each child's education varies tremendously from school-district to school-district. Prosperous communities are able to offer good schools and a variety of courses; but impoverished communities can provide only ill-equipped schools, poorly-paid teachers and the minimum academic course.

The result is that in Ontario, the wealthiest and most thickly populated province of Canada, technical education is still confined mainly to the cities, and secondary education of any kind is confined mainly to the cities and towns.

The unfairness of the present system is felt chiefly in our suburban and in our farm communities. In suburban areas rents are low and married couples with low incomes and large families congregate there; similarly in rural communities the cash income of our farmers is so low that there is just not enough taxable wealth in the community to provide anything but elementary education—and that frequently under an inexperienced and poorly qualified teacher.

At a time when the people of England are trying to rid themselves of their "class system" of education, we in Ontario are rapidly developing a class system. The child of parents who can pay a high rent has a good educational opportunity offered to him, whereas in another community the child of parents who can pay only a low rent is offered a much poorer opportunity.

Under the present system only the cities can compete for highly trained and experienced teachers. If you believe that the teachers in your local school are not quite so marvellous as you would wish, find out what salaries they receive. Teachers in town high schools and continuation schools receive salaries so low that they live in constant insecurity and are unable to maintain the cultural level befitting a profession. Teachers' salaries will have to be raised to the point where they attract the most highly gifted men and women that the community produces. A recent report of the Canada-Newfoundland Education Association recommended that the median salary for Ontario be raised by about $500.

Perhaps we can learn something from England. There teachers are paid on a national system,—the Burnham Scales. Under the Burnham Scales, exclusive of the city of London, all teachers of the same qualifications and experience doing the same work receive the same salary no matter where they teach. Some modification of this system will have to be introduced into Ontario if we wish the schools in our towns and villages to have their fair share of experienced, highly qualified and specially qualified teachers.

The unfairness to the taxpayer, to the child and to the teacher which has been described can be remedied only when the provincial government pays a much larger share of the costs of education. It is gratifying that the two political parties which received most support in the recent provincial election both promised steps in this direction.

The situation calls for a system of provincial grants based on need, in order that municipalities which have little taxable wealth within their borders will be able to offer educational opportunities more nearly equal to those of wealthy communities. This principle has been recognized in grants to elementary schools, but grants to secondary schools are still made largely on the basis of to-him-that-hath-shall-be-given.

The system of scholarships should be greatly extended. This year for the first time the provincial government paid maintenance scholarships to gifted pupils who might otherwise have dropped out of school to earn money. But we have not nearly enough to meet the need.

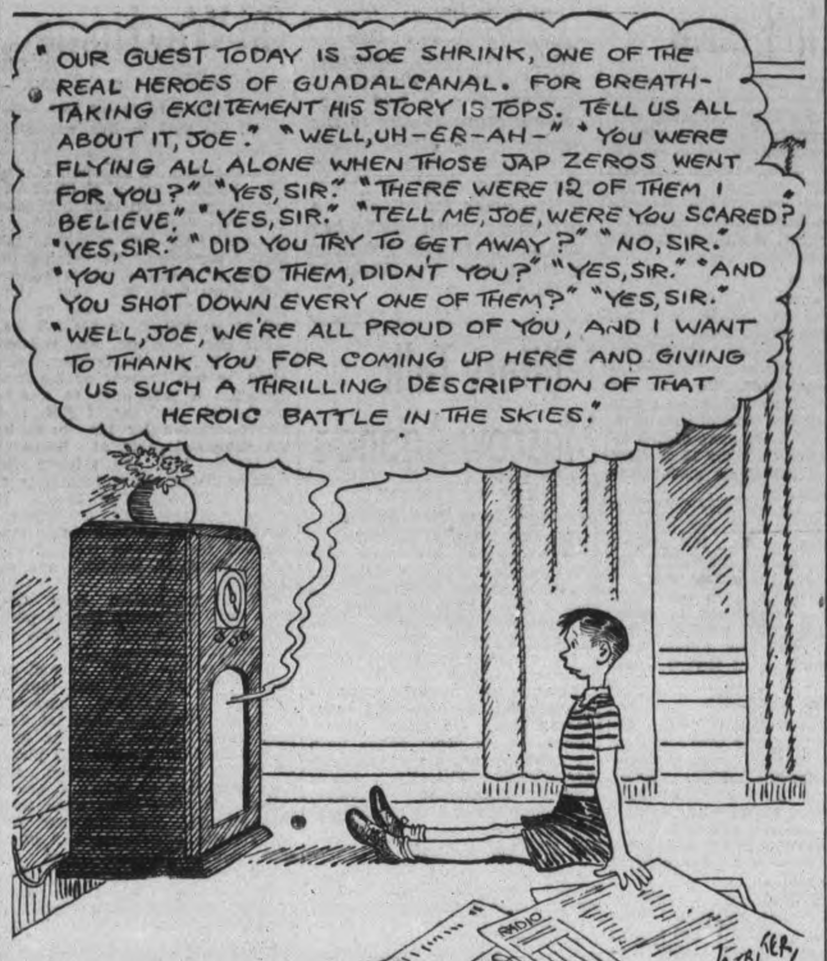
A few years ago proposals that the provincial government should bear a larger share of the costs of education were met with the answer, "Impossible! Where is the money coming from?" But today we can see where the money is coming from.

The province of Ontario last year declared a surplus of about 20 million dollars. The municipalities spent about 40 millions on education. If the provincial budget this year is anything like that of last year, it should therefore be possible for the provincial government to pay half the costs of education. But this reform might prevent expansion in other departments of government equally needy and would in itself bring but little benefit to education. But the money is there; moreover we should realize that the people of Ontario this year are creating about half the 9 billion dollars of the national wealth of Canada. If we can maintain anything like the present program of production in the post-war years, we should find no difficulty in finding the money. Years of great expansion in education lie ahead of us. Certain economies may be made by changes in administration,—larger administrative units and a pay-as-you-go policy in erecting school buildings.

The federal government had already promised after the war dollar for dollar to the provinces for vocational education. Ontario should make sure this time that she takes full advantage of that offer.

It is probably impossible to make radical changes during the war, but there is every prospect that after the war provincial grants will be made definitely on the basis of need and that in this way every child in Ontario may be offered equal educational opportunity. However, we must all remember the warning of Oliver Wendell Holmes, "When I pay taxes I buy civilization."

THE UNSEEN AUDIENCE



Whitehall Notebook

(By DOUG HOW, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

LONDON, Oct. 21 (CP)—The machinery of the British Government is under study, has been for a year. The cabinet, in fact, has planned a reorganization to meet post-war demands.

That disclosure came in the midst of clamor for a statement on the methods by which the government proposes to meet the problem of peace, demobilization, the now famous Beveridge Report, controls of industry, the press, life itself.

It came as a surprise for, as the Manchester Guardian grumbled in a biting article, "Nobody outside the government knew of the existence of such a (cabinet) committee until today. Apparently it has been sitting for a year."

It came, too, as a possible forerunner into action that might satisfy the thirst of press and public for tangible indications of government intentions.

There was support in parliamentary circles for the suggestion that it might lead to the appointment of a cabinet minister to take supreme command of post-war planning.

At present the nearest approach to that is Deputy Prime Minister Clement Atlee who in the recent cabinet shuffle succeeded to the chair of the home-affairs committee.

What-they-are-saying department:

Home Secretary Herbert Morrison: "If the country had to choose in its present mood between the virtues of socialism and the virtues of private enterprise it would be more likely to go for socialism."

The Duke of Montrose: "A policy of self-government for Scotland now has powerful support from the rising generation."

Lobby notes: PO. John Grimston, 31-year-old Conservative who recently returned to his R.A.F. squadron for the third time, has been elected M.P. for St. Albans. Pressure of business with his family's munitions factory twice forced him to take leave from the R.A.F.....He was returned unopposed....

Another blow to the once-strong social democratic federation came with the retirement of Thomas Kennedy from the House. Its top membership of 20,000 had shrunk between the wars to 3,000.

An Artist's Garden

If we agree that an artist's choice of abode is significant — and for a landscape painter it cannot be otherwise, above all for one whose studio is the open air—it becomes necessary to describe for English readers the sort of country to which Monet was finally drawn....

The house which he found was a very simple farmhouse standing some fifty yards back from the road. Behind it began the cultivated slope of the coteau. In front was an orchard stretching out on each side of the central path that led from the road to the front door....These were the materials out of which in a few years Claude Monet had made his garden.

It began with the orchard, which gradually from rough grass was turned into a garden packed full of flowers. Some of the fruit trees were kept, of course, not only or mainly for their fruit: Monet loved blossoming trees more than anything and if there were ever rarities in his garden, they were of flowering shrubs. Otherwise, what he sought after and attained was a bewildering profusion of colour, not grouped in large contrasting masses as the usage is in France, but scattered broadcast. My first impression of it was of a pace so filled with flowers that you could hardly put your hand between them, and all of them common free-flowering things; an artist's garden not a horticulturist's: what is more, the garden of an artist who sought chiefly for the flicker and brilliance of innumerable tiny points, a general iridescence of colour: in short, a Monet picture.

The general effect was that of a wheatfield in which poppies and blue corncockles and yellow marguerites have run wild in confusion. But a scrutiny shows how the whole was planned—and planned by Claude Monet, for his daughter-in-law who now occupies the house keeps the garden, as he willed, just as it was when he and she managed it together.

Naturally it was a slow creation: pictures of his mark stages in its development: for instance, when he came, a path led up to the house between a row of small pines, and the flower beds were arranged on each side of them. But these were soon taken away to make room for a succession of trellised arches which clambering roses would cover with innumerable bunches of light blossom. Monet never cared for big roses nor in general for big flowers; he wanted festoons, or upright regiments of brilliant little faces, throwing back the light of day in streams of pink or scarlet, blue or orange.

All the world can see this flowering garden of his, at a little distance; it is separated from the road by a low wall, surmounted by an iron railing, through which and through the broad gate of honest smithwork, all the world stares as it chooses.—From "Claude Monet and His Garden," by Stephen Gwynn. (New York: Macmillan.)

One of the Jewel Cities of the World

Peking stands for the soul of old China, cultured and placid; for the good life and good living, and for an arrangement of life in which the maximum comforts of civilization are brought into perfect harmony with the maximum beauty of the rural life.

That is why, if you ask a Chinese who knows both Nanking and Peking which one is closer to his heart, there is no question that Peking will be the choice. That is also why a man—let him be Chinese, Japanese, or European—who has lived in Peking for a year wouldn't want to live in any other city in China. For Peking is one of the jewel cities of the world. Except Paris and (by hearsay) Vienna, as they once were, there is no city in the world that is quite so nearly ideal, in regard to nature, culture, charm, and mode of living, as Peking.

Peking is like a grand old person, with a grand old personality....Peking is magnanimous. Peking is big. She harbors the old and the modern, being unmoved herself.

Modern young misses in high-heeled shoes brush shoulders with Manchu ladies on wooden soles, and Peking doesn't care. Old painters with white, magnificent long beards live across the yard from young college students in their "public hostelries" and Peking doesn't care. Packards and Buicks compete with rickshas and mule-carts and caravans, and Peking doesn't care....

Peking is a jewel city, a jewel city such as the eyes of man have not seen before. It is a jewel city of golden and purple and royal blue roofs, of palaces and pavilions and lakes and parks and princes' gardens. It is a jewel set with the purple sides of Western Hills and the blue girdle of the Jade Fountain stream and centuries-old cedars looking down on human beings at the Central Park.....In the city are nine parks and three imperial lakes, known as the "Three Seas," now thrown open to the public. And Peking has such rainy summers, such cool, crisp autumns, and such dry, clear winters!....

Peking has quiet. It is a city of homes, where every house has a courtyard, and every courtyard has a jar of goldfish and a pomegranate tree, where vegetables are fresh, and pears are pears and persimmons are persimmons....

It has colour—colour of the old and colour of the new. It has the colour of imperial grandeur, of historic age, and of Mongolian plains.

Of all the things that make Peking the ideal city to live in, I would single out three: first, its architecture; second, its mode of living; and, third, its common people.—From "With Love and Irony," by Lin Yutang. (New York: John Day.)

A Bible Message

Have I any pleasure at all that the wicked should die? saith the Lord God: and not that he should return from his ways, and live?....

When a righteous man turneth away from his righteousness, and committeth iniquity, and dieth in them; for his iniquity that he hath done shall he die. Again, when the wicked man turneth away from his wickedness that he hath committed, and doeth that which is lawful and right, he shall save his soul alive....

Yet saith the house of Israel. The way of the Lord is not equal. O house of Israel, are not my ways equal? are not your ways unequal? Therefore will I judge you, O house of Israel, every one according to his ways, saith the Lord God. Repent, and turn yourselves from all your transgressions; so iniquity shall not be your ruin.

Cast away from you all your transgressions, whereby ye have transgressed; and make you a new heart and a new spirit: for why will ye die, O house of Israel? For I have no pleasure in the death of him that dieth, saith the Lord God: wherefore turn yourselves, and live ye. (Ezek. 18: 23, 26, 27, 29-32.)

How Time Flies

It is a commonplace that as we grow older the years seem to pass much more quickly than in the days of our youth. An American chemist, Dr. Ferdinand W. Nitardy, has been looking into the matter, and claims to have discovered a formula that explains this acceleration of their pace. His theory is that a period of time seems long or short according to the ratio it bears to the total of the individual's previous remembered experience.

Thus, the memory of a child of eight goes back about four years, and accordingly a single year, representing 25 per cent of his entire remembered experience, seems to him a very long time. At the age of twelve he can remember eight years, and the corresponding proportion is 12.5 per cent, so that a year now appears to be only half as long as it did four years earlier. All through life the ratio continues to dwindle, until in old age a single year represents only a small fraction of one's remembered time and vanishes into the Ewigkeit at a disappointingly rapid speed. Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

The Newmarket Cambridgeshire England's last big race of the 1943 season, drew a field of 15 yesterday from which emerged Quartier Maitre as the winner although the eight-year-old entry of I. Lipton was generally regarded as having finished his racing career. His last winning performance was in 1940, when he captured the Lincolnshire Handicap.

Jockey Tommy Carey sent the veteran horse to the front, but Quartier Maitre weakened badly over the mile course and barely held off Lord Derby's Full Bloom in the driving finish. Chanda, carrying the colors of Major J. Walker was third. The big race lacked much of the pre-war lustre. For one thing, entries were restricted to horses trained locally because of wartime travel and transportation conditions.

Dahlgren Rejected.

First Baseman Babe Dahlgren of the National Phillies has been rejected for military service, it was announced at Philadelphia yesterday, and he will return to the club next year.

Trainer Harry Westerby of the New York Rangers raised his voice at Winnipeg yesterday to give his unanimous vote to Bill Cook of the once-famed forward line of Cook, Cook and Frank Boucher as the greatest hockey player of all time.

They Lead College Scorers

FRANK MAZNICKI BOB STEUBER

Two former bowl stars, Frank Maznicki of Boston College and Bob Steuber of Missouri, now playing for the Iowa Seahawks and DePauw, respectively, top the season's grid scores with 52 points. Steuber made several All-American teams last year.

During the past summer, Westerby trained the Toronto Ball Club and is starting his 18th season as the "doctor" of the Rangers.

On the ground there was no evidence to support a felony prosecution, the Court of Criminal Correction at St. Louis yesterday released from bond Leo Dandurand, Montreal turfman and promoter, who, with other men allegedly participated in a night-club fight there Aug. 30. The others were also discharged on their bonds.

Broken Back.

After joining the Regina Rough Riders only last week, Lieut. Ken Preston, former Toronto grid player, was so severely injured in Saturday's game against Winnipeg United Services that he is in hospital. The club reported he had two injured vertebrae and would be wearing a neck-cast possibly for two months.

The Quebec Senior Hockey League will open Nov. 6 with Quebec Aces playing at Ottawa—providing the Quebec club stays in the circuit. At last night's schedule meeting in Montreal, the Aces demanded 20 home games whereas they had been awarded only 15. They are to have until Saturday to decide whether or not they will stick.

The lightweight boxing championship of the West Indies was retained by Kid German when he outbattled Al Brown in a title bout last night at Bridgetown, Barbados. Brown was floored twice in the early rounds.

Manager Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers announced at Winnipeg training quarters last night he had signed Grant Warwick, 22, former right-winger of the Regina Rangers' Allan Cup team of 1941. Warwick made the fifth player to come to terms with Patrick for the coming season.

Ottawa Air Force, Kingston Frontenacs and Postal Corps have dropped from the Ottawa Senior Hockey League, but Arnprior R.C.A.F. has entered the group to make it a four-team circuit with Hull, Montagnards and Canadiens. Ottawa Airmen, league champions two years ago, eventually captured the Allan Cup.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS FLASHES

By The Canadian Press

Somebody asked Coach Paul Thompson at the Chicago training camp in Minneapolis who in hockey most closely resembled baseball's Bill Dickey—in not wasting effort, doing the right thing at the right time. Paul thought a moment. "Probably Butch Keeling of Rangers," Paul said. "Why, in one year he got only eight goals—but each of those goals won a game." Keeling retired from hockey several seasons ago.

Brian Hextall of New York Rangers claims the sudden transition from western to eastern climate affects Ranger player adversely when they transfer from New York's training camp in Winnipeg to N.H.L. hockey cities in the east. So Hextall and four team mates—Bill Gooden, Jack McDonald, Jack Mahon and Max Labovitch—are staying in a Windsor, Ont., hotel these days. They'll work out with Cleveland Barons of the American League at Detroit.

To Use Bibeault.

Boston Bruins have been granted permission by Quebec military authorities to use Paul Bibeault, former Montreal Canadiens goalie, in an exhibition game against Canadiens in Quebec Sunday. Bibeault is a lieutenant in District Auxiliary Services.

Speaking of Canadiens, just about every rival coach selected the Habitants to finish first or second last season—and Canadiens weren't even close. It's starting all over again this year. Thompson of Chicago says Canadiens are the team to beat. "They have a lot of good players available."

Veteran Harold (Mush) March is back with the Hawks after spending the summer as a golf professional at Hibbing Minn. Another veteran in camp, Johnny Gottselig, spent the summer coaching Racine (Wis.) Belles to the all-American girls softball glamor league pennant.

Cliff Maundrell, 180-pound right wing from Cornwall, Ont., arrived at the Toronto Maple Leaf camp in St. Catharines, Ont., yesterday and will start workouts to-day. Formerly with Oshawa and Cornwall teams. Maundrell is an army reject.

Joe Carveth, one of the veterans Manager Jack Adams is counting upon to bring Detroit Red Wings another world's championship, has been given a draft deferment because of a twice-fractured leg which curtailed his hockey play for two seasons.

QUEEN MARY AND PRINCE OF WALES SPLIT SOCCER LEAGUE POINTS

Leaders Hard Pushed To Get Draw

The leaders of the Public School Soccer League, Prince of Wales, received a severe shock on Wednesday afternoon when the Queen Mary aggregation had them beat in the first half and led by two clear goals in the first period; but the Prince of Wales forwards equalized the count in the second period two-all.

First Half

Prince of Wales started with full confidence that they had an easy game on hand when they tackled Queen Mary but they soon realized that their position was under steady pressure and finally Nicholls converted from 20-yard range that beat Archibald all the way. The league leaders replied with many dangerous raids that Miller always tried had to turn the tide and steady his forwards, while Queen Mary were superior in every department. They were more aggressive and had their opponents on the defensive throughout the first period. Bradley and Butcher initiated many raids that failed to penetrate the Prince of Wales full back or carry toward their objective. With five minutes to go, Butcher dribbled his way through the defense until right close in on goal. Kay, Prince of Wales goalie saved his rocket drive but he made no mistake with his second effort. Queen Mary 2, Prince of Wales 0.

Second Half

On resuming, the game was only a minute old when Miller carried the ball into goal and left Dyer in possession who reduced the count. Encouraged by their success the league leaders found themselves battling against a Queen Mary eleven full of fight to the limit thereby always watching the dangerous raids initiated by Bradley, Russell and Revoy who peppered T. Kay in goal to find him unbeatable. After twenty minutes of play Miller carried the ball right down the centre to place Dyer in possession who picked the vacant spot that a spectator stopped after it had went through. Thereafter both elevens battled hard to get the lead, in fact, Archibald in goal for Queen Mary deserves full credit for the split of points because he stopped a fast drive from the foot of Dyer that was slated for the corner of the upright. Full time: Queen Mary 2, Prince of Wales 2.

Goal scorers: Queen Mary, Nicholls and Butcher; Prince of Wales, Dyer 2.

Queen Mary: A. Archibald, goal; J. Gray and V. Revoy, full backs; K. Nicholls, J. Flowers and B. Collins, halves; R. Butcher, R. Knapp, P. Russell, H. Bradley and J. Smith, forwards.

Prince of Wales: T. Kay, goal; F. McMullen and D. Burrows, full backs; R. Kidd, R. Miller and N. Cullen, half backs; G. Foster, G. Kimberley, D. Dyer, R. Storey and J. Storey, forwards; subs, T. Chambers, N. Nisbett and S. Brown.

Referee: Stroyan Leith, Sr.

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The announcement from Promoter Frank Tunney that Gentleman Jack Clayborne and Palermo John Katan have been re-matched for another bout here next Tuesday night is not surprising. After the riot at the close of this week's bill and after the agruments that have followed each meeting of the two bitter rivals it was natural that the battlers should be given another chance to demonstrate which is the better man. Nor will the statement from the Tunney camp that Referee Bert Maxwell will be missing next Tuesday night cause any astonishment. The general feeling in town will be that Maxwell might well have been re-placed as third man in the ring long before this. In fact Peterborough fans blame him for most of the tumult that has marked the bouts between Katan and Clayborne. It may not have been his fault but Maxwell has been unlucky enough to get himself into a jam each time he has handled a meeting between the Black Comet and the Palermo Panther and as a result there have been two or three wild disturbances. Maxwell has an innate talent for missing some of the worst tactics of the mat bad men and when he accompanies that with a habit of checking other offences not nearly so serious he manages to get in wrong with both the wrestlers and the fans.

* * * * * *

The first time Katan and Clayborne battled Katan won the argument, getting the decisive fall on a Maxwell decision that maddened the colored grappler and turned the crowd into a mob that threatened to wreck the place. That was the night the referee had to leave the arena by a rear door and angry fans tossed stones through rink windows. The two rivals were re-matched and on that occasion Clayborne won the bout but again on a decision that Katan protested violently and in the opinion of most of the fans had every reason to protest. Finally there was this week's tussle and once again Maxwell was the storm centre. The management has wisely decided to take no more chances on a Katan-Clayborne bout with the rotund Toronto official in charge. The services of Tommy Nelson, former light heavyweight European champion have been secured for this important brawl and with this experienced referee handling the bout there should be a marked improvement. The Irish wrestler who is now a resident of Canada knows what it's all about and should be able to check a lot of the stuff that has been getting away from Maxwell.

Should Get Wise

The furore over military hockey players, caused by the Broda episode is still giving sports writers plenty of material and they are using it to advantage. For example from the Snapshots in Sport column in the Kitchener Record we lift the following: "Definite statements from the army say that no inducement whatsoever is, or has been, given to athletes to join up at any specified station, which leads one to believe that civilian sport promoters have a finger in the pie and are able to swing enough weight to assure players signed in one district staying there long enough to complete a full season of play. A case in point might be last season's Allan Cup winners, Ottawa Commandos, who swept through all opposition with a packed team including ten former major league stars. That same Commando team was the target of some bitter criticism and it seems that last year would have been a good time for military officials to step in and make sure that the service was not the target of further mud-slinging. The situation has been built up to a point where all that was needed was something to make the pot boil over. The Broda case did the trick and it left the army in a hot spot. It appears that certain principles have been overlooked in gathering hockey teams. The original purpose of sport in the service was to keep the men physically fit for a fight that is much more important than any game. When it develops into a competition to see which district can pick up the most stars it's time military authorities got wise to themselves. A little closer invesigation into the part military officials played in the Broda fiasco might bring the answer to how a similar situation can be prevented in the future."

* * * * * *

George Campbell of the Oshawa Times-Gazette makes his contribution as follows: "Now you don't have to be smart to realize that every man called up for army training is not given such close observation at his "deadline" hour as Broda was given, but then every man called up isn't a hockey player, much less a top-notch goalie, now as scarce as sugar. So, it's obvious that Toronto Army officials were making sure they retained Broda in their circles and it's equally obvious that Broda had chosen to go to Montreal to enlist for some other reason than that he liked the fresh breezes off the St. Lawrence. Now this all makes interesting reading and Mr. Sport Fan can see that there is shennanigans going on in both Toronto and Montreal (not to mention Cornwall, Kingston, Brampton, Ottawa and any other place where there is a camp) but the real more-to-be-considered reaction is apt to come from the parents of the ordinary young man who was called for military training but since he wasn't a star hockey player, football player, baseball player, he had to go where he was sent, not where he chose, and he has had to stay there, not wander all over the country at about any time he wishes. And within the normal period of time required for training, he has been moved out to a theatre of war, not allowed to remain in Canada for more than two years after enlisting, as is the case in some instances we can name."

GOLD IN THEM THAR' HILLS

Adding a little more fuel to the flames along comes Andy Lytle of the Toronto Star with the statement that Broda was offered a nice chunk of jack to sign up with the Army in Montreal and that there was no financial inducement for him in Toronto. (You can do what you like about believing that part of the story.) Here is the Lytle version: "Turk Broda was offered $2,400 in addition to what army pay he would draw if he joined up in Montreal, played with an army unit in the Q.H.A. An official of the Army Daggers, the team that was trying to persuade Broda to join when the Montreal sergeant animated the picture, said that the best the Daggers could offer Broda was army pay plus a subsistence allowance if he lived out. The simplest way to realize Turk's predicament that eventful (for him) day, which was climaxed by his being taken off a train at Don station, is to put yourself in his place, ask yourself what you would have done. Or don't you know how an athlete thinks?"

HAMILTON WILDCATS TROUNCE BEACHES TO TAKE LEAGUE LEAD

Navy Defeats Indians 14-0; Beaches Protest

By The Canadian Press

Hamilton's Flying Wildcats today led the Ontario Rugby Football Union Senior series but the stirring 18-17 triumph they scored over Toronto Balmy Beach last night to stretch their unbeaten string to six games was clouded by the Toronto club's protest of the result.

The game in Hamilton was one of two in the O.R.F.U. played under floodlights last night. The other was in Toronto where Navy outclassed Indians 14-0 to take over sole possession of fourth place in the standings.

Wildcats' win gave them a two-point lead over the Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes and set the stage for a hard-fought duel for the Union leaders in contests between the two teams this Saturday in Hamilton and next Saturday in Toronto.

Field Crowded

Beach officials announced their protest after the final confusing moments of the bitter struggle in Hamilton and criticized officials and Hamilton fans who swarmed on the playing field before the final play was completed.

The last play came after regulation time and was made possible by a penalty to Hamilton as Brown booted into touch at midfield just as the minute flag dropped to indicate the end of the game. The officials gave Balmy Beach possession on their own 45-yard line where Annis Stukus attempted a placement.

The play was delayed until the spectators finally retreated behind the goallines. The ball missed the bars and dropped two yards behind the line. Before PO. Jimmy Smith could reach it a Hamilton fan grabbed the ball and Referee Seymour Wilson ruled it a one-point rouge.

Came From Behind

Twice Wildcats clawed their way from behind to take the lead. Annis Stukus, who scored 12 of the Balmy Beach points, counted a first-quarter touchdown which he converted himself. Joe Krol put Hamilton back in the hunt in the second quarter when he pitched a forward pass to Joe Hickey for an unconverted touchdown. Beaches got a single when Jimmy Smith was rouged on Annis Stukus' kick. Walter Gibb kicked a placement for Hamilton.

Then Krol staged the game's most sensational play when he intercepted a Beach forward pass on his own 25-yard line and ran 85 yards for a touchdown, shaking off tacklers as he went. Gibb converted.

Frank Stukus entered the scoring picture in the third quarter with a touchdown which brother Annis converted and followed up with a placement to put Beaches in front. But a 42-yard placement by Gibb gave Hamilton the lead for keeps and Brown added a single in the final quarter.

Never Headed

Navy was never headed in the Toronto game, played before about 800 fans. The Sailors registered in the first quarter when Earl Selkirk was rouged on a punt by OS. Steve Karrys. They climaxed a 50-yard drive in the second quarter with a touchdown, scored by OS. Tom Waldon who took a 10-yard forward pass from OS. Royal Copeland behind the Indians goal line. It was converted by OS. Sandy Milne.

Karrys got another single in the third quarter and then snapback OS. Ken Long entered the scoring picture in the last quarter when he intercepted an Indian forward pass and ran 37 yards for the major score which Milne converted.

Calluro Wallops Juan Villalba

NEW ORLEANS, Oct. 21.—(CP)—Jackie Callura of Hamilton, Ont., headed back for another crack at the N.B.A. featherweight title he lost last August by decisively whipping Juan Villalba of Havana, Cuba, here last night in a 10-round decision bout.

Following last night's bout, in which Callura proved too much for his younger and less experienced opponent, Izzy Mattes, chairman of the Louisiana State Boxing Commission, said a return bout between Terranova and Callura "probably would be held here within the next three weeks."

Callura weighed 126 and Villalba 129.

Callura fought one of the gamest battles of his long career. He strated in his usual fashion, rushing and slugging from the opening gong, but tired badly in late rounds and his younger Cuban opponent came within inches of ending the bout with a knockout in the eighth round.

Callura started the eighth by rushing Villalba to the ropes. Villalba caught Callura flat-footed midway of the round, however, and had the popular Canadian hanging on for half a minute. He was badly stunned.

Villalba had another good round in the ninth but Callura was master of six of the 10 rounds. The Associated Press score card gave Callura six rounds, Villalba three and the second even.

Big Leaguers Will Train In Cold North

By BUCKY O'CONNOR
Associated Press Sports Writer

CHICAGO, Oct. 21 (AP) — Despite a mild back-to-sunny-climes movement inspired the past few weeks by various groups, major baseball clubs again will conduct Spring training north of the "Landis-Eastman" line.

Commissioner Kenesaw M. Landis' terse announcement to that effect yesterday ended speculation that any of the big league ball clubs would return to their warm, southland haunts for conditioning.

The "Landis-Eastman" line decree, formulated a year ago by Commissioner Landis and Director Joseph B. Eastman, of the U.S. Office of Defence Transportation, to ease the strain on rail travel, restricted clubs to areas north of the Ohio and the Potomac Rivers and East of the Mississippi.

As though trying to beat the Commissioner to the draw, the Chicago Cubs and White Sox, in a joint statement, announced they would return to French Lick, Ind., where last year they contended with cold, rain, snow and flood tides but came home intact and in fairly good conditon.

A few hours later the St. Louis Cardinals announced they would return to their Cairo, Ill., camp, while the Browns said they again would be at Cape Girardeau, Mo., for spring training. St. Louis teams, however, were permitted to train in Missouri, just west of the Mississippi, if they desired.

The Sports Round-Up

By HUGH FULLERTON, Jr.
Associated Press Sports Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 21—(CP)—The Broda case raised a storm of sports page comment—much of it urging a statement of government policy concerning service men's participation in major sports and money "gifts" to men in uniform for their sport services.

An Ottawa dispatch says the question of service sports, particularly competition between various districts for outstanding players, is under review by officials. Immediate action is imperative.

The sports public believes players on service teams in certain cities are paid to play hockey. Players have travelled across the country to enlist hundreds of miles from their homes, obviously because they received financial inducement.

The inference is that such players join the Army to play hockey rather than to serve as soldiers, sailors or airmen; and that they make considerable more money than our fighting men.

Turk Broda brought the problem to a head when the Toronto professional player failed to obey a Selective Service order to report for military service in Toronto. Broda was taken from a train bound for Montreal where, it is understood, he had received an offer of payment, over and above army pay, to play for the Montreal Army hockey team.

Andy Lytle of the Toronto Star says Broda was offered $2,400 in addition to army pay to play with the Montreal Army team. Lytle says he is informed the best Toronto Army Daggers could offer Broda was army pay plus a subsistence allowance if he lived out.

Jim Coleman, Toronto Globe and Mail sports columnists, suggests: "The Army can obviate a lot of criticism by announcing immediately that Broda will play no hockey this winter—regardless of where he is stationed."

Such action would not solve the problem. Broda happened to receive a lot of unfavorable publicity but dozens of other athletes have made similar moves without attracting undue attention. The solution lies in government action to cut off at the source the financial offers to outstanding athletes joining the services.

Another angle is that some prominent service athletes remain in Canada season after season while less athletic men move overseas. It may be that sports ability is not a factor in keeping these men in Canada but, nevertheless, service men overseas resent the fact some do remain in "cush" jobs at home to play hockey.

A Globe and Mail editorial states: "The advantage of sports to the services is to keep the men physically fit and mentally alert but when hockey teams in different centres begin to compete for outstanding players who have received their draft notices, then it is time for the military authorities to step in...If the services can not have hockey teams without offering inducements to players to enlist in certain districts, their disbandment might well be considered..."

Tony Allan of the Winnipeg Tribune: "From a hockey standpoint, many people will be disgusted to discover that the sham amateurism which has so long prevailed in hockey has been carried over into the service game. Hockey bums are bad enough in peacetime but in the Army they should be anathema. From the more serious standpoint of soldiers serving overseas...The pampering of athletes by the army at home is something which can not be condoned."

Chick Appel, Stratford Beacon-Herald: "From this distance it would seem that certain Army hockey officials are more concerned over icing an Allan Cup championship team than they are over increasing Canada's Army personnel."

J. P. Fitzgerald, Toronto Telegram: "If...persons in civilian life pay salaries or hand over financial gifts to hockey players in the Army it does not go down so well with soldiers who are soldiering and fighting nor...with their relatives back home."

U.S. Bombers Out In Force

LONDON, Oct. 21 (CP) —United States heavy bombers, supported by R.A.F. and U.S. fighters, attacked targets in western Germany today.

It was the seventh major operation of the month for the American heavy bombers but their first since the destructive smash at Germany's big bearing plant at Schweinfurt October 14.

The fact that fighters accompanied the big bombers suggested a heavy assault on some German war production target.

A small force of German raiders dropped bombs at widely-scattered places in eastern England last night, touched off the fourth successive night alert in London and caused some casualties.

MARMORA

Merchant Sailor Encircles Globe

MARMORA, Oct. 21 (ENS).— A two week's furlough is being spent in Marmora by Lieut. James Williamson, Junior Grade of the United States Maritime Service. This officer is visiting at the home of Harry and Edward Dunlay and their sister, Mrs. E. Deacon. He was the teller at the Marmora branch of the Dominion Bank 21 years ago and later took a position in New York. He has spent thirteen and a half months in the Maritime Service, during which time he has encircled the world and seen considerable action on which he refused to comment.

The captain of his ship is of Norwegian birth and presumably "Scottie" as he is affectionately named, is the only one of the ships staff to be of Scottish birth. Included in places visited by him are the West Indies, Casablanca, South Africa and South Australia. He did not feel particularly attracted to the West Indies, he said. When in Trinidad he chanced to meet a former Marmora resident, Mrs. W. G. Mackechnie, who lived for a time in the same house where he is staying.

He has been able to visit his native Edinburgh, which he found greatly changed through war conditions, and South Africa and South Australia particularly appealed to him.

Fleet Admiral Dudley Pound Dies At Age 66

LONDON, Oct. 21 (CP)—Admiral of the Fleet Sir Dudley Pound, who resigned early this month as First Sea Lord because of ill health, died today in London at the age of 65

Sir Dudley directed the Royal Navy through four of its most critical war years.

He was taken ill while returning from the Churchill-Roosevelt conference at Quebec. He resigned as First Sea Lord Oct. 4 and was succeeded the next day by Admiral of the Fleet Sir Andrew Browne Cunningham, who had been commander-in-chief of Allied naval forces in the Mediterranean.

SIR DUDLEY POUND

Sir Dudley had been called the "Father" of Britain's present strategy of aggressive action. At the time of Sir Dudley's resignation, Prime Minister Churchill expressed regret it must come just "when control of the Mediterranean is within our grasp."

Churchill's Friend

He long was close to Mr. Churchill and was present at the sea conference with President Roosevelt when the Atlantic Charter was drawn.

In his younger days he was on duty as commander of H.M.S. Colossus in the Battle of Jutland. He was in command of the Mediterranean Fleet in 1935 when war with Italy loomed over the Ethiopian situation.

With war about to break out with Germany, he was appointed chief-of-naval-staff in the summer of 1939 and soon afterward was given the rank of Admiral of the Fleet.

Before his death Sir Dudley was one of two living naval officers to hold the British Order of Merit.

Born Aug. 29, 1877, he became a naval cadet in 1891 and two years later was a midshipman on the "China station." At 19, Pound was commissioned and was continuously afloat, except for his qualifying course for torpedo lieutenant, until 1909 when he was transferred to the admiralty's torpedo department.

In the Battle of Jutland he was mentioned in dispatches for the daring with which he manoeuvred his ship under heavy fire.

In 1933 he was created a knight. Two years later he was promoted from rear admiral to admiral. He served as temporary chief-of-staff in the Mediterranean from 1935 to 1936 and as commander-in-chief there from 1936 to 1939.

Sir Dudley could almost be called a charter member of the school of naval preparedness. Even in 1933 he was hammering away for more battleships for the Royal Navy.

"There is going to be a hell of a fight in the next two or three years," he declared bluntly then, "whether we build them or whether we don't. We have got to build them."

This is the main north-south highway of central Italy in this part of the peninsula. At Iserna it joins with the lateral road leading southwest to Venafro, picked by the Germans as the eastern anchor of their proposed Massico ridge line.

Any push of the 8th Army along this Isernia road thus threatens the flanks of the enemy forces facing the 5th Army.

Patrols were active in other parts of the 8th Army front, including the Adriatic area above Termoli.

Wearied as the Germans may be by the long fight along the Volturno and by clashes with the 8th Army on the other side of the peninsula, they continued to resist bitterly.

Indications were a major battle was shaping up north of the Volturno river in Western Italy.

At Nis, the Allied aircraft left a roundhouse enveloped in flames, destroyed two locomotives and a number of freight cars in the yards, and left the tracks in the yards a twisted mass, the Air Command announced. They also attacked an adjoining airfield.

Photographs showed 70 bomb hits square on the target. Three big explosions sent plumes of smoke 5,000 feet high.

This second raid on Balkan communications being used by the Germans to strengthen their defences in Southeastern Europe coincided with heavy attacks on German air fields and all communications in Central and Northern Italy.

Japan Sets Up Indian Group

NEW YORK, Oct. 21 (AP)—The Tokyo radio said today Japan had set up a "provisional government of India" in Singapore under Subhas Chandra Bose, Indian extremist who fled from India in 1941 when he was ordered to trial for subversion.

The broadcast, recorded by United States government monitors, added that "immediately upon its formation, the provisional government of India will declare war upon the United States and Britain."

Bose arrived in Japan from Germany last June and later moved his headquarters to Singapore, where he has been directing propaganda against British rule in India.

Minister Takes Long Range Hospital View

TORONTO, Oct. 21 — (CP). — Pensions Minister Mackenzie said yesterday that "in Toronto, Montreal, Halifax, and other centres" hospitals which have carried on since the first Great War must be replaced to take care of battle casualties who will require lengthy hospitalization after this war.

He said in address prepared for delivery to the Ontario Hospital Association that "we know now that veterans' hospitals will be required for 25 to 35 years hence and there is no reason for trying to make temporary war construction outlast the problem . . whatever improvisations may be necessary during the war to care for any sudden influx of battle casualties."

In an extensive review of hospitalization policies and facilities during and between this war and the First Great War, the Pensions Minister said that at the beginning of this war his departmental military hospitals had 2,666 patients, a number which had increased to 6,234 by last July. At present, there were 7,600 beds in departmental hospitals, with another 2,000 under construction or projected, and a further 2,000 for emergency use by filling sunrooms and other accommodation not normally used.

He said that of the 6,234 patients on departmental rolls at present, 1,906 were from the First Great War and 4,328 from this war. Of the casualties of this war, 2,677 were still on strength of the forces and 1,631 had been discharged.

Refuses Divorce Flays Husband

TORONTO, Oct. 21 — (CP). — Mr. Justice R. E. Laidlaw on Tuesday dismissed an action for divorce on the grounds the plaintiff had tolerated infidelity on the part of his wife.

The plaintiff had testified that his wife left him in January, 1942, and later he followed her and another man to a hotel and hid in the cupboard of their room.

Mr. Justice Laidlaw said the plaintiff "chose to tolerate and acquiesce in the very act of conduct of which he now complains to this court.

"The private relationship of the parties is not the sole consideration in this class of case. The interest and welfare of the community, the maintenance of good morals and proper preservation of the marriage state and guarding against easily acquired dissolution of marriage are of special concern."

EXAMINER EMPLOYEES GO OVER TOP

Country House Disappears But No One Is Complaining

By PROF. JAMES A. ROY

(Editor's Note: Following is the 20th in a series of articles written for The Examiner by Prof. James A. Roy, of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Britain.)

The disappearance of the country house is one of the signs of the times. I discussed the situation the other day with one of the biggest landowners in Wales. He wasn't living in his castle but in a small bungalow on his estate, which he had built for his secretary. "Do you like this place?" he asked me. "I do, a lot," I said. "I had this place built some years ago," he continued, "and it looks as if my bread was being returned to me. My place down there is a boys' school at present. I hope it will keep on being that after the war. I shall never go back to my other place. Why not? Because, my dear sir, when I have paid all my taxes I just get about 6d. in the pound. I shan't be able to afford to live there. Can't get servants now-a-days of course and they won't live in a house that is so far from the movies. But I shan't mind. I never did like the place anyhow. My wife and I will be perfectly happy here. Changed times, my boy. And why not?"

It was the same story wherever I went. No one complained; people just accepted the situation. I was staying with an old friend. Before the war she was a wealthy woman with a big establishment. Now she has only a "char" woman who comes in to help, and ageing chauffeur who now brings home the messages in a basket instead of in a Rolls Royce. But she didn't complain. Her money is gone; many of her friends have been killed; she is grown old. But she is looking forward hopefully and has brave plans for the future.

To ensure that, so far as possible, persons having administrative, managerial, professional of technical qualifications, are used to the best advantage in the national effort, an Appointments Department was created in March 1942. These appointment offices will play an important part in connection with the placing of large numbers of men and women having appropriate qualifications who will be seeking employment after the war.

To sum up, the war has affected Scottish industries in two ways—it has brought full employment and development to the heavy industries, and it has led to the introduction of new industries. All labor is practically fully employed. Many of these industries, however, are industries and are liable to disappear when peace comes. The hope of Scotland is that after the war the drift of industry to the south will be reversed as Scottish industry has shown that her workers are adaptable and that they are both able and willing to turn to the new types of industry which the post-war years will surely bring.

Women Engineers

Approximately 28,000 women have been trained in Scotland in engineering.

There have also been training requirements for the shipbuilding industry. Men and women have to be trained in electric welding for the new technique in hull construction. I visited one large factory where many women, working their 53 hours per week, with one day off, were making landing barges. Most of the electric welding was being done by women. A special scheme to train boys and youths too young for arm service as appreentice riveters and rivet heaters has also been set up.

Special classes have also been established to train disabled persons in precision fitting and instrument making, radio fault finding, etc.

Industrial Relations in Scotland

The Industrial Relations Department, the function of which is the prevention and settlement of industrial disputes, has met with very considerable success despite the various stoppages of work. Time

FIRE REPORT

Burning cigarette butts were responsible for two alarms that brought out the Fire Department last night and early this morning. In the night alarm, which was sent in from Box 112 at the corner of Hunter and Sheridan streets, a cigarette had been tossed into a pile of leaves, starting a small blaze underneath a parked car. It was quickly extinquished. The second alarm, at 6:20 a.m., came from 597 Charlotte street, where a car belonging to T. Cooper was found smoking from a cigarette butt left on the front seat. Damage was limited to a hole in the upholstering.

CHRISTMAS CARDS OUT

No Christmas cards may be sent this year to Canadian and British military prisoners and civilian internees in Europe, it has been announced by the Post Office Department. The reason is that the large number of such cards in the mails last year caused a heavy congestion of enemy censorship, with the result that ordinary letters for the prisoners were very much delayed. Through representatives of the Red Cross, prisoners themselves have expressed the opinion that they would rather receive their ordinary letters promptly than have them held up through the sending of Christmas cards. The Post Office adds that the restriction does not apply to Canadians interned in nutral countries.

Councils Meet Once A Week

"Members of St. Catharines council expressed surprise that we are able to manage with only one regular meeting a month" Alderman Sullivan told the council the other night.

The meeting of the council Monday was the first under the new order which provides for bi-monthly meetings. It turned up enough business to extend the session until after 10 p. m. In approaching the change, members concluded that they had held to the line of economy in time long enough, and that they might as well recognize the increasing pressure of business by arranging for an additional meeting each month.

Prisoner Makes Brief Escape

Brought down from the jail to the city buildings for examination last night a prisoner in the county institution made a daring and almost successful attempt to escape from custody by getting through an upstair window and jumping to the roof of a one-storey building at the rear. He then slid down a waterpipe to the ground.

However the prisoner's taste of liberty was decidedly brief. Constable Ernest Beatty happened to be crossing the market square, returning to the police station from answering a call and noticed the fugitive near the market scales. When he called out to the man the latter started to run and there was a hot chase in and out among the parked cars on the market before the officer finally overhauled the prisoner and took him into custody.

Western Land Army Ignores Sunday Law

VANCOUVER, Oct. 21—(CP)—Sunday work of members of the British Columbia land army will continue without fear of prosecution, Ernest McGinnies, secretary for the Emergency Farm Labor Service in Vancouver said Wednesday.

Commenting on a press report that three York township farmers and their 30 helpers faced charges of working on Sundays, Mr. McGinnies said similar action had never taken here and he did not think it would be.

"We consider the production of food under honest conditions on Sundays or any other days is our most important problem in wartime," he said. "Food is a perishable commodity and can't wait for a day of rest. Crops won't stop growing, or rotting on Sunday."

War Labor Board Upholds Company Appeal

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 (CP) — The National War Labor Board announced last night it was upholding an appeal by the Colonial Weaving Company, Ltd., of Peterborough, Ontario, from an Ontario Regional Board decison regarding vacations with pay for the Company's employees.

The announcement said the Ontario Board authorized vacations with pay—one week's vacation in accordance with decision contained in No. 17—but "felt obliged" to deny the Company's request that two weeks' vacation be granted to employees with at least five year's service.

"We have tried to point out before that D.B. 17 is not regarded by us as absolutely mandatory on the regional boards . . . A regional board is quite entitled to deal with the matter on a realistc comparative basis of reasonable means of comparison exist.

"In this partcular case a survey of the Peterborough district reveals that at least eight other companies have vacations with pay plans in the precise terms here applied for. We think it would be rather unreasonable to deny employees of this company with five years' service a conditon of work which prevails in the district for employees of many other companies in the same district."

The board said the company will be required to apply the conditons stated in bulletin No 17 to the hourly-rated employees who will be receiving two weeks' vacation.

Bell Employees Subscribe $7,850

The staff of the Peterborough office of the Bell Telephone Company subscribed 151 per cent. of their objective in returns to the Victory Loan headquarters at noon today.

Every one of the 54 employees participated in this Fifth Victory Loan for a total of $7,850 as compared with their objective of $5,200.

The average subscription at the Bell office was $145. Their canvass has been completed, with all the signatures on the dotted line and every other detail finished.

The telephone staff is listed in the payroll savings division of this local campaign, and their report toward midday contributed a further ring of encouragement as the Peterborough campaign continued its progress.

Outboard Marine Employees Hold Big Rally

A background of the Victory Loan Pledge flag, flanked by a guard of honor from the C.A. (B) T.C. No. 32, Flight-Lieut. Ross Cameron of the R.C.A.F., stationed at Trenton, addressed an open-air mass meeting of the employees and the executive of the Outboard Marine and Manufacturing Company Wednesday at 1.00 p.m. This was the occasion of the opening of the Victory Loan Drive in this particular plant.

Mr. Cameron, who before his enlistment in the R.C.A.F. as Padre in March, 1942, was Minister of the Dovercourt Road Presbyterian church in Toronto since 1940, was introduced by Clarence Neal, Secretary-treasurer of the Outboard Marine. Mr. Neal expressed faith in his employees and said that he was sure the objective of $62,600 would be reached and that their firm would again go "away over the top." The employees of the Outboard Marine enjoy the reputation of always finishing the job they tackle and this certainly won't be an exception to the rule.

Mr. Cameron in his opening remarks said that he was more than pleased to speak at this particular meeting, and wanted to assure all that they were about to take part in the biggest job that faces the United Nations today. "When we talk about human freedom, do we know what it means?" "Do we realize how fortunate we are that we are being asked to loan our money, and not being told to give it?" If we lived in the countries controlled by the Axis, we would not be able to have our freedom, they would have our lives.

"The soldiers and others in lands across the seas could tell us gruesome tales of the cruelty of the Huns, people lined up against a wall and shot and little children machine-gunned on their way to school." Flight-Lieut. Cameron went on to say how others are risking their lives, while we in Canada are only being asked to loan our money and put it into a security backed by the Dominion of Canada, the best possible.

Mr. Cameron said that the Germans had been trying to gain power since 1846. Hitler did not originate all that has taken place. He has just takn an old idea and put it into new channels. "We have just been having breathing spells, 1918-1939. It is now up to us to crush these people; let's stop these wars; let our children and our children's children have peace. Let our loved ones be saved the sight of seeing their children stood up against the wall and of having bayonets thrust into them. That is what the Japs are doing. They actually pin children to the wall and leave them there to die. How can we allow these people to rule our land as civilized people? The history of dictatorship has proven that it may be necessary for us, for the freedom of the country, to kill off half of the population of these countries before we can subdue and overtake them. We must overcome the tyrannies and have a democracy for the people by the people."

Objectives are given, just as something to work up to; they are only the minimum amounts necessary and definitely not the limit. The $1,200,000,000 required in this country is only a minimum.

In closing, Flight.-Lieut. Cameron expressed the hope that all would take advantage of the freedom given them and loan, not give, to their utmost. Not just from a patriotic sense of duty, but to help bring about a freedom of the world and peace and security for ever after.

Market Effort Gives Aid To War Victims

Week by week, the stall on the market has continued for a long period now in giving aid to the sufferers from air raids over Britain through the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Funtd.

On Saturday last, the Springville community with Miss Jean Fairbairn as convener, supplied and operated the stall in which she was assisted by Girl Guides, Kitty Smith and Nina Harrison, and some supplies were also furnished by the pupils of S.S. No. 2, Cavan, where Miss Fairbairn is the teacher, in which Mr. Spencer of Mount Pleasant also took part.

Donations of produce or cash were given by Messrs. S. Fairbairn, Forsythe, S. Boyles, Clifford Strong and M. H. Johnson, and Mrs. V. Sweeting and Mrs. E. Johnson, from which a total of $6.30 was first handed in, and this was followed by Mr. Fairburn remitting a further $1.80, to make a total credit of $8.10, for this repeat effort of a group who has given assistance on former occasions to the fund.

Stewart Hall Next.

This coming Saturday, the people of Stewart Hall community will supply and operate the stall, with Mrs. Harold Dawson as convener, and in addition to the supply of produce, the fund will also share in the proceeds of the sale of tickets for a draw on a quilt being raffled under the auspices of the Stewart Hall Red Cross Group, for which the material was furnished by Mrs. D. Matchett. The returns from the sale of all the tickets sold at the stall for 15 cents each or two for 25 cents, will all come to the fund. This group has a fine reputation in making a success of any effort they put their hand to on behalf of others.

Utilities At Work Again.

The workers at the Utilities substation on Aylmer Street have been good supporters of the fund, having held a number of varied efforts to give it a boost. One of these has been through War Savings Certificate draws, which forms part of their contribution of $10.50 today, this being the third time that money from this particular feature has been reported, and of course it serves a dual purpose, as it also gives assistance to the general war effort.

Then they held a draw for a gentleman's shirt which was donated by Grafton's, Ltd., and this netted $5.00 of the amount reported, the balance of 50 cents coming from a bottle kept handy on the desk for the loose coppers that might be attracted by it.

Indoor sports have not much more than got under way for the coming winter season, so bright and early is the maxim of No. 1 carpet-bowling team, who are credited with $3.25 in today's list per T. Ferguson, leading the way to what might be an inspiration to many others to share their pleasure with others less fortunate than themselves in a similar manner.

Grand Master Visits I.O.D.E.

Addressing a meeting of members of Peterborough and Otonabee lodges in the I. O. O. F. Hall Wednesday night, Byron E. Dundas, Grand Master of the Grand Lodge of Ontario, Independent Order of Oddfellows, outlined a program of plans to be carried out during his tenure of office. Speaking briefly during the banquet following the convocation Mr. Dundas also emphasized the position of the Grand Lodge in relation to the local lodges, stating that the central organization was the guarantee of uniformity without which each branch lodge would fall a victim to special conditions existing within its own sphere

He declared that Grand Lodge officers were not to be considered as making up the Grand Lodge by themselves, and that delegates from any of the lodges attending sessions of the Grand Lodge should bring up questions for debate.

During the lodge session, three new members, Norman Baldy, Clifton Byer and R. Waite, were initiated into the Order.

Songs and entertainment at the banquet were rendered to a large gathering of Oddfellows by Jack Smith and Robert Hendry.

Wives And Mothers Of Men Overseas Taking Lead In Purchasing Bonds

C. Gallagher, canvasser for the Victory Loan, has expressed his feelings with regards to the wives and mothers who have loved ones fighting for them. They are the ones who have the patriotic spirit and are willing to do their bit. They are the ones who treat the Victory Loan salesman with respect; they realize he is trying to do his job to the best of his ability; they realize that through him they can loan their money and receive in return the best value possible; they don't loan mainly to appease a vague sense of duty, they loan to bring their loved ones home.

Wednesday Mr. Gallagher called on such a former customer, Mrs. K. Mannell, Chamberlain street. Mrs. Mannell is the mother of a five-year-old son. For some months now she has known that her husband died for his country while a prisoner of the Axis. Needless to say she feels deeply, but is she bitter? No, she realizes only too well that it is still up to her to do her bit in bringing about a better world for the future and her son. She is still willing to forego the luxuries of life and is loaning every cent she can to buy a substantial bond on the instalment plan.

Surely this is a challenge to those who are still afraid to loan their money; a challenge to those who still feel they cannot afford to "save." Does a life have to be lost for every loan sold?

Big Improvement Registered In Bond Buying

Peterborough made advances all along the urban and rural sectors of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign yesterday, reporting at the end of the third day total subscriptions of $776,600 or 16.88 per cent. of its objective.

The "grand total" for those first three days was fractionally larger than the 16.67 percentage that was expected of Peterborough for Wednesday night.

This margin of excess was .21 per cent., and representated a vast improvement over the totals at Tuesday evening when the subscriptions amounted to 5.21 per cent. as contrasted with the 11.11 per cent. as computed for the second day on the basis of reaching the objective by the end of three weeks.

Peterborough's gain yesterday was virtually a perpendicular increase, from—

$239,700 Tuesday
$776,600 Wednesday

That was the salient news from loan headquarters this morning, beginning the fourth day of this fall campaign.

Comparative Statement

Comparison of the sectional totals for the two days were reported as follows:

	Tues.	Wed.
County	$ 16,250	$ 61,850
City	116,600	179,950
City employees	6,850	284,800
Special names	100,000	250,000
Totals	$239,700	$776,600

And the Peterborough objective is $4,600,000.

Concert Association Wanting Members

The Community Concert Association is arranging for free membership for school children to be chosen from Grades 6, 7 and 8 in the Public and Separate Schools. The children will be chosen by the teachers with a view to selecting the child who will have the most appreciation of this cultural activity.

The membership campaign which only lasts a week, begins on Monday, and headquarters will be at the Y.M.C.A. Norman Finney is one of the officers and can be contacted at 8634 It has not yet been decided what artists will be visiting Peterborough, but the Association is confident that it will be of the same calibre as those sponsored a year ago.

Sacred Heart School Wins Contest

With the majority of the country schools still left to report their collections in the used record salvage campaign which ended last week, a total of 7,115 records in usable condition plus approximately 110 pounds of broken records have been counted and weighed, it was announced on Wednesday by Jacob Low, chairman of the drive.

City schools alone, whose results are now complete, accounted for 5,118 records and 82 pounds of the broken ones. Prizes are to be awarded the two schools standing highest in collections per pupil, and first honors go to Sacred Heart School, where 913 records were brought in by a total enrolment of 350 students. Prince of Wales School, with its 612 pupils, accounted for 1,122 records, and this showing entitles it to second place in the drive. The first prize will be two books not exceeding a value of $10; the second, one book not over $5, and it was said the books would be selected by the schools themselves.

Twenty-two country schools have reported their collections up to the present time, but this is only a fraction of the total that will eventually come in, as it was estimated there were upwards of 90 rural schools in the district whose pupils took part in the salvage drive.

Considering that individual collections of records had been coming in from time to time for many months before the special drive to collect 1,000,000 in the province of Ontario was inaugurated early this month, it was thought by Mr. Low that Peterborough's showing was quite satisfactory. He emphasized also that some time ago the Collegiate put on a drive of its own, in which more than 600 records were collected. As drives in many other communities will continue until the end of the month, collection headquarters in Toronto have no figures as yet on results in other localities with which the city's collections could be compared.

As announced prior to the start of the drive, all records are to be sent on to Toronto, and whether chipped, cracked or broken there will be a use for them in providing a means of entertainment for thousands of men in Canada's armed forces. Those in good shape will be forwarded immediately to camps and stations, while the others can be melted down and the shellac separated off for use in new discs. The shellac salvaged from a few records is sufficient to provide coating for a new record, and this at a time when that substance is under high priorities and very difficult to obtain.

J. Stuart Sells Hereford Bull

A gross of $14,680 was recorded at the Hereford cattle sale in Stratford on Thursday, with many American buyers participating in the auction, and it was indicated this was one of the most successful sales of its kind in the Province of Ontario in some years.

Top price for a heifer was paid by John Stuart, Jr., of Old Orchard Farm, who purchased "Jarvis Domino Lass" for $950 from F. W. Reichel and Son of Jarvis, Ont. Mr. Stuart's bull, "Old Orchard Conover" bred by the Wyoming Hereford Ranch, also brought a top price, and was disposed of for $1,500 to W. H. Clegy of Battle Creek, Michigan.

Historic Tripartite Conference Gets Underway In Moscow

The historic tripartite conference of British, United States and Russian Foreign Ministers has got under way in Moscow. Molotov struck the keynote as Anthony Eden and Cordell Hull arrived at a Moscow airdrome. They were watching a guard of honor pass, when Molotov remarked, "Diplomats must learn from soldiers who keep in step harmoniously, and we also must keep in step." Here are the big three as they appeared at other important conference tables. On the LEFT is Soviet Foreign Minister Vyacheslav Molotov in the spring of 1942, as he was photographed during a conference with President Roosevelt in Washington. In the CENTRE is Britain's Foreign Minister, Anthony Eden, and at the RIGHT, U.S. Secretary of State Cordell Hull also pictured during important conferences in Washington.

School Board Adopts Air Cadet Work

HAVELOCK, Oct. 21 (ENS). — The Board of Education held its October meeting on Monday evening, with Chairman Bernard Smith presiding and Trustees Young, Sarginson and Matheson present.

Principal Goheen reported that five more magazines had been purchased to assist in the reading material for teaching of agriculture. They are: Farmers' Advocate, Canadian Nature, Canadian Bee Journal, Farmers' Magazine and Canadian Poultryman. He also suggested that dark window blinds be purchased for use in Grade X room, in order that the slides may be shown in the daytime for the teaching of geography and defense training.

In Principal Jones' report it was noted the enrolment was 150, with an average attendance of 151.5. Also that some of the senior High school students were doing the supply teaching on the Public school staff, in the absence of Miss Wing.

Caretaker Young reported that a corner cupboard was badly needed in Miss Buchanan's room, for the storing of books and equipment. A new drum of soap had been ordered and two empty drums returned.

Finance Cadets

E. J. Leeson addressed the Board on behalf of the Air Cadet committee, stating that the committee was willing to finance the Cadets, if the School Board would adopt the training of same. Principal Goheen assured the Board that the defence training and Cadet training were practically the same thing, and he would be willing to keep up the Cadet work on Wednesday afternoon, from 3 to 5 p.m. and the teaching of navigation, first aid, signalling and aircraft recognition. The girls of the senior grades would be taught nutrition, child study and health safety. On a motion by Trustees Young and Sarginson that the School Board adopt the Cadets but that the committee lock after the uniforms and finance.

Permission was granted by the Department of Education, giving Mr. Goheen permission to teach Agriculture and Miss G. McCorvie to teach Physical Education and grants will be given.

Regarding the transportation of High school pupils from Trent River to Havelock, it was moved by Trustess Matheson and Young that the secretary write the Minister of Education about this bus service and ascertain if a grant would be given and how much it would amount to, on approximately 12 pupils, for a 6 mile trip twice a day. Owing to a vacancy on the Board, Mr. Walter Nobes was nominated to act for the remainder of the year.

The following accounts were ordered jaid, by Trustees Matheson and Young:

Teachers', secretary and caretaker's salary, $1,150.35; Field Day prizes for Public school, $10.00; John Leask, trucking ashes, $10.00; James Jacobs, furnace repair, $11.50; A. C. Denike, supplies, $80.90; E D. Chiles & Co., supplies, $10.84. Total, $1,273.59.

Board adjourned to meet November 15.

Bruin Forgets To Observe Traffic Rules Knocked For A Loop By Passing Motorist

APSLEY, Oct. 21 (ENS)—A collision between a bear and a car, in which the bear fared worst, took place Sunday evening on the highway 28 about two miles south of Apsley, when a car driven by Gordon Northey, teacher, hit the animal.

It happened so quickly Mr. Northey said that he didn't realize what he had struck. On backing up some forty feet, "Bruin" lay on the side of the road completely knocked out. After watching a few minutes, he got a hold on the bear so that he could hoist him into the back of the car. Just as he took hold of him, the animal rose haltingly to its feet, glanced piteously at his "resucer" as if to thank him for the lift and lumbered off into the bush.

The accident proved fatal for the year-old-cub, for Monday afternoon he was shot by Mr. Earnshaw about 100 yards from the road, and he was reported to show serious injuries from his crash.

Board Reviews Production Of Special Crops

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP). — Expansion in Canadian production of several farm commodities —including special crops like oilseed crops ,peas and beans which are "considered well suited for relief-feeding in liberated areas," is under "definite consideration" for 1944, the Agriculture Department said today.

This statement was contained in an official summary of a two-day session of the Canada-U.S. Joint Agricultural Committee just completed at Washington, at which was discussed the extent to which food production in the two countries may be increased.

"The conclusion was reached that an expansion in the output of certain products is possible, although further increase in overall production will be restricted by limitations of acreage, manpower, equipment and fertilizer," the departmental statement said.

"This year's food production, the all-time high in North America, and possibilities of further increase next year were reviewed in the light of civilian needs, mounting requirements for the war effort, and relief in liberated areas."

Particular emphasis was given to the need for expansion of feed production to avoid curtailment in livestock, which in the United States has been built up by increased grain crops and sharp reduction in the large feed stocks on hand at the beginning of the war, said the department. In Canada the livestock expansion is based on expanded acreage of barley, oats, and other feed crops.

"Means of further expanding production of oilseeds, peas, beans and other food crops were considered in line with available farming resources on both sides of the border," said the statement, without going into detail.

MILLBROOK

W.A. To Serve Refreshments

MILLBROOK, Oct. 21 (ENS). — The home of the president, Mrs. C. M. Westmacott, was the gathering place for the October meeting of the W.A. of St. Thomas' Church on Monday evening.

Mrs. W. E. Massey-Cook led in the Litany, Mrs. T. G. Harkness read the lesson, chosen from St. Luke's gospel and the leader taking the special prayers for world brotherhood and peace.

The treasurer reported over $22 from the recent sale of homemade baking, when a further supply of goods could have easily been disposed of had they been on hand, those in charge being Mrs. H. A. Attwooll, Mrs. Harkness and Mrs. Massey-Cooke. Mrs. H. J. Russell, secretary, read the list of articles required for the spring bale, and some arrangements were made for the work necessary, the treasurer reporting a nice balance still on hand with no debts to meet.

Hold Discussion

A general discussion of the recent W.A. Deanery meeting at Omemee took up some time, nine delegates having been in attendance, and many points of practical interest were decided upon for inclusion in the year's program for 1944. Mrs. Russell reported at least sixty church calendars spoken for so far, this being a source of income each fall, and Miss Rose Macnamara introduced the new study book on Latin America, the local auxiliary having chosen Brazil for special study. The first chapter was covered and gave a general outline of the country and some of the mission work being carried on.

Refreshment Question

Mrs. H. A. Attwooll and Miss Muriel Smith were the supper hostesses, and there was some discussion regarding returning to the former practice of serving light refreshments having each one pay five cents. This, it was felt, would promote sociability, and net the society as much as the present method of having the hostesses put in the W.A. mite-box the amount the supper would have cost them. Mrs. L. M. Bonneville and Mrs. Harkness will be hostesses for the November meeting which will be the closing one for the curent year, when nominations of officers for 1944 will be made, the election to be the third Monday in January, 1944, at Mrs. Westmacott's home.

Mess Room Chatter

With The R.C.A.F. Somewhere in England, Oct. 21 (CP)—Ground crew men of all trades are being accepted for air training throughout the Canadian Bomber Group. They retain their R.C.A.F. rank and trade pay throughout air crew training in addition to 75 cents a day when actual flying training begins and on final graduation will be promoted to temporary sergeant or retain any higher N.C.O. or warrant officer rank held previously.

All R.C.A.F. airmen are free to apply for aircrew training except radio mechanics working with Pathfinder squadrons.

In London on leave are Sgts. Fred Wright and Bill Ramsay of Vancouver. For them this is no ordinary leave because they are posted in Iceland. They say that country is "nothing but a cold hunk of rock."

'Bugs" Dorsey, writing to Wings Abroad, official R.C.A.F. publication, from Africa, says: "We would like to see a retraction of that slanderous article about us wearing Canada badges on our shirts to attract the women. What women? Where? We never saw them."

From towing gliders to flying Spitfires is a big jump but PO. Ken Chandler of Montreal did it. This report comes from Flt. Sgt. Jack Cleft of Toronto, back in England from Malta where he left Chandler. Cleft was out there with an R.A.F. communications squadron.

FO. Bob Offler of Leamington, Ont., is the only Canadian in his crew in an R.A.F. Ferry Unit. In the same unit is FO. Roy Osborne of Brantford, Ont.

Some of the Canadians in a R.A.F. Air Observers' School instructing have piled up more than 1,000 hours on the job. They include Flt. Sgt. George Craig of Fitzroy, Ont., FO. T. D. Tommy Wheeler of Winnipeg; Flt. Sgt. Murray Caselman of Edmonton; FO. Lefty Zavitz of Welland, Ont., and Sgt. J. C. Kelland of Hamilton. Wheeler played hockey for Harringay in London before the war and went home to enlist in the air force.

Being only seven degrees north of the equator does nothing to stop Cpl. Robert Whiting of Winnipeg from playing baseball. He's in Ceylon, has been there for a year and a half, and writes that whenever he can get enough Canadians together he makes up a ball team to challenge other Canadian outfits in the area.

A couple of touring pilots are Flt. Lt. Bob Keefer of Montreal and Sqdn. Ldr. Grant Fleming of Calgary. They dropped into London after flying a Liberator across the ocean from Montreal. A couple of days later they flew the Liberator on to Karachi, India, and Keefer reported it was just like a holiday tour. The boys plugged in "George," the automatic pilot and took time out to view all the scenery including the pyramids. Then they came back to London as passengers in an air transport and were posted to the Photographic Reconnaissance Unit, which means they'll be flying high-altitude planes at anything up to 400 miles an hour.

Mrs. F. W. Harris, president of the Peterborough Presbyterial was the guest speaker and gave a very interesting address on the activities of the society in Canada and abroad. The local society has six groups on this charge and is doing a splendid work in providing funds, bales of clothing and other supplies. The C.G.I.T. attended as a group, four of its members took up the offering.

The regular meeting of the Women's Association was held at the home of Mrs. H. Wright with Mrs. G. S. Taylor in charge. It was decided to hold a "white elephant and silver tea" at the home of Mrs. Rennie on November 2 at 8 p.m. Articles for sale are to be wrapped and all priced at 25 cents. A silver collection will be taken at the door.

The following committees were appointed: Reception, Mrs. G. S. Taylor and Mrs. G. Murray; treasurer, Mrs. H. Wright; tea room, Mrs. M. Coward, Mrs. S. McIntyre, Mrs. D. D. Brown, Mrs. F. A. Easson and Mrs. R. Nelson; white elephant table, Mrs. F. McIntyre, Miss Plunkett, Mrs. James McFarlane, Miss A. McIntyre and Miss Mary Gall; to look after tea, Mrs. A. Rennie.

An interesting reading entitled "The home that prayer built" was read by Miss Bryce. This was followed by a delightful piano selection by Lois Wright.

BONARLAW, Oct. 21 — (ENS). —A large number of the friends and neighbors of Mr. and Mrs. Carl Heath gathered recently at the Orange Hall, Springbrook, and presented them with a purse of money and a number of beautiful and useful gifts.

An address was read by Robert Cosby expressing the esteem in which the bride and groom are held and wishing them a long and happy wedded life. Glynn Eastwood made the presentation, after which bith Mr. and Mrs. Heath thanked the guests for their gifts, and asked one and all to visit them in their new home.

British Brigade Honors Canadians For Outslugging German Tanks

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent.

WITH THE 8TH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 9—(Delayed) — (CP Cable).—A Canadian tank squadron which knocked out eight German tanks in its first tank-vs.-tank fight was honored by a famous British infantry brigade on the very field where it scored the triumph.

In a ceremony unique for the men of the Canadian Armored Corps, a British brigadier presented the squadron commander, young Maj. Walker of Cap del la Madeleine, Que., with a personal pennant, saying: "We would not have been able to do this job had it not been for your tanks. Your squadron has been first-class all the way through."

The pennant was the first ever given by a British brigade.

The Canadians were mainly responsible for turning back a series of German threats to the Allied position in a battle marked by fighting at point-blank range.

Got 8 From 10.

Walker's Shermans got eight of the 10 Mark IV. Specials knocked out by his regiment. The others fell to a squadron commanded by Maj. Pat Mills of Toronto, a former North Toronto Collegiate athlete, while British tanks got another four of the German heavyweights.

(Location of the battle was not given but Hunter reported in a delayed cable dated October 7 that British tank formations in their most successful action since their arrival in Italy had destroyed 10 German tanks the previous day and foiled a determined German attempt to recapture the Adriatic coast town of Termoli. The Canadian 1st Division is fighting with the British 8th Army. He said, "We lost only two tanks and tank casualties in men were four killed and two wounded.")

Although this was the first time the Eastern Canadian Regiment has been so signally honored by British formation, it had been honored before by a Canadian infantry brigade which presented its pennant to Mills' squadron.

In Plowed Field

The presentation ceremony to Walker took place in a plowed field beside wrecked German tank while enemy artillery shelled a nearby bridge. The black-bereted Canadian stood easy and their smiling 35-year-old lieutenant-colonel from Windsor, Ont., stood beside the British brigadier while he spoke.

The brigadier explained the German battle plan and there was a wide grin on his face when he told the Canadians: "We've thrown Jerry's plans out a bit. We've worked with tanks before but never with a better squadron than this. If we need tanks again, I'll know where to go."

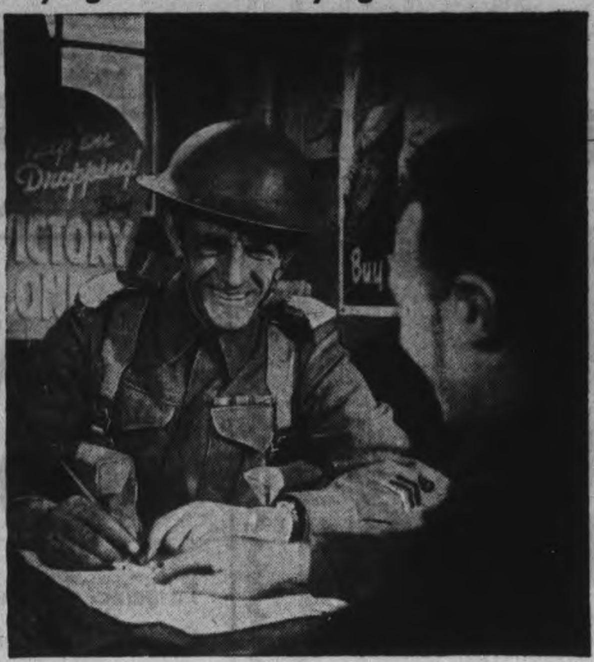
The Canadian colonel added his congratulations and said it was another good "stop-gap" job by his regiment. He told the men that the Germans had moved two squadrons of tanks all the way across the country for the show which took an entirely unexpected turn for them.

In front of the men during the informal gathering were the squadron officers including Lieutenant J. L. Jemmett, Kirkland Lake, Ont.

Lieut. M. T. McConnel, Toronto, said later that the fight was "one just like you see in the Russian news reels."

Other tankmen in the battle included Robert Fisher, Parry Sound, Ont.

Buying A Bond Is Buying Freedom.



"When I buy bonds, I feel I am buying freedom," stated Cadet A. E. Vecqueray, of Vancouver, B.C., one of the first to make a bond purchase at the Officers' Training Centre at Brockville, where he is qualifying for his commission. Cadet Vecqueray well knows the price of freedom, for he is a member of the Veterans' Guard of Canada, and has four sons in the armed forces. He served during the First Great War with the Army Service Corps and received the rank of lieutenant while on active service. (Canadian Army Photo)

lost through stoppages of work in this war have been far less than in the last. It has been calculated that the amount of loss in Scottish industry from stoppages of work has been about equivalent to the absence of each worker for two-thirds of a day in every three working years. One cause of strikes is, undoubtedly, inequality of wages. A skilled worker who has been at his job for years may earn less than some inexperience girl who has been sent to do some sort of war work in the Midlands perhaps. This transference of labor from Scotland has not only caused a considerable amount of bitterness I now find, but the very fact that Scottish industry is flourishing at the moment has stirred doubts in the minds of the workers as to the continuance of their prosperity after the war. Any talk of post-war prosperity cuts no ice with the worker. As one of them said to me, "We've heard that sort of talk before and it just doesn't go down. Nobody believes it." I have heard a very great deal of sympathy expressed for the miner. He has a hard and dirty job and a long memory. In peacetime he was neglected and he simply doesn't see why he should be expected to toe the line when the country finds that it cannot get along without him. "What has hapened before will happen again," one miner told me, "and this time we're not going to let ourselves be made tools of." In any case the coal mining situation in Scotland grows worse instead of better. And the mining industry is tied up with so many other industries.

A brochure issued by the regional controller of the Ministry of Labor a few days ago has this to say on the general situation: "The tone of labor is not for the moment quite so satisfactory as it was. The rank and file, especially on the Clyde are once again developing an unthinking readiness to take unofficial action and withdraw labor on impulse and irregularly. This indicates an unsettled state of mind which may be due in part to war weariness. . . . It is being freely advertised by certain factions that confidence in victory is undermining the preparedness to accord workers recognition as partners in industry. All this may be unjustifed, but, rightly or wrongly, it is a potent influence in creating a less accommodating attitude towards the everyday problems of industry as they arise."

One interesting war development is the decasualising of dock labor. In April, 1941, the Ministry of War Transport became the employer of all dock laborers in the Clyde area. The men are now guaranteed a minimum wage of £4 2s 6d. Each man is paid the total amount of his earnings whether on a time or a piece work basis. Before the introduction of the registration scheme employment was casual, dock laborers being paid their earnings after each engagement. This casual basis was not in the best interest either of the country or the docker. Much of the unrest and unemployment on the Clyde was due in part to the unorganized method of engaging labor. At first the registration scheme was not well received by the men; now things are different. The guaranteed wage and the method of settling differences between the contractors and the men and their trade unions, i.e. by means of Joint Advisory Councils, has met with great success. Since the scheme came into operation there has been no industrial unrest among dock laborers and only a stoppage of work of a few hours. Men are liable to be transferred to any port where labor is short.

The Merchant Navy House

One very important matter is the the welfare of British and Allied seamen in Britain. In 1940 the Seamen's Welfare Board was set up to advise the Minister of Labor on all questions concerning the welfare of British, Allied and foreign seamen in British ports and of the crews of British ships in overseas ports. One of the first recommendations of the board was that welfare committees should be set up in the principal ports. The principal functions of these committees are to provide accommodation and recreational facilities for the Merchant Navy in the ports; also to secure the safety of seamen in and around dock areas. These Merchant Navy Houses, as they are called, have been set up at Exchequer expense. They are very particular about the name. It is not a "hostel"; it is a "house" which the merchant seamen are encouraged to think of as their home while they are in port.

I spent one forenoon in one Merchant Navy House. It was a former printing works and the accommodation was limited; but not one inch of space had been wasted. The house is situated in the dock area and the front windows have a splendid outlook. The neighborhood has historic associations. Mary Queen of Scots landed not far away and the house where she lodged which is now an "ancient monument" and recently restored, is not far away. The interior of the building was decorated by a distinguished Scottish architect and some of the furniture in the lounges came from a famous hotel which had been requisitioned. The Rest room, cubicles, kitchen, dining room, baths, etc., were all modern and thoroughly up-to-date. Everything in the place was spic and span. What is new about the Merchant Navy House, in Britain at least, is that there is a bar where men who want it may have a glass of beer. The beer is served at little tables and there is absolutely no drinking at the counter. There has not been one single case of drunkenness or even of a man being the worse for liquor in the hotel. Dances are held on Saturday nights where they may bring their wives and sweethearts.

The Merchant Navy House is not a canteen in the ordinary sense. It is not a hotel and it is not a hostel. It is a little of each, a sort of home away from home. As I left the Merchant Navy House a group of men were coming in to book rooms for the week-end. Their ship had just arrived in port and they were hurrying to get accommodation in a place where they were assured of good food, pleasant surroundings, and a homey atmosphere. It is an excellent idea.

Far too little has been done for the Merchant Navy and only now is the country becoming alive to its scandalous neglect of these real heroes. Stupidity, prejudice, and ignorance have been at the root of this neglect; the feeling that anything was good enough for the merchant sailor. Now the country is aware of the immense debt they owe to the merchant sailor and now nothing is too good for him.

That visit to the Merchant Navy House has been one of my pleasantest experiences on this tour.

Princess Alice Speaks To W.I. Of Responsibility

OTTAWA, Oct. 21 — (CP). — A "great responsibility" rests upon Women's Institutes to help young men and women now in the services and war factories make a new start in civilian life after the war, Princess Alice said yesterday in an address prepared for delivery before the Eastern Ontario Women's Institute.

"Would it not be possible for Womens Institutes to enlarge the scope of their membership so that community centres might grow out of the Institutes?" she said.

"I can't help feeling that some such community scheme could really be of the greatest benefit, especially where the district is remote from a city....

"It is important that we should remember that so many of our disasters have been due to the fact that we failed to prepare for war in time of peace. Let us not make the equally grievous error of failing to prepare for peace in time of war."

Norma Searles Is Wed In Salem Church

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 21 (ENS). —Evergreens, ferns and potted plants formed the pretty setting for the wedding of Norma Helen, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ernest Searles of Harold, to Jack Hagerman Watson, son of Mr. and Mrs. Lindsay Watson of Seymour, at Salem United Church at noon on Saturday. Rev. O. E. Wagar officiated, and Mrs. Harry Vanderfort played the wedding music, while during the signing of the register Mrs. C. E. Macklin rendered the solo, "I Love You Truly."

The bride, who was given in marriage by her father, looked lovely in a street-length dress of American Beauty velvet with matching hat and shoulder-length veil. She carried Queen Elizabeth roses and was attended by her sister, Miss Mae Searles, who wore a dress of gold crepe with brown accessories and carried bronze baby 'mums. Mr. Bill Watson, a brother of the groom, was best man, and the ushers were Messrs. Donald Watson and Ivan Searles.

For the reception following the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother received in a navy blue crepe dress with corsage of pink baby 'mums and baby's breath. The groom's gift to the bride was a cabinet of silver, to the bridesmaid a pen and pencil set, to the ushers, billfolds, and to the pianist and soloist, silver bonbon dishes. Five girl friends of the bride, Misses Alta Hanna, Ethel Hagerman, Doris Pollock, Ada Sine, Phyllis Twiddy, assisted by Mrs. Delbert Sine, Mrs. Ernest Broadworth, and Mrs. Cleo Bedell, served the wedding dinner.

For travelling the bride donned a two-piece dress of brown canton crepe with matching accessories and tweed coat.

On their return from a wedding trip to Oshawa and points west they will reside on the groom's farm in Seymour East.

Accessories Lead In Fall Styles

More and more women are waking up to the fact that the most smartly dressed of their companions no longer depend on a frock alone to present a smart appearance, but they are making use of fascinating accessories, which give them that extra touch of good grooming.

Fall accessories should be chosen early so that women get the most wear out of them. They are just as important at a football game as at an afternoon tea and at the present time hat and handbag sets in felt or velveteen are favorites. Colors such as bright red and green, should be kept in mind for both go well with black and brown, as well as presenting an appearance of cheerful lightheartedness.

Odd shapes in handbags lend a touch of individuality to women's appearances, and there is a greater variety than usual this year with the stress on envelope purses, the draw-string style, snap frames and long handles or pouchy styles with short handles. At the same time these accessories should not only be chosen for their appearance, but for their durabilty as well. Women now face the fact that the clothes they buy, must last them for a much longer time than those they bought before the war.

Women In China Face Profiteers

Housewvies in Canada, in spite of the inconvenience of rationing should be thankful they are not facing the problem which confronts families in China. In Chengtu, capital of Szechwan, West China, rice has gone up from $2.50 a bushel to $600, and carpentry work from 20 cents a day to $50 a day.

The postage rate of 4 cents in Canada caused considerable dissatisfaction when it was introduced a few months ago, but an air mail letter from China recently received in Stratford had $21.20 in postage. Price control may have its faults, but conditions are much worse in a country which has been slow to take action in this direction, officials point out.

Chinese people are pinning their faith on the reöpening of the Burma Road, which will allow importation of many things, which they hope will scale down expenses and at the same time bring them up to date on current literature. Missionaries and educationalists there are using magazines, the most up to date of which were published in 1941. Only the radio keeps them in touch with the world.

Dinners Of The Week . .

By MARY MOORE

SUNDAY

Tomato and Lemon Juice Cocktail
Rump Pot Roast
Pan Roasted Potatoes Broccoli
Celery and Radishes
Stewed Grapes with Soft Custard (see note)
Coffee

NOTE: At a ladies' luncheon some of the girls were talking about the stewed grapes they had been served at a well-known hotel and wanted me to tell them how it was done. It seemed to attract so much notice you people may want it.

Stewed Grapes: Wash grapes well, and remove from stems. Slip skins off pulp putting pulp and skins in separate dishes. To 4 cups grapes when whole you will need ½ cup water. Add this ½ cup water to the skins and stew covered for 5 minutes. Boil the pulp until the seeds float, stirring frequently at first to keep it from sticking. Strain the cooked pulp into the skins to remove seeds. Add ½ cup sugar, and the grated rind ½ lemon, and the juice ½ lemon and bring to boiling point covered. Immediately remove from heat and chill. You should taste the grapes to see if they are sweet enough—you do not want them as sweet as jam, but some grapes are sweeter than others. Some cooks add more water to the skins and add 1 tablespoon cornstarch to thicken them—but if this is done the grapes must be cooked at least 15 minutes to take raw taste from cornstarch.

MONDAY

Beef Pilaf with Rice (from leftover beef, with tomatoes and onions)
Mashed Potatoes Spinach
Pickled Beets
Apple and Raisins Rolls Coffee

TUESDAY (Meatless)

Potato and Peanut Croquettes (see note)
Shredded Green Beans
Cauliflower with Cheese Sauce
Stuffed Tomato Salad
Lemon Meringue Pie (see note)
Coffee

NOTE: To make these croquettes (and by the way you will see increasing numbers of peanut and peanut butter recipes in these columns because peanut products are an excellent substitute for meat) you will need 3 cups mashed potatoes, 2 cups ground salted peanuts, 1 tablespoon each onion, pimiento, 2 tablespoons butter melted, ⅓ cup finely cut celery, 1 tablespoon chopped parsley, 1 egg beaten, 1 teaspoon salt, v teaspoon pepper, 2 or 3 drops tabasco, egg and crumbs for crumbling, fat for frying. Combine all ingredients and shape into croquettes, roll in beaten eggs, then in dry crumbs. Fry in deep fat at 380 until crumbs are brown. Lemon Meringue Pie is a little better to me when half of the beaten meringue is added to the filling just before the filling is poured into the shell—this makes the meringue smaller, but improve the total pie.

How To Keep Your Lunchers In Tip-Top Health

By MARY MOORE

Carried lunches can be sources of a lot of fun.

They need never be monotonous. Forethought— not money or time, is a major ingredient they require to make them the envy of all fellow lunchers.

When planning home meals that lunch box should be in the front of your mind. For instance if you are having chili con carne for dinner make enough to fill the luncher's thermos bottle. When heated before he leaves for work it makes his main course; OR if you make a pumpkin pie line a custard cup with pastry too and fill it with the pumpkin mixture; OR when cleaning celery or carrots for the family dinner wrap a few stalks snugly in wax paper and put in the hydrator ready to pop in the lunch box. Plan to have a covered meat pie for dinner and make an extra individual one for the luncher.

When serving fruit desserts such as prunes, applesauce, fruit cup—fill the luncher's small covered jar and put it in the ice box until lunch is assembled.

You will see that I am taking it for granted that you have provided all those lunch box containers that are so handy; thermose bottle, covered jar— about 10 oz. size is most convenient; wax paper, and such things as paper cups, and napkins are taken for granted.

However such forehandedness is not the essence of the success of carried lunches — VARIETY'S the thing.

When buying the groceries pick up the odd package of nuts, dried fruits such as dates or raisins. These are godsends when you have no regular dessert, and can be slipped in the crevices in the box, to surprise the luncher, still hunting for something more.

A hot food of some kind is a great comfort to a luncher. You could provide a different one every day of the week: cocoa, coffee, tea, hot milk, bouillon, cream soups, chili con carne, thinned pork and beans, thinned spaghetti in tomato sauce, gumbos, etc.

Another stunt I would like to point up is choice tidbits of cold meat,—such as a couple of spareribs cut so that the delicious meat clings to both sides of each rib; or a cold drumstick; or pastry sausage rolls.

Have I opened up any new fields of thought you might set to work on?

Here are specific menus too, that will keep you going for a couple of weeks. If you have to plan your home meals around that all-important lunch box it is worth it to keep your luncher happy.

The following are little items that fit particularly well into carried lunch boxes:

Sausage Turnovers.

One cup sausage meat, 1 cup of chopped ham or other leftover meat, 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce, 1 cup boiled rice, 1 egg, pastry. Fry sausage meat slowly for 10 minutes, stirring constantly. Drain off fat and add ham, rice, and sauce, mixing well. Beat egg thoroughly and add to mixture. Roll out pastry thin and cut in 4-inch squares. Place 2 tablespoons of meat mixture in centre of pastry, moisten edges with water and fold into triangles, salting edge by pressing with floured fork. Prick tops and bake 20 minutes at 400 degrees Fahr.

Applesauce Cup Cakes.

One tablespoon shortening, ¾ cup sugar (white or brown), 2 eggs, ½ teaspoon soda, ½ cup unsweetened applesauce, 1½ cups flour, 1½ teaspoons of salt, ½ teaspoon cream of tartar, ¼ teaspoon mace. Cream shortening, sugar, and eggs together until light and fluffy. Dissolve soda in applesauce. Sift flour, salt, cream of tartar and mace together and add alternately with cream to first mixture. Beat well. Bake in buttered cup cake paper cups or muffin tins in hot oven of 400 degrees Fahr. for 15 to 20 minutes. These may be filled by slicing off tops, adding whipped cream or cream or lemon filling, replacing tops, and frosting them. Delicious.

Write me if you would like lunch ideas for members of your family who are under or over nourished.

GOOD HOUSEKEEPER WILL RATE HIGH AS GOOD HUSBANDKEEPER

After Marriage Men More Stomach Than Heart; "Other Woman" Lures Because Dressed Up.

DEAR MISS DIX — Don't you think that excessive housekeeping is the reason why so many marriages fail? How can a man keep in love with a woman who smells of the kitchen and who is always working, she has but little time for making herself attractive to her husband. which, after all, is what most men desire. The reason men so often fall for the Other Woman is because they never see her with her hair tied up in a towel sweeping down the stairs, or in a dirty apron bending over the cook stove. They see her when she is at her best in a pretty frock, with perfume behind her ears. Keeping the house is all very well, but keeping a husband is better and more important.

A DISILLUSIONED HUSBAND.

Good Housekeeper Usually Good Husbandkeeper

ANSWER—Even so, brother, it is certainly more important to keep a husband than it is to keep a house, but I greatly fear that the woman who is a punk housekeeper is also a punk husbandkeeper.

Perhaps I have been unfortunate in knowing men of a sordid and earthly type who were much given to the flesh pots, but I have never yet observed a husband burning incense before a wife who burned the roast; or one who took any interest in holding the hand that was too fine and dainty to sweep a floor, or make a bed, or do any of the necessary work to make him comfortable.

So far as my observation goes, after marriage, at least, men are more stomach than heart and no amount of beauty or wit or talent in a woman atones to them for her being a bad cook, a slovenly housekeeper and a wasteful manager.

On the contrary, the woman who is a super-excellent cook can keep her husband eating out of her hand, and few are the men who roam away from a fireside that is always clean and swept and where, after a good dinner, their pet chair waits for them, flanked by the light that is adjusted just right for their eyes.

Of course, every man would like to have a wife who could be both a household drudge and a glamour girl at the same time; who could do the cooking and cleaning and scrubbing for the family, yet have their hands always in a squeezable condition, and who would always be decked out in frills and furbelows without their husbands having to pay for their finery.

It is also true that the charm of the Other Woman is that a man always sees her when she is dolled up, with her complexion on and her hair curled; whereas he gets a closeup of his wife as she appears at 7 a.m. as she leaps up to get his breakfast, and the children off to school, and the million other chores that call for a good, stout bungalow apron in place of chiffons.

But Lady Loves are one thing and wives are another. They cannot employ the same technique, and I am very confident that no wife will improve her standing with her husband by devoting more time and labor and thought to her personal appearance than she does to make him comfortable. Excessive housekeeping may send a few marriages on the rocks, but neglectful housekeeping keeps the divorce court working over time.

DEAR MISS DIX—I have been married nearly nine years and love my husband very much, but the trouble is he doesn't hit it off with my people. They are always wanting us to dinner on Sundays and holidays and he simply refuses to go. If we don't go, there is a fight with them. And if I want to go, there is a row with him.

We have lived with them off and on since our marriage, and when they get peeved with him they throw up to him the time they fed him, and that is the reason he won't go. My husband is a poor man, but we are both satisfied, saving and trying to get a start in the world. But my family tell me he isn't treating me right by not giving me finery. So there is trouble about that. What shall I do?

MARY.

Wife Must Defend Husband

ANSWER—Evidently your people have been kind and generous to your husband in giving him a home when he needed one, but they have spoiled the flavor of their generosity by reproaching him with what they have done for him. It is hard to feel grateful to those who twit you with what they have done for you, and who consider they have a right to treat you with contempt because you have accepted help at their hands. So you can't blame your husband for not feeling very kindly towards your family, and for not wanting to go to a place where he knows he will be insulted. Their bread must be bitter in his mouth.

Also, your people do very wrong in interfering in your affairs and trying to make you dissatisfied with what your husband can give you. Probably they don't intend it, but they have taken the surest way of alienating you and your husband from each other and breaking up your home.

The wise thing for your to do is to tell your family that they must keeps hands off and leave you and your husband to work out your own destiny, in your own way. Also, tell them that you will not listen to any further criticisms of him.

Your husband is wrong in object-

QUESTION—Last year I found in a paper a very simple nice recipe for apples. I don't remember the name. I used it once and my family liked it but when I went to make it again I had lost the recipe, and I can't remember amounts for making. Ingredients were, apples, brown sugar, flour and white sugar. Cut up apples, put one sugar on them, mix the other with the flour and put on top of apples and bake. Very simple to make and very delicious. Could you supply these amounts for me? Thanking you,

J. C.

ANSWER—I think the dish you describe is Apple Crisp; I use a little butter in it.

Apple Crisp

Four cups sliced apples, 2 tablespoons boiling water, ¼ to 1-3 cup butter, ¾ cup flour, ¼ cup brown sugar, ¼ cup white sugar. Put half the apples in buttered pudding dish, and sprinkle with the white sugar and boiling water. Mix together the butter and brown sugar and flour, making them into a course meal by rubbing between the fingers, or creaming with wooden spoon. Spread remaining apples in dish, cover with crumb mixture, spreading it smoothly and bake at least 40 minutes at 400 deg. Fahr. Longer slower baking makes the apples browner but is preferred by many. Mace may be sprinkled over apples by those who prefer a little spicing. This is good served with top milk—or if you want to extend yourself, ice cream, or whipped cream or Devonshire cream (try and get it).

QUESTION—In one of the American magazines there was a recipe for a steamed bread something like Boston brown bread but using peanut butter and no sugar. I should have clipped it when I read it but I guess you are familar with that old saw. Do you happen to be familiar with the recipe? If so I would appreciate it if you had room to print it.

MARG. FALL.

ANSWER—I have a book of peanut butter recipes and the following is the nearest to the one you describe.

Peanut Butter Bread

One cup cornmeal, ¼ cup molasses, ½ cup all-purpose flour, 1 teaspoon each soda and salt, 4 tablespoons peanut butter. 1½ cups buttermilk, ¼ cup molasses, 1 egg, ½ cup raisins or other dried fruit, cup chopped salted peanuts. Sift the meal, flours and salt and soda together. Blend peanut butter into this mix, by rubbing with finger tips. Combine egg, molasses and buttermilk. Fold raisins and peanuts into mixture. Fill well greased moulds about 2-3 full. Steam 2½ hours. These keep well and are excellent if kept covered to ship in Christmas boxes. This loaf makes delicious toast for an afternoon tea—pass cottage cheese and raspberry jam with it.

QUESTION—I know some people will think I am too timid, but I want to make squash pie but don't know whether I can use my pumpkin pie recipe. Please give me a good squash pie recipe. I like your recipes.

ANN O'T.

ANSWER — Squash may replace pumpkin in your pumpkin pie, but here is my recipe to make sure.

Squash Pie

Plain Pastry, 2 cups well mashed and strained baked or boiled squash (summer or Hubbard), 1 cup milk, 3 egg yolks, beaten, ½ cup sugar, 1¼ teaspoons cinnamon, ¼ teaspoon each cloves and ginger and nutmeg, 1 teaspoon salt, 3 stiffly beaten egg whites. Line a pie pan with plain pastry and pinch with fingers to make a high edge. Mix the pumpkin and milk together and add the beaten yolks. Mix the spices and salt with the sugar and add them. Mix well and fold in the beaten whites. Then pour into shell (which could be baked for 5 minutes in slow oven to dry shell and prevent it "soaking" before filling is poured into it.) Bake pie at 450 for 10 minutes then reduce heat to 375 deg. Fahr. to finish baking—filling is firm to touch when done. Good served with unsweetened whipped cream and a spoonful of honey or cream.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Friday, October 22

A MODERATELY auspicious day if forecast from the predominant aspects. There may be pleasant surprises, probably in connection with travel trips or possibly in a romantic adventure, suddenly arising. It would be well however to be prudent since there is a sign of a clash with a group or public body. Decisive moves, grasped wisely, should pay big dividends. There is good promise in cultural fields, for talent or skills.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is may look for a pleasant and propitious year with sudden happenings stirring in all fields. The artistic and literary talents are sharpened, but it will take quick action to make the best of openings. Romance and adventure are in the air, but call for prudence not to run against public or community intervention. Business and travel may be stimulated.

A child born on this day may be versatile probably in artistic creative work. It might attain eminence for exceptional skill winning popularity.

DEAR DOROTHY DIX — My roommate and I are both sophomores in college and expect to be married year after next, if the war is over by then. Now my roommate and I want to spend the next year together and plan our hope chests together, but we must make our living. What can we do to earn money? We want to do something interesting.

SALLY AND LOU.

ANSWER—No trouble to find plenty to do now when the government is not only calling for young, intelligent, educated girls, such as you are, but teaching them all sorts of well-paid trades. Go to any of the Red Cross branches or any of the other war agencies and talk it over with those in charge. They will tell you where to go and what to do.

But you must realize that the war has changed everybody's plans, and no girl can sit down now and embroider doilies for her hope chest with the certainty that she will be married year after next to her sweetheart. Her fiance is in the army for the duration. She does not know when he will come back, or how he will come back, and so it is not only the part of patriotism but of wisdom for her to fit herself for some task by which she can support herself. Get busy.

This Week's Best Wartime Recipe

Contributed By Mary Moore Readers

DEAR MARY MOORE: I do not think the recipe I am enclosing is so new, but I do know it comes in handy to me when I am out of meat and have worked too long at canning and ironing and have no time to shop. It uses rice and cheese—things that we should all have had all the time, and is very nourishing and my family likes it very much:

Rice Croquettes.

Two cups cooked rice—about ¾ cup when raw, 2 beaten egg yolks, 1 teaspoon salt, ⅛ teaspoon cayenne pepper, ¼ cup grated cheese (you may increase this if you want to), ½ cup thick white sauce (using 1½ tablespoons flour to ½ cup milk), 2 slightly beaten egg whites, 1 cup dry crumbs. Combine the rice, egg yolks, seasonings, cheese, and white sauce. Spread thin on plate to chill well. Shape into croquettes and dip in egg whites, then in crumbs. Fry in deep hot fat until golden brown and drain on paper towel. This is good with tomato sauce, or with heated canned tomato soup over it.— Sent in by Mrs McIntosh.

I was glad to see this croquette recipe, because croquettes seem to take the place of meat on a plate on meatless days, better than most substitutes. The success of a good croquette lies in the fact that inside must be soft and hot and flavorful, while the outside is crisp and brown. Thanks, Mrs. Mac.

tested the game and the whole thing will have to be fought over again in the committee room. It all came about on the very last play of the game with the Beach outfit down two points. When Annis Stukus tried a goal from placement and missed the ball went over the Wildcat goal line and was picked up by a spectator before the Hamilton players could handle it. The officials credited the Bammies with a rouge, leaving them still a point in arrears. The losers contend that the interference of the fan prevented the completion of the final play and that the Hamilton Club should have kept the field clear. It was quite a ball game at that with an 85-yard run by Joe Krol for a touchdown as the feature play. In the other night game Navy defeated Toronto Indians 14 to 0 and only 200 fans watched the boys in blue come down in front. Indians had no offense to match the running and passing of Royal Copeland and the line-smashing of Sandy Milne.

COBOURG, Oct. 21 — (ENS) — "Strathmore" the palatial home of the late Stephen Haas at Cobourg, may be purchased as an R.C.A.F. convalescent home, although there has been nothing official as yet. It was learned that a government representative was in Cobourg this week looking over the place and that an official of the Oddfellows from Toronto would inspect the residence this week. A Scientific Way to Slim Quickly

WHEN DIET NEEDS ALTERATIONS!

Every year a size larger! It's positively frightening!

But you can easily start LOSING—two pounds a week.

For fat is a simple matter of too many calories. To reduce, simply cut calories.

Just have your turkey (only 150 calories a serving) without the stuffing (312 a half-cup). At dessert time have gingerbread (100) without chocolate sauce (200).

By just cutting high-calory extras like this you do a lot toward cutting to 1,200 calories a day—your reducing allowance.

A calory chart keeps you safe—telling you lots of tasty low-calory foods, even extras, that you CAN have! Beef loaf (100) instead of beef hash (400); boiled salad dressing (25) a tablespoon) instead of mayonnaise (100).

Start now to be slim! Our 32-page booklet gives 42 low-calory menus, a calory chart for all every-day foods.

For your copy of THE NEW WAY TO A YOUTHFUL FIGURE send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address, and the name of booklet.

Millbrook News

Mrs. Wentworth Gray's many friends will regret to learn that she suffered a stroke last week and is seriously ill. Mrs. Gray was recovering nicely from months of illness following a fractured hip, when this unfortunate happening occurred. Her brother David Cathcart of Manitoba and her daughter Mrs. Lloyd Acton of Detroit are here on account of Mrs. Gray's condition.

Miss Emma Kells, daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. Richard Kells, well-known residents of Millbrook in earlier years, and Miss Alice McNair, both of Toronto, were week-end visitors with the former's aunt, Mrs. oJhn Dawson, and stayed with Mrs. Edmund Ball while in the village.

Bruce Eakins of Peterborough was the guest of Mrs. S. E. Eakins over Sunday.

Mrs. L. H. Winslow had the misfortune to fall last Wednesday, fracturing her left wrist, her friends will be sorry to learn. The accident will delay Mrs. Winslow's return home, which had been expected shortly, her recovery from a severe nervous breakdown having been practically complete.

Miss Martha Earle, V.O.N., of Gananoque, was a recent visitor with her parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. A. Earle.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

THINKING COMES FIRST

ABILITY TO figure out things is not of much value if you act first and do your figuring afterward. Perhaps the subject on which fair players go wrong more than any other during the play is the proper use of entries and timing. Often they embark upon their project and seem to be swimming along handsomely when, all of a sudden, you see them stop and go into a thinking pose There is a good chance they are then thinking of the way they should have used their possible entries to the dummy if they had done their thinking first.

West: ♠ A K J 10 9 6 4 ♥ None ♦ K 8 3 2 ♣ A 7

East: ♠ Q 8 5 2 ♥ K 10 7 2 ♦ J ♣ 9 5 4 3

South: ♠ 7 ♥ A Q 9 5 3 ♦ 9 6 4 ♣ K Q 8 2

South	West	North	East
1 ♥	1 ♠	2 ♥	2 ♠
3 ♥	3 ♠	4 ♥	Pass
Pass	4 ♠	Pass	Pass
5 ♥	Pass	Pass	Dbl

Forgetting what might have been the merits of a 5-Spade bid by West, let's see what kept South from making his own doubled contract. The spade K won the first trick and the club A the second, whereupon West switched to his third suit, the diamond 2, hoping to scare South away from finessing dummy's Q. South tried it, though, and it worked, as it appeared necessary to preserve a chance for his contract.

Next came a finesse of the heart Q, a lead of the club 8 to the 10 for a re-entry to dummy, and a second heart lead, the J, covered by the K and A. This left East with the 10 and 7, destined surely to win the setting trick, as South had left only his three smallest trumps.

Not only was the trump suit played badly, but South needed one more entry to the dummy. If he had, because of East's double, decided to provide against four trumps there, he should have put the club K or Q on the A lead to the second trick. Then on the first time in dummy, he could have led the heart J, prepared to use the A if East covered with the K. Next he could have entered dummy with the J and led the heart 8. If that was covered with the 10, the Q could have won. Then the club J could have been a third entry to lead the 6, using the 9 if the 7 covered. He would not have had to try the diamond A for an entry, marked as dangerous because of West's apparent fourth-best lead of the 2, betokening ability of East to ruff the second round

Lawyer Weakens Evidence Against De Marigny In Oakes' Murder Hearing

Doctor States Accused Had No Burns Nor Any Singed Hair When Examined After Body Found

By E. V. W. JONES—Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 22—(AP).—Blows were aimed today at the singed hair and fingerprint testimony against Alfred de Marigny, but the Crown countered with a statement about a light burning in the defendant's bedroom at the time he said he was asleep on the night Sir Harry Oakes was killed.

Howard Lightbourne, next-door neighbor to the Oakes' son-in-law who is on trial for murder, said he returned home about 12.30 a.m. and noticed that De Marigny's bedroom was lighted.

He awakened at 1.45 a.m. and again at 4 o'clock, Lightbourne related, and still the light was burning.

The defendant had told police he came home and went directly to bed and to sleep after escorting two guests at a dinner party to their cottage near Sir Harry's sumptuous estate, Westbourne.

Saw Light Burning.

Lightbourne said he could not swear that the light burned continuously from 12.30 until 4.

The neighbor took the stand after a bacteriologist and the wife of an R.A.F. flier, both called as Crown witnesses, had given testimony on cross-examination with which the defence sought to knock down prosecution contentions.

Dr. Leonard Huggins, the bacterioligist, told of finding no burned hairs on De Marigny when he examined him six days after the slaying, and the woman, one of De Marigny's dinner guests, said he made a trip upstairs at Westbourne during the investigation.

With the testimony of Dr. Huggins, the defence struck at the Crown's contention that a microscopic inspection on July 9, the day De Marigny, Sir Harry's son-in-law, was arrested, showed singed hairs on his hands and arms, and in the Van Dyke beard he wore at the time.

Capt. James O. Barker of the Miami Police has sworn that anyone in Sir Harry's room at the time of the slaying would have tell-tale burned hairs.

Huggins was the first prosecution witness on the fifth day of the Supreme Court trial, and Defence Counsel Godfrey Higgs drew out the testimony about the lack of burned hairs on cross-examination.

Higgs read Barker's description of singed, curled and destroyed hairs, and asked:

"Considering the extent of that description, would you have observed it?"

"Yes. If there had been considerable loss of hair, I would have expected to see evidence of considerable burned hair."

Special Crown Prosecutor A. F. Adderly moved quickly in re-examining Dr. Huggins to combat the defence's point.

Had No Microscope.

"Without the use of a lens or a microscope, would it be possible for burned hairs to be present and you not see them?"

"Yes, that is possible."

"Would washing for six days affect the evidence of burned hairs?"

"Yes."

Dr. Huggins previously had testified he did not use a microscope or lens in examining De Marigny.

Dr. Huggins told of receiving the stomach of the slain millionaire for analysis of the contents.

"There was no smell of alcohol," he said. "Chemical examination showed no evidence of poison. There may have been some blood, but not much."

As the trial proceeded, definite facts about the slaying were developing from a maze of contention and mystery.

Bancroft Man Leads Unit Captures Town

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Oct. 20.—(Delayed).—(CP Cable.)— Retreating German forces, bombed and strafed from the air and subjected to heavy artillery fire, have yielded three more mountain towns to Canadian troops who are relentlessly pressing the enemy along a winding stretch of valley road.

Two towns were taken in a double-barreled dawn attack which was followed in less than 24 hours by capture of the third town. Germans have been driven from strong positions astride the hills overlooking the Canadian line to the west side of the valley which now is dominated by a string of Canadian observation posts and when the last big objective was taken our troops were safely outside the range of German artillery.

One hilltop town was captured by a company from the Royal Canadian Regiment which yesterday (Tuesday) captured a town two miles to the south. Another fell to an Eastern Ontario regiment.

Took It Twice.

The third town was occupied four days ago but the Canadians were forced to withdraw and renew the attack.

Rounding out a successful day, Canadian artillery knocked out six enemy gun positions on the west side of the valley, picking out the posts that were hidden in the wooded slopes with a fine display of battery work.

While the Canadians were attacking their objective, enemy movements were observed to the northwest and enemy transport troops were bombed and strafed in the neighborhood of the two towns on the far side of the valley.

Councillor Demands Police Chief Resign

TORONTO, Oct. 22 — (CP). — Councillor William Beech of nearby York Township to-day said he will ask for the resignation of Chief Contsable Robert Alexander of the township at a Council meeting on Monday.

He said Chief Constable Alexander was guilty of "abuse" of authority when he had three farmers charged on October 10 under an 1845 statute banning work on Sundays. The charges later were withdrawn by the Chief.

The farmers and some 25 volunteer helpers from Toronto worked on the farms on Sunday in an effort to reap crops before the freeze-up.

Britain Wants 900 Million Pounds Pork

GARDINER REPORTS INCREASE OF 75 CENTS PER CWT. OVER EXISTING CONTRACT PRICE

OTTAWA, Oct. 22—(CP).—Agriculture Minister Gardiner announced today at a press conference that he is about to negotiate a new bacon and ham agreement with the United Kingdom providing for delivery by Canada of 900,000,000 pounds over a two-year period starting next January 1.

Mr. Gardiner said the price will be $22.50 a hundredweight, f.o.b. Canadian seaboard—an increase of 75 cents a hundredweight over the existing contract price.

The new agreement will call for smaller deliveries than for several years. The current agreement which expires in December calls for delivery of 675,000,000 pounds in one year.

The cut in deliveries is being made because of feed shortages in Canada and expected lower production of hogs in 1944, Mr. Gardiner said.

Mr. Gardiner also announced that the present meat board restrictions on slaughter of hogs for consumption in Canada will be rescinded, because more hogs are being offered at Canadian slaughter-houses than can be handled with available labor.

The Prices Board might find it necessary to maintain some restriction to enforce meat rationing, but if so the order providing for it would considerably enlarge the quotas on slaughter of hogs for consumption in Canada.

"This means that consumers will be able to use their rations for more pork in preference to other meats if they so desire," the Minister said.

Under the existing Meat Board regulation, a butcher can kill only 50 per cent. of his 1940 total for domestic uses.

The new agreement will call for delivery of not less than 900,000,000 pounds in two years, Mr. Gardiner said, but this did not mean bacon exports would be re-

Yugoslavs Take Iron Mine In Latest Push

LONDON, Oct. 22. — (CP).— Strong Partisan forces have stormed into Bosanska Dubica in North Central Yugoslavia and also have captured the Lyubiya iron mine, second largest in Europe, a Yugoslav Liberation army communique announced to-day.

The communique, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio and recorded by the Associated Press, said these important victories were achieved by storm units of the 11th brigade of the 5th Yugoslav Corps commanded by Milosh Shelegovic.

Storming of Bosanska Dubica, the bulletin declared, was accomplished after the guerillas, in a surprise attack, blew up a bridge over the Una river. They captured 120 Nazi prisoners, 360 rifles and other war material.

The Lyubiya iron mine is located near Prijedor, about 16 miles southwest of Bosanska Dubica, and was said to have been an important source of iron ore for Germany's war plant. The guerillas, led by Col. Slavko Rodic, destroyed all the mine's installations, the communique said, rendering it useless for months to come. Guns and other war material were reported captured.

Farther to the south units of the 12th Dalmatian division planted the partisan banner on the Island of Sipanj, near Dubrovnik, the Yugoslavs said, capturing the German-manned ship "Kupari," two smaller motor ships, two fishing boats and 17 German prisoners.

The ancient town of Senj, a small Croat fishing port at the foot of the Velebit mountains midway between Trieste and Zara, was attacked by a heavy formation of German dive bombers and destroyed, the Yugoslav war bulletin said, adding that "a majority of the inhabitants (approximately 3,000) were killed."

(Swiss reports reaching Stockholm, said the Germans are making frantic anti-invasion preparation in the Balkans. Nazi troop trains were said to be rolling continuously across Northern Italy from France with troops to bolster German defences in Yugoslavia.

(Aftonidningen said in a Zurich dispatch the Nazis are looking for a possible Allied attack on Yugoslavia's west coast or through Albania and also are preparing for a possible combined Soviet-British offensive through the Black Sea against Rumania and Bulgaria. In the later places huge fortifications were said being erected along the Black Sea coasts.)

Expensive Recruit

SHREVEPORT, La., Oct. 22 (AP).—A 34-year-old Negro, Tom Washington, father of 11 children ranging in age from five days to 15 years, has been sworn into the United States Navy here as a volunteer. Navy officials said Washington's allotment would be $308 a month under the proposed Service Men's Allotment Act. The family lives on a farm.

Daylight Swoop Riddles Airbase

LONDON, Oct. 22—(CP).—American bombers, supported by Allied fighters, raided the Nazi air base at Evreux-Fauville, France, today as a quick daylight follow-up to raids on western Germany last night by R.A.F. Mosquitoes.

While the Allies thus kept their day-night offensive rolling against Germany and occupied territories, Nazi raiders made hit-run attacks on London for the sixth successive night, causing some casualties and damage.

The two-engined American bombers on their fourth operation of the month following a two-weeks lull because of bad weather, encountered no enemy fighters and made the raid on the airport 45 miles west of Paris without loss, it was announced.

50 Fields Pitted.

The blow at Evreux-Fauville hinted a resumption of the extensive Allied aerial campaign against the Nazis' northwestern airbases which has ranged from Nantes on around the Channel coasts to the German border.

About 50 fields have been bombed and re-bombed in some 100 attacks during the last two months in the campaign to whittle down Germany's fighter forces and permit unimpeded, large-scale bomber attacks.

Details concerning the R.A.F. operations were not immediately disclosed.

There was no indication of any activity by British and Canadian heavy bombers, which the previous night had staged a smashing attack on Leipzig.

Only a few of the small formations of enemy raiders which crossed the English southeast coast actually penetrated to the London area, however. The others presumably were scared off by R.A.F. night fighters.

Kidnap Hitler Badoglio Plan

LONDON, Oct. 22 — (CP) — The German high command today published details of an alleged plan by Marshal Pietro Badoglio to kidnap Hitler as well as Mussolini.

The plan was said to have been discovered among captured military documents.

The announcement was made by Berlin radio in a broadcast recorded by Reuters News Agency.

The kidnap plot story by D.N.B., Nazi News Agency, said "documents" supplied by the German high command to the Voelkischer Beobachter, chief Nazi party newspaper, revealed the plot in which King Victor Emmanuel as well as Badoglio planned to deliver both Hitler and Mussolini to the Allies.

"Badoglio requested the Italian military attache in Berlin to call on the Fuehrer at his headquarters and ask him in the name of the King to come to Italy to discuss, with the King and Badoglio, government measures to intensify resistance against the common enemy," D.N.B. said, quoting these "documents."

"The invitation was refused coolly," D.N.B. added. "It came at a time when the handing over of the Duce was decided and sealed.

"Today it is known that the King and Badoglio arranged with the enemy to place into his hand the Fuehrer as well as the Duce."

Badoglio and the King "were wrong to believe that their base duplicity had remained hidden from the German command," D.N.B. concluded.

Fall Of Melitopol Likely As Nazis Rush Strong Units From Crimea

Germans Must Hold Key City, Krivoi Rog South of Dnieper River Or Entire Crimea Will Be Isolated

By JUDSON O'QUINN—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 22—(AP).—The Red Army today threw veterans of the battle of Stalingrad into its bold drive to isolate 500,000 Germans in the Crimea and the Dnieper bend. A Reuters News Agency dispatch placed the Russian vanguards 18 miles from Krivoi Rog, iron ore city in the bend.

The Germans acknowledged in their daily communique that Soviet attacks are boiling over into additional sectors, adding these assaults were particularly strong north of the Sea of Azov.

A Russian landing effort on the east coast of the Crimea also was reported in the German communique, which said the attempt was made with weak forces yesterday and was repelled.

A Reuters dispatch reporting the new advance toward Krivoi Rog said "the German air force no longer has enough fighter planes to prevent the attacks of the Soviet air force."

Hold Three Quarters.

At Melitopol, the Red Army gained more ground and now commands three-quarters of the city's area. The Germans consider Melitopol the key to the Crimea and are fighting desperately for it and flinging reinforcements into the struggle.

A dispatch to the Russian newspaper Izvestia said Melitopol was ablaze and the beautiful orchard country around it ruined.

A Moscow broadcast depicted German resistance at Melitopol as "showing signs of giving way after well over a week of battle."

German positions north of Krivoi Rog have lost all semblance of a line and the Nazis are fighting hastily improvised actions from first one point and then another, dispatches asserted.

The battle of Melitopol, last major German stronghold east of the lower Dnieper River, capture of which would render untenable the position of some 500,000 Nazi troops crowded into the Dnieper bend, raged toward a climax today with the Germans sustaining enormous losses in men and equipment.

The Swiss radio reported Dnepropetrovsk at the Dnieper bend now is completely encircled by the Russian forces.

According to the best information available in London two German armies in the Melitopol area and the Crimea were threatened with entrapment. These were the reconstituted 6th Army, destroyed at Stalingrad, which now is believed fighting in the Melitopol area north of the Sea of Azov, and the 17th Army which once garrisoned the Kuban Peninsula in the Caucasus but which has been withdrawn into the Crimea and farther north.

Have 90 Divisions

Between the Pinsk Marshes and the Sea of Azov, the Germans were said to have between 70 and 90 divisions.

Besides the 6th and 17th Armies, the Germans also were believed to have an SS armored corps somewhere between the Pinsk Marshes and the Sea of Azov.

Plunging down from Kemenchug to the north, meanwhile, Red Army columns backed by mobile artillery units and augmented air power battered their way to within 23 miles of Krivoi Rog, South Russian industrial and mining centre, a Soviet communique reported.

Their spearheads were pointing toward a junction with Soviet troops

Catholic Editor Refutes CCF Assumption

WINNIPEG, Oct. 22.—(CP).—F. W. Russell, editor of the Northwest Review, Western Roman Catholic weekly newspaper, said in an interview yesterday that the statement of Catholic archibishops and bishops at Quebec, regarding support of political parties by Catholics, did not give approval to any socialist party.

(The Quebec statement said parishioners are at liberty to join any political party so long as the party maintains "the fundamental principles of Christianism which are traditional in Canada, and as long as it favors, in the economic and social order, the necessary reforms asked for in pontifical documents."

(C.C.F. leaders, including the national chief, M. J. Coldwell, have said this statement clarified the position of Catholics in regard to the C.C.F. party. The Canadian Register, official organ of Roman Catholic dioceses in Ontario, declared: "The hierarchy does not name the C.C.F., for it would not wish to use words which could be interpreted or misinterpreted as favoring one political party exclusively, but it is made quite clear that Catholics have the same liberty of supporting this as the older parties.")

Think for Themselves

Mr. Russell stated that Roman Catholics have no direction as to how they should vote "and don't expect any. But we do know that we cannot vote for communists, and if the C.C.F. is strictly a socialist party we cannot vote for them."

Mr. Russell cited an editorial in the Northwest Review which quoted Pope Pius XI. as declaring that "no one can be at the same time a sincere Catholic and a true socialist."

Chiang Kai-shek Unites All Parties

Powerful Communist Elements Given Representation On Committee

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

The best news yet to come out of China is the assurance from Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek's government that a settlement of its quarrel with the Chinese Communists is in prospect—and that there will be no civil war!

Such a peace would be a godsend not only to China but to the United Nations. To understand the full import of this you must know that the evil spirit of fratricidal strife long has been hanging over that war-tortured country.

Background for this spirit lies in the many bloody outbursts in the protracted political warfare between Gen. Chiang's one-party (Kuomintang) Government and Communists who have been fighting for recognition of their party. The dangers have been multiplied by the peculiar circumstances that the Chinese armed forces have included several strong Communist armies under their own generals, an agreement having been made to bury the political hatchet temporarily in interests of the war effort against the Japanese.

The latest rupture in the "United Front" was only last month when the provincial authorities of Shantung charged that Communist forces attacked the state police.

Now comes Chungking's prediction that peace is in sight. More to the point, Gen. Chiang has appointed two Communist leaders, Gen. Chou En-Lai and Tng Pi-Wu, to a committee of 60 which has been assigned to do the groundwork for a constitutional government. Gen. Chou is outranked in the Communist Party only by Gen. Mao Tze-Tung, the Conmuist army commander. Of course, there's still a load of dynamite in the situation, but the Chinese home-front seems to have made a fair start in pulling out of a nasty position.

Predictions of closely co-ordinated action against Japan by Britain, the United States and China were voiced by the Chungking press today as Admiral Lord Louis Mountbatten returned to India after a series of talks here with Gen. Chiang Kai-Shek and British and American military men.

The general tenor of the comment stirred by the visit of the new Allied commander for Southwest Asia was reflected in the Chinese army organ, Sao Tang Pao, which said:

"We shall soon see on the battle fields the decisions reached in Chungking."

The paper went on to suggest the possibility of a "gigantic pincer movement against Burma" in which, it said, China will play an important part.

The official Chinese Central News said "questions concerning military co-operation were discussed in great detail" and added "decisions were reached on various questions which had been brought up for discussion."

Sitting in with Lord Louis and Gen. Chiang at the latter's country retreat near the capital were Lt.-Gen. Joseph W. Stilwell, chief of staff of Allied forces in China, and other British, American and Chinese officials.

5th Army Wins Supply Race

Weld Railway Wheels To Army Trucks

ALGIERS, Oct. 21 (Delayed) — (AP).—The Allied 5th Army has won a behind-the-lines victory of transportation and supply.

In a race with winter and harassed by many handicaps, including enemy fire, the 5th Army's supply men have kept supplies flowing steadily into Italy.

Their greatest achievement came when they shifted the supply route from across the Gulf of Salerno beaches into the devastated port of Naples. A few days after the army reached that port, a Liberty ship had snaked its way in and unloaded its cargo.

After the enemy was driven from Naples, engineers, salvage crews and Italian workers plunged into the job of clearing wharves of wreckage and debris and cutting a lane for shipping through the sunken hulks of ships.

Before Naples fell, transportation experts had solved one problem — they recalled a branch railway line from Paestun, where supplies were being unloaded on the beaches, to Salerno. They took the flanged wheels from damaged railway cars and welded them to the brake drums of army trucks for locomotive power.

The trucks were able to haul five cars laden with 10 tons each.

Searchlights Rout U-Boats

Million Candle-Power Lights On Planes

LONDON, Oct. 22.—(AP).— One of the big secrets of the battle of the Atlantic against the U-boats has at last been revealed — the 1,000,000 candle-power searchlights carried by R.A.F. coastal command planes which turn night into day over big stretches of the ocean, wiping out the undersea prowlers "refuge" hours of darkness formerly used for essential surfacing to recharge their batteries.

The searchlights were so successful that on their first tryout they spotlighted two Nazi submarines, which were attacked immediately under favorable circumstances

A U-boat may be cruising along on the surface in the dark, with no warning that an Allied plane is closing in until it suddenly is engulfed in a great white glare of light and a shower of bombs This is credited with being an important factor in sapping the morale of the U-boat crews.

The technique has been worked out by specially trained "Leigh Light Squadrons," named after the originator, 46 year old Wing Cmdr. Humprey Deverd Leigh, First Great War naval pilot — whose "hush-hush" receipt of the Order of the British Empire in the New Year's honors list probably is explained by to-day's disclosures.

Jap Troops Gaining At Finschhafen

Australians Fight Bloody Battle In Thick Jungle

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, The South-west Pacific, Oct. 22— (AP). —Imperilled by Australian forces on two sides, Japanese soldiers in the jungle north-west of Finschhafen are battling savagely, an Allied spokesman said to-day.

These Japanese presently are not trying to recapture Finschhafen, the spokesman explained, although their objective on the New Guinea coast is only a few miles north of that air base.

Australians of the 9th Division, experienced in battles both in North Africa and on New Guinea, have thrown back frontal attacks, but the Japanese have achieved some progress by night infiltrations of small patrols.

The latest fighting reported was in the vicinity of the enemy-occupied village of Katika.

Much Aerial Action.

(The dispatch said the Japanese were "attempting to save forces by making contact with the shoreline" but did not elaborate. Should these troops have in mind a flight from there, apparently they either would have to risk Allied air attacks by taking barges to New Britain or to Madang on up the New Guinea coast. Flight by land along the coast to Madang might offer another possibility.)

Headquarters advices to-day told of a six-hour harrassing raid in the darkness on Wednesday on Allied positions around Finschhafen by 30 Japanese planes. Some damage and casualties were acknowledged.

Allied attack planes and dive bombers hit the enemy north of Finschhafen. Medium bombers attacked communications ahead of Australians moving up the Ramu Valley against Madang.

At Wewak, fighters shot down six enemy float planes as they took off.

A single heavy bomber wrecked 17 barges at the western tip of New Britain and later fought off 22 enemy planes, downing three for certain, probably bagging two more and damaging another three.

Constable Hurt At Dance Hall

Assaulted while on duty at a dance in the Canadian Legion Hall early this morning Constable Allan Edmison, newest member of the Peterborough police department, is off duty today suffering from injuries received in the brawl.

The officer was punched or kicked in the face during the struggle and may have sustained a fracture of a cheek-bone as a result.

The trouble arose when Constable Edmison halted a youth who allegedly had been drinking, as he was about to enter the dance hall, after a disturbance outside.

The young man responded by starting a fight when the officer went to place him under arrest. Other youths in the crowd, according to the police obstructed Constable Edmison by grabbing his belt. After the assault the assailant made his escape and police were looking for him today.

Two youths were arrested and in police court Donald LaFonte, 19, and Anthony Caraveggie, 16, were arraigned before Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C.

LaFonte was charged with assaulting Constable Edmison while the latter was in the execution of his duty.

"I plead guilty to touching his belt," said the accused.

"You'll have to plead to the charge just as it is here," replied Magistrate Langley.

"I am asking for a remand in any case," stated Crown Attorney V. J. McElderry, K.C., and LaFonte was remanded until Monday morning with bail fixed at $500.

Similar bail was set in the case of Caraveggie who was charged with obstructing a police officer while making an arrest and who was also remanded until Monday.

Under the agreement, the annual shipments would be on the basis of 450,000 pounds but it might be possible, with good crops, that the actual annual shipments might run near the 600,000,000 pounds shipped in 1941.

The ceiling price to the pork consumer in Canada will not be affected by the higher price for the export product. It increased consumption of hogs in Canada should result in a release of beef for export, arrangements will be made to forward it to Britain.

It was hoped the alteration in slaughtering restrictions, along with the fact that returns on most farm products were equitable, would enable farmers to make use of their own experience in deciding what product they can best produce, Mr. Gardiner said. If returns are about equal they will be free to determine what line of production is best for them to follow.

While a freer use of pork products in the meat ration locally would be allowed, the total meat ration would not be changed and the number of hogs finding their way into packing plants should not be greatly reduced, he said.

The new price for export bacon brings it to the Canadian price-ceiling level. In the past shipments have been made at a price somewhat below the ceiling, with the result that small butchers and plants could sell their product entirely in the Canadian market and enjoy a better price.

The editorial continued: "This is something that Catholics must seriously ponder when they are confronted with the question of whether or not they will support the O.C.F. They certainly have no excuse for making any mistake about it, for they have definite guidance of the Popes. Pius XI flatly and categorically declared that 'even in their mitigated form Socialism and Communism are far removed from the precepts of the Gospel,' and he made this Papal decision: 'No one can be at the same time a sincere Catholic and a true Socialist.'

No Compromise.

"Discussing the possibility of compromise with Socialism the Pope wrote: 'Whether Socialism be considered as a doctrine, or as a historical fact, or as a movement if it really remains Socialism it cannot be brought into harmony with the dogmas of the Catholic church.... The reason being that it conceives humanity in a way utterly alien to Christian truth.'

"We do not think the leaders of the C.C.F. can deny—if the question is put to them—that the statements of principles they support are the expression of true Socialism though, as the Pope says, perhaps somewhat mitigated when compared with some European specimens. But, mitigated or not, Catholics cannot support it."

Crown Witness Weakens Murder Evidence

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 22 (AP) —Definite facts began to emerge from a maze of contention and mystery as the trial of Alfred de Marigny, charged with slaying Sir Harry Oakes, entered the fifth day.

Only a handful of the 56 witnesses have appeared so far, but these conclusions seem definite from testimony already on record:—

Sir Harry was struck by his murderer while asleep, and died without a struggle. Wallstains carefully examined by detectives for both sides are not handprints, as first thought, but marks of a volatile liquid.

The slayer was in the room only a short while—probably less than 10 minutes. The spraygun containing insecticide did not figure in the attempt to burn the body. The prosecution has mentioned gasoline as the possible inflammable agent.

The fire in Sir Harry's room flared up in an explosion, instead of burning slowly, and only a few spots on the bed and carpet were left smouldering after the first blast.

Weakens Case

Beyond these conclusions little is yet clear.

Crown and defence scored yesterday, oddly enough through the same witness.

Mrs. Dorothy Clark, wife of an R. A.F. flier, was among the guests at De Marigny's house on the night of the slaying. She gave testimony placing De Marigny in the vicinity of the murder scene about the time Sir Harry was slain.

Then, on cross examination, she said she saw De Marigny go upstairs at Westbourne, the Oakes home, the morning after the body was found.

This laid the foundation for a defence contention that De Marigny may have left a fingerprint on a paper screen in the room after the slaying became known.

The fingerprint, said by crown identification experts to be De Marigny's is admittedly one of the major points in the government's case.

Within a comparatively short time her talent and personality was to make her the darling of this continent. The affection of millions for her provided the impetus that began the forward march of the motion picture.

The bright little Canadian had become an actress of promise at the age of sixeen. The leaders of the stage offered her chances that would have won any other person to them but she was attracted to a new medium of entertainment, one that was being ridiculed on almost every side. She was faced with a tremendous personal decision. Her choice made history.

Of this girl William C. deMille, a ranking playwright at the time, in a letter dated July 25th, 1911, wrote to the then dean of the theatre, David Belasco:

"Oh, by the way, you remember that little girl, Mary Pickford, who played Betty in 'The Warrens of Virginia'? I met her again a few weeks ago and the poor kid is actually thinking of taking up moving pictures seriously. She says she can make a fairly good living at it, but it does seem a shame. After all, she can't be more than seventeen and I remember what faith you had in her future; that appealing personality of hers would go a long way in the theatre and now she's throwing her whole career in the ash-can and burying herself in a cheap form of amusement which hasn't a single point I can see to recommend it. There will never be any real money in those galloping tintypes and certainly no one can expect them to develop into anything which could, by the wildest stretch of the imagination, be called art.

"I pleaded with her not to waste her professional life and the opportunity the stage gives her to be known to thousands of people, but she's rather a stubborn little thing for such a youngster and says she knows what she's doing.

"I suppose we'll have to say goodby to little Mary Pickford. She'll never be heard of again, and I feel terribly sorry for her."

And now Mary Pickford is a living legend. A million hamlets would be proud to claim her. But in Toronto's City Hall, where oil portraits of civic notables hang everywhere, there is none of Mary. The house in which she was born, which attracted many tourists, was neglected until torn down. In Ontario's capital there is no fixed example of pride in her.

In the city, province and country which gave Mary Pickford to the world nothing exists to honor her but the love of her people.

Deny Wreckage Found In St. Lawrence

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 — (CP). — Ninety aircraft and Royal Canadian Navy vessels have been assigned to the search for the Liberator bomber missing in the Gulf of St. Lawrence area since Tuesday night with 24 aboard but "weather conditions halted the search" this morning, R. C. A. F. headquarters announced.

(While Air Force headquarters said weather conditions had halted the search, press reports from Quebec just before 1 p.m., E. D. T. indicated that some flying was in progress.)

"Aircraft were still grounded at shortly before noon, but the task will be resumed with intensified vigor as soon as the weather lifts," the Air Force statement said.

Search aircraft are drawn from Eastern Air Command, No. 3 Training Command at Halifax and No. 45 Group, R.A.F. Transport Command, at Dorval Airport, near Montreal. United States aircraft from an Eastern U.S. station are co-operating.

All Planes Out

"R.C.A.F. stations prominment in the task include Bagotville, Mont Joli, Ancienne Lorette and Gaspe, in Quebec, and Chatham, N.B.," said the R.C.A.F. statement. "Other stations are also furnishing quotas of aircraft to the search.

"Aircraft detection corps personnel are co-operating in the search but information on the movements of the missing aircraft was limited due to low visibility and high winds.

"The R.C.N. are engaged in the search and are investigating all reports of floating wreck. So far none of these have given any clues to the location of the Liberator."

The searching aircraft have been centred along the St. Lawrence River into which the big four-motored plane is believed to have plunged after it was last heard from over Mont Joli, Que., Tuesday night.

(Officials of a search party at Ancienne Lorette airport near Quebec said that an air search for a missing Liberator bomber had been carried out over Hare Island at the mouth of the Saguenay River where flares had been reported seen, "but as far as we are concerned, nothing has been found.")

Next-of-kin of the missing men—a crew of six and 18 other R.C.A.F. men from eastern air command stations—have been informed, although the list of those aboard the craft has not been made public.

Scant reports have reached here since the Liberator disappeared, although yesterday morning R.C.A.F. headquarters issued a statement — later corrected—that wreckage had been sighted by searching aircraft off the mouth of the Saguenay River.

Late yesterday, that statement was contradicted by the following announcement:

"Aircraft searching for the Liberator aircraft missing in the Gulf of St. Lawrence area since Tuesday failed to find any trace of wreckage previously reported near the mouth of the Saguenay River.

tario regiment was supported by a heavy concentration of weapons. From the hill overlooking the town, the objective was mortared and machine-gunned while rapid-firing Bofors poured high explosives at the targets.

Lieut. C. H. Broad

The town was finally captured by companies under the command of Lieuts. C. H. Broad of Bancroft, Ont., and Manley Yearwood of Madoc, Ont.

It was a model attack carried out strictly according to the text book. Two hours before the zero hour, 5 a.m., tanks took up their positions.

The Canadians until just before the attack launched heavy mortar fire on enemy machine-gun and mortar positions which had been pin-pointed. At zero hour Canadian machine-guns and Bofors opened up from the flank and a field regiment of artillery took up shelling of enemy posts.

Under cover of the artillery barrage the armored vehicles moved up ahead of the infantry to the base of the hill which was the first objective in front of the town. They engaged enemy machine-guns and infantry advancing behind them occupied a ridge without a shot being fired by the enemy whose heads were kept down by the rain of fire from the Canadian line.

Use Smoke Screen

The weight of the attack was too much for the enemy who packed up and left without fighting. They first evacuated the ridge, then the town which the Canadians entered under a smoke screen. There was no fighting in the town itself.

When the Canadians entered they found the Germans had not buried Canadian soldiers killed fighting there three days ago. The bodies were still lying in the streets. The Germans left so fasta they did not even have time to finish breakfast and blankets in cots on which the Germans left so fast they did not still warm.

The enemy stopped long enough however to blow up a bridge on the other side of the town and from new positions the German mortared the Canadians heavily an hour after they occupied the town. At least 300 mortar shells were estimated to have been dropped in the heaviest barrage of that type yet experienced by the regiment.

While this attack was being carried out men of another formation of the R.C.R.'s commanded by Capt. Duncan Schleihuf of St. Thomas, Ont., went in on a town at the summit of a thickly-wooded hill. After a barrage of 25-pounders the infantry entered the town without opposition although considerable enemy resistance had been expected.

Three men under Lieut. Bob Kerr of Montreal surprised a German machine-gun post near a farmhouse and opened fire, then withdrew because the enemy was in a better position. Artillery fire was directed against the post and a German deserter later reported five of the 10 men in the position were wounded by shellfire.

A company from the same regiment commanded by Capt. Tom Burdett of Strathroy, Ont., captured another town. Before it was entered a platoon of men rushed the Germans from a position on high ground overlooking the area.

One platoon moved into the town from the south and others advanced from the north leaving only one avenue of escape for the Germans The enemy was taken by surprise and 15 prisoners were captured The Canadians suffered only two casualties although there was considerable machine-gun and rifle fire.

Capture Town Of Alife Road Junction Beat Off Counter

By NOLAND NORGAARD
Associated Press War Correspondent

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct 22 — (AP). — Pursuing the retreating enemy too close to permit him to establish new defence positions, Allied troops of 5th Army captured the important road junction town of Alife in a 1?-mile advance and beat off the furious German counter-attack, it was announced today.

The town of Piedmonte d'Alife near Alife also fell before the assault while on the 8th Army's left flank British troops beat off a massive German attack aimed a Cancello on the north bank of th Volturno, eight miles in from th sea.

Alife has been repeatedly since long before the start of the Volturn battle.

The Northwest African Air Force destroyed 16 enemy aircraft in the past 24 hours, the air command said.

The Germans counter-attacked at Cancello, but headquarters said they were thrown back from this point on the north shore of the Volturno eight miles in from the Tyrehenian Sea. Allied troops took Cancello several days ago.

Egg Prices Soar Reach Ceiling

If you notice an increase in the price of eggs this week-end, and you will if you go into the market for your usual four or five dozen, oyu might as well have the information with you that quotations are now at their ceiling.

An you may have some difficulty in getting supplies, although that is hardly likely. And the explanation of that condition of the market is chiefly that the Dominion Government has requisitioned 30 per cent of all the receipts of the eggs in grading stations receiving more than 15 cases a week.

The fighting man comes first, and as reported several days ago, although the production of eggs is at a new peak for this country, the increase in demand has ascended away above the supply. People are eating more eggs in this country, Canada is sending tremendous quantities to the Old Country in dried form, and although farmer have surprised themselves with the extent of their accomplishment in multiplying their flocks during the last two years, they fell short of present consumption.

Cancer Claims Every Month 1,000 Canadians

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 22 (ENS)—Sixty-five ladies were present for the October meeting of the Seymour West branch of the Women's Institute Thursday afternoon, when Dr. G. S. Cameron, Peterborough, chairman of the Provincial Committee for the Study of Cancer, was the guest speaker.

Introduced to the gathering by Dr. H. B. Longmore, M.D., of Campbellford, the importance of the subject was stressed by his revelation that as Township M.O.H. he had to report that two of the 15 deaths in Seymour last year were due to cancer.

Dr. Cameron began by telling the gathering that cancer and heart disease were the two main causes of death in the world today and despite the vast amount of research work that has been done there is still much to be learned. He said there was still no definite cure and added that many who had been doing cancer research had now transferred their attention to the pressing problems created by the war.

Despite the fact it can be traced back to early Egyptian history, its secret remains unsolved and nearly one thousand Canadians die of the disease every month. In layman's language he described the growth of the body cell which suddenly went berserk and began to increase in size and spread throughout the blood stream. His advice to the gathering, was to seek medical advice without hesitation, when in doubt, as there were many types of cancer that would respond to treatment providing an early diagnosis was made.

Storing Vegetables

Some hints on the storing of winter vegetables were given by members in their response to the roll call. Two suggestions offered were that carrots should be left in the ground until the 'freeze up' and then removed to the cellar and kept in bags. Celery keeps best in moistened sand, and cabbage will keep better if it is harvested root and all.

During the business period it was decided the expenses incurred by the leaders of the Girl's Club, who attended the Training school held recently in Warkworth, should be paid by the Branch. Mrs. Mac Waddel was named as delegate to the area convention in Belleville on October 28 and 29, and members were urged to attend the conference on food and nutrition scheduled to take the form of an all day session in the Public Library here on November 8. The conference will be conducted by Miss V. Banbridge of the Department.

A discussion of Christmas parcels followed and a committee comprising Mrs. Raymond Free, Mrs. Cecil McCulloch, Mrs. Reg. McCulloch, Mrs. Ray McCulloch and Mrs. F. McCulloch was appointed to take charge of packing ditty bags while overseas boxes were left in charge of Mrs. Robert McCulloch, Mrs. Art Rutherford, Mrs. James Waters, Mrs. Frank McKelvie and Mrs. Douglas Rutherford.

Mrs. Howard Clark presided for the program and contributed a reading while Mrs. Harold Twigg who was among the guests from Campbellford, gave a recitaton. Mrs. Gordon McCulloch demonstrated an invalid tray at the close of the meeting.

RECTAL SORENESS AND PILE TORTURE
QUICKLY RELIEVED

If you are troubled with itching piles or rectal soreness, do not delay treatment and run the risk of letting this condition become chronic. Any itching or soreness or painful passage of stool is nature's warning and proper treatment should be secured at once.

For this purpose get a package of Hem-Roid from McDermid & Jury or any I.D.A or other drug store and use as directed. This formula which is used internally is a small easy to take tablet, will quickly relieve the itching and soreness and aid in healing the sore tender spots. Hem-Roid is pleasant to use is highly recommended and it seems the height of folly for any one to risk a painful and chronic pile condition when such a fine remedy may be had at such a small cost.

If you try Hem-Roid and are not entirely pleased with the results, your druggist will gladly return your money. (Advt.)

Stalin Sees Eden At The Kremlin

By HENRY C. CASSIDY
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Oct. 22 (AP)—Premier Joseph Stalin took a personal hand in the Moscow tri-partite conference by receiving Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden at the Kremlin yesterday and there was every indication today that he also would see United States State Secretary Cordell Hull soon.

At the conference itself, the talks were said to be proceeding so satisfactorily that spokesmen intimated decisions on a number of subjects might stand without going before Prime Minister Churchill, President Roosevelt and Stalin.

It seems generally understood here that a personal meeting of the heads of the three great powers definitely will follow the present conference.

A British spokesman said early in the current talks that they were not solely to lay the groundwork for a subsequent Churchill - Roosevelt - Stalin parley, but added yesterday: "I would say that, too, will be included."

The nature of Eden's talk with Stalin yesterday, like those in the conference council chamber at Spiridonovka Palace, was not disclosed.

Secrecy surrounding the conference deepened as officials said that even identities of those called in could not be revealed if there was any chance this might disclose pertinent information.

Secrecy Maintained

An official spokesman insisted the secrecy was not intended to conceal any divergencies of views and warned correspondents speculation on the subjects under discussion might do "more harm than good." The spokesman said a sincere atmosphere of friendly co-operation persisted.

The three national groups sat around the conference table for four hours yesterday, as on the previous day. It was said there was "very full and frank" discussion of the first topics on the agenda.

It was suggested again the talks were of a military nature, for the British and American military advisers — U.S. Maj.-Gen. John R. Deane and British Lt. Gen. Sir Hastings Ismay—were called in for the second straight day.

Moscow newspapers continued to give prominence to news of the conference. One Russian military commentator, Col. Nikolai Akimov, also touched anew on the subject of an Allied attack on western Europe.

"The Red Army's recent successes," he said, "have made the situation more favorable than ever for an invasion of Europe by British and American troops."

Horrors Of War Amaze U.S. Secretary

WITH THE FIFTH ARMY IN ITALY, Oct. 22 — (AP). — Henry Morgenthau, United States Secretary of the Treasury, travelled through forward areas of the Italian front with Lt.-Gen. Mark W. Clark yesterday and had high praise for British and American soldiers and for Amg's work in restoring the city of Naples.

"I am struck by the young British and American soldiers," he said. "Their faces seemed so alert and they were so evidently in the pink of condition that they seem to be ready for anything."

The Secretary voiced horror over the sufferings of the Italians, and declared:

"The people in America should get down on their knees and thank God that such things are not happening there. We haven't really begun to make sacrifices in the United States yet. In contrast with what I've seen to-day our little annoyances seem so small.

"All day I was impressed with the evidence of the ruthlessness of the German enemy—their murder of innocent civilians, the peaceful farm buildings and crops they've destroyed, the homes they have ruined. The people at home should see these things."

He said the 5th Army is a smooth running machine with the finest kind of co-operation between the Britons and Americans.

This strategy will reduce the danger to bombers operating from England or Italy. Beverage Room Hours To Be Reduced TORONTO, Oct. 22.—An increase in drunkenness has so alarmed the Ontario Liquor Control Board that it is likely an order will be issued shortly closing all beverage rooms between the hours of 6 and 8 p.m., it was reported yesterday. Hotel beverage rooms now are closed between 2 and 4 in the afternoon.

Chief Commissioner A. St. Clair Gordon declined to affirm or deny the report of the proposed step, but he agreed that the public is staying longer in beverage rooms than was the case before the Dominion Government restrictions curtailed the beer supply.

It is understood Liquor Board investigators have found a big increase in insobriety as a result of patrons staying in the beverage rooms until the supply was exhausted. Before the Dominion Government imposed its restrictions, people would drink more rationally and few would stay a considerable time.

The beer shortage, however, has raised a new problem which the Liquor Board plans to solve by again curtailing hours of sale. Knowing the supply available in all hotels is strictly limited, patrons consume bottle after bottle or glass after glass, fearing that each repeat order will be the last for the day.

All attempts to have Ottawa relax the restrictions on beer and liquor have been unsuccessful. Mr. Gordon visited Ottawa last week and saw members of the Cabinet and Excise Commissioner David Sim.

The 40-ounce ration per month in Ontario is not going to be boosted during the course of the war, but neither will it be lowered, Mr. Gordon said.

says "Red" Stevens, Tire Builder

22 Years With Goodyear—a family man with a son in the Army—"Red" Stevens is a Solid Citizen, Typical of the Goodyear Craftsmen who are building Tires for Overseas Use.

● "To win a war," said "Red" Stevens, "you've got to have real teamplay. Probably that's why the Canadians have done so well in action. They were raised on sports—know the meaning of honest-to-gosh teamplay.

"I like to think of our Goodyear gang as one of the combat teams in this biggest struggle of all . . . war . . .

"Some of us fight—some of us take care of the home front—some of us pass the ammunition—but we're all members of a big Goodyear team.

"On the fighting front, many hundreds of my Goodyear buddies are in the thick of things—in uniform. They're the all-stars on our team.

"On the home front, thousands of Goodyear dealers are doing their bit by keeping your tires going—repairing, retreading, servicing—saving rubber so that the lads overseas won't go without. They're a big part of the team, too.

"And here at the plant, the rest of us are going all out to build the things the team needs.

"My job on the team began 9,143 Goodyears ago. 9,143 is the number of tires I personally have built for the Armed Forces since war broke out—and I'm just one tire builder in hundreds.

"Perhaps, because you see so many Goodyears around, you think they are mass produced by machines, or something.

"Actually, each one is built by hand—by fellows like me who learned the game from the ground up. And building tires for planes and guns and trucks is a personal matter between us and the boys who use 'em. Sometimes we get letters from our boys overseas, telling us they've seen made-in-Canada Goodyears churning into action in places whose names we can't even pronounce. We get as big a kick out of that as they do.

"Getting back to this idea of teamplay, it seems to me that you motorists and truck drivers are members of our team too. The way you have dug in to conserve rubber has helped put us on the road to victory.

"So keep on babying those tires of yours a while longer. It's our innings now—and pretty soon we'll sew up the old ball game.

"Then just watch our smoke. We'll swing right into the job of building tires for you—and believe me, we've learned lots about tires in building them to win battle honours."

Political Phase Of The War

The three-power conference in Moscow is a most important phase of the political aspect of the war. No war is conducted on a wholly military plan; politics always play a great part in its development, and the more active matters are on the battle-fields, the greater the concentration in the conference chambers.

At present the Russian forces are keeping up a gigantic and successful drive toward the west, breaking through the Dnieper line and threatening Rumania; the Anglo-American drive in Italy has made the Mediterranean and the Adriatic our seas, with possibilities of invasion through the Balkans; the assault on the heart of Germany from the air grows in intensity. This activity in the theatres of war has brought corresponding activity in the capitals of the United Nations, and the Moscow Conference has been called to decide matters which must be clarified before the final great drive against Germany itself. What these matters are cannot be told in detail, because they are secret; but it is possible to guess what some of them must be.

The United Nations, if they are to remain united, must not tread on one another's toes, and doubtless the Moscow Conference seeks to decide, in a broad general way, what "spheres of influence" are of greatest importance to the three conferring countries. Russia's concern will be with her western frontier, with her position regarding Poland, and with her outlets in the Baltic and the Dardanelles; Britain will want an understanding about the freedom of the Mediterranean, about outposts of Imperial defence in the Pacific and probably about the coast of Europe; the U.S. will share some of the British concern, and will have her own demands to make in the Pacific. The utmost delicacy and understanding will be needed to examine all these problems without heat. Russia will certainly sit at the peace table as one of the most important of the victors, and her claims cannot be disregarded, however strange they may seem to the people of the western world. We must never forget that, to Russia, the claims of the Anglo-American alliance seem very great, and that she will not be friendly toward criticism of her own ambitions, which she regards as entirely justifiable.

The results of the Moscow Conference will certainly not be made public, but we may expect to hear something about its general tone, and we may hope that Messrs. Eden and Hull will leave Moscow smiling. The important thing is that the United Nations should determine to stick together at all costs; that they should, indeed, determine not to disagree on any point where agreement is at all possible. This attitude will do much to smooth the path of the diplomats. An agreement as to aims will do much to strengthen the purely military prosecution of the war.

What Is "Profanation"?

The prosecution of thirty-three people for "profanation of the Lord's day" by harvesting vegetables in York county has caused a good deal of indignant comment. Indeed, it has caused more comment than it is worth. Someone has acted with mistaken zeal, and the offenders against the law of 1845 are unlikely to be punished. When they were gathering vegetables — which would otherwise have been spoiled by frost — they were engaged in a good work and a most necessary one at the present time. So far no reputable cleric has suggested that their prosecution is justified in any way.

It is impossible to define clearly what "profanation" may be. Every act partakes of the character of the man who performs it. Church-going, if undertaken in a spirit of ill-temper and reluctance, is a profanation of public worship, while a walk in the country may be an act of greater intrinsic piety. We profane the Lord's day only when we degrade it by our actions. We are sure that in York county last Sunday there were people who played golf, and who were not accused of profanation, and we are sure that there were some who made a show of piety but who harboured profane thoughts, and the police did not bother them. The vegetable-gatherers were behaving in a seemly manner; they were doing a necessary job; they were helping, indirectly, in the fight against a profanation of the whole spirit of humanity. Whoever charged them with profaning the Lord's day clearly needs some instruction in what profanation really is. Perhaps he himself profaned the day by acting like a spiteful busybody.

Hockey And War

The Turk Broda incident has already been dealt with at length in the Examiner's sporting columns, and sportsmen will have followed the discussion of the matter there; sports writers in Ontario seem to take a very poor view of the means used to recruit Broda for a special army team. That part of the public which takes little interest in sport will also be concerned in this matter, we think, and that is why we have decided to comment on it further here.

The matter does not involve any question of whether sport is good for soldiers or not; everybody agrees that it is. But sport and professional sport are two different things. Sport is recreation, and games for everybody, with the emphasis on having a good time rather than on winning or making a spectacle: professional sport is a business, where the object is to win, and to put on as good a display as possible. Sport is obviously a good thing in the Army; professional sport has no place there. The suggestion that certain army districts are trying to collect first-class professional hockey teams is an unwelcome one, and demands investigation; the scandal is increased by the suggestion that crack players are given staff jobs so that they will not be sent overseas. In the colloquial phrase so appropriate in this instance, that stinks on ice.

In a long war there is always a tendency for those far from the fighting to become diverted from the main object—which is winning the victory. Not merely civilians, but soldiers also, suffer in this way. They gradually drift into the opinion that the war can take care of itself, but that a first-rate hockey team, or a concert party, or something else, is really a matter of immediate importance because it keeps up morale, or something of that kind. This sort of weak-mindedness has to be stamped on wherever it is found, and it seems to have been found in the hockey situation. The issue is clear: if a man is fit to play first-class hockey he is probably fit to fight, and if he is not he should not be in the army, but in industry; the sort of intelligence which makes a man a good hockey-player does not usually fit him for executive or staff work.

At present the professional job is winning the war. Every thing else is strictly amateur.

Mrs. O'Leary's Cow Again

Mrs. O'Leary's cow is in the news again. You remember her; she was the cow who was accused of starting the Great Fire in Chicago in 1871 by kicking over a lighted lantern. Poor cow; she has been remembered for seventy years as a cantankerous, ill-contrived animal — the wanton destroyer of several million dollars worth of property. Chicago children for generations have learned the nursery rhyme—

Thank you, pretty cow, that made
Pleasant milk to soak my bread,
Every day and every night,
Warm, and fresh, and sweet, and white.

only to mutter, under their breaths — "But not Mrs. O'Leary's cow, bad luck to her!" Now, we are glad to hear, the cow has been fully cleared of this dreadful guilt.

The Retired Firemen's Association of Chicago has made a full investigation of the case, and its president, John Dooley, has announced that the cow is blameless, and that the fire was started by a group of hooligans who were drinking moonshine behind Patrick O'Leary's barn. And so Mrs. O'Leary's cow is as spotless as it is in the nature of a cow to be.

There is more than one way of solving a mystery, and we exonerated Mrs. O'Leary's cow years ago, through simple deduction of our own. First of all, what sensible farmer sets a lantern on the floor of a barn? He hangs it up on a nail, does he not? And what cow is capable of starting a fire? It is foreign to the nature of cows to do such a thing. Cows are not pyromaniacs; they are essentially damp animals. Any man who goes near a cow will go away wetter than he was before. Cows drool and dribble; they appear to sweat even on the coldest days; they squelch when they walk. A cow might start a flood, but never a fire. Whoever started that libel about the O'Leary's animal had never met a cow at close quarters.

The Surgeons Of England

By SIR ARTHUR KEITH, F.R.S.
(In the Manchester Guardian)

SEPTEMBER 14, 1843, is a red-letter day in the history of the Royal College of Surgeons of England. It was then that Parliament granted the college a new charter, a charter which revolutionized its mode of government and set it on the road to become the great, powerful, and beneficent body it now is. Until then it had been known as the Royal College of Surgeons "in London"; now it became "of England." It was then, too, that the diploma of fellowship came into existence — a diploma which permits the young, ambitious surgeon who has won it to add to his signature the magic letters F.R.C.S.(Eng.). More and more the possession of the fellowship has come to be regarded as essential for election to the surgical staff of every great hospital in England.

Rather more than a century ago the spirit of reform, then very active in England, knocked at the council door of the College of Surgeons and entered. It found the members of the council, the governing body of the college, twenty-one in number, seated round a long table, the president occupying the chief chair, with a vice-president on each side of him. All of them were surgeons attached to one or other of the great hospitals of London; no surgeons from the rest of England were present—railway development had not then reached a point which made their presence possible.

THE chief business of the council, delegated to ten of its number, was to examine candidates for the membership of the college, the members numbering about 13,000 at that time. The members had no voice in the management of the college, for the council was a self-electing body. Each of its members was elected for life; when a member died the remaining members elected a successor, and so the council went on renewing itself.

The spirit of reform found a warm response in the heart of one of the vice-presidents, Sir Benjamin Brodie — one of the most distinguished surgeons of his day. He was at the time of which I write sixty years of age, but when quite a young man had been elected to the Royal Society because of his scientific attainments. He was enamoured of the form of government which ruled the affairs of that society and thought that that form of government might be profitably applied to the affairs of the College of Surgeons. The council of the Royal Society then, as now, selected fro mthe population of the country men who were eminent in the field of science and gathered from the population of the country men who council retire by rotation; new members are nominated from the fellowship by the council, and although the right of veto remains with the Fellows it is never exercised, so that in practice the council of the Royal Society is really self-elective—and it does its work very well.

WHAT Brodie proposed, and his proposals were incorporated in the charter of 1843, was that the then existing council of the college should skim the cream of surgical ability from its membership and so establish a higher grade—the fellowship. Actually 542 members were so promoted. The new body was given an important share in managing the affairs of the college; as life members of the council died their successors were no longer chosen by the council but by the assembled Fellows. The new elections were to be for a period of eight years, so that every year saw some of the old blood of the council replaced by new. Nowadays elections are made by post, for the Fellows today number 2,700 and to be found in every part of the Empire. From time to time the members, who now number 23,500, knock at the door for admission to the suffrage, but hitherto they have done so in vain. The new charter has now been in operation for a century; for over a quarter of that time I was in daily touch with the life of the college; I know of no public institution where business is transacted so smoothly or so efficiently as there.

The "foundation Fellows" of the college were lucky men; they had to pass no examination; it was otherwise with the young candidates who followed. The council set up for them a sort of surgical "Grand National" with such a succession of obstacles to be got over that seldom more than a third of the candidates passed the winning-post. The strange thing was that as the course became more difficult the number of candidates increased. No doubt such an examination favoured vigourous, alert, and practical men, but it tended to exclude from surgery reserved, thoughtful men with a bent for research, just the kind of men which progressive surgery so much needs. New regulations, drafted by the present council, are about to come into force; they will go a considerable way to redress the balance between these two types of candidates.

THE council of Sir Benjamin Brodie's day took its duty to research lightly. That was because the council regarded the maintenance and extension of its museum as a full quittance of that duty. Indeed, it is not until we are well into the twentieth century and have reached the presidency of the late Lord Moynihan that we find the council encouraging research with both hands: Berkeley Moynihan was the first surgeon outside London to reach the presidential chair, and he occupied it for six successive years — a record which will not soon be broken. It was while he occupiped the chair that Sir Buckston Browne, after handing over Darwin's old home as a national possession to the custody of the British Association, gave the college £100,000 to endow a farm for surgical research, built on land adjacent to Darwin's house.

Sir Buckston, now in his 94th year, is a son of Dr. Henry Browne, who was physician to Manchester Royal Infirmary, and represents the fifth generation in which medicine has descended from father to son. And now the presidential chair is filled by a Mancunian, Sir Alfred Webb-Johnson. He has been instrumental in establishing new research laboratories at the college. In his able hands we may hope, as soon as peace returns, to see the college, which has been scarred, and the museum, which has been devastated by the bombs of the enemy, soon restored to their old glory.

Poet Goes Berserk

This is, without doubt, the most literary administration in the country's history. Archibald MacLeish, Mrs. Roosevelt, Harold Ickes, Vice-President Wallace—the list is long and imposing. But it has remained for some anonymous slinger of the language to top them all. This man's astonishingly beautiful handiwork appears in a booklet called "Spare Time—A War Asset for War Workers," and is published by the Federal Security Agency, Office of Community War Services, Division of Recreation. It is recommended to all lovers of the super-sublime. Do you suspect us of exaggerating? Then read this sample:

And as we look we see contrasting with the tense, the tragic, the speedup, the urge to play, to have fun, to dramatize and to sprinkle all the common and the tragic happenings with the salt of humour. That is America; the twofold nature of Lincoln, Will Rogers, Charlie McCarthy, side by side with the valour of Corregidor's defenders, the marines of Guadalcanal, the victors of Tunisia. Recreation, one strand in the complex tissue of life under war, stands forth with a new vividness and a new meaning.

There is more of it, but you get the idea. We recommend that the author of this entrancing stuff be hauled out of his anonymity, if necessary by the scruff of his neck, and decorated publicly with a suitable garland of wild raspberries.—New York Tribune.

THE TIMID SOUL

Washington Spotlight

(By J. F. SANDERSON, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 —(CP)—There is no doubt now that Wendell L. Willkie is after the 1944 Republican nomination for president.

His week-end speech in St. Louis was the first of a series the 1940 candidate will deliver this fall and winter, designed to bring his name to the forefront and compel other Republican aspirants to bring their own campaigns into the open.

A "Willkie platform" likely will emerge from these speeches but whether it will develop into the Republican party platform only time can tell.

Meanwhile, a boom has started in some Republican circles for Eric Johnston, president of the United States Chamber of Commerce, but those in the know insist he will run for the senate from his native state of Washington, letting the White House take care of itself for the next term, at least.

IN GRANDFATHER'S FOOTSTEPS

Henry Cabot Lodge is a United States Senator from Massachusetts. So was his grandfather, who bore the same name.

The first Senator Lodge teamed up with William E. Borah to help sabotage the League of Nations by repudiating, on behalf of the United States, the Treaty of Versailles. An era of isolation thus started.

The second Lodge has patterned his public career on that of his grandfather. He was one of the five senators who returned recently from a tour of the battle fronts and it was he who said the United States would suffer 1,000,000 casualties if Russia withheld air bases in Siberia.

Some of Lodge's colleagues are wondering if Lodge, with that speech, laid the seeds for a strong stand on post-war isolation.

THE G-STRING MYSTERY

Credit some unknown Gypsy Rose Lee or Ann Corio with an assist in the successful demolition last May of the Mohne and Eder dams in the Ruhr Valley.

The full story cannot be told until after the war but, meanwhile, the sisterhood of strip-tease artists may take a big bow.

It seems that one of the problems in the raid on the dams, perhaps the most telling blow from the air ever inflicted, was how to keep the planes at exactly 50 feet above the surface of the mirror-smooth reservoirs. The run had to be exactly at that level and no instrument was sensitive enough to register it.

While the special squadrons were training, a Canadian sergeant dropped into a London burlesque show for some quiet relaxation. A strip-tease artist was doing her disrobing act in mid-stage, a spotlight on her from the rear of the theatre.

Up jumped the Canadian with the cry:

"I've got it."

And he had. The thing worked. The raid was a success. But what the Canadian learned from the stripper is the G-string mystery.

THAT POPULAR AUTHOR

Hitler may not know it, but he is helping humanity in one small way.

Before the United States entered the war, Hitler's American royalties on "Mein Kampf" were $25,000. They were seized by the United States Government and put to use.

The money was used first to republish a monumental classic in the German language, Beilstein's "Handbook of Organic Chemistry," consisting of 49 volumes. Not another bit of light summer reading is being brought out with Der Fuehrer's money, a photostatic edition of a volume by Johannn Theodor Peters of Berlin, "seven-place values of trigonometric functions." It seems it is required reading for airplane engineers.

Natasha Prepares for Her First Ball

NATASHA was going to her first grand ball. She had got up at eight that morning and had been in a fever of excitement and activity all day. All her powers since morning had been concentrated on ensuring that they all—she herself, Mamma, and Sonya — should be as well dressed as possible. Sonya and her mother put themselves entirely in her hands. The countess was to wear a claret-coloured velvet dress, and the two girls white gauze over pink silk slips, with roses on their bodices and their hair dressed a la greque.

Everything essential had already been done; feet, hands, neck, and ears washed, perfumed, and powdered, as befits a ball; the openwork silk stockings and white satin shoes with ribbons were already on; the hair-dressing was almost done. Sonya was finishing dressing and so was the countess, but Natasha who had bustled about helping them all, was behind-hand. She was still sitting before a looking-glass with a dressing jacket thrown over her slender shoulders. Sonya stood ready dressed in the middle of the room....

"Aren't you ready? It is nearly ten," came the countess' voice.

"Directly! Directly! And you, Mamma?"

"I have only my cap to pin on."

"Don't do it without me!" called Natasha. "You won't do it right."

"But it's already ten."

They had decided to be at the ball by half-past ten, and Natasha had still to get dressed and they had to call at the Taurida Gardens....

The cause of the delay was Natasha's skirt, which was too long. Two maids were turning up the hem and hurriedly biting off the ends of the thread. A third with pins in her mouth was running about between the countess and Sonya, and a fourth held the whole of the gossamer garment up high on one uplifted hand.

"Mavra, quicker, darling!"

"Give me my thimble, Miss, from there..."

"Whenever will you be ready?" asked the count coming to the door. "Here is some scent. Peronskaya must be tired of waiting."

"It's ready, Miss," said the maid, holding up the shortened gauze dress with two fingers, and blowing and shaking something off it, as if by this to express a consciousness of the airiness and purity of what she held.

Natasha began putting on the dress.

"In a minute! In a minute! Don't come in, Papa!" she cried to her father as he opened the door—speaking from under the filmy skirt which still covered her whole face.

Sonya slammed the door to. A minute later they let the count in. He was wearing a blue swallow-tail coat, shoes and stockings, and was perfumed and his hair pomaded.

"Oh, Papa! How nice you look! Charming!" cried Natasha, as she stood in the middle of the room smoothing out the folds of the gauze...."

"Say what you like," exclaimed Sonya, in a despairing voice as she looked at Natasha, "say what you like, it's still too long."

Natasha stepped back to look at herself in the pier glass. The dress was really too long.

"Really, madam, it is not at all too long," said Mavra, crawling on her knees after her young lady.

"Well, if it's too long we'll take it up....we'll tack it up in one minute," said the resolute Dunyasha taking a needle that was stuck on the front of her little shawl and still kneeling on the floor, set to work once more.

At that moment, with soft steps, the countess came in shyly, in her cap and velvet gown....

"Mamma, your cap, more to this side," said Natasha. "I'll arrange it," and she rushed forward so that the maids who were tacking up her skirt could not move fast enough and a piece of gauze was torn off.

"Oh goodness! What has happened? Really it was not my fault."

"Never mind, I'll run it up, it won't show," said Dunyasha.

"What a beauty — a very queen!" said the nurse as she came to the door. "And Sonya! They are lovely!"

At a quarter past ten they at last got into their carriages and started. But they had still to call at the Taurida Gardens.—From "War and Peace," by Leo Tolstoy.

A Bible Message

After this I beheld, and, lo, a great multitude, which no man could number, of all nations, and kindreds, and people, and tongues, stood before the throne, and before the Lamb, clothed with white robes, and palms in their hands; and cried with a loud voice saying, Salvation to our God which sitteth upon the throne, and unto the Lamb....

And one of the elders answered, saying unto me, What are these which are arrayed in white robes? and whence came they? And I said unto him, Sir, thou knowest. And he said to me, These are they which came out of great tribulation, and have washed their robes, and made them white in the blood of the Lamb. Therefore are they before the throne of God, and serve him day and night in his temple: and he that sitteth on the throne shall dwell among them. They shall hunger no more, neither thirst any more; neither shall the sun light on them, nor any heat. For the Lamb which is in the midst of the throne shall feed them, and shall lead them into living fountains of waters: and God shall wipe away all tears from their eyes. (Rev. 7: 9, 10, 13-17.)

Letter To The Editor

TAXING THE RICH

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I have often said that higher taxes of the rich mean higher taxes of the poor.

I have accepted this as being true simply from general observation.

I remember when succession duties were imposed. Many thoughts that this, in time, would lead to a reduction of taxes and many of our expenditures could be met from this source.

I remember when the income tax was adopted, I had the same idea but while these taxes have increased and other taxes have been added, there has been a steadily growing rate of taxation upon the poor and I mean those below the range of pre-war income tax.

Now we may say that, so far as the voice of experience teaches anything, it has always been true that higher taxes upon the rich have brought about higher taxes upon the poor.

In the absence of evidence to the contrary, we might then reason that the imposition of still higher taxes upon the rich would mean still higher taxes upon the poor.

I do not feel that we should lower the taxes upon the rich or ignore the canon of ability to pay but the point I want to get at is this: Why does a proposal for higher taxes upon the rich draw forth rounds of applause from the poor? I have asked that question before, no one has given me an answer. Perhaps the reason is that no one knows. Perhaps no one cares! Still it's an interesting subject for an evening's discussion.

Lady Fractures Jaw In Millbrook

MILLBROOK, Oct. 22 (ENS). — Those motoring to Peterborough on Monday evening and attending the annual fall Mission Circle rally were: Mrs. M. E. Hobbs, president of the local Golden Link Circle, Mrs. W. R. Howard, Mrs. Franklin Bannister, Presbyterial Circle secretary, who presided for the evening gathering, Mrs. Edmund Ball, Misses E. L. Hetherington, Jean Burnham, Ada Earle, Betty Thornton, Frances Tickner, Marjorie Skitch, Mary Widdis, Marguerite Powell, Mary Blair, Marguerite Murney, and Margaret Smith. Providing cars for the party were Rev. A. L. Sisco, Mrs. Howard, and Mrs. Bannister.

St. Andrew's United Church will observe its 61st anniversary on Sunday, October 24, morning and evening, with Rev. George Williams of Toronto as the guest speaker, and with special music by the choir under the leadership of Mrs. H. W. Johnston, at both services. The first home of Methodism in the community, and probably one of the first churches in the immediate vicinity, was a frame building which stood north of the village in Gardiner's Cemetery; later there was a frame church, eventually covered with red brick, standing in the now disused cemetery opposite the present Continuation and Public School building. This again was replaced by a somewhat larger white frame church at the east-end of Millbrook beside what was then the parsonage, and is now J. Peers' home, and 61 years ago the present large white brick church, named St. Andrew's in the pastorate of Rev. W. W. Jones, B. D., was erected. Unanimously on the part of its congregation it entered the union in 1925, the thorough renovation of its interior taking place in 1940 through the courtesy of George T. Walsh, K.C., of Toronto in memory of his mother, Charlotte Maria Walsh.

Took Ill in West.

The many friends of J. H. Might will regret to learn that he is a patient in Nicholls Hospital, Peterborough, removal being immediate following his return from the West on Saturday, where he had gone on the harvesters' excursion. Dr. M. E. Hobbs is the attending physician, and progress toward recovery is being made.

Mrs. Aubrey Fallis met with a painful accident last week-end when driving a horse out of the flower garden on the homestead, Fallis Line, suffering a fractured jaw. Just how the injury occurred is not definitely known, as Mrs. Fallis had a slight concussion as the result of the accident, but it is thought that she was too close and the horse, lifting its head suddenly, forced her head upward with the result mentioned. At present Mrs. Fallis is with her sister Mrs. MacDonald of Peterborough.

VANCOUVER, Oct. 22 (CP)—W. E. Gets 29 Hand

TORONTO, Oct. 22—(CP).—Harry Drew, Toronto reporter, proved that it can happen here. Picking up his cards in the City Hall's municipal press room cribbage game yesterday, he turned up the game's equivalent to poker's royal flush or a 13-trump bridge hand. Even the mythical 29-hand failed to win the game for Mr. Drew, however.

Many Witnesses To Be Called At Oakes Murder Trial

Famous private detective Raymond C. Schindler (CENTRE) talks over the events in the sensational murder trial with three friends of Count Alfred de Marigny, at Nassau. Seated, LEFT to RIGHT, are Baroness Marie Trolle, Schindler and Baron George A. Trolle. Standing is Prof. Leonard E. Keeler. Baron and Baroness Trolle are expected to be called as defence witnesses. The baron was formerly secretary of Axel Wenner-Gren, the Swedish millionaire. Keeler is inventor of the lie detector and head of a laboratory at Northwestern University, Chicago, Ill. Schindler, who was hired by Nancy de Marigny, may also be a witness for the defence, with Mr. Keeler.

Parents Reveal Patriotism As Medal Given

HELENVILLE, Wis., Oct. 22 — (AP). — Congressional Medal of Honor, the U.S.'s highest military decoration — lay in its case today alongside a picture of the late Sgt. Kenneth E. Gruennert in the modest home here of Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Gruennert.

It had come through the mail with a citation signed by President Roosevelt and a letter from War Secretary Henry Stimson because Gruennerts had wanted it that way.

The Gruennerts had been asked by the war department to receive the medal for their son from the president. They didn't believe they should go, however. They wrote the war department, saying:

"We are in the midst of the third war bond drive. We believe every cent of money subscribed should be used to supply our boys with the necessities of war and not spent for trips that do not directly help the war effort.

Not Alone

"Only this last week, thousands of other parents lost their loved ones on the battlefields of Italy, all brave boys that were loved by their parents as much as we loved our own. These parents can not all converge on Washington, and because of the common bond we have with them we feel we shouldn't either."

The letter found its way to Stimson's desk. The secretary of war wrote back:

"The spirit of unselfishness, understanding and sacrifice which breathes through your letter has deeply impressed not only the president, who requested a copy for himself, but all of us in the war department who have been privileged to read your letter. We stand humble in the face of such a demonstration of patriotism as yours."

Sgt. Gruennert was killed last Christmas Eve in New Guinea when he advanced alone ahead of the platoon of which he was second in command and made it possible for the platoon to split the Japanese position on the beach near Buna.

Gruennert knocked out one enemy pillbox single-handed and drove the occupants of another into the open where they were routed by his men. He was killed by snipers before the platoon could reach his advanced position.

Science Eases Sailors' Burden

22 (CP).—Modern miracles of sea-
21—(CP)—Modern miracles of seamanship are performed every day on the North Atlantic and dismissed as routine stuff by the Royal Canadian Navy men who effect them.

They do things now that, for sheer breath-taking quality, would make the hair of a bully clipper ship master stand on end. And that for precision and beauty of execution would make his eyes pop.

And much of this by youngsters who, two or three years ago, had never known the feel of a rocking deck under their soles, or the taste of blown spray. Many of them are still in their early twenties, at an age when, in the seagoing sense, they would have been rated scarcely dry behind the ears by peacetime standards.

Fog Conquered

It is outside on the open sea, when the going is thick and dangers line the sea path, that the concentrated training of the R.C.N. men shows through. That and their equipment. For navigation these days is a partnership between skilled men and highly-complex gear, kept up-to-the-minute to meet the changing demands of warfare at sea.

Fog—dread of mariners of a bygone day—beset this convoy part of the way. Yet it brought no more anxiety to the naval craft than it would to a landsman going for a visit to the grocer's.

The convoy ships were visible to our vessel. So was the rest of the escort. The Bangor was swimming along in a little ocean all of her own, with a perimeter of solid white.

But, with the air of the precise fingers of Radar, we were able to dart up and down the fringes of the convoy, and in and out among the invisible ships, with impunity. It took some fast thinking by the bridge gang, but they managed to make it look easy.

Germans Expecting Leningrad Push

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 22 —(AP)— German military experts are predicting the next big Russian offensive will strike the Leningrad sector, Swedish correspondents reported from Berlin to-day.

Costal guns which the Germans moved from Sevastopol to the Leningrad sector last winter have been shelling the city in an effort to disrupt an offensive.

The Germans have been fortifying the defence line south of Narva in Estonia and warning residents of the Baltic States they must be prepared to combat a "national emergency."

Westwood W.I. Dispenses With Ditty Bag Plan

WESTWOOD, Oct. 22 — (ENS). —The Women's Institute met on Tuesday in the Town Hall with a fair attendance. The president Mrs. S. Graham presided.

Reports were received from the treasurer and also from the war-work treasurer showing a substantial balance in each case. Several letters of appreciation were read for gifts and remembrances. An acknowledgment of a donation of $57 for the Central Fund for the prisoners-of-war parcels was read by the secretary.

Owing to the scarity of knitted articles on hand, it was decided not to fill ditty bags this year, but rather to make a donation of $40 to the Navy League to assist in that work. It was decided to pack Christmas boxes for soldiers of the community, who are overseas and in Canada.

Plans were discussed to have cards re blood donors clinic, distributed throughout the community. It was also decided the Institute would sponsor a means of conveyance to Peterborough for those wishing to make the blood donations.

Mrs. Robert Wilson was appointed delegate to the annual convention in Toronto on November 10, 11 and 12.

It was arranged to hold a bingo party on Friday night, November 19 to supplement Institute funds.

Mrs. R. Wilson gave a very full account of the life of the poet Longfellow and read some of his shorter poems.

Mrs. J. Thompson took charge of a program on Historical Research, which included a reading "Changing Fashions" by Mrs. A. Wood. A most interesting history of the Indians of Rice Lake was given by Mrs. G. Elmhurst. The speaker referred to the two tribes, the Mississaugas at Hiawatha and the Chippewas at Alderville as being descendants of the Algonquin tribe, and told of their ultimate victory over the Mohawks, and their occupation of these Indian reserves.

A display of old silver was explained by the owners. A word contest prepared by Mrs. H. S. Neilson was won by Mrs. W. Mortlock and Mrs. E. W. Sargent.

House To House Canvass Locates Donors

HAVELOCK, Oct. 22 (ENS). — Answer to special appeal from the Blood Donors Clinic in Peterborough a house-to-house canvass was completed last week by the local Red Cross and a party of first contributors journeyed to Peterborough by train, car and bus on Wednesday morning. Twenty-five patriotic citizens already responded and were: Mesdames H. Hubble, D. Post, O. Parcels, H. Pollock, C. Price, J. Bannon, A. Grayling, A. Russell, S. Southward, H. Deline, H. Matheson, J. W. Wilkinson, R. Edwards, F. Hill, F. Therrion, E. Gerow, E. Rylott, J. Wood, W. Youmans, Miss Minnie Williams, and Messrs. W. Drew, A. Russell, W. Nobes, R. Young and R. Edwards.

Each person receives a good medical examination at the Clinic before being permitted to become a donor, there is no pain whatever, a local anaesthetic is given, and food and rest given at the Clinic after blood donations are given. Only one hour is spent at the Clinic and actual time of taking blood from 6 to 10 minutes.

Another party of donors expect to go on Thursday, October 28 at 7 p.m. and anyone else wishing to become a donor please notify any member of the committee, and receive a donor card and diet sheet, which excludes all fats at the previous meal.

The vice-president, Mrs. A. Anderson, presided over the weekly meeting. The treasurer reported a balance of $184.77. One quilt was completed and the cutting committee cut out a large number of jumpers and coats. The program committee were named in charge of addressing Christmas cards to all members of the armed forces.

KING GEORGE AND PRINCE OF WALES MEET IN SOCCER PLAY-OFFS

Both Rivals Anxious For New Bout

When John Katan and Jack Clayborne tangled for the third time here the other night it looked as if that memorable mat fued was due to be settled decisively one way or the other. Promoter Frank Tunney had arranged for the time limit to be extended to ninety minutes which would really give those two bitter rivals a thorough chance to prove who was top dog. But instead the final superiority of the two is still in considerable doubt because the usually gentlemanly Clayborne went beserk and got got himself disqualified. The crux of the whole situation seems to lie in the appointment of an entirely new and neutral referee. And with the re-signing of the men that is exactly what Promoter Tunney has done. Katan and Clayborne will wrestle once again here next Tuesday night and this time the official will be Tommy Nelson, former light-heavy champion of Europe. Nelson, who is an Irishman, is now living in Toronto, where his firm has stationed him, but has had big-time experience in Buffalo, Detroit and other large cities as third man in the ring. Something new about this Katan-Clayborne bout is that both men are really eager to get at each other. In the previous matches, either one man or the other was loath to sign, but on this occasion both are hopping mad and their acceptance of terms was prompt.

Off To Buffalo

SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

According to reports there is little about wrestling that Tommy Nelson, the Irish grappler who is to referee the Katan-Clayborne bout here next Tuesday night doesn't know. Nelson was a light heavyweight champion with a long record of European triumphs to his credit and his experience should make him just about the right kind of an official to properly handle this fourth meeting of the two bitter rivals. Maxwell had lost all control over the battling Katan and the Black Comet, who showed on Tuesday night that he hasn't any too much mastery over his temper either. Rightly or wrongly both Katan and Clayborne feel that Maxwell's decision have robbed them of victory and to have matched the pair again with the Toronto official as the third man in the ring would certainly have been asking for trouble. With a new referee Katan and Clayborne should be able to concentrate on wrestling and that will be a change after the constant bickering they had with Maxwell in previous engagements. The result should be a hard-fought battle. In the three arguments they have had the two have shown themselves to be very evenly matched and with efficient refereeing and some uniformity in decisions they should be able to stage an even better show on this occasion. After last week's sensational windup the biggest crowd of the season can be expected.

Announcement that the lacrosse bowl is going to be made available for hockey purposes this winter has been enthusiastically received by hockey-minded Peterborough youngsters. They are hopeful that it will be possible to arrange minor leagues in bantam, midget, juvenile and junior divisions so that there will be a chance for 'teen age boys generally to get into action. This column shares their hope. Hockey must be kept alive here and there is only one way of accomplishing that end. That is to give youngsters a chance to play organized hockey as soon as they are old enough and to continue their hockey education until they are ready for O.H.A. competition. A new artificial arena to be built as soon as possible after the war is planned but obviously if this community is to get the full benefit of such a building and is to be ready to take full advantage of it we cannot afford to let hockey die in the meantime. Otherwise it would take a long time to put the game back on its feet again. Service clubs and other organizations can do a lot to help by sponsoring 'teen age teams and old players can do their bit by giving the kids the benefit of their coaching.

Changes In The Offing

According to Bill Westwick of the Ottawa Journal there are going to be some changes made in the military hockey picture. The Ottawa story at least has the merit of being interesting. Here it is: "There may be some changes in the offing as far as service hockey is concerned....National Defence Headquarters here aren't commenting on the Broda affair, but you can lay odds that the incident will figure heavily in whatever discussions are taking place....According to reliable word the service hockey setup was under review before the Broda "snatch," but that episode has provided another talking point....It's understood that even before Broda was lifted from the train and inducted at Toronto, army heads were considering ruling out of hockey all N.H.L. players who performed with service teams last year....Another report going the rounds is that there is a move under advisement that may just about force suspension of C.A.H.A. activities for the duration....They are rumors, of course, but they have been circulating in those "usually well informed" circles you hear about....The latter move might have to do with playoffs."

* * * * * *

Says Alan Rose in the Brantford Expositor: "A note from Ottawa indicates that the Turk Broda case is under consideration. The matter is said to be purely a case for M.D. No. 2 officials but it is said that it will be discussed by the Defense Department at Ottawa. Outside of official circles, the case is still as fresh as a last night's murder mystery. This corner would like to hear from Major Conny Smythe, of the Sportsmen's Battery, now overseas. Maybe we couldn't publish an unabridged report of the peppery Major's reactions but it would be interesting in a conversational way. Conny will be boiling about the way in which his Maple Leaf Club is getting into print. Another thing would make interesting reading. You recall, early in the war that several Maple Leaf players were seen on the Saturday weekly pages dressed in khaki, peering out of fox-holes dug on the beach near Sunnyside. The boys were pointing rifles out on Lake Ontario. Wonder if the boys still have these pictures in their scrap book to show their friends."

Not So Bad

Figures as to the attendance in the major leagues this past season show that baseball had a good year, in spite of the fact that neither loop had a real pennant race. With the Yanks far out in front in the American League and the Cards all alone ahead of the parade in the National there was nothing, especially in the later stages of the campaign to draw in the customers and yet the statistics indicate that the two major leagues drew a total attendance that was only 13 per cent below the figure of the previous year. With the quality of ball played obviously less brilliant than in normal times the patronage throughout the season stood remarkably well. As a matter of fact five of the major league clubs were able to report gains in attendance over 1942 and the chief losers were the New York Giants and Yanks, the Brooklyn Dodgers and the Boston Red Sox. The latter without the drawing power of such stars as Ted Williams and Johnny Pesky slipped badly. St. Louis Cards won the pennant by a mile and yet their attendance was only 26,278 less on the season than a year ago. All in all the business done would seem to justify the majors in being optimistic about the outlook for next season.

* * * * * *

A meeting of the Peterborough hockey club that will decide whether or not this city will be represented in O.H.A. hockey this season will be held next Wednesday evening. In spite of the fact that the club has been assured of financial backing the outlook is still that so far as the players of last season's team are concerned there will be no hockey. The boys would be glad to play if there was ice accommodation at home but the thought of having to make 25 motor trips out of town to play games as they had to do last season is too much for the players to contemplate. There is material here for a good team but with no ice available the situation looks hopeless.

* * * * * *

Sporting Chili Con Carne: Eddie Shore's prediction of faster hockey in the professional ranks could be right at that....The kids may work harder and longer than the former stars....Balmy Beach have apparently good grounds for their protest in the Hamilton game....It is certainly up to home clubs to keep their fields clean and where they fail to do so and trouble results they are expected to take the consequences of their neglect....Joe Gordon's announcement that he is quitting baseball has everybody puzzled....When they talk about Spud Chandler's earned run average of .52 in the recent world-series as something of a record, sports writers obviously have failed to look very far into the past. Wasn't there a young fellow named Christy Mathewson who once pitched for the New York Giants and who in one world series tossed three games and did not allow a single run in any of them, unearned or otherwise.

Central Loses To King George; Goalies Clever

Two smart aggregations in the Public School Soccer League, Central and King George, battled for over an hour and ten minutes until Ken Anderson registered the winning counter which decided the playoff position to the East City boys. This decision eliminates Queen Alexandra by one point. Prince of Wales and King George will decide the championship in the best of three games series next week, the dates not being definitely settled. D. Brook at full back puts him in first position of the select team. Both custodians were brilliant.

First Half.

Opening exchanges proved interesting as Central dominated the midfield play, thereby compelling King George to go on the defensive until they found their positions, J. Stock stemming off the barrage until Anderson transferred the ball upfield. Payne and Swanston broke fast on the right to test Central goalie with a rising drive. He punted clear to Brook, who travelled along the wing and shot wide of the mark. Quickly Anderson and Van Allen went on a raid to find Brook intercepting the play at the logical moment. The Central left full back was a tower of strength in front of Long, who was outstanding between the sticks. Time and again he saved his charge when all looked like a tally in the offing. Play ran from end to end until the interval. Half-time No scoring.

Second Half.

On resuming, Central made play interesting around King George goal area where the forwards from "up-town" ran wild to keep King George on the alert to stabilize their team-mates. Eventually Stock goalie replied with a brilliant exhibition of smart clearances when hard pressed. Towards the latter part of the period, King George forced the issue, but found themselves in offside positions in their anxiety to get the winning counter. A succession of corner kicks resulted, but nothing tangible transpired of importance. In no less than three occasions did King George miss open goal chances. This no doubt was the result of the stellar defensive tactics displayed by Brook on the full back position, who battled to the limit. With only four minutes to go, Anderson dribbled his way through the opposition until about fifteen yards out, he sent a low grounder through a sea of legs that the Central goalie had no chance to save. Central carried the play back into the winners' territory for the remainder of the period. A free kick about twenty yards out, Dormer landed the ball right in below the cross-bar. Stock, King George goalie, grasped the ball quickly, but he found two men right upon him and had difficulty in kicking clear. Play was in midfield at the final whistle. King George 1, Central 0.

Goal scorer, K. Anderson, King George.

The teams:

Central — D. Long, goal; B. Dormer and D. Brook, full backs; A. Carter, B. Edwards and H. Chambers, halves; C. Sergeant, H. Wight, J. Dormer, H. Keene, and J. Whitnal, forwards.

King George — J. Stock, goal; R. Pollock and B. Carr, full backs; R. Mounce, G. Rome, and J. Millar, halves; A. Payne, J. Swanston, K. Anderson, B. Wyatt, and M. Van Allen, forwards.

Referee—Stroyan Leith, Sr.

Final League Standing.

Two points for a win, one for a draw.

D. Long, Central, and J. Stock, King George, custodians, have the same number of goals scored against them. D. Dyer, Prince of Wales, was leading scorer.

Here and There in Sport

By The Canadian Press

In announcing its quarterly ratings in all weights last night, the National Boxing Association at Washington revealed the winner of the approaching bout in Los Angeles between Sammy Angott and Slugger White would be recognized as the world lightweight champ with the proviso that the new holder of the crown would be required to defend the title within three months, the logical contender being Philadelphia Bob Montgomery.

There was little change in the eight weight divisions because four titles are frozen for the holders because they are serving in the armed forces. Little Dado of the Philippines was relieved of his flyweight crown because of overweight and moved in to the bantamweight class, his place as fly champion being awarded to Jackie Patterson of England. Freddie Mills, also of England, was declared the logical contender in the light heavyweight class, the champion of which is Gus Lesnevich. The latter is in the coast guard, however, and is safe for the duration. Jackie Callura of Hamilton, former featherweight champion, is not even listed as a contender in the division now topped by Phil Terranova of New York.

Laprades Out

Raymond and Edgar Laprade, ranking amateur stars and former members of Port Arthur Bearcats, turned out last night "merely for a skate" with Ottawa Commandos of the Quebec Senior Hockey League along with Floyd Perras, former netminder for Cornwall Flyers of the Q.S.H.L. The three were accepted by the Canadian Army yesterday at Kingston, Ont., which prompted immediate speculation that they would play this season with the Commandos, Allan Cup champions of last season.

Because "we are not playing softball rules," President Ken Sells of the All-American Girls Softball League announced last night at Chicago that the name of the circuit had been changed to All-American Girls Professional League—leaving out the word "softball." He did not amplify the announcement.

With Canadiens

The issue between Boston Bruins and Montreal Canadiens over the services of Goalkeeper Bert Gardiner, last year with Chicago Black has apparently been solved. Gardiner was on his way to join the Habitants, it was reported.

Following a check-up by a ration board at Philadelphia, the Office of Price Administration yesterday decreed Joe Kirkwood, golf pro of the Huntingdon Valley Country Club, would have to get along without gasoline for the duration. It was found he had driven his car during approximately six months more than seven times the mileage possible with his coupons.

Scores Twice

Johnny Serf, former University of Michigan star who gave up hockey last season after being shunted around the minor league for six seasons, counted twice last night as Detroit Red Wings decisioned Cleveland Barons 5-2.

Clifford (Fido) Purpur, 30-year-old native of Grand Falls, N.D., who had a meteoric career in the now-defunct American Association before joining Chicago Black Hawks as a regular in 1941, has had 150 stitches taken in his face during a 12-year hockey campaign. Despite his age, Fido is counting on his best season this year.

New York Rangers announced last night they had signed Art Strobel, fast-skating left winger who played for Regina Commandos in the Southern Saskatchewan junior league last season. Ranger officials said 20-year-old Strobel will team with Grant Warwick and Don Raleigh, 17-year-old Winnipeg youngster.

Manager Jack Adams of Red Wings yesterday announced signing of Vic Lynn, 19-year-old Saskatoon defenceman; Roy Glover, 17-year-old Fort William, Ont., left wing; and Jack O'Hara, 19-year-old defenceman who also comes from Saskatoon.

NEW YORK—(AP)—To a lack of any real pennant competition in the major leagues last season is attributed a 13 per cent drop in combined attendance but the data, released last night reveals most of the net loss was charge against the three greater New York clubs. Veteran Meets Nephew In Hockey Togs

Written for The Canadian Press
By CLAYTON BROWNE
St. Catharines Standard

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 22 (CP)—The slight, bald man with the spectacles stepped up to Coach Hap Day, gestured out over the ice where the Toronto Maple Leafs were practicing, and asked which was Jim Thomson of Winnipeg.

Day peered over the rookie-crowded ice, then yelled at a husky young man on defence to come over to the rail. When he did, the slight, bald man grabbed his hand and pumped it up and down.

Two widely-separated generations of an old Manitoba hockey family had met for the first time.

The small man was Fred Thomson, manager of a bank here now, but 35 years ago one of the sharpest little forwards in Manitoba senior hockey.

Back in the days when Winnipeg Vics and Strathconas, Kenora Thistles, Brandon and Portage La Prairie had a corner on the Manitoba hockey mart, he played for Portage La Prairie from 1904-07 (one of his mates was the legendary Cyclone Taylor).

Seeing his nephew for the first time, this representative of a hockey age that didn't know artificial ice, forward passing or fancy training methods recalled that Jim's father, Douglas Thomson, was the only one of the four Thomson sons of Portage La Prairie who didn't turn out to be a good hockey player. Even their father, Dick Thomson, played until he was 45.

It is not yet sure that Jim will make a place with the Leafs but even if he doesn't Toronto has a place for him with Marlboros of the Junior "A" series in the Ontario Hockey Association.

That is where Leafs place their youngest and most promising prospects for seasoning. It is a good even bet that some time in the next year or two the old Manitoba hockey family Thomson will have its first representative in the highest professional hockey company in the world, the N.H.L.

The Genelco Ramblers set the pace for the City League bowlers in last night's games with a smashing 1350 single team game in a 3469 total score. The Empress team trailed them in with 3452 pins which included Phil Pryde's 865 three-game string, the best individual effor for this season.

Toots Collins of the Outlaws turned in a fancy 846 and Jack Playford, last year's city champion, found the mark for the first time with 803 for Jay's.

Collins and Maurice Giardino were tied in the high single division with a fine 366 game each, while Pryde hit a 352, Fred Jones a 302 and Vince Anthony 302.

Elmer Long, former Canada Packers ace, home on furlough, rolled one game for his former team; and Harold Legrow, youngest city league bowler, marked his return by tossing in a 660 count for Westclox.

BEACHES' PROTEST AGAINST HAMILTON TO BE SETTLED THURSDAY

Leslie Ascott With Halifax Team

HALIFAX, Oct. 22 (CP) — Lieut. C. B. (Tiny) Herman, acting coach for the Navy's football team here, has good reason to believe he can build a club to hold its own with any in Canada this season.

Herman used to star with Ottawa Rough Riders before joining the Navy. His new team is studded with gridiron talent.

In recent weeks the Navy has trotted out some 50 pigskin gladiators nightly—including 15 battle-scarred veterans of Ontario Rugby Football Union warfare and nearly 40 promising prospects from intercollegiate and high school football fronts.

All Right on Paper

"On paper, and judging by the material available, I think we have one of the finest collections of football stars that ever turned out for any football club in Canada," says Lieut. Fred Cook of Acton, Navy sports officer here.

"We're hoping to get into the Canadian playdowns if the team shapes up to expectations—and I can't see how it can miss."

Hamilton has contributed nine players, most noted of them probably Lieut. Bob Isbister, former kicking ace with Tigers and Argonauts. Another star is Mike Hedgewick of Windsor, who played first with Sarnia Imperials and later with Hamilton Wildcats. Five other Hamilton veterans are Len Wright, Al Leonard, Alec Passmore, Charlie Waterman, G. (Scotty) Wright Dick (Lefty) Pawley and L. (Tony) Anthony.

Western Canada is represented by such players as Sub-Lt. Stan Teasdale of Winnipeg Blue Bombers, Al Daniels, Eddie Kushner, W. Zakalla and Stan Jarecki. Zakalla and Jarecki were well known in collegiate play. Edmonton has four gridsters with the Navy: Benny McKeever, Archie Ritchie, Bob Gillies and W. B. Mutch. Two Reginans are Art Beale and Fishy Heron.

"We hope to get the chance to show our stuff," says Coach Herman happily. "There are still some prominent Canadian football stars not out with us yet."

From Toronto's football front are an even dozen big-timers who hope to find a berth with the Navy. Among the best known are Steve Levantes, Pat Reid, Les Ascott, all formerly of Argonauts, and Jack Wedley first with Balmy Beach and later with Argos.

Other Torontonians hoping to make playing spots with the Tars are John Lorne Parkin, Bert Cull and A. G. Halliday, former members of Oakwood Indians; Harold Chuco, J. Heslin, Charles Manchee, V. J. Gayer, Bob Goldham and Johnny Lucas.

Montreal players include Sub-Lt. Paul Ouimet, former McGill University and Montreal Bulldogs' star; M. Reid of Montreal Pats; Hymie Rockstien and L. Balling.

First Winners Of The R. S. Cotton Trophy

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 22—(CP)—Obviously National Selection Service is trying to be as lenient as possible with professional hockey this season. For example, a year ago Stu Smith, Ottawa war worker, was refused a permit to play with Montreal Canadiens of the N.H.L. this season, it was reported Smith will be permitted to play home games with Canadiens. Three other Ottawans, the Lemay brothers and Stan Pratt, are lined up for similar home duties with Canadiens... Commenting on the manner in which Turk Broda was removed from a train by police and shoved into the army at Toronto, Ralph (North Bay Nugget) Adams suggests a new nickname for Broda—Shanghai..No use trying to pretend it's still summer any longer. Vancouver papers report in large type that there's a foot of snow on the peaks around Vancouver and the skiers are all eager, etc.

Quip of the Week:

Over the report that a Winnipeg football team had signed two Negro railway porters, the Toronto Globe and Mail carried the heading: "Should be good on 'sleeper' plays."

Incidentally:

Joe Brown, whose long hockey career carried him into the English League, to Kirkland Lake Blue Devils and finally into professional ranks with Detroit, Indianapolis, Omaha and Minneapolis, has been appointed coach of Edmonton junior Canadians...Two of the brightest stars of Winnipeg's 1943 Memorial Cup champions, the Rangers, were Goalie Doug Jackson and Defenceman Jack Irvine. Both are with the navy at St. Hyacinthe, Que....Winnipeg high school football teams are outdrawing the senior clubs. In nine games the 'kids' drew 30,000 spectators, compared to 10,000 at the first four western Interprovincial games at Winnipeg.

Expect Army To Take Yale

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—(AP).—With the knowledge that there is yet to be a real upset week this football season but with the hopes that the underdogs delay a concentrated attack for another week at least we give you: (visiting teams first).

Southern California-Pacific — Southern to snap Pacific's winning streak.

Georgia Tech-Navy—The Middies should win handily.

Army-Yale—Army will score too many times.

Illinois-Notre Dame—Illinois has improved steadily but not enough to come close to one of Notre Dame's best.

Colgate-Cornell—Cornell has the backs to rip Colgate's line apart.

Iowa-Purdue— Can't see Iowa's civilians stopping Purdue's high-scoring Tony Butkovich.

Minnesota-Michigan— Bill Daley will lead the Wolverines to victory over his former teammates.

NEW YORK, Oct. 22—(AP)—Bill Paschal, the football giants "freshman" ball-carrying star, is just that; he never played college football... Bill served two terms of spring practice at Georgia Tech but never played because of a knee injury he received falling out of the upper deck of a dormitory bunk...Nat Fleischer, who has shown his fight movies in 47 service camps, says that at first the boys gave their biggest cheers to Jack Dempsey, then Joe Louis took over the No. 1 spot and now its Billy Conn who gets the biggest hand.

Variety Show

George Sheppard, who manages 15 fighters and occasionally promotes a show (he operated in three New England cities this year) recently took a hint from Al Weill and signed a dance team...He also is handling a basketball team, the "Springfield Rifles," who ought to be sure-shots.

Guest Star

Will Connolly, San Francisco Chronicle: "Lon Warneke, one of the best right handers in the majors in his days with the Cubs, has confided in Babe Pinelli, National League umpire from our town, that he wants to quit throwing and be an arbiter. It seems that when a player decides to turn umpire he has to take an old friend in a dark corner and whisper a confession."

Shore Believes Hockey Will Be Fast

By VERN DeGEER.

ST. CATHARINES, Oct. 22. — Eddie Shore, manager of the Buffalo Bisons of the American Hockey League, and "Mr. Hockey" in the eyes of countless thousands of sports lovers, is firmly convinced that the Accent on Youth is not being over-emphasized in this day and age.

Have Great Hockey Sense.

"The average youngster to-day is far ahead of hockey players of my time," said Shore here yesterday. "It's the influence of contact with minor and major professional competition. I hadn't seen a dozen professional games when I broke in. I hadn't been in a big rink before. To-day we've got 16 and 17-year-old lads on our squad with amazing hockey sense. And they've picked it up through observation. They've either played in the bigger rinks of the country or they've been associated with big teams, or prominent players."

Mr. Hockey, however, stubbornly insisted that he felt he could don a pair of skates to-morrow and win a place for himself in the hockey world.

"The will to win," said Shore, "is the greatest factor any kid can have in seeking a pro hockey career. And that's the spirit I've never lost."

Did Shore really believe he was ready to keep pace with the rising generation of puckchasers?

"Certainly," said Shore. "Hockey is a game not only to the swift but to the intelligent, and I think I know enough of the game to step into a defence job to-day and make good."

Wilcox the Best.

Shore, the hockey thinker, maintains the greatest defenceman he ever played with was Archie Wilcox, the ex-Montreal Marooner, now a successful transport operator in Montreal.

"Wilcox was and is," said Shore, "my idea of an all-round defenceman. He could shift to his right or to his left, and he had a happy faculty for steering players into corners."

How about Lionel Hitchman, the Boston defence mate of Shore for many years?

"Hitchman," said Shore, "was a good defenceman, but he wasn't in a class with Wilcox. I've played against some fine defencemen, but I've never played with a better man than Archie. And that covers a long period of years."

It is Shore's opinion that the new forward-passing rule will develop an entirely new hockey game this winter.

"The game we are going to see this winter," said Shore, "will be a forward's paradise and a defenceman's headache. It can't help it. There will be more goal scoring and will be a real chore ahead for slow-moving defencemen."

RCAF-Wildcat Clash Feature Battle

By The Canadian Press

The season's first meeting between the undefeated Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes and Hamilton Flying Wildcats takes place Saturday in Hamilton as the feature clash of a three-ply Ontario Rugby Football Union program which also matches Toronto Navy against Ottawa Combines at Ottawa and Toronto Balmy Beach against Toronto Indians at Varsity Stadium.

Wildcats currently hold a two-point edge in the standings with six victories compared with five for Hurricanes, although there is a possibility one of Hamilton's triumphs may be cancelled as a result of a protest entered by Beaches following their 18-17 loss at Hamilton Wednesday night.

Harold Bailey, O.R.F.U. secretary, announced last night that the protest will be considered at a meeting in Hamilton or Toronto next Thursday. Beaches, who are credited with outplaying Wildcats most of the game, decided to protest when Hamilton fans swarmed on the field while Beaches were lining up for an extra play after regulation time, ordered because Wildcats had been penalized on the last play of regulation time.

Beaches, now four points behind Hurricanes and six behind Wildcats, will be without Ed Jakubowski and Bobby Porter in their game against Indians. Jakubowski turned his knee at Hamilton and Porter broke an ankle bone.

Little is at stake at Ottawa, where Combines seek their first win and the Sailors their third.

Million Dollar Mark Passed In Peterborough

Peterborough has passed the $1,000,000 mark, winging toward the peak of $4,600,000, its allotment of the Fifth Victory Loan.

Total subscriptions in the cty and county for the first four days of the three weeks' campaign was announced last night at $1,017,550. That represents 22.12 per cent of the Peterborough objective, and is only one-tenth of one per cent under the required percentage up to the close of Thursday. The computed percentage of subscriptions for these four days, with attainment of the objective in equal day to day strides, is 22.22; and the actual percentage last night was 22.12.

The increase over the Wednesday night total was $$240,950, close to one-quarter of a million—from $776,600 to $1,017,550.

The general canvassing in the city led the way with a splurging margin of $99,900, the advance being from $179,950 to $279,850.

Special names committee reported an increase of $80,000, from $250,000 to $330,000.

Rural Peterborough contributed $33,500 to the total increase, up from $61,850 to $93,350.

And employees' canvass was leading as a group with a percentage of 32.88 as compared with the required 22.22. This section has sold $312,350 of the Fifth Victory Loan Bonds up to Thursday evening as compared with $284,800 Wednesday night, the increase being $27,550.

The amount required for Saturday night, ending the first week, and completing one-third of the subscribing route, will be one-third of the total $4,600,000, or $1,533,333. To maintain the present required pace the buying of Bonds today and Saturday will have to amount to $415,783.

Smith In Front

Smith township moved out into the front position yesterday, returning to the leadership which it held throughout nearly all the Fourth Victory Loan drive. It boosted its percentage from 18.50 to 34.72, passing the one-third mark, and striding into the long "back stretch" before the turn for home.

The Employees' canvass is running second with 32.88 per cent, and North Monaghan is right at the heels of the big industrial group with 32.86 per cent. Next in order is the Special Names group and Peterborough city general canvass is fifth with 18.05 per cent.

Smith salesmen report that the general sentiment as they have sensed it in their first four days is a general desire to put the township "over the top" in a hurry. Most of them are putting into this Fifth Loan all the money they can spare.

North Monaghan has made a much better begining than in the campaign last Spring. Otonabee salesmen felt their objective of $130,000, the peak of the county, was rather beyond reach, but they have been picking up confidence and are fixing their thoughts and daily effort on the idea of putting the township in the 100% class or above it.

The county as a whole, with 15%, is slightly behind the city's 18%.

Disaster Hits Nazi Freighters

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 22 — (AP).—Hundreds of German soldiers were reported last night to have been drowned and from three to nine merchant ships sunk by United States planes during the Allied sea-air raid on October 4 in the Bodoe region of Norway.

A Norwegian underground newspaper newly received here said Nazi officers described the action as "the greatest catastrophe ever suffered by German shipping along the Norwegian coast." Informants said nine craft were believed sunk and an 8,000-ton tanker and two transports were positively accounted for. Two smaller boats were known to have been damaged.

Capture 50 Towns

More than 50 towns were captured by the Russians yesterday in their six-mile drive toward Krivoi Rog, said the Soviet bulletin, including suchimportant strongholds as Alexandrovka, Petrovo and Annovka, the latter barely 23 miles from Krivoi Rog itself. Alexandrovka is 16 miles from the vital rail junction of Znamenka ould allow relief colnications in the German occupied area west of the Dnieper. Capture of Znamenka would allow relife columns to turn north to aid in the siege of Kiev, capital of the Ukraine, and would also open a path across the flat steppes to Nikolayev to the south.

The War bulletin also announced capture of the centre of embattled Melitopol, isolating the Germans in the northern section of the city.

Moscow dispatches said the Nazi command was hurling masses of reserves, rushed from the Crimea, into the fight to save Melitopol.

Additional gains north of Kiev and southwest of Gomel were noted by the Moscow war bulletin.

Driving toward Rechitsa, 28 miles west of Gomel, whose fall appeared imminent, Soviet troops captured six minor enemy strongholds.

COLONIAL WEAVING TOPS OBJECTIVE

ndustry In Highlands Is Seen In New Power Scheme

By PROF. JAMES A. ROY

(Editor's Note: Following is the 21st in a series of articles written for The Examiner by Prof. James A. Roy, of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Britain.)

Scotland is not only looking orward hopefully towards a prosperous industrial future in the owlands. The Highlands, too, ave taken heart from a speech elivered a day or two ago by Mr. Tom Johnston, the Secretary of tate for Scotland. Mr. Johnston as discussing the new Hydro-lectric Board that has been set p. It is to be a Scots board, domiciled in Scotland, and financed Scotland. It will, therefore, not e used to further the interests of nglish business men in the south. t is highly desirable that this hould be a Scottish concern into hich Scottish money goes and out f which will come employment for cottish people and the development of Scottish economic resources. The Hydro-Electric Board s absolutely Scottish in character.

An Amenity Committee and a isheries Committee have also been ppointed. These are also entirely cottish in character and domiiled in Scotland. The Hydro-Electric Board and the two committees ave at heart the best interests of cotland and particularly the ighlands. Work and amenities ill be provided for the Highlands. ut the chief point made by Mr. ohnston was that the Board and e committees are financed by cottish money and that they will permanently under Scottish and ot English control.

Britons Pay As They Go.

It is obviously impossible to speak with finality about life in Britain. It goes on with a varying tempo, and in these times it is always immensely interesting. A few days ago it was the Southport Labor Conference where a number of important issues were faced and a clarification of views was reached. The problem of the relations between British and American, and British and Russian relationships was thoroughly gone into. The "pay-as-you-go" scheme will relieve the minds of many people who have already been worrying about how to pay last years income tax after the war when their wartime salaries will probably have stopped. One aspect of the "pay-as-you-go" system is its simplicity. As one man put it: "They'll just dock your contribution from your pay-cheque each week." Then he added: "Although, why we didn't follow the example of you Canadians in this matter ages ago, I can't make out."

But while the British people have on the whole willingly submitted to all manner of wartime restrictions, that does not mean to say they will be willing to submit to them after the war. There seems to be a certain amount of anxiety in certain quarters lest there should be an attempt to curtail permanently the liberties of the individual. Already, it is felt, these liberties are being curtailed unnecessarily. A pamphlet has just been issued by the Scottish Standing Conference

MAIN STREET TOPICS

RADIO DELEGATION.

A delegation from Peterborough, Ont., including Gordon K. Fraser, Progressive - Conservative member of Parliament for Peterborough West, visited Canadian Broadcasting Corporation officials to-day in Ottawa urging that the local station CHEX be placed on a sustaining basis. Consideration was promised for their request.

ENLIST IN ARMY

Eight men, five of them from Peterborough, have enlisted in the Canadian Active Army during the st week at the recruiting depot in he Armouries. They are: J. Eggleton, 40 Lafayette avenue; A. Meehan, 47 Jackson avenue; C. R. Montgomery, 109 Auburn street; James P. O'Brien, 90 Sofia street; Paul A. Scollard, 672 Armour Road; R. Phillips, 9 Bay street Lindsay; H. E. Bounty, Port Hope; and John J. V. Campbell, Rose Island, Ont.

FIRE REPORT

There was a chimney fire at 380 London street, residence of S. King, at 8.50 Thursday night. It was put out before any damage could be caused.

GIVEN COMMISSION

Bruce Morgan, son of Mr. and Mrs. J. W. Morgan, 438 Rogers street, who graduated last week at Dunnville as a fighter pilot, has been granted his commission as pilot officer at the age of 19. Before enlisting in June, 1942, he worked at Cherney Brothers and as a machinist at the Outboard Marine. He trained at Manning, Centralia, I.T.S. Toronto, Windsor and Dunnville.

PRACTICALLY DESERTED

Stoney Lake is reported as practically deserted. The last of the summer visitors in the McCracken's Landing sector, Art. Lefay and Judge Dan. O'Connell of Toronto, have closed up their cottages and returned to their homes.

BARS IN DEMAND

The extent to which chocolate bars and other products are being sent overseas to Canada's fighting men is reflected by the scarcity of those articles in the city's stores. The supply received by the retailers is of course limited and they report that a case is sold almost as soon as it is opened. With November 1 set as the dead-line for Christmas parcels for overseas the demand for candies, gum and similar articles has greatly increased in recent weeks.

STORING GRAIN

Storing of grain in the elevators of the Canada Cement Company at Lakefield, now taken over by the Richardson interests, has commenced and train loads are arriving in the village.

SCOW NOT LOCATED

The scow belonging to the Canadian Nepheline Company which sunk on Clear Lake recently with its cargo of over 100 tons of nepheline ore has not yet been located. Searchers for the submerged craft have not been able to find the scow which sank quickly in 35 feet of water.

BRINGS IN R5CRUITS

Not everyone can succeed in performing two public-spirted accomplishments at one and the same time, but Cpl. John Parry of the Prince of Wales Rangers (RF) must be the exception that proves the rule. Canvassing fellow employees for subscriptions in the Victory Loan, Cpl. Parry took the opportunity to talk up the advantages of joining the Reserve Army, with the result that his efforts alone have netted the Rangers five fresh recruits.

NO AMMUNITION

There are the best of reasons why you can't procure any ammunition these days W. E. Foley of the Wartime Prices and Trade Board said Thursday. In the first place small arms ammunition, like .22 cartridges, though being produced in quantity in Canada, are used for training recruits of the Army, Navy and Air Force. Shot shells are being manufactured in larger amounts than ever, too, but only for wartime uses. These include the training of aerial and anti-aircraft gunners and use as propellant charges for mortars on actual battle fronts.

Three Dogs Are Killed By Cars

Humane Society Inspector Gerald Dunford reports a heavy mortality among the dog population of Peterborough as a result of traffic ccidents.

"There were three dogs killed by cars on city streets yesterday" he inspector stated this morning, and in each case it was a hit-and- affair. None of the drivers in- ved stopped after hitting the dogs."

A fourth dog was killed on George street on Wednesday night and while that at first looked like a hit-and-run killing the driver reported the accident to the police immediately afterward.

It is intimated that charges will be laid against motorists who run over dogs and drive off without waiting to see whether or not anything can be done about the victim.

Sgt. H. Osborne Norwood Boy

Sgt. Herbert Osborne, an adopted anadian, whose daring work of ting a Bren gun into action in taly is credited with saving the men in his platoon, made his home for some years in the Norwood area.

Coming to Canada under the British Immigration and Colonization scheme in 1928, Sgt. Osborne worked for W. E. Kavanagh, now a storekeeper who was then on a farm. He worked in the district for two years and then went to Hagersville. In 1938 he returned to Norwood and remained there until he enlisted in the Hastings Prince Edward Regiment.

Sgt. Osborne is an English boy and was born at Newcastle-on-Tyne. His family live in Coventry, and their home was one of the few to remain standing after the blitz.

A story by a Canadian Press writer stated that "an enemy machine gun post was wiped out by Sgt. H. Osborne, who risked his life to get a en gun into a firing position after e of his men made repeated unsuccessful attempts."

Farmers Unload Weanling Pigs

Those prices of weanling pigs mentioned in the weekly report of the Ontario Department of Agriculture, $1 and $1.50 each is depressing evidence of the decision of many Ontario farmers to dump the little fellows on the market instead of trying to carry them through a winter of feed shortage.

Scores of weanlings have been coming to market in Peterborough every week for the last two months, and prices have been consistently hedgingly at whatever the buyer felt like paying, although producers made some attempt to hold the price und $5 and $6.

For a while the top was $6.50, and below that level producers looked and spoke in the manner of resentment, but with some of the spirit surrender and hopelessness as if they were martyrs in the trade.

Probably most of the farmers in the Peterborough district refuse to buy Western feed grain to tide them through the winter with a flock of pigs. Their own harvest was a heartbreaking disappointment, and as the autumn approaches winter they are trying to unload the young pigs.

Another group of farmers are piling up feed stocks in the opinion that the time for them to get into hog production is when others are backing out of it.

C.G.E.-Genelco Passes $250,000 Mark

C. G. E.-Genelco are heading for home in their Vctory Loan drive. They have passed the half way mark at the end of four days of the campaign, and might turn the big job of completing their canvass and also hitting the objective within one week. Obviously that's a real task, but they have it more than half done right now. Their objective is $500,000.

Western Clock are within sight of their objective. In fact they can almost reach out and smack it.

Quaker Oats are closer still, and J. J. Turner are up around 108% possibly with some more to hear from .B. F. Ackerman employees are at the two-third pole.

De Laval's shop campaign is nearing the half way mark to their objective.

The Ovaltine folks set the highest score in the Peterborough industrial groups with total subscription of 154 per cent of their objective.

A progress report at Colonial Weaving Company indicated today subscriptions totalling 143.2 per cent of the plant quota.

Fifty-two applications have already been received from the staff of sixty-one employees for $6,300 as compared with the objective of $4,400. This amount may be increased before the shop force concludes i's effort.

Among the present staff are some married women who responded to the industrial appeal for help. They are represented in the payroll savings with a combined subscription of $300.

Among those who helped promote the canvass at Colonial Weaving were James Heffernan, plant manager; C. A. Veenman, superintendent, and Miss Muriel Byers.

Westclox Meeting

Although they had attained 90 per cent of their objective, the employees of Western Clock Company held a Victory Loan booster meeting on their lawn Thursday afternoon at 4:30 o'clock.

J. H. Vernor, general manager, opened the meeting with a hearty welcome to Stoker Arthur Bromley of the R.C.N.R., who is home on his leave in two years and a half. He was an employees of the plating and buffing department for twenty years. He spoke briefly and was followed by J. J. Mellor of Orono, who comes up to Peterborough to help the cause in his sincere and convincing address.

Western Clock had been planning their mass meeting for the first part of the week, and as it was deferred for several days they went ahead with their Loan canvass any way. Five hundred of the employees attended the meeting yesterday. It was arranged chiefly by C. P. Brown, security officer, and Gordon Manlece, assistant office manager.

Group Payroll.

By way of completing to-day's composite story of the mounting total of Peterborough's response to the Fifth Victory Loan, here are some of the returns from the Group Payroll Division:

American Hotel, Hunter Street, 213 per cent of their objective.

Centre Theatre, 200 per cent already, and may be increased before turning in their applications.

Robert Neill Limited, 130 per cent of their objective. All the employees of the firm are buying War Savings Certificates.

It should be understood that these are all group returns.

Metropolitan Stores, 140 per cent of their objective.

Loblaw's Groceteria, 118.8 per cent of their objective, with every member of the staff down on the subscription list.

Employees of E. F. Mason Stores are buying bonds individually, but the firm has taken $2,000 of the Fifth Victory Loan. Major Herbert S. Mason, head of this local retail business, is overseas with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders.

Near Objective.

Secondary war news this week is the Fifth Victory Loan which is crowding more action into the first six days of the campaign than in the course of the preceding Loans.

For instance, and this is just another of an abundant grist of them to-day:

"Canada Packers and Canadian Raybestos began their canvass on Thursday afternoon, and both plants to-day were already reporting at least 80 per cent of their objective."

Outboard Marine Employees Hold Mass Meeting

All set for their drive in the Fifth Victory Loan the employees of the Outboard Marine Manufacturing Company are seen here at their mass meeting. The objective of the firm is $62,600, and they have assured the payroll section of the National War Finance Committee that when their canvass is completed they will be well over the top.

Bonds Secure C. S. Cummer Says Over CHEX

Victory Loan Bonds can be cashed at any time, but you are not helping Canada and the financing of the war by redeeming them now, said C. S. Cummer, manager of the Bank of Montreal over CHEX Thursday evening, second of the speakers in the Bankers' Broadcast supporting the Fifth Victory Loan.

The text of Mr. Cummer's talk was, in part, as follows:—

Many people ask the question: "Can Victory Bonds be sold easily and can they be turned into cash before they mature?" The answer in both cases is definitely: "Yes." Dominion of Canada bonds may be sold without difficulty and without delay any time. They are to all intents and purposes cash in the hands of the holder. So long as he holds his bonds he will receive from them a steady income each six months. However, if necessity demands, all that is required for him to do is to present his bond to any Bank, investment dealer or stock broker, he will receive the current sales value of his bonds while he waits.

If a bond holder will take a few minutes to scan the financial sheet of almost any of our daily papers he will find therein quotations for practically every bond issue of the Dominion of Canada outstanding and he can be assured of a ready market at all times.

Nonsensical Rumor

From time to time the old rumor comes up that the Government will prevent, or intends to prevent, people from selling their Victory bonds. This is pure nonsense. If you give the matter a little thought you will readily understand that such proceedings would undermine the whole market, and as Government financing in this manner is absolutely necessary, you may rest assured that such a proposition would be most fatal to our present efforts. Therefore you may be certain that you will be able to sell your bonds in the future just as easily as you could in the past. I might also add that War Savings Certificates will continue to be redeemed if and when necessary.

While wishing to assure the purchaser that his bonds are readily saleable, I feel it my duty to point out that it does not do our country any good if you redeem your bonds and certificates. I should also like to point out that the surrendering of War Savings Certificates to purchase Victory Bonds involves our country in unnecessary expense.

Bonds as Collateral

Purchasers will find too that Banks will make loans on Victory Bonds at any time a loan is needed because they are the highest type of collateral. No higher than 4% per annum is charged for this accommodation. When you use Victory Bonds as collateral for loans the interest on the bonds still belongs to you. As Victory Bonds pay 3% per annum this interest will pay a large part of the interest charges on your loan.

Considering the undoubted saleability of Victory Bonds, let me further say a few words in support of the purchase of them. The need for maximum voluntary savings is apparent. This is a big wartime job for every Canadian citizen, every farmer, every worker. Dollars which are saved during the war years and lent to the country are really "double-duty" dollars. With them the Government is able to buy the food, planes, guns, ships, tanks, shoes and other supplies for our Armed Forces and allies and after the war is over these savings will make it possible for us to buy the things we need, the things we cannot buy now, the home comforts which we have gone without. Our spending after the war will also help to give peacetime employment and create a demand for manufactured products of all kinds. Certainly this job of defeating the Axis and preserving and improving our way of life is big enough to command the full energy of every Canadian.

Your Savings Secure

So, in closing, let me urge you to support the Fifth Victory Loan in every way possible. Save all you can, invest your savings in Victory Bonds. Lend to Canada to help win the war. Your savings will be safe, and you will have the money to buy things you will need when the war ends."

Girl Ill In Hospital Buys Bond To Put Department Over Top

Some of the married women on war work at C.G.E.-Genelco know the investment value of Victory Bonds, according to one bit of Fifth Loan news from the big plant today.

With husbands in the armed forces they don't need any reminders about the patriotic aspect of lending money to Speed the Victory. They are keeping the home fires burning out of the allowance they receive from the Government for the paramount service of their husbands, leaving most of their own earnings to be salted away in Victory Bonds.

These married women are helping the cause just about every way that is possible to them, and are determined to have substantial bank accounts in Victory Bonds by the time their husbands return to Canada and home.

Girl In Hospital

Here is another Genelco story that just can't keep for further details. Every employee in one of the departments has already subscribed to the Fifth Victory Loan. The story goes that one of them, a girl, is ill in the hospital, and when she heard that she was going to be the only one missing from the list she sent word to the shop that she wished to buy a $100 Bond to bring her department's percentage of buyers up to the ultimate 100 per cent. Of course that was not her sole reason, but the story was mentioned this morning as typical of the spirit that is actuating subscribers on the industrial front.

Has $900 In Bonds

Then there was another C.G.E.-Genelco incident told at headquarters today. It was to the effect that a crippled youth of about eighteen years has been using his earnings both wisely and well by taking a slice of every Victory Bond issue, and now has a collection of them worth $900.

It was told of this young man that he subscribes not only by means of the payroll savings plan, but also applies for a Bond when the canvasser on the general city section calls at his house.

Nonagenarian Buyer

M. H. White of E. G. Pridham's general canvass team in the city cited this morning as an extraordinarily stimulating experience the response to the Fifth Victory Loan by Mrs. B. A. Badgley, 282 Hunter street.

Mrs. Badgley is ninety-six years old. She lives with her son, and has two nephews in the war zones. She was so eager to buy a Bond that she did not wait until the canvasser called, but telephoned to headquarters to make certain that she would not be overlooked. Her comment to Mr. White was that she wished to do all she could to shorten the war. Mrs. Badgley was remembered as a Bond buyer in the Fourth Loan.

Incidents of that quality of heart are a stimulant not only to the canvassing force, but should appeal to the public as a whole.

Lakefield Boy Cordova Girl Capture Contest

The winners for the County of Peterborough Fifth Victory Loan slogan contest are announced today. The National War Finance Committee, through the kindness of Mr. Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., were able to invite the boys and girls of all rural schools in the county to write a slogan exemplifying the Fifth Victory Loan. The idea of the slogan was that it should be as short and "catchy" as possible and the winning slogans will be used by various speakers and for publicity purposes for the duration of the loan.

The winners of the two $5.00 War Savings Certificates, donated by Mr. Fraser, were Eugene Payne, Lakefield, Ont., grade 6, with his slogan, "Lend Your Cash for Three Dots and a Dash," and Gladys McQuigge, Cordova Mines, who is in grade 5, won with her slogan, "Lend Your Might and Shorten the Fight."

Winners of the two second prizes, $2.00 each in War Savings Stamps, also donated by Mr. Fraser, are Anna Mather, R.R. No. 8, Peterborough, who is grade 7, with her slogan "Get off the Cushion and Start Pushin'," and Arthur Menzies, of Havelock, who is in Grade 4, with his slogan "Hidden Dollars Mean Our Victory."

Prizes will be awarded during the Radio Program of the School Quiz, over CHEX on Saturday at 1:30 p.m.

The members of the Public Relations Committee for the County of Peterborough, had an extremely difficult job before them when picking the winners. The boys and girls sent in their slogan by the thousands and so good were they all, that the task was indeed a heavy one. All boys and girls are to be congratulated on their efforts.

Heads Mayors

TORONTO, Oct. 22 — (CP). — Mayor W. Garfield Case of Owen Sound yesterday was unanimously re-elected president of the Ontario Mayors' Association at their annual convention here.

Penny Box Total Passes $1,900 For War Victims

About one month after the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund began to operate, the management placed about forty penny boxes in various places of business throughout the city, the boxes and printing being made available to the fund as a contribution from the Canadian Sealright Co. Ltd. and D. D. C. Dawe, printer, respectively.

It was a venture in faith, no one, and least of all the fund management being able to predict what results might materialize from this one activity on its behalf, so from time to time a total has been struck which could be announced through this column, in order that those who have supported this one effort might be able to judge for themselves as to the real value it had been in the cause it seeks to assist.

Today an up to the minute total has again been struck, and this reveals that this one activity stands in second place as a contributor to the fund, being surpassed only by the employees of the C.G.E. Co. Ltd. and Genelco Ltd., and now seems in a fair way to reach a total of $2,000.00, with the amount actually coming to the fund in this manner now standing at the splendid total of $1,904.91.

This includes three contributions from this one source that are listed in today's receipts as coming from the boxes located at the Empress Hotel, the In and Out Shop, and Payne's Drug Store, all of whom, and particularly the former have been steady producers ever since the boxes first went into circulation.

The fund management ventures to express the opinion that while it has all entailed a considerable amount of work, not the least of which has been the counting and rolling of well over one hundred thousand coins, the results have attained to heights that no one would have though possible in the earlier stages of the fund's history.

From Campbellford

This district has seldom crept into this column on behalf of the fund, due perhaps to their beneficence finding other outlets, so it is with all the more interest that one can announce that the employees of the Campbellford Division of the Gair Company Canada Limited are listed today with a donation of $6.16, which apart from the good it will do in Britain, might serve as an inspiration to others in that same district, and thus in itself be of much further benefit to the cause which it serves.

Saturday's Market

This Saturday, the stall will be supplied and operated by the ladies of Stewart Hall Community under the convenership of Mrs. Harold Dawson, who were one of the most successful in a similar venture around this time last year. In addition to the various offerings of produce, the fund will share in a draw on a quilt being sponsored by the Stewart Hall Red Cross group, who made this from material supplied by Mrs. D. Matchett, who is one of their members.

Tickets for this are being sold at 15 cents each or two for 25 cents, and the fund is to receive the amount of the total sales that are made for this one object from the stall itself.

The weather was quite inclement last Saturday, so Jack Haslett, with Tom and Ray Douglas are continuing their effort at 593 Payne street this Saturday, in order to add to the returns on behalf of the fund.

Employees of the Campbellford Division of Gair Company Canada Ltd...	6.16

Badoglio Smiles

This smiling closeup of Marshal Pietro Badoglio of Italy, was made at the Italian naval headquarters in southern Italy. It is the first picture of Badoglio made since the surrender of Italy.

Broad Claim

LONDON, Oct. 22 (CP Cable). — The German-controlled Rome radio in a broadcast heard by Reuters News Agency, claimed last night that five British and Canadian regiments had been "wiped out" in the Baronello sector of the Italian front. There was no Allied confirmation of this enemy claim.

This is no time to RELAX!

THIS war is far from over. Our leaders do not think it is won yet, though we are winning. But it takes blood, and sweat, and tears over the last mile, too, and you should be thankful that you can do your part by LENDING your money, at good interest and do the double job of backing our troops and your own future in Canada with the same transaction.

So . . . buy Victory Bonds now. Buy all you can from savings, then buy more on the instalment plan, out of income. The money you LEND for Victory Bonds will earn good interest, and will provide our troops with the extra power they require to speed the victory.

More people must buy more Bonds in this Victory Loan! Think now of what the men on the firing line face. Ponder a moment on the youngster who is daring the blinding flak over enemy targets. Dream about the lad who is sticking it out in cold lashing spray to keep it our ocean.

Then dig deep for those Bonds that are needed to put this loan over the top.

HOW TO BUY

Give your order to the Victory Loan salesman who calls on you or place it with any branch bank or trust company. You can also buy Bonds through your employer for cash or on the Payroll Savings Plan. Or send your order to your local Victory Loan Headquarters. Any one of these agencies will be glad to give you every assistance in completing your application. Bonds may be bought in denominations of $50, $100, $500, $1,000 and larger.

"Nevertheless, let us not allow this favourable inclination of our fortunes to blind us to the immensity of the task before us or of the exertions still to be made, and privations and tribulations still to be endured and overcome."

Tough, Mud Splattered 8th Army World's Finest Fighting Unit

By ROSS MUNRO
Canadian Press War Corespondent

LONDON, Oct. 22—(CP)—There is no army quite like the 8th.

It glitters from its wealth of victories from the gates of Alexandria to the road to Rome, yet it reminds you of an eccentric millionaire who goes around with a fabulous credit account and patches on his pants.

It is an army where appearances mean very little once a campaign starts and where figting counts for everything. There's a character and spirit stemming from its commander General Sir Bernard Montgomery, which no other Empire fighting force has achieved.

It is an army where good planning, shrewd leadership and determined, well-trained troops combine with good fortune to create the formula for victory. This is what the Canadians found as they fought in the 8th through summer into fall, from Pachino into Italy.

Perfect Teamwork

To see it in Bivouac or on the move you could never think that this was the magnificent 8th with all its triumphs and world acclaim. But to see it in battle, hear its massed artillery, see its infantry storm onto the attack, its tanks lunge down the hills, with supporting aircraft diving on enemy positions—then you realize you're watching a champion in action.

But before the fighting starts it appears anything but a winner. Look at its vehicles. They're stained and dented from thousands of miles of desert, mountains, sun and mud. There are cream-colored desert trucks with Arabic inscriptions from Middle East days still on them. There are trucks fresh from England, looking too new in their green-black camouflage and dusty American trucks, from Detroit assembly lines, with captured German and Italian vehicles and civilian sport cars for lucky liaison officers.

Ubiquitous jeeps, motor cycles, station wagons and a few—very few—comfortable staff cars, make up this assorted cavalcade which carries the 8th Army.

The overtone is dust or mud. Everything is covered with dirt and grime from roads and fields and when formations move, truck are piled high as gypsy wagons. Food boxes, gasoline cans, packs, kit bags, bedrolls, ammunition, water tins, odd bits of loose kit, weapons, cooking utensils and shovels are tied on the vehicles from radiator to rear bumper. It takes you back to spring moving day.

Ingenuity Galore

The 8th doesn't go by the book when it can adapt, invent or dream up something better. And in months and years of campaigning it has the angles worked out. This campaign code perhaps isn't entirely orthodox but it has been dictated by circumstances and proved by events.

Look at the troops. The 8th has changed a lot from the days of El Alamein and Mareth and Enfidaville. In Sicily they didn't have with them the 7th armored division—the original "desert rats" and the most famous formation in the desert wars. The crack Indian 4th division was missing and so was the New Zealand division which ranks higher in 8th Army opinion than any other which has been with it.

Some of the desert warriors went on to Europe—the 51st Highland, the 50th Northumbrian—but there were newcomers. The Canadians, in many respects, succeeded the New Zealanders and there was the 5th Division, from the British Regular Army, and the 78th from the 1st Army. England, Scotland, Wales and Ireland were in those divisions.

There were bandy-legged Cockneys, men from Devon, Lancashire, and Sussex, farmers from Hampshire and Kent, and men from Glasgow and Belfast docks and the Highland glens. These are the men the Canadians have fought beside and have come to know.

Became Regulars.

More than half were new to the 8th, but the 8th soon absorbed them and they became part of it. Army Headquarters, the organization and the administration remained practically the same. The same tradition was there. They caught the Montgomery spirit.

Life in the field had no spit-and-polish, parade-square irritations of training. You lived rough, but you lived well. The "compo" rations were good all the way, and, varied with fruit and eggs from the country, proved more than enough. There were always rumors that beer would be coming up—Canadian beer—but it arrived only once, and then a half-bottle for a man. But with the water scarce and sometimes dangerous to drink there was always native "vino" which was palatable.

The new troops learned from the veterans of the desert about campaigning. They learned ingenious cooking dodges and new methods of bivouacing and keeping cool, dry or warm.

And they learned too how to fight alongside these men who'd met the Germans many times before. They discovered there is a pattern to German tactics. The new men of the 8th discovered the cold fury with which this Army attacks and the relentless way in which the attack is driven home. They fought with massive artillery barrages and air attack supporting them and they knew they were with an outfit that knew how to win.

The 8th is unique in British Army history. There never has been an Army like it, past or present. The string of victories makes it great, but there is more to it than that.

Away back before Alamein Gen. Montgomery seized on the idea of creating this 8th Army spirit, making the common soldier realize he is an integral part of a mighty force, indispensable to its success. This spirit has been the strength of the 8th and with it comes devotion to the Army and its part in the conflict.

The 8th has impressed the enemy plenty. An aura of invincibility has grown around it, something like that which once surrounded the German panzers.

You hear German prisoners speak of the 8th with awe. That's an impression the British Army had to make on the enemy before it really rolled. It's been perpetuated now by old-timers and rookies of the 8th, an Army that will never win a prize for appearance, but which turns up with the triumphs.

War Secretary Denies Waste Charges

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP).—Robert P. Patterson, United States Undersecretary of War, denied at a House of Representatives military committee hearing today that War Department contracting officers are "inept and inefficient" and are "dishing out the property and money of the United States with reckless abandon."

His statement was in reply to charges on these counts made by Comptroller General Lindsay C. Warren, who testified in opposition to proposed legislation giving the War Department final authority to negotiate settlements of terminated war conrtacts.

Patterson said with respect to the Warren testimony:

"This committee and the nation have been given a picture of War Department waste and mishandling of public funds. Unanswered, these charges might shake the confidence of the people in the integrity and ability of the officers who are charged with supplying our armed forces. The facts are the best answers to these charges."

He then stated that Warren's general accounting office had approved 99.95 per cent. of the vouchers submitted to it by the War Department for audit, in the four months ending with August, 1943.

French Youths Attempt To Kill Traitors

MADRID, Oct. 22 — (AP). — French patriots wearing captured uniforms of the Vichy Youth Organization raided a German arms warehouse near Limoges to obtain the land mines which nearly caused the death of Fernand de Brinon, Vichy foreign minister, in his Chantilly home Monday night, reports from the French border said today.

De Brinon himself revealed the attempt on his life in an interview with the German D.N.B. news agency Paris correspondent, which was broadcast by the Paris radio. The foreign minister said he was struck by a splinter on the cheek while his secretary was seriously wounded in the chest.

Details of the theft of the mines furnished a perfect example of the strength of the anti-Nazi underground orangization and the weakness of the German position in France, the border reports said.

French Patriots have tried to kill Pierre Laval four times in the last 15 days and as a result the Vichy Government has reinforced his bodyguard, the Dakar radio said today in a French language broadcast.

CWL Donates $25 For Soldiers

MARMORA, Oct. 22 (ENS)—The October meeting of the Catholic Women's League was held Wednesday in the Separate School with a good attendance. The president, Mrs. James Black, was in the chair. Letters were read from the Diocesan president, from members who had received gifts of fruit during illness and also from members who had received mass offerings for departed relatives. Mrs. Black paid tribute to the memory of the late Mrs. Charles Cummings, a former member, who passed away recently at Kinmount. It was decided to make a donation of twenty-five dollars to Marmora Community War Workers to assist in the sending of Christmas boxes to boys overseas. It was also decided to donate five dollars to the Rosary fund for the purchase of rosaries for the boys in the Armed Forces. The financial report was then presented by the treasurer, Mrs. C. Crawford. Rev. H. J. Farrell addressed the members and gave an interesting talk on the Missionary Exhibition which he attended in Toronto this week. He also discussed the forthcoming bazaar with the members, and asked that the wholehearted support be given to this project as in the past. It was decided to hold a draw for a cedar chest at the bazaar and each member received her quota of tickets for disposal. Plans were discussed for the holding of a Bingo in the school on Friday evening, October 29. It was decided to donate one of the quilts made by the members of the League to the new church at Batawa, members of which are holding a bazaar in the near future. Mrs. Carl McCoy favored the members with a pianoforte solo, and Mrs. William Shannon, Mrs. Hugh Brady and Miss Genevieve Shannon sang Rosewig's "Ave Maria" and "The Rosary," accompanied by Mrs. Dan Shannon. Mrs. Shannon also played a pionoforte solo, after which Mrs. Black gave a reading entitled "Women's Hands." The members joined in singing a number of popular songs and lunch was served by the ladies in charge. The National Anthem was sung after which the meeting was adjourned.

Too Many Tires

TORONTO, Oct. 22 (CP)—Something automobile users have dreamed about—a glut on the rubber market—was forecast for the end of 1943 in a speech here late yesterday by J. E. Partenheimer, general manager of the Atlas Supply Company in Newark, N.J.

of Voluntary Youth Organizations, protesting against compulsory military or pre-service training for young people under 18. I have already mentioned the Youth Services. Yesterday, September 22, in his presidential address before the British Medical Association meeting in London, Lord Dawson of Penn, after stressing that the war must result in changes in the texture of civilization, went on to say that "the community must in varying degrees form a partnership with individual effort so as to give direction and equality of opportunity, without blunting the enterprize and zest of individual man." If the scales were weighted too much in favor of community direction, the result would be regimentation and deadening uniformity. On the other hand if the scales were weighted too much in favor of individualism the result would be haphazard and inco-ordinate service. The delegates supported a proposal, as an alternative to State control, that a public corporation should take over the administrative control of all civilian health services.

Post-War Planners.

Another thing, nearly everybody I have met all over Britain, from peer to pit-boy, is annoyed with the "planners." As one big industrialist said to me: "Planning is all very well and necessary. The trouble with these people who are always planning for the future is that they haven't the slightest idea what conditions will be like after the war. Whether there will be any money for instance. What people will want and not what the planners think they should have. The further these people are from the actual realities of planning, the more they plan and the more fantastic are their schemes for the betterment of the world. They're like arm-chair military critics. It's a very different thing to get out and do the actual fighting. In the last war all the planning was how to defeat the Hun. This war had hardly begun when our planners started to plan the sort of world they wanted to have after the war." As a writer in The Patriot on August 26, put it: "It would, under the circumstances, be quite reasonable for the looker-on to conclude that the war was being waged to remedy some immense social injustice, instead of it being the result of a foreign policy, carried out over a period of years, which was quite out of touch with realities. In any case the politicians to-day are certainly not silent, and the dislike for much that they are now doing arises from the belief that the powers entrusted to Ministers for war purposes are being used with a view to the development of their schemes in the peace."

Oddly enough, in the Leftist tending age, it is the Socialists in the ministries who are mainly responsible for the feeling of distrust that now exists.

Apropos of the Scottish war effort the following story was told the other day in the House of Commons:

A man sought permission to start work at eight o'clock instead of seven, because he had to get the baby up to take to its "Granny's."

When asked why his wife could not get the baby up, he said that she had to get up at 5:30 to start work at 6.

Asked why the grandmother could not get up a little earlier to receive the baby, he replied: "She only comes off the night shift at seven o'clock."

British Losses Exceed American

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP).—Estimates of United States casualties in Italy from Sept. 8—the date of the Salerno Bay landings — to the beginning of the battle of the Volturno River have been reduced substantially in recent reports, War Secretary Henry Stimson reported today.

He told a press conference that the latest report for this period was 879 killed, 3,047 wounded and 2,848 missing, a total of 6,744. Stimson reported in a preliminary estimate Oct. 7 a total of 8,307 casualties, including 511 killed, 5,428 wounded and 2,368 missing.

He said casualties in the Volturno battle, which began about Oct. 8 were not included in the new estimate.

He added that the British losses in the 5th Army's operations were believed to be somewhat greater than the American.

TO MEN OF MILITARY AGE AND TO THEIR EMPLOYERS

National Selective Service Civilian Regulations authorize the Minister of Labour to require that male employees furnish their employers with evidence that they have not failed to comply with National Selective Service Mobilization Regulations (i.e., the Military Call-Up).

It is intended that an order will be issued shortly, requiring employers to carry out the necessary check on their male employees, and to report any men who do not produce the required evidence of compliance.

The check up will cover every male employee who has reached the age of 18 years and six months and has not reached his 38th birthday. The man will have to show evidence in one of the following forms:—

(a) A man discharged from the Armed Forces following service during the present war should have his discharge certificate. A discharged man who has not a certificate should apply for one in the following manner:—

Army—District Officer Commanding, Military District in which discharge took place.

Air—Records Office, R.C.A.F. Headquarters, No. 5 Temporary Building, Ottawa, Ont.

Navy—Secretary of Naval Board, Ottawa, Ont.

(b) A man who has responded to a direction from a Registrar of a Divisional Mobilization Board, to report for medical examination under Mobilization Regulations, should have either a certificate of unfitness or an order for postponement of military training from the Divisional Registrar. (A man entitled to either document who has lost his copies should immediately apply to the Divisional Registrar who issued the original, for a duplicate.)

(c) A man who has been rejected on application for voluntary enlistment in the Army since the beginning of the war, should have a certificate showing that he was rejected through medical unfitness. (If a man entitled to such a certificate does not possess it, he should apply to the District Military Headquarters of the District in which he applied for enlistment, in order to procure the necessary form.)

(d) A man in the designated classes who has not reached his 38th birthday, who was married as at July 15th, 1940, or who, having been married before that date, is a widower with children, must be prepared to furnish evidence, such as a marriage certificate or birth certificate of a child, to show that he was married before July 15th, 1940, and that he is now either married or is a widower with children.

(e) A man who has reported for enrolment in the Army under an Order—Military Training issued under the Mobilization Regulations and who has been rejected should have a certificate showing he was rejected through medical unfitness. If a man entitled to such certificate does not possess it, he should apply to the District Officer Commanding the Military District in which he was rejected.

(f) (i) A man who is not subject to the Mobilization Regulations because he is an enemy alien who has not made application for naturalization may obtain a certificate from a registrar of his Divisional Mobilization Board indicating that the Mobilization Regulations do not apply to him and such certificates must be obtained by all such enemy aliens;

(ii) A man who is an alien and neither a national of Belgium, Czechoslovakia, The Netherlands, Norway, Poland, the United States nor Yugoslavia and has not applied for naturalization may be relieved of his duty under Mobilization Regulations, but he gives up his right to future Canadian citizenship after the war; where such men have applied for such relief and been granted such status, certificates will be issued by registrars in appropriate cases.

This caution is issued to facilitate compliance with the order which is proposed. A reasonable interval will be allowed to permit men to provide themselves with whatever document, as referred to above, they may be entitled to hold.

Employers are requested to give notice of this proposal to their male employees, to facilitate the operation of the order when issued.

Mayor F. J. Conboy Seeks Increase For Veterans

TORONTO, Oct. 22 — (CP). — The Ontario Mayors' Association, in annual convention here, today endorsed a resolution recommending the appointment of a subcommittee of five members of the association headed by Mayor F. J. Conboy of Toronto, to confer from time to time with a committee from the Provincial Government to discuss municipal problems.

The four other members of the sub-committee will be named later today.

The resolutions committee, under the chairmanship of Mayor J. E. Brunette of Timmins, met last night and submitted a number of resolutions which it recommended be adopted by the convention and referred to the sub-committee.

One of the resolutions, endorsed unanimously, said the municipalities should be granted a larger share of revenues now being secured by the Ontario Government from the municipalities, to relieve the taxation on real estate.

Another endorsed resolution requests the sub-committee to ask the government to have jurisdiction over the collection of bicycle licenses.

More Pensions

A resolution, carried on division, from the City of Hamilton asks the sub - committee to request grants from the Ontario Government for municipalities from the gasoline tax revenue to defray the maintenance costs of roads and highways with in the municipalities.

A resolution submitted by Mayor Thomas E. Henry of Stratford requests the Provincial Government to increase old age pensions, and mothers' allowances and allowances provided for unemployed persons.

Mayor Morrison of Hamilton said that at one time in his city the man receiving relief from the city "was better off" than a man drawing a small salary and expected to keep a family .

Mayor Anderson of Fort William said the amount paid to the veterans of the First Great War "is a disgrace." In Fort William, he said, these men received only $2.10 a week—"hardly enough to keep alive."

"We are not a poor country," he continued. "We have wealth to increase these allowances and we should see that they are increased." He said allowances of these kinds were higher in Germany and in Great Britain than they are in Canada "where they have done far more about pension funds than we."

Apple Harvest 20 Per Cent Over Last Year

By DICK RYDER
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 22 — (CP). — If there is any truth in the traditional maxim concerning apples and doctors, the Ontario medical fraternity can look forward to a comparatively easy winter.

A survey today revealed that the 1943 apple crop in the province is 16 to 20 per cent greater than last year, the fruit is of fine quality and if favorable weather continues the harvest will be completed by the end of the month to the mutual satisfaction of growers and consumers.

George Wilson, director of the Fruit Branch, Ontario Department of Agriculture, and M. M. Robinson, director of the Ontario food distribution council, agreed that weather and moisture conditions generally have been favorable for development, with the color of the fruit extremely good.

The favorable weather has been of great aid to harvesting because of the shortage of help, a serious problem to the growers. Had it not been for the volunteer Farm Commando groups and the members of the armed forces the crop could not have been harvested, Mr. Robinson said.

Generally speaking, Ontario consumes its apple crop at home. The province has never exported to foreign countries more than 10 per cent of the crop.

Ontario's large industrial population and markets near producing areas take the greater part of the apple crop. A network of grower-owned cold storage plants with a capacity of some 300,000 barrels regulates distribution of the fruit in the winter months, keeps quality high and prevents glutted markets and depressed prices.

No Apple Juice

With the exception of a certain amount for the armed forces, no apple juice is being made in Ontario. Lack of tin and escorbic acid, synthetic vitamin C which goes into the juice, make manufacture impossible, authorities said.

Manufacture of canned pie filler utilizes part of the crop and the industry was favored by a recent Ottawa ruling which allows use of 100 per cent of the 1941 and 1942 weight. The filler is sold to bakers and confectioners.

A limited amount of the apple crop is dehydrated in plants at Belleville, Oakville, Chatham and Forest and Brighton as since the war there has been a good outlet for the product. There is also a large apple vinegar industry in Ontario.

One of the many problems which faced growers this year was a serious shortage of containers such as hampers, baskets and barrels, Mr. Wilson said. Indications point to an even heavier crop next year and he said the Prices Board should be taking steps now to ensure a sufficient number of containers in 1944.

War Secretary Stimson Paints Improved Picture

WASHINGTON, Oct. 22 (AP).—Henry Stimson, United States War Secretary, surveyed the progress of the war at a press conference today, giving this picture by fronts:

In Italy.

The 5th Army is making substantial progress toward Rome, having crossed the Volturno only after a week of hard and difficult fighting against reinforced German forces which counter-attacked repeatedly. Evidence has been received that the Germans are sending additional troops and additional fighter aircraft into Italy. In the centre of the Italian peninsula and along the Adriatic coast, units of the 8th Army are meeting increased German opposition, but are steadily moving forward. Allied air forces maintain their superiority.

Aerial Blows At Germany.

The air offensive against Germany was climaxed by the successful attack on important roller and ball-bearing plants at Schweinfurt. Reconnaissance pictures confirmed the destruction of plants producing 50 to 75 per cent. of the ball and roller bearings essential to the manufacture of all German machinery.

In the Southwest Pacific.

Allied airmen are reporting a continuing success against the Japanese, notably in two attacks on Rabaul, and Japanese attempts to retaliate by attacking Allied shipping at Oro Bay have been "costly failures." In the last week to 10 days, the Japanese have lost more than 300 planes in the southwest Pacific, against an Allied loss of about 20. The resurgence of Japanese ground attacks north of Finschhafen is being resisted strongly by Australian troops.

In Burma.

The Japanese have assumed activity to a limited extent in northern Burma and have made some gains, but their advances have been slowed by Chinese troops in that area.

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Oct. 19—(Delayed) — (CP Cable)—Canadian forces, fighting on the fringe of some of the most forbidding mountain country encountered in the Italian campaign, continue to harass the Germans and haveo ccupied a hilltop town.

Men of a west coast battalion captured the town yesterday (Monday) after Kitty Hawk fighter-bombers made a heavy attack. The defending German force of about 100 was reduced by nearly two-thirds—killed, wounded or captured. The Canadians took 20 prisoners.

Surprise Attack

Taken by surprise by the air attack, the enemy offered light opposition. The Canadians now are patrolling in a southwesterly direction towards the next hillside town where the Germans are believed to have concentrated artillery which has been shelling intermittently an important town we hold. Canadian forces are trying to push the Germans back from a ridge overlooking a river valley. The enemy has established numerous observation posts which Canadian troops are knocking out one by one.

At dawn today, a patrol knocked off an enemy observation post and later infantrymen took a high point east of the town from where it could control the area.

Accuracy of Canadian artillery fire was clearly established by a prisoner who reported shells killed five of seven men eating breakfast at the observation post. The prisoner and another survivor took to the woods after the barrage.

Collective Security Hope Of International Peace

Urging members of the Local Council of Women to make a study of "collective security" and to fight for its existence after the war, Mrs. R. T. Tanner, a member of the executive committee of the National and Toronto League of Nations Societies, told the Council Thursday that this was the only means by which world peace could be secured at the end of the war.

She pointed out that since 1610 plans had been formulated for European states so that all might have peace and justice including the last League, although the latter was the first international agreement, but they failed because the world was not ready for it.

"Will you be ready to support it wholeheartedly next time or will you face another war?

"If we had been more careful after 1918 there would have been no war. We are to blame and we must pay for what we failed to do. If the League of Nations had been supported properly, there would have been no trouble. We are all ready to give lip service, but we wanted to do the dictating. The time is coming when a new League, perhaps under different name, but with the same basic principles of peace and justice, will be introduced, and the people of Canada must support it or there will be a third war."

Another of the reasons for the League's failure, she pointed out, was due to the inability of the individual to change with a changing world. Mrs. Tanner emphasized that this was exceedingly dangerous at the present time, when the Allies are talking in terms of a new world. She pointed out that there must be consistency because the new cannot follow the pattern of the old.

Human Failure

"We must be prepared to face sweeping changes and to sacrifice for a change. The League did not fail the world, but the world failed the League. After the last war, there was some excuse for lack of knowledge, but now with the information available, every citizen should have a clear background and know just where the world is heading."

The speaker reviewed some of the things which led up to the forming and failure of the international peace group. She declared that it was the intense nationalism of Germany which precipitated the last conflict, but that the other nations were just as avid for wealth and power and that Germany happened to be the one that fell in the trap first. At this period the lesser states counted as nothing.

In 1917 the Allies were planning for a new and better world and Wilson's 14 points were similar to the Atlantic Charter, Mrs. Tanner asserted. A war worn humanity clutched at this vision of paradise, but the old ideas were still alive and a conflict between the old and the new broke out. The old won and so the world is at war once again.

Want To Be Boss

"While the League members gave lip service, they were intensely nationalistic and they failed to give sincere support. None of the governing powers was willing to give up its national sovereignty for the international good. We should not allow the seeds for another war to be sown by allowing a vindicate hate to grow up. Too many have that attitude.

"Since collective security is our only salvation, one of the most alarming things today is the ruling attitude taken by two great powers, Great Britain and the United States, who are already deciding just how the post war world will be run. Even adding Russia and China, it is not fair, nor will it be successful, if four great powers rule the world. We must be on guard against such a situation."

The speaker felt that the world was further away from peace today than it was in 1918 and she stressed that no few nations could do anything until they could see things in terms of all nations. While the League of Nations was an international group, the League of Nations Society in Canada, was a group formed to educate the public in League ideals, she reported.

This Society is endeavoring to study post war security and want the broad outline of future action only to be given careful thought. She accused Canadians of being smug because they are so far from the havoc of war and maintained that education in citizenship should be the object adopted by all groups.

Long Fight Ahead

Flt. Lt. Ross Cameron, padre at the Trenton R.C.A.F. station, spoke briefly on behalf of the Victory Loan, pointing out that while the boys were giving their lives it was no real sacrifice for the people at home to take bonds where they were getting double the bank interest

He warned against the feeling of complacency that the war was nearly won. Quoting Churchill and Montgomery he insisted that a bloody struggle had still to be waged. Flt. Lt. Cameron declared that most of the boys who enlisted did not do so blindly but knew what they were fighting for. The buying of bonds is less glamorized and the people at home sometimes forget the sacrifices made because life moves so rapidly. He asked that the members become flaming missionaries in the buying of bonds and to keep in mind the atrocities which the enemy have perpetrated.

Paying tribute to the work carried on in the Council by a member of the executive, Miss Molly Brown, publicity convener, Mrs. H. Morton, president said that since she was the first member to enlist in the forces, and because of the splendid assistance she had given, they were presenting her with a gold identification bracelet bearing the R.C.A.F. crest.

During the meeting, Mrs. H. A. Mitchell sang "There's a Land."

Trinity W.M.S. Meets

The October meeting of the Trinity Women's Missionary Society was held this week in the Church Parlor, Mrs. H. T. Rehill presiding. The devotional service opened with the hymn "God's Law is perfect," and Mrs. J. E. Middleton led the reading of the 19th Psalm, and Mrs. G. S. Easton offered prayer. Mrs. W. B. Brown sang two solos, and was accompanied by Miss M. Clarry.

An interesting description was given by Miss M. Ross, of the problems besetting New Canadians and their church. She told of them, referring especially to the Hungarians, leaving their homelands of unhappy strike to seek a haven in a new land. Mrs. H. T. Rehill gave the vote of thanks.

It was announced that the rummage sale would be held on November 6, and all the members are asked to look up articles for the sale.

Lewis, Traux, Sask., and Maitland George Forsythe, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Forsythe of Douro. Rev. Canon E. H. Lee of St. Paul's, Regina, officiated. Mr. J. K. Brennen was at the organ throughout the ceremony, and the bride was given in marriage by her father.

Her gown was a white sheer and lace over taffeta. She wore a chapel veil and her only ornament was a diamond set clasp, a gift of the bridegroom. Bettertime roses and fern made up her arm bouquet. Miss Mary Lewis of Regina was her sister's only attendant. She wore a gown of heavenly blue sheer over taffeta with a chapel veil and carried pale pink carnations. Mr. Ronald Nesbitt of Dummer, Sask., was groomsman, and Mr. L. Boyd ushered the guests. During the signing of the register, Mr. Brennen played "I Love You Truly."

Women Prepare 981 Boxes For Overseas

About 150 women worked in shifts at St. John's Church on Thursday wrapping overseas boxes so that the men and women from Peterborough serving with Canada's forces overseas will receive remembrances from the folks at home at Christmas time.

It was estimated Thursday afternoon that a total of 981 boxes were packed, wrapped and ready for shipping from the Post Office. Ninety-five of these will be sent to the Mediterranean area and eight to girls overseas. Forty women worked in the morning, 60 in the afternoon and about 50 in the evening group. These workers were volunteers from the I.O.D.E.'s and the Auxiliaries.

Each box, packed to the brim, contained the following articles: Christmas cake, chocolate bars, cigarettes, life savers, gum, tooth powder, tooth brush, chocolate drink in powder form, oxo cubes, bar of soap in a metal container, noodle soup, pair of shoe laces and a package of razor blades. Chocolate bars were omitted from the Mediterranean boxes, because it was feared they would melt.

Beat Record.

The women worked with such enthusiasm all day that they finished up last night instead of having to work until today noon as originally planned. All the love and gratefulness of the people at home went into the boxes as they worked, smiling in spite of their weariness.

Packing these boxes is no sinecure. It requires co-ordination and involves a lot of people doing small monotonous jobs. One group wrapped the cake, another packed the boxes, a third taped the boxes, another group tied them up (a job which is very hard on the fingers), others wrote out the declaration slips and still another group put on the stamps.

The money for these Christmas boxes was raised through a joint tag day held a few weeks ago, and the 981 boxes represent Peterborough's contribution.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was frocked in floor length white jersey, long torso style, with a square neck and sleeves with pleated edging. She wore a gold cross and chain and Juliet cap of white feathers and carried a white prayer book with cascading pink roses.

Mrs. George Dungan of Hamilton, was matron of honor and wore a floor length gown of pink embossed satin on princess lines and Miss Harran of Peterborough, brdiesmaid, wore a floor length turquoise chiffon dress with a full skirt and bishop sleeves. Both wore hats of pink ribbon and baby mums and carried nosegays of pink roses. The groom was attended by George Dungan and the ushers were Roy Mulligan and Stanley Potts.

After the ceremony a reception was held at the home of the bride's parents, the bride's mother receiving in a gown of gold crepe with a hat of black felt and wearing a corsage of red roses. The groom's mother received wearing navy crepe with matching accessories and a corsage of red roses.

THE EXPERTS SAY . . .

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 (CP)—Helpful hints for housewives busy at their fall tasks:—

WINDOW GARDEN—The joy of watching things grow, says Marion Harlow of nutrition services, can continue all winter if parsley plants are dug from gardens and brought indoors in pots. Besides being decorative, parsley is unusually rich in vitamin C, vitamin A and iron — which is another excellent reason for having some growing in your winter window garden.

PEPPER-UPPERS — Even though the season is getting late, ingredients for some types of pickles still are available and if you feel that your supply of them is not all it might be, Laura Pepper of the Dominion department of agriculture offers this new recipe for chopped cucumber pickle:

Peel, remove seeds and cut in small dice four cups of green cucumbers. Chop one cup onions, add to cucumbers with one and one-half teaspoons salt; cook together slowly for one hour, stirring slowly.

Now add three-quarters cup white sugar, one cup cider vinegar, one-half teaspoon tumeric, one-half teaspoon celery seed; one cup sweet red peppers, one cup green peppers, one and one-half cups apple and one cup celery, all choped fine. Cook 20 minutes longer and pack in sterilized sealers.

PLANNING MEALS—Most housewives, day in and day out, are confronted with the problem of planning and preparing well-balanced, interesting lunches. Lunch or supper dishes seem more of a problem than dinner dishes.

A basic pattern of soup, salad or sandwich and desert which can be varied from day to day may prove the answer to the what-to-have-for-lunch problem. Nutrition services say that a nutritionally adequate lunch should contain milk, a fruit or vegetable or both, and some form of protein food such as meat.

VITAMIN D — Though autumn days may be filled with sunshine, it is time to start children on supplementary "bottled sunshine"—vitamin D, authorities say. "Bottled sunshine," which sounds more attractive than "fish-liver oil," truthfully describes cod and other fish-liver extracts.

These oils and extracts supply vitamin D directly, while exposure to the direct rays of the sun enables the body to manufacture its own supply of the vitamin. For eight or nine months of the year in our northern country, growing children need supplementary "bottled sunshine" in the form of cod or other fish-liver oils.

IRONING TIP—New material designed for an ironer or ironing board cover should be laundered before taking up its new position. If this is not done, the fabric is apt to scorch.

Price Control Ration News

The Central Ontario Consumer Branch Committee, Wartime Prices and Trade Board, answers questions put to this paper regarding price control and ration regulations.

Q.—I have been charged 19c for five pounds of potatoes. Is this too much?

A.—Yes. The ceiling price on potatoes is 16c for five pounds. Thank you for giving the name of the dealer. The matter is being investigated.

Q.—Is 37c per half dozen above the ceiling for eggs?

A.—Yes. Egg price ceilings are 56c a dozen for Grade A in bags, 58c for Grade A in cartons, and 62c for premium eggs which must be stamped as such. You paid 74c a dozen which is far above the ceiling. Thank you for giving us the name of the dealer. The matter is being investigated.

Q.—My grocer charges 28c for hamburger and demands four coupons for corn syrup. Is this correct ?

A.—According to the new beef chart which must be exhibited in every butcher shop, the price of hamburger may vary from 21c to 24c a pound, depending on wholesale prices. Twenty-eight cents is above the ceiling and your letter is being passed on to our Enforcement Branch for investigation. The question of the number of coupons for corn syrup would, of course, depend on the size of the container. The present value is 14 fluid ounces per coupon.

Q.—Are unsweetened fruits in cans rationed? If so, why is unsweetened apple butter not rationed?

A.—Canned fruits, sweetened or unsweetened, are rationed. So is unsweetened apple butter.

Please send your questions or your request for the pamphlet "Consumers' News" or Blue Book (the book in which you keep track of your ceiling prices) mentioning the name of this paper to:
Wartime Prices and Trade Board,

MODERATE TRAINING OF CHILD DIFFICULT FOR MOST PARENTS

Some Mothers Dominate Lives of Boys, Girls; Others Neglect Them; Fathers Guilty.

ONE of the things that it seems most difficult for people to do is to achieve moderation in dealing with their children. They run to extremes. They are either too good parents, or no good as parents. They love them to death, or are as indifferent to them as an alley cat is to its offspring. And which is the worst for the children, nobody knows.

Of course, both fathers and mothers are guilty of overdoing this parent business, but it is the mothers who are the chief offenders, because they have more time to give to it and hence can turn out a more perfect job. All of us know women whose children never draw one free breath from the time they are born until Mother is laid in her coffin. Mother dominates every phase of their existence.

Some Mothers Dominate Children

Mother's ever watchful eye is upon them and she keeps tab on their outgoings and incomings. She forms their tastes and habits. Picks out their clothes for them. Selects their friends. She always holds them by the hand and never lets them learn to stand alone. They grow up into being just little rubber stamps of Mother, and eventually they marry the men and women that Mother chose for them.

Twin sister to the woman who absorbs her children is the mother who enslaves herself to her children. From the time her first baby is born her whole world is centered in the cradle and her entire time is given over to infant-worship. She never has another thought except about the children. She never reads anything but baby books. Her whole conversation is a monologue about Janie and Susan and Tom and Dicky. Even her husband doesn't exist for her except as the man who works to provide the children with clothes and food and sport cars and coming out parties.

Worse still, she wrecks her children for time and eternity by spoiling them to death. She never corrects their faults or their manners. She never denies them anything that it is possible to obtain by hook or by crook. She never teaches them to control their tempers, or that they have any duties and responsibilities in life. She makes herself a doormat for them to kick around. She turns good human material into hoodlums and wastrels, and is first aid to the divorce court and the penitentiary.

Other Mothers Neglect Their Offspring

On the other hand, there is the woman who bears children but refuses to mother them. She never lets them cramp her style, or keep her away from another party after she leaves the maternity hospital. If she is rich, she turns her children over to nurses and governesses and camps and schools to rear. If she is poor, she shoves them out on the street where they cut their milk teeth on the hard and bitter wisdom of the gutter.

She is too busy with her clubs, her career, her job, her comings and goings and pleasures and amusements to bother with a bunch of kids, so she lets them tumble up the best way they can, without ever knowing what it really is to have a mother, or a home. And that so many of these children, who have never known any restraint, who have never been taught any high ideals or had a mother's guidance, develop into decent men and women proves that the days of miracles are not over.

When women are so much mothers that they are hardly human, as Bernard Shaw said in one of his plays, they are bad enough, Heaven knows, but when men have the father complex, they are worse, because they nearly always make one or the other of three mistakes.

They are wildly indulgent and ruin their youngsters by giving them too much money and no responsibility, as we see exemplified in the play boys and girls of rich fathers. Or they try to make their children replicas of themselves and follow the regime under which they were brought up, and go into the kind of business or profession they pick out for them.

Fathers Forget Changes in Life

They forget that the whole world has changed since they were boys, and that the emancipation of youth is just as much a fixed fact as the Revolutionary War, and that because Father has spent his life building up a grocery trade for John to go into is no sign that John is going to have a heart interest in spuds, or thrill over selling cheese and butter.

And, worst of all, Father believes that the way to protect the daughters he adores is to virtually lock them up in a prison cell and deprive them of all the pleasures that belong to their time of life. He won't let them have dates. He won't let a boy cross his threshold. He won't let them go to parties. He won't let them do any of the things that the boys and girls of their age do. And the result is that if they are good obedient daughters, he turns them into old maids, and if they have any spunk, they climb out of the window and elope with some rounder they picked up at the corner drug store.

It is pitiful to think how often parents wreck the lives of their children and break their hearts by not treating their youngsters with moderation.

Missionaries Carry On In New Fields

The central Sectional Rally for the Peterborough Presbyterial of the Women's Missionary Society was held in St. James Wesley Hall, Wednesday, when Miss Ida MacKenzie was guest speaker.

Mrs. H. T. Rehill, first vice president, presided for the worship service, Mrs. G. Eason of Mark Street took the scripture lesson and Mrs. D. Gourley of Knox led in prayer. The afternoon worship service was conducted by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris and Mrs. A. Munro. Mrs. H. A. Mitchell of Trinity Auxiliary sang a solo.

Miss MacKenzie was connected with the Church of All Nations Montreal for six years and spent two in the Hamilton Church of All Nations. For the past four years, she has been travelling from coast to coast visiting wherever there is a church or organization connected with the Women's Missionary Society of the United Church of Canada.

Take New Posts

The subject of Miss MacKenzie's address was "Geared to war, plus a vision." She pointed out in how many ways missionary work has become geared to war. Between 20 and 30 missionaries have had to be recalled, but they have not been idle she stated. Instead they are now serving in Trinidad, Newfoundland and Japanese settlements.

"The Missionary enterprise has sent larger sums of money during the past year to foreign countries than ever before, which averages fifteen times more money than was sent the previous year. The cost of living has risen to such an extent that more funds must be given to keep missionaries going.

"Over 630,000 men and women are now in uniform with over 750,000 in industry. A problem has been created with these people moving from their own centres to those where war plants are located. Twenty missionaries are working in these places with Wartime Houses, trying to keep people interested in the church and its activities."

Teach Leaders

Miss MacKenzie declared that every woman in the Christian Church must take a vital interest in the support of the Sunday School and Young People's work. In the post war world, the youth of today will be playing a leading part and the proper seeds must be sown now, she said, so that the world will be a better place in which to live.

Reports were given by Mrs. Franklin Bannister on the Whitby School for Leaders, and by Mrs. J. McKercher on the Bay of Quinte Branch meeting which convened in Oshawa. Mrs. H. Clegg moved a vote of thanks to Miss MacKenzie and the women of St. James' Church.

Ross Delighted With Rule Changes

QUEBEC, Oct. 22— (CP)— Art Ross, busily putting his Boston Bruins through their paces for Sunday's exhibition game here against Montreal Canadiens, takes time off each day to wax enthusiastic about the new National hockey rules. Players have been switched around a 90-degree angle for the face-off, and forward passes are now permitted as far as centre ice.

"These rules are the greatest thing that ever happened," says Art. "They make a remarkable difference and will produce very interesting hockey. I am positive they will make the N.H.L. race all the keener."

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

SOMETIMES NO JUSTICE

DUPLICATE bridge, which eliminates the luck of the deal from tournament play, cannot erase the good or ill luck dependent on what your opponents do. If a pair in an emotional mood of some kind comes to your table when a crucial hand is being played, it may do crazy bidding which can either present a top score to you or chuck you into the bottom position. In such cases, however, remember that, if the game had been rubber bridge, and they took the same action, you would be affected by it, too. So don't blame duplicate when such things occur.

North: ♠ 6 4 3 2 ♥ 7 5 ♦ A Q ♣ K 10 9 8 5
West: ♠ K 9 8 ♥ 9 4 ♦ 10 8 5 2 ♣ A 7 4 2
East: ♠ 10 7 ♥ A K J 10 8 6 3 2 ♦ K 4 ♣ J
South: ♠ A Q J 5 ♥ Q ♦ J 9 7 6 3 ♣ Q 6 3

(Dealer: North. East-West vulnerable.)

North	East	South	West
Pass	4 ♥	Pass	Pass
4 NT	Pass	5 ♠	Dbl

Under all the rules of common sense, East should have been allowed to play this deal at 4-Hearts, making an extra trick, which is exactly what happened at every table but one in a recent championship tournament.

At one table, however, the bidding was as given above. A pair with a very bad score up to that point was in the North-South position against the players who had been leading for the title and who seemed likely to win it.

Argue all you want about what a smart bid North made, though 4-Spades was available to him, but the fact is that plenty of fine players at other tables had a chance to do likewise and did not do so. Hence, regardless of the merits or demerits of that bid, it was hard luck for this particular East-West pair to be against them on this deal, instead of against someone else. Had they been against any of the other pairs, who passed the 4-Hearts, they would have won the tournament.

The deal produced, of course, 650 points for those allowed to play at 4-Hearts, who made five-odd, and only 500 for the pair who set 5-Spades three tricks.

Tomorrow's Problem

North: ♠ 7 6 2 ♥ K 9 6 5 ♦ A 6 ♣ 9 8 7 5
West: ♠ A K Q ♥ None ♦ 10 9 8 7 4 ♣ J 10 6 4 2
East: ♠ 10 9 8 4 ♥ J 10 3 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ K Q 3
South: ♠ J 5 3 ♥ A Q 8 7 4 ♦ K Q J 5 ♣ A

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

What is the sound way to play his hand, to make 4-Hearts in the South, after West takes three spade tricks and then leads the diamond 7?

Bewdley has four families whose brothers and a sister are serving in the armed forces, most of them overseas. From LEFT to RIGHT they are: Gnr. Franklin Davis (Red), 22, who has spent three years overseas with the 1st Division, has been in Sicily and is presumably in Italy. He formerly worked in Port Hope. Pte. Ernest Davis, 25, transferred from the Midlands to the S.D. and G. Highlanders, and has been in England 6 months. He too worked in Port Hope. Pte. Thomas Davis, 28, has been overseas for a year and is with the S.D. and G. Highlanders. His wife is living in Toronto. All three are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Davis of Bewdley. Pte. Jack Beatty has been in England two months. He is with a Canadian infantry reinforcement unit and was formerly employed with the Port Hope Sanitary Company. His sister, Pte. Eva Beatty, is at Trinity Barracks, Toronto, with the C.W.A.C. Their parents are Mr. and Mrs. Wilford Beatty. Pte. W. A. Bullock, of the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Highlanders, 20, has been in England two years and he has a brother, Gnr. Robert Bullock, 18, who has been in England for five months. They are the sons of Gordon Bullock and the late Mrs. Bullock. Pte. Norman Cook, a former Bewdley farmer, has been overseas with the S.D. and G. Highlanders for 1½ years, and his brother, Gnr. Ross E. Cook, 21, C.A.R.U., has been across since July of this year. Both are sons of Mr. and Mrs. Norman E. Cook.

Hog Situation Grows Serious

The law of diminishing returns seems to be at work throughout the province as intimated in the weekly report of the Department of Agriculture.

For instance, the department's representative in Grenville comments: "Very little plowing has been done yet," an observation that has been heard occasionally in the Peterborough area during the last three weeks.

Plowing was at a standstill all last week until Friday night's rain which is also mentioned from Victoria as "helping plowing conditions."

York county reports weanling pigs at the low price of one dollar a head. Frontenac mentions the "unusually low price of $1.50 a pig." Renfrew adds: "The hog situation is rather serious. There is a large number of pigs on the farms, but nobody seems to want to feed them at present hog-grain ratio." And in Prince Edward many farmers are offering young pigs for sale.

Improvement in rural purchasing power seems to be reflected in comments as to high prices of stock at farm sales.

Demand for milk cows "continues good"; large quantities of western grain are moving into some of the counties; pasturage is waning; the patato harvest is nearly completed; and weather has been ideal for the picking of apples.

Sudbury reported the first snowfall last Saturday, but that forerunner of winter was mentioned in the news columns at the week-end.

4. Fair play for all.
5. Equity for agriculture.
6. Stability for enterprise.

Boost Subsidy On Fuel Wood

OTTAWA, Oct. 22 (CP)—Authority to pay additional subsidies to assist production of wood fuel in certain localities has been granted the Prices Board under an Order-in-Council published today.

The board, through the Prices Stability Corporation, has paid $1 a cord subsidy on commercial wood fuel contracted for and cut up to December 31, and such portion of the transportation costs incurred as may be certified by wood fuel control authorities.

Representations were made that fuel is not being produced in necessary quantities because in certain localities the subsidy was not sufficient having regard to production and transportation costs and ceiling prices.

The new order provides an additional subsidy may be paid in localities where fuel control authorities feel it is necessary to "get the necessary quantity of wood fuel produced and transported."

SERVING THE UNITED NATIONS WITH WAR ALCOHOL

WAR ALCOHOL PLAYS ITS PART

There goes a barrel of grief for Hitler

. . . a dose of concentrated high explosive to blast some skulking U boat into sudden oblivion. Relentlessly, month after month, the grim submarine chase goes on . . . and in that hunt of death, Alcohol has its part to play. The explosive with which the "ash cans" are charged utilizes War Alcohol; even the propellant that lobs the depth charge overboard contains this same critical war material. Alcohol is proving its worth in these vital war days . . . in the factory, the laboratory, on the field of battle itself. To make explosives and plastics, a tremendous quantity of Alcohol is needed. Aerial compasses and other delicate instruments are sealed in alcohol. As a practical disinfectant, Alcohol is the constant ally of doctors and nurses. In the welding of our fighting machine, Alcohol has a myriad of uses; every ounce that can be produced is needed now. That is why all our plants are on 100% war production, for the duration.

44 Big Bombers Listed As Missing In Ninth Raid Of Month Nazi Raiders Over London Again

By ROBERT STURDEVANT—Associated Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 23—(AP).—A great force of R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. heavy bombers fought their way through many Nazi fighters last night to deliver a concentrated attack on the German war and industrial centre of Kassel in the ninth—and costliest—major British raid of the month.

Forty-four heavy bombers, including 12 Canadian, failed to return from the mission, but the four-engined planes fought back stubbornly, sending "several" fighters hurtling from the dark skies.

A smaller force of heavy planes struck at the same time at Frankfurt, making it the second raid in 18 days on that industrial centre, and Mosquitoes rounded out the night's bombing attacks with an assault on the Cologne area.

As the heavy bombers again added their terrific punches at German industry to the night and day attacks that lighter R.A.F. and American planes have been conducting against Nazi communications and fighter fields, German raiders stabbed at London for the seventh successive night, dropping a few bombs.

Severe Losses.

Not since an R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. armada hit Berlin on the last night in August had British bomber losses been so severe. Forty-seven aircraft did not return from that raid.

The lesser attack on Frankfurt, more than 400 miles from Berlin, was the 39th of the war on that big automotive, rail and rubber centre.

While the official report mentioned that bad weather was encountered during the 400-mile round trip to Kassel, it said visibility was good over the target, and first reports indicated the explosives had been concentrated, indicating the airmen probably had equalled or even exceeded the 50 tons of bombs a minute dropped during the last Kassel raid October 10.

Canadians Busy.

The Berlin radio said the British and Canadian raiders also had hit Frankfurt-on-the-Main. It admitted damage was caused.

Almost every type of daylight craft went back and forth across the Channel yesterday in a speed-up aerial offensive against the Continent.

Repeating their assaults on Britain for the seventh successive night, the Nazis sent a small number of planes across the Kent and Sussex coasts and a few of them reached the London area last night. Bombs were reported in East Anglia and in two sections of the London area. A small number of casualties were reported.

Massed Allied Artillery Nips Nazi Counter Causes Havoc Among Tanks

By WES GALLAGHER—Associated Press Staff Writer

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 23—(AP).—Heavy artillery—the "Queen of the Battle" from Africa through Sicily—crushed a Nazi counter-attack at Alife on the 5th Army's right wing in Italy yesterday, knocking out "a number of tanks," and in the central sector 5th Army troops have seized commanding heights, it was announced today.

This was the first appearance of German tanks in any number in some time, but Field Marshal Albert Kesselring's counter-attack failed as did a similar effort on the British 8th Army front near Montecilfone.

The Germans, now entrenched in their new mountain positions, launched a series of counter-blows designed to throw the 5th and 8th Armies off balance. Allied troops not only beat off every attack, but 8th Army forces advanced two miles to take Lupara, which controls high ground in central Italy.

Capture 5 Ships.

In sea actions, small units of the British and United States Navies sank, captured or damaged five Nazi-controlled vessels. American torpedo boats darted far up the northwest coast of Italy near Leghorn from new bases in the Mediterranean to make one of the raids.

Kesselring brought up some of his seldom-seen tanks, backed up by infantry and artillery, and lashed out in what 5th Army headquarters described as "a very active manner." But big guns, which caused such great havoc in German ranks particularly in the latter phases of the Tunisian fight, brought the Nazi thrust to a standstill with heavy losses.

"There is no question now but that the Germans are firmly established in a number of strongly-fortified positions all along the front," an Allied officer declared.

German divisions are holding an almost solid line along the 5th Army front barring the approaches to Rome, while against the 8th Army they have adopted a practice of holding a series of powerfully-defended heights with their guns controlling the approaches.

On the whole, the land fighting is not on a large scale as both sides prepared for the next phase of the campaign.

No Trace Found Of Big Bomber

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ANCIENNE LORETTE, Quebec, Oct. 23 — (CP). — With patchy weather covering the whole search area, the big sky armada, concentrating in the Lower St. Lawrence where a big R.C.A.F. Liberator is missing with 24 on board, sought out the good spots early today and continued to comb them for a trace of the craft.

The search fanned out from this central point roughly in the direction of Ottawa, Montreal, Chicoutimi and Rimouski. It is somewhere in the wide swathe of mountain, wood and water that the plane is believed to be lying.

Flying over the southwestern part of the area in a search yesterday this reporter got an idea of the difficulties of finding the missing craft even with good weather conditions. A twisted mass of branches and logs in a swamp looked like the hulk of a bomber, a group of pile ends surrounding a waterlogged boat in a lake looked like survivors around a crashed plane; a long sweep of forest hacked off by wind or by lightning gave the appearance of a force landing site.

Himmler's Grip Tightens On Hun

By THOMAS F. HAWKINS

BERNE, Oct. 23 (AP)—Strengthening his hold on the policing power in Germany, Minister of the Interior Heinrich Himmler now has made "anything other than complete subjugation to the will of the government" a punishable offense, it was reported here today.

This was brought out by the German SS party newspaper, Schwarze Korps, in an article entitled, "There is no defeatism."

Himmler's tightening grip on the German home front was also described in the Swiss Weekly Weltwoche which said that he now has brought under his control Nazi anti-aircraft defences, fighter planes which operate over home territory and even some regular troops.

Fighting Heavy In Slovenia

LONDON, Oct. 23 — (CP). — Yugoslav patriots struck hard at German fortified strongpoints in southwest Slovenia today as Hitler sought some means of liquidating unrest throughout the Balkans.

Hitler's concern over the Balkan situations was indicated when he summoned the regents of Bulgaria to a conference of high German military officers last Monday. The Berlin radio announced the meeting last night.

Berlin said that Prince Cyril, younger brother of the late King Boris and Bogdan Philov, Cyril's pro-Nazi co-regent attended the session.

Capture of the strategic Slovenian centres of Kopriva, Visnyvrh, Novi Grad and Gradisce, was reported by a communique of the Yugoslav Liberation Army, broadcast by the Free Yugoslav radio and recorded by The Associated Press. While little more than villages, these positions were regarded as important because they command lines of communication in a difficult mountainous area.

Heavy fighting was also reported in the vicinity of Mount Chakor on the Montenegran-Albanian frontier between Partisan columns and Nazi motorized units.

Montgomery Tops Generals With Dominant Personality

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent.

LONDON, Oct. 23—(AP).—Gen. Sir Bernard Montgomery is still the most dominant personality on the central Mediterranean front—and the subject of more arguments than any other British general.

As commander of the 8th Army his prestige is higher than it ever was since Alamein. Yet, from Algiers to Naples and beyond, the methods and ability of this slim general are debated when army men take time out to talk about the war and its leaders.

There doesn't seem to be any compromise when Gen. Montgomery is concerned. You're either a "Monty man" or you're not.

The troops of the 8th to a man think their commander is the greatest soldier who ever directed a battle. Their devotion to the 8th and to Gen. Montgomery is a remarkable feature of that remarkable winning formation.

But there are army men who say "Monty is too much of a showman." The 8th will answer: "Sure he's a showman but we like it. We've done pretty well with him leading, you know."

Soldiers Admire Him

The 8th like him for his dramatics, for his human touches, for his supreme confidence in them and in victory.

They know he believes in winning battles with minimum sacrifice of lives, by using artillery to its greatest advantage to help the infantry and by giving them every available support, including air. They have unshakeable confidence in the justness of his decisions and he has never let them down.

It is inevitable when Montgomery is being discussed that some dubious character will try to wind up the argument by saying: "Of course, Alexander is the brains behind it all." This boils up another tempest.

The debate is interminable and there is never any conclusion. But the truth of the matter seems to be the Allied command in the Central Mediterranean has achieved its great successes by having generals like Sir Harold Alexander, Montgomery, Gen. George Patton and Gen. Mark Clark.

Under Gen. Dwight Eisenhower, these completely different personalities, each with his special capacity and military talent, have worked together, complemented each other and given the Allies a winning combination.

Gen. Alexander, commanding the army group of British and American

Bombers Aiding Aussie Advance

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, the Southwest Pacific, Oct. 23 (AP).—Death was strewn among concentrations of Japanese soldiers and their quarters were levelled Thursday by 221 tons of bombs in the biggest display of Allied aerial destructiveness ever concentrated in a single day of the New Guinea jungle war.

Reinforced enemy troops at Satelburg, 15 miles northwest of the Australian-won Finschhafen, came under the bombsights of Allied heavy bombers in a raid that blew up 25 of 28 buildings, while the others were damaged badly.

Australian soldiers, who have been engaged in bitter, large scale fighting with this considerable Japanese force to prevent the enemy from forging a solid line of escape to the sea, later reported seeing many bodies of bomb victims.

But military leaders foresee still more heavy ground fighting in the sector. The Japanese reinforcements are belived to have infiltrated into Sattelberg's dense jungle area from the north after failing to arrive in time to prevent the fall of Finschhafen to the Aussie 9th division, October 2.

The day of the heavy bomber assault, medium bombers caused a landslide which obstructed a main road, blew up two bridges and damaged three enemy - occupied villages ahead of Australian 7th division troops moving along the Ramu valley towards Madeng, around Bogadjim, Madang's main defence outpost.

Three times in one day, medium bombers, torpedo bombers, dive-bombers and fighters swarmed over Kara airdrome at Buin, on Bougainville, tearing up the runway, blowing up anti-aircraft batteries and destroying five parked planes.

1,500,000 Germans Menaced By Red Offensive

By EDDY GILMORE
Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Oct. 23 — (AP). — The Red Army, speeding up its marathon offensive and attacking violently in many sectors, was throwing the Germans back scores of miles today in the face of very heavy counter-attacks.

There were signs from several areas — particularly southeast of Kremenchug in the Dnieper elbow both north and south of Melitopol where the Russians are fashioning the southern arm of a clamp, and southeast of Kiev at the Pereyaslav bridgehead — that the German command was unable to halt breakthroughs.

Moscow is expecting to be able to hold a Saturday night celebration of another Russian victory —the fall of Melitopol, ravaged by many days of as fierce street fighting as has occurred anywhere.

(London dispatches said possibly 1,500,000 Germans were threatened with entrapment in the Dnieper bend, in the Crimea and around Kiev and Gomel.)

Some sources estimate that up-

Lloyd George 80 Marries Again

LONDON, Oct. 23 —(CP)—Former Prime Minister David Lloyd George was married quietly in the country today to Miss Frances L. Stevenson, his secretary since 1913. Mr. Lloyd George is 80 years of age.

Mr. Lloyd George's first wife whom he married in 1888 died in 1941.

Miss Stevenson became his private secretary in 1913 when he was Chancellor of the Exchequer. They met when his two daughters, one of whom now is a member of parliament herself, brought Miss Stevenson home from school. She is the daughter of a Scottish farmer and a French mother.

Miss Stevenson was described at the Versailles peace conference as the "blonde bewilderment of Versailles" because the statesmen there could not understand such a lovely woman being a secretary. She is 55 years old.

King George V made her a Commander of the Order of the British Empire in 1918 for her services to the prime minister.

Fearing Allied Reprisals Axis Tones Down Cruelties

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Tracy Strong, secretary of the Prisoners' Aid committee of the International Division of the Y.M.C.A., reports Germany is adhering to the rules of the Geneva convention in its treatment of war prisoners and that the Japanese are improving in this respect.

Modern warfare among so-called civilized nations has produced nothing approaching the atrocities perpetrated in the present global conflict by the Nazis and the Japanese when things were going well with them. Indeed, the barbarities have continued right up to the resent, for German savagery against Italian civilians is appalling, and present for German savagery against an Allied airman prisoner by the Japanese.

So it strikes me that decent treatment of Allied prisoners doesn't indicate any change of heart on the part of the enemy. It means Berlin and Tokyo are trying to insure against retribution.

Germany has been growing sick for months now from the terrible beating at the hands of the United Nations and the Nipponese have mal de mer from the rolling seas of the South Pacific where the Allies have seized the initiative and rule the waves.

As defeat has piled up against them, the Germans have been getting it drummed into their ears by our leaders that there is to be full punishment for war guilt and atrocities. Also, my information is that the Russians are methodically compiling details of all German atrocities in the Soviet territory, and are logging down a huge black-list of names of those who are to pay the penalty as soon as the Moscovites can lay hands on them. Hitler knows heads will roll when the Red Armies sweep in to Germany.

Dread of this must be real in the Fuehrer's camp these dark days. The Red break-through the German right wing on the great bend of the Dnieper threatens the Nazis with one of the worst dissasters of the war.

Victory Loan Ahead Of 4th

OTTAWA, Oct. 23—(CP)—Total subscriptions to the $1,200,000,000 Fifth Victory Loan up to close of business Friday night, Fifth day of the three-week campaign were $335,433,300, Loan headquarters announced today.

The figure was about $23,000,000 ahead of the five-day total of $312,759,350 in the Fourth Victory Loan last Spring when the objective was $1,100,000,000.

The total of bond sales for Friday, however, was only $61,399,350, compared with $70,351,600 in the same day of the Fourth Loan and a daily average of $66,666,000 need to put the present loan over the top.

"Individual subscriptions have reached an approximate total of 426,401, contrasted with 284,435 in the last loan," said the morning press statement from headquarters.

More Subscribers

With the five-day dollar-total but $23,000,000 ahead of the Fourth Victory Loan for the same period, and with the number of subscriptions more than 100,000 ahead, officials—basing their views on the figures which have come through the recording system—stated that one of two conclusions is possible: 1. "More of the smaller subscriptions in payroll and general canvass are being secured earlier than in previous loans; or 2. The numerical strength of subscribers is going to finish much higher than ever before."

While smaller subscriptions have shown up in greater volume so far, "special names" investments are coming in at about the same speed and the same volume as before, said the statement. Loan officials said this would indicate the general canvass and payroll vampaign has increased its range and speed through experience, and that the special names canvass has already hits its regular stride.

"But the actual trends will hardly be determinable until the regular week-end study is made of a full week's results," it was said.

Tip-Top Card Billed For Next Show

Irish Tommy Nelson, former light-heavyweight champion of Europe will come to Peterborough next Tuesday for the final settling of the season-long feud between John "the Arm" Katan and Gentleman Jack Clayborne who is South Africa's aspirant to the British Empire heavyweight wrestling title. The importing of Nelson who has done big-time work around Buffalo and Detroit, is Frank Tunney's answer to the muddled refereeing situation that has developed in the Katan-Clayborne embroglio. Having viewed these two mat behemoths in action several times now and with each bout increasing instead of diminishing the bitterness between them, it looks as if Tuesday's final flare-up will really break something loose. In any case Tunney is determined to get the grudge settled this time and with Referee Nelson on the job, the fans as well as the grapplers are assured of impartial and capable officiating.

Roughhouse Dick Hogan will roll back into the Brock Arena on this card and will be well and truly booed. The powerful Hogan will start the comeback trail against Fred Steele while Flight Sergeant Ted Miller of Trenton goes in against long Joe Christie. The whole card shapes up like a tip-top evening of entertainment for the mat fans with the big spotlight focused on Killer Katan and the Black Comet under the experienced control of Referee Nelson.

2 Teen-Age Girls Fight Duel With Knives For Affections Of Los Angeles Married Man

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 23 (AP)—A hand-to-hand knife duel by moonlight between two 'teen-age girls over the affections of a married man, says Detective William G. Marr, left both contestants injured and one in a hospital today.

The attractive combatants met at midnight in the presence of "seconds" following a formal challenge, Marr added. He said the married man's identity was not disclosed.

Doris Rhood, 17, telephone operator, is in a hospital with deep arm wounds. Betty Reeves, 19, drugstore clerk, is at home nursing nicks on her hands.

Marr said Miss Reeves told investigators:

"Doris had been picking on me for a long time. She started going with a fellow I had gone with for quite a while, and was always making cracks when she saw me.

"She came into the drugstore and said if I wanted to fight her to be on a certain bus when I got off work. She said she would be there. I said OK."

Marr quoted Betty as saying that as a precaution she tucked a knife into her belt and took with her a friend, Jean Jackson, also employed at the drugstore.

"Doris was much larger than I so I pulled out the knife and showed it to her, telling her, 'I don't want any trouble'," the Detective quoted Betty. "Then she came at me with what looked like a letter opener, or a long thin knife, and grabbed my hair.

"She threw me down and kept pulling at my hair. If I cut her I don't know when it happened. But suddenly there was blood dripping on my face and I said, 'Please, Doris, don't let's fight any more.' She was on top of me trying to grab the knife, and I felt the blade cut my fingers."

Miss Jackson told detectives, "Both girls got up and started crying about their wounds. Then we split up."

Marr said no complaints will be issued pending conferences with parents of both participants in the purported duel.

William Hume Is Laid To Rest

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 23 (ENS) —A former prominent business man and one of the town's pioneer merchants, William Hume, 80, was buried here yesterday, as many friends joined in paying final tribute. The late Mr. Hume was born in Seymour East on the family homestead, and was a son of the late Thomas Hume and Jane Patterson. At the age of 16 he came to this town to serve his apprenticeship as a clerk in the general store operated by the late Joseph Townsend. It was following Mr. Townsend's death some fifty-seven years ago that Mr. Hume and his brother, the late John Hume, took over the business which for upwards of fifty years operated under the name of Hume Brothers. Mr. John Hume withdrew from the partnership about twenty years after its formation but the business was carried on by Mr. William Hume under the partnership name until ten years ago.

The late William Hume was widely known and respected for his integrity and business ability, and the many lovely floral tributes gave testimony of the high esteem in which he was held. Predeceased by his wife, the former Ethelwyn Govan 15 years ago Mr. Hume is survived by two sisters, Mrs. Charles Rannie of Fort William and Mrs. William Rannie of town.

In failing health for the past three years the deceased passed away on Wednesday evening. The funeral service was conducted from the residence of his niece, Mrs. Carl Johnston, Inkerman street, at 2.30 Friday afternoon with Rev. J. O. Ralston of St. Andrew's Presbyterian church in charge. He was assisted by Rev. G. N. Maxwell of St. John's United church and interment was made in Mount Pleasant cemetery.

The pallbearers were Messrs. Andrew Milne, F. W. Wood, R. H. Townsend, W. D. Wood, R. N. Morrison, H. D. Atkinson. Flower bearers were six nephews. William Hume, Carl Johnston, Dan Heath, Jack Rannie, Roy Walker and Donald Walker.

wards of 1,000,000 Nazis are crowded into the Dnepropetrovsk area alone.

Red Army columns have slashed their way to within 31 miles of Dnepropetrovsk to the northwest and were within 18 miles of Krivoi Rog, a Russian communique said today.

Melitopol Burning.

Below Kiev, swift tank spearheads smashed out from their bridgehead at Pereyaslav to lengthen the northern pincer arm around the Dnieper bend. More than 50 towns were liberated and the important rail line between Dnepropetrovsk and Krivoi Rog was severed. Other Soviet units were within 16 miles of Znamenka, rail terminal to the northwest and an important point in the Nazi communications set-up.

In the most stubbornly contested battle since Stalingrad the Red Army has the Nazis backed up to the northern edge of Melitopol. The city is in flames, Moscow reports said.

The Ukrainian capital of Kiev, principal German base along the middle Dnieper, is slowly being throttled in a Red Army pincers movement and Gomel, strategic enemy defence base, has been bypassed in the Soviet offensive into White Russia.

Fall of these centres would mean an end to the German reign in the Ukraine, the Crimea and even in all southern Russia, with the Red Army gaining another wedge in its drive toward the old Polish frontier west of White Russia.

If the Germans keep up their furious pack of counter-attacks against the Russian steamroller, it was reasoned here, there will be little time for them to organize their next line of defence, and they may be driven out of Russia entirely.

Nazis presumably figured that their elaborate Dnieper "defence in depth" positions and the advent of the torrential rainy season would help them halt the powerful Red Army offensive, but it is evident that Premier Joseph Stalin has clearly outgeneraled Hitler and the German general staff.

Stalin's most spectacular gains were made below Kremenchug and just above the great river bend. In this sector the Red Army spearheads cut most of the German escape corridors against masses of German reserves counter-attacking under cover of formations of Nazi warplanes sorely needed on other fronts.

Bancroft Youth Given Ten Days

When William Frederick Nicholson, 19, of Bancroft, appeared in Police Court this morning charged with vagrancy, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., wanted to know why he had not joined the Army. The youthful accused replied that he had tried twice and been rejected. "They told me I wasn't heavy enough," he explained.

Nicholson had pleaded guilty the other morning to the charge, and to-day Inspector Reid said that the prisoner had been arrested in the early hours of the morning, prowling around property on Hunter Street. The accused, he said, had been released from the Guelph Reformatory only a week ago.

"Just to show you that we can't have people roaming around like you were," said Magistrate Langley, "I am going to sentence you to ten days in jail. When you come out you had better get to work."

Friday Night Club Elects Officers

Thirty-five active members of the Friday Night Supper Club met for the third time this season and elected their officers for 1943-44. The speaker of the evening was Murray Ross, head of the Young Men's National Work Committee of the Y.M.C.A., who discussed a number of problems facing youth after the war is won.

Mr. Ross presented his arguments for post-war stability in a manner that convinced his listeners of the place for youth in the scheme of things. His interesting opinions clearly summed up the requisites for this stability and he emphasized how small the world is becoming through advances in communications, thus making easier the groundwork for a common understanding of all peoples. The speaker said that the work of all nations is dependent upon one another and that the world must have the qualities of a large family, one that safely and sanely irons out its minor and major difficulties.

Mr. Ross was introduced by G. H. Roper, general secretary of the "Y", and Gordon Johnson, and seconded by Harry Vass.

A spirited election was held and ex-Chairman Harry Vass transferred his mantle to the shoulders of Norman Allan, new chairman, vice-chairman is Tom Cooke, secretary-treasurer is Joe Cooke, and the five committee members include Donald Forde, Jack Sackville, Warren Trotter, Walter Hanbidge and Jim McBride. The old executive released their responsibilities to an equally capable body of young men and it is hoped that the Friday Night Club can carry on this year with as much fervor as those in the past.

A sing-song enlivened the evening's entertainment with Bob Stinson leading and Jim Shields playing the piano.

5th Army Takes Heights OnCentral Front

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS, Algiers, Oct. 23 — (AP). — Allied 5th Army troops have seized commanding heights in the central sector of their front and "are exploiting this gain," Allied headquarters announced today.

There was but limited progress elsewhere on the 5th Army front in Italy, and the 8th Army activities were restricted mainly to patrolling and clearing up isolated enemy strong points, the war bulletin added.

American patrol torpedo boats darting up the northwest coast of Italy torpedoed two and possibly three ships in two German convoys, and British destroyers in the Adriatic sank a Nazi - manned trawler off the Albanian coast.

Greece Bombed

Allied medium bombers escorted by fighters struck again yesterday at the German airfield at Athens in Greece, and other fleets reached out in heavy support of the ground troops.

British troops occupied Lupara, nine miles southwest of Lareino, and beat off an enemy counter-attack upon Montecilfone.

Operating in the Adriatic, British destroyers sank a Yugoslav trawler carrying a German armed guard off the Albanian coast and in a sweep off the same area the next night captured an enemy merchant vessel, the communique said.

P.T. Boats Hit Convoy

The American torpedo boats, making their first announced foray into the waters off the neck of Italy, intercepted German convoys Tuesday and Wednesday night in the Leghorn area, a naval communique said. Leghorn is 150 airline miles north of Rome on the west coast.

Charging in on Tuesday night upon a northbound convoy consisting of a small tanker, an "F" lighter and three "R" boats, the torpedo boats scored a hit on the lighter and possibly the tanker. Retaliatory fire from the convoy was "inaccurate and they eventually engaged each other," a communique said.

The next night, the torpedo boats intercepted a southbound convoy of three "F" lighters and four small escorts, torpedoing one of the lighters. The American craft escaped without damage or casualties.

The bombers attacking the Elevsis airfield at Athens set many fires in dispersal areas. Hitler's southern ramparts to the Balkans were kept

360 Tons Of Paper Saved In Directory

To save paper and type metal in wartime, important changes have been made in the arrangement of the new telephone directory for the the new telephone directory for Peterborough and vicinity, which is now being distributed.

By means of changes applied to telephone directories for all the exchanges, the Bell Telephone Co. expects to save 360 tons of paper a year for war purposes.

In view of the large number of new and changed listings in the new directory, it is important to discard the old book promptly on receipt of the new one. Subscribers are being asked to contribute their old directories to the regular salvage collection, for paper has now returned to the list of badly-needed salvage articles.

Get 2 Focke-Wulfs.

In one of these series of dogfights over Northern France a Canadian fighter wing under Wing Cmdr. Hugh C. Godefroy of Toronto destroyed two German Focke-Wulf 190s and damaged another despite the fact they were outnumbered 3-1. One Canadian failed to return.

Pilots credited with the kills were PO. Karl Linton of Plaster Rock, N.B., and FO. Andrew R. Mackenzie of Montreal.

During the day R.C.A.F. Mustangs were also out, destroying a Nazi bomber and damaging several locomotives, while Whirlwind bombers damaged a Cherbourg peninsula viaduct. A Coastal Command Beaufighter, patrolling off the Netherlands coast, attacked and hit to enemy trawlers, an R.C.A.F. communique added, leaving one in flames.

Airliner Loss Angers Swedes 13 Are Killed

STOCKHOLM, Oct. 23—(AP)—A Swedish airliner flying from London to Stockholm was shot down in flames late last night on Sweden's rocky west coast near Haallo, killing 13 persons.

The craft's radio operator had time only to send a brief, dramatic message saying "we have been shot down" before the plane was smashed to bits on the rocks.

One crew member and one passenger were thrown clear and were rescued by fishermen.

Late last August another Swedish transport plane flying from England to Stockholm disappeared and is believed to have been shot down over the sea.

There was no radio communication from the plane last night indicating trouble of any kind prior to the single sentence telling of the attack.

The rescued mechanic, named Grupp, described the shooting and crash.

Nationality Unknown

He said: "Our Douglas DC-3 was pursued and shot down at about 10:35 p.m., by a military plane of unidentified nationality. During the next 10 minutes our pursuer sent three cannon and machine-gun blasts into our plane.

"One engine was hit and the wings caught fire. The pilot gave the order to land on the water. We opened the door and got the rubber dinghy ready, but before we were able to land the second engine quit, making it impossible to manoeuvre the ship. She crashed into the rocks and broke in half. She continued to burn like a torch."

Officials of the Aero Transport Company said all Swedish civilian planes are clearly marked as such and are painted a bright orange.

Christ Put Care of Parents On Priority List of Duties

By NEWMAN CAMPBELL

(The International Uniform Lesson on the above topic for Oct. 24 is Exodus 20:12; Luke 2:48-51; Mark 7:6-13; John 19:25-27. the Golden Text being Ephesians 6:1, "Children obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right.")

THE FIFTH commandment is "Honor thy father and thy mother: that thy days may be long upon the land which the Lord thy God giveth thee."

The commandments, you of course remember were given to the Israelites before they reached their promised land. It was this land which had been promised them for a homeland that they were to live on long if they honored their fathers and their mothers. Even if one's days are not long, they are much happier and life is more worth living if we do our duty. In the case of honoring, loving and caring for our parents, it is not only our duty, but our pleasure to care for them—or it should be.

St. Luke tells us the story of the trip to Jerusalem of Jesus and His parents when He was 12 years old. It was probably the first time Jesus had been in Jerusalem since He was taken to the temple soon after He was born.

Celebrate the Passover

This visit was the occasion of the passover, when all Jews who possibly could went to the holy city. Joseph, his wife, Mary, and their Son, Jesus with a fairly large company had made their pilgrimage and were prepared to return home. In fact they started for home, thinking, for some reason, that although Jesus was not with them, He was somewhere in the company. After a whole day's journey towards home, they found He was not with them, and at once returned to the city to seek Him.

Three days they looked, and finally, the found Him in the temple, "sitting in the midst of the doctors, both hearing them and asking them questions."

His parents were amazed when they saw Him and His mother said, "Son, why hast Thou thus dealt with us? behold, Thy father and I have sought Thee sorrowing."

Jesus must have looked at His mother with wonder in His eyes, as He made answer "How, is it that ye sought Me? wist ye not that I must be about My Father's business?"

He knew, even as a boy of 12 years, that He was the Son of God and had work to do for His Father in Heaven.

Then Jesus went quietly home with his parents, and "was subject unto them." He was a quiet, obedient child, patiently biding His time until His work should begin.

And Mary, the sweet Mother, "kept all these sayings in her heart." Don't you suppose, as she went about her daily work and looked at her growing Son, that she pondered on all the events before and after His birth and wondered what they were all leading to?

Rebuking the Pharisees

It was at Capernaum that Jesus rebuked the Pharisees for hypocrisy, telling them that Isaiah prophesied of them that they honored God with their lips, "but their heart is far from Me."

He told them that they were very particular about the little customs that were a part of their ritual, but that this lip service was all they gave. They had no real love for God. Moses said they should honor their fathers and mothers, but these Pharisees declared that if parents appealed to their children for help in need, a man need only say "Corban," meaning the money is given to God, and they were not obligated to relieve their parents' wants. They were free of all responsibility.

Only John, the beloved disciple, tells the story of Jesus on His cross, while His mother stood nearby. Most of the disciples had left, being afraid, but the women who loved their Lord had been faithful, and hovered near Him to the last. Among them, as was natural, was Mary the Mother. What she suffered no word is said, but we can imagine. After the episode at Jerusalem we hear no more of Joseph, the father, and surmise that He was dead before Jesus started His mission.

Jesus looked down from His cross of suffering and saw His mother and the disciple John. To His mother He said, "Woman, behold thy Son." To John, "Behold thy mother." Thus, with almost His last words He provided for this mother of His for "from that hour that disciple took her unto his own house," and, we can add, cared for her as if she were indeed his mother, a gift from his Master.

To obey parents when we are young, and to honor and care for them when they are old, is fundamental in a civilized and Christian world.

The Golden Text

In the temple.

"Children obey your parents in the Lord: for this is right." Ephes. 6:1.

Women's Missionary Society Hears Top Speakers

MILLBROOK, Oct. 23 (ENS) — Mrs. W. Waterman extended a warm welcome to the delegates attending the Fall Rally of the W.M.S. group of the West Section of the Peterborough Presbyterial, which was held in the Fraserville United church on Thursday afternoon. Mrs S. S. Staples of Springville, occupied the chair. and Mrs Swain of Cavan Auxiliary, read the lesson during the opening worship service, Mrs. C. Porteous of Bethany offering prayer.

The special musical numbers were supplied by Miss Juan Shield, of Mount Pleasant, who was heard in two solos, and Mrs. Fred McIndoo and Mrs. Harry McBain, of Fairmount. whose duets were also much enjoyed. Mrs. F. J. Smith of Millbrook gave the dedicatory prayer when the offering had been taken up. The annual school for leaders, held at the O.L.C., Whitby, was comprehensively reported by the Presbyterial delegate, Mrs. Franklin Bannister, of Millbrook, its value to prospective leaders being strongly stressed and Auxiliaries were urged to send delegates from the younger groups as a missionary project. Dr. Kenneth Beaton's challenge regarding the 1,850,000 non-Anglo Saxons in Canada was emphasized in the words: "The best way to offset Buddhism in Vancouver, Communism in Winnipeg, and Fascism in Quebec, is by an aggressive missionary program; we must prove that love is greater than force if we are to win an enduring peace."

Mrs. W. K. Harris of Peterborough, Presbyterial president, brought a message of encouragement to all women's organizations to "hold high the standards of Christ," and she recommended that the W.A. groups study missions as an essential part of church responsibility. Miss Ida McKenzie, Field secretary of the Dominion Board, who has been visiting all the fall rallies, was introduced by the chair, her informative and inspiring address being on the theme: "Missions Today." Stressing the fact that "in spite of necessary withdrawals from some fields of work, and interment of missionaries in others, nevertheless missionaries and their work are in the eyes of the public as never before." The speaker went on to quote Wendell Wilkie as giving mission workers credit for the "Reservoir of good-will toward the American people which he found on his trip around the world."

Natives Give Aid

Pointing out that military leaders call the "Buzzies-Wuzzies" of New Guinea 'Jungle Angels' because of their helpfulness to the sick and wounded soldiers (they are graduates of the mission schools), the speaker went on to say that in Burma British soldiers owe their lives to Christian natives, who have brought out the casualties through almost impassable jungles. Christian missions have helped to save the whole south-eastern Pacific region. "The smallness of our world is seen when we recall Madame Chiang-Kai-Shek's flight from New York to Chungking in six days, and Wendell Willkie's trip round the world in 160 hours. The modern world is a neighborhood, as far as distance goes and we are right up against the question: Are our neighbours going to be the kind of folks we shall enjoy living with?" We must share the religion that has the hope of personal salvation and of salvation for the whole world.

"Since our world is a dependent one, we must show that the fellowship of the Christian Church can transcend the barriers of hatred. Our business men with their great enterprises, and modern methods, have forced their way into these eastern countries and have brought back the products of their olive orchards, cotton groves, and oil fields and the people have seen that their old ways and ancestral worship are entirely ineffective. There is no universal religion except the Christian religion and herein lies the necessity to strengthen our missionary work across the world."

Mrs. Branscom of Peterborough, Mission Band secretary for the Presbyterial, brought a fine message on that work, skilfully illustrating her talk by posters, and other handwork. Mrs. H. Davis Presbyterial literature secretary, followed, announcing the extensive display of books, charts, maps, etc. on hand for groups of all ages. As a final feature, Mrs. Preston, of Springville Auxiliary, voiced the appreciation of the delegates toward all who had helped to make the Rally such an outstanding success, and afterward the hostess society served tea in the community hall, and the social side of the gathering received its due share of emphasis.

SLATED FOR AFRICA

David Livingstone, famous African missionary and explorer, had wanted to go to China and was greatly disappointed when assigned to Africa.

The Place Of Tears

By REV. E. R. JAMES-

Put My Tears In Thy Bottle. Ps. 56:8.

Jews were being carried away captive by the mighty Assyrian hosts. Some Jews had watched the sorrowful groups herded like cattle being driven into a foreign land there to labour and die, unmourned and forgotten. Have you been deeply moved when you have heard of similar massacres in the the daily papers. That unknown Jew more than 25 centuries ago pours out his heart in supplication before Jehovah for his own people. He pleads that Jehovah may use his tears as an act of reparation for sins of his people, men of his race and blood.

In the middle ages there was a Church Festival called "The Feast of the Tears of Jesus." The mind of the Church of those days was tender and sensitive towards the Manhood of Our Lord. He was Man, full of compassion and tenderness, in striking contrast to the hardness and savagery of the time. Is our age more civilized?

Our Lord was no Stoic, who neither wept nor rejoiced. The Stoic philosophy made a great appeal to the strong Roman to whom tears and compassion were signs of weakness, not of strength.

The Lord by His example would teach us that tears and compassion are characteristics of the Perfect Man.

Today is the day of tears and anguish. Multitudes are weeping. We western people, priding ourselves on our want of emotion, must not be ashamed to weep The gift of tears is a gift from God. It is a physical relief to weep and shed tears. Truly unfortunate is the man who cannot weep. Juvenal, the great Roman thinker, reminds us that tears are God's gifts, not to animals or the angels, but to man, a rational and reasonable being.

On three occasions Our Lord is reported weeping. PATRIOTISM. "When Jesus beheld the City He wept over it." That first Palm Sunday was a beautiful day. The City was lovely. The great Temple rose in all its gigantic beauty and its white marble shone clear and fascinating. It was one of the wonders of that world. The Lord wailed because He saw the awful future for His City and His people. The Jews had over emphasized their nationalism. They believed they were superior to all the peoples of the earth. "The Jew is a superior man" was the popular slogan. How modern. Consequently they were in constant rebellion against the Roman Government. Palestine was the Ireland of the Empire. The Roman authorities tired of these perpetual insurrections. They ordered Titus to wipe out this nation and City The nation must be eliminated, destroyed. This was carried out with the terrible efficiency of Roman generals. Josephus was a Jew, highly educated and somewhat pro-Roman. Read his description of the horrors of the fall of Jerusalem.

PITY. The Lord wept for Martha and Mary in the day of their bereavement at the death of Lazarus. He groaned with deep emotion. A famous modern German thinker says: "Pity is the last sin." What a contrast to Our Lord's teaching that Divine Pity is a characteristic of the nature of our God. "Like as a father pitieth his own children so the Lord pitieth them that fear Him."

PRAYER. The writer of the Epistle to the Hebrews tells us that "in the days of His flesh the Lord offered up prayers and supplications with strong crying and tears unto Him that was able to save Him from death." It was in the Garden of Gethsemane that the bitter cry came from Him. "If it be possible" He pleaded.

The bitter Cup was given Him to drink with the strength to drink it. When the cup of sorrow is placed to your lips remember that the Hands that hold it are wounded Hands of the Captain of our salvation. He understands, He sympathises. He wants you to learn something about God you could not otherwise learn. "What I do now thou knowest not, but thou shalt know hereafter." It is the promise of a Gentleman Who has never broken His Word.

GOD SHALL WIPE AWAY ALL TEARS FROM THEIR EYES. THANKS BE UNTO THEE, O LORD.

Honoring Our Parents — ILLUSTRATED SUNDAY SCHOOL LESSON

By Alfred J. Buescher

Scripture—Exodus 20:12; Luke 2:48-51; Mark 7:6-13; John 19:25-27

After the visit to Jerusalem with His parents, and the episode in the temple, Jesus returned to Nazareth and was "subject" to His parents.

"For Moses said, Honor thy father and thy mother, and, Whoso curseth father or mother, let him die the death," Jesus reminded the Parisees.

"But ye say, If a man shall say to his father or mother, It is Corban, that is to say, a gift, . . . he shall be free," Jesus accused the Pharisees.

Jesus' mother stood at the foot of his cross, and Jesus, seeing her, said to John, the beloved disciple, "Behold thy mother." GOLDEN TEXT—Ephes. 6.1.

Catholicism And The C.C.F.

Judging from the information which has been made public, we think that it has been too hastily assumed in some quarters that the recent declaration of the Roman Catholic Bishops shows a changed attitude toward the C.C.F. party. Indeed, the whole affair has been confused, and we think that a few matters should be made clear before the muddle is too great.

In the first place, we do not think that the Catholic laity appreciates the assumption made by many non-Catholics that it votes as it is told to vote. Many people whose information about the Catholic Church is limited, and who have few Catholic friends, maintain that the Catholic political line is rigidly fixed by the clergy; a very little experience of practical politics would show them that this is not so. Broadly speaking, the Church sets its face against political parties which is believes to be un-Christian in aims and practice; its opposition to Communism is a case in point. But adherence to a settled policy is far removed from dictating political opinion in matters of party politics.

What the Bishops decided upon is expressed thus in the Canadian Register, an official Catholic paper: "As the authorized spiritual advisors of the Catholic people, the Bishops declare that the faithful are free to support any political party upholding the basic Christian traditions of Canada, and favouring needed reforms in the social and economic order which are demanded with such urgency in pontifical documents". And now let us look at this passage from Quadragesimo Anno, issued by Pope Pius XI in 1931, and a classic already on social reforms: "Socialism appears to be afraid of its own principles and of the conclusions drawn from them by the Communists. In consequence, it is drifting toward truth which the Christian tradition has always supported. Indeed, it cannot be denied that its program often comes close to the just demands of Christian reformers".

Can this be interpreted as enthusiasm for the C.C.F.? It depends on what the C.C.F. holds out as its platform. If the C.C.F. expects to make light of the principle of private property it cannot expect support from the Church, which defends that right more ably and more sensibly than most capitalist statesmen. Again we quote Quadragesimo Anno: "It is just that any man who does a service to society and increases the general wealth should himself have a due share of the increased public riches, provided always that he respects the laws of God and the rights of his neighbour, and uses his property in accordance with the dictates of faith and reason". And finally, from the same papal statement of Catholic opinion, we quote: "No one can be, at the same time, a sincere Catholic and a true Socialist".

We do not see much support for a party like the C.C.F. in these statements or in the Bishop's declaration. The Catholic Church favours "needed reforms"; that is no news to anybody. It does not favour Socialism; that is clear. If the C.C.F. chooses, in time, to become another liberal-reform party it will doubtless get a portion of the Catholic vote; if it continues to be strongly Socialist, it will get none of it. To assume that thousands of Catholics have been aching to support the C.C.F. and have now been set free to do so is to misunderstand the situation. Catholicism and genuine Socialism do not mix.

Air Policies And Peace

One of the great post-war problems will be that of routes for airways, and national responsibility in civil aviation. Britain has taken the bull by the horns and has made a plan for herself, and in this plan a number of British Dominions are invited to take a share. Precisely what the U.S. is going to think about the plan remains to be seen. The fact is that a British airways scheme in which most of the Empire had a place would put not one, but many girdles round the earth, and no other country could begin to compete with it.

But control of the air will be a very hot question after the war, for every country will want as much of it as it can get, and some new word like Lebensraum will have to be coined to express "a fair share of air." Britain, in making her plan now, has been forehanded indeed.

The post-war extension of air travel cannot be anything but a blessing to Canada. We have several advantages in the matter of air-routes which we must exploit fully and wisely for our own good. If Canada can take a prominent place in the scheme of air-travel not only will we enjoy great commercial benefits, but our most serious national fault — parochialism of thought and spirit—will be given a death-blow. On the sea-lanes we are, in some respects, out of the way; but on the air routes we are on the direct path to many of the most significant places in the world, and we stand to benefit greatly from our favoured position.

A Red Cross Exhibition

May we draw the attention of our readers to the Red Cross Exhibition which will be held in Peterborough next week? It is being arranged in order to show the public what work the Red Cross is doing in wartime, and it will have demonstrations and displays related to the work of the local Blood Donors' Clinic, to education in nutrition, to home nursing, to the general charitable work of the Red Cross, and to its work in caring for prisoners of war. The exhibition will be an interesting and illuminating one, and we suggest that you determine to see it.

The Red Cross is one of the great—if not the greatest—compassionate organizations in the world. It does magnificent work in war, and in cases of great disaster, but it also keeps up a routine of helpful assistance year in and year out through its hospitals, its treatment of indigents, its mobile hospitals and ambulances, its training of nurses and home nurses, its maintenance of medical supplies for times of need, its instruction in public and personal hygiene, its care of children, and its instruction of children through the Junior Red Cross. All this work demands careful organization and supervision, and a great deal of money.

Money for the Red Cross does not usually have to be begged—it is forthcoming from the millions who know the Society and its work. Since the war began the people of Great Britain, with all the heavy claims upon them, have given £25,000,000, or about $111,000,000 to the Red Cross, and Lord Iliffe, the British chairman, said recently that £5,000,000 a year of this was subscribed in pennies by people in very limited circumstances.

The exhibition which will be held next week is not a money-collecting device, however, though you will doubtless have an opportunity to make a donation if you wish to do so. Its purpose is to show what the Red Cross is doing, and as that is a matter of public concern, the public should attend in great numbers.

Buying Souvenirs

From a number of comments which we have seen in the British press we judge that there is a good deal of dissatisfaction about the way in which American troops in Britain are spending their pay. They are using it to buy antique silver, which they send home to their families and friends. The British jewellers complain that the doughboys have no taste, and judge solely by price; they also complain that much fine stuff is being taken from Britain, never to return again.

The obvious solution to this problem is for the jewellers to refuse to sell, but apparently they cannot resist the sight of ready money in the customer's hand. Frankly, we cannot work ourselves up over the matter; people who do not want to sell what is in their shops can always find a way of refusing to do so.

But the exploiting is not all on the American side. We read of a Londoner who sold an American soldier one of the barrage balloons which floats high over the city. The Englishman who bought Brooklyn Bridge for a hundred dollars in cash has been avenged.

Marquand's Lives Of Desperation

By
SAMUEL MARCHBANKS

ONE of the greatest of New Englanders, Henry David Thoreau, says in his "Walden"—"The mass of men lead lives of quiet desperation. What is called resignation is confirmed desperation"; a latter-day New Englander, John P. Marquand, is so fascinated by these lives of desperation that he has written several novels about them. "The Late George Apley" (1937), "Wickford Point" (1939), "H. M. Pulham, Esquire" (1941), and how "So Little Time" all stress the desperation of their principal characters, and the latest is the most despairing of all. Marquand is one of the most accomplished of modern American novelists; his technique is admirable but unobstrusive, his approach to his theme is always comprehensive but modest, and his sense of satire is keen and brilliant. But his interest in despair is unflagging, and if the reader does not share his appetite "So Little Time" has some profoundly boring passages.

DESPERATION and failure are only interesting to me—and I should not be personal if I did not think that a great many other people shared my opinion—when they are on a grand scale. The failure and despair of Richard II and and Richard III in Shakespeare's tragedies about them are profoundly interesting because their ambitions were great and their fall was disastrous. But Marquand's New Englanders have no great ambitions, and they never fall very far. They never wrestle with Fate; they let Fate shove them into a corner, and then they whine about it; even their despair is on the smallest possible scale. The art of the author, which is considerable, makes them fairly interesting, but he cannot conceal from us the fact that his heroes are dull bores, and that what they get from life is precisely what they themselves have put into it.

FAILURE on a large scale has its fascination; failure on a small scale is merely tiresome. Marquand's heroes are not material failures; they always have more money than most of us. They are spiritual failures, and even in this they are dull. No mighty sin corrodes their souls; no vice eats away the anchor-chain, and sets their souls adrift. They simply achieve a greyness, a spiritual nullity. If they were ever Catholics, and confessed their troubles to a wise priest, he would doubtless tell them to stop playing the fool and take a grip on themselves. But in Marquand's books there are no priests, and no people of ordinary depth of perception; they are all nincompoops of one sort or another. There are nice nincompoops, aristocratic nincompoops, and vulgar nincompoops, but they are nincompoops to a man—dead and damned.

SOMETIMES I feel that book-reviewing is a grossly unfair business. The ordinary reader chooses his books and reads what he likes; the reviewer reads a great part of what appears, willy-nilly, and every once in a while his gorged spirit revolts at the grossness of his diet. Marquand's latest book is about another of his spiritual failures; I hate spiritual failures, and I meet quite enough of them in daily life without seeking them in books; a great, fat book of 595 pages about a spiritual failure makes me spew, but I have read it, word by word and line by line, in the course of my business. How can I give a fair judgment of it? "So Little Time" has been praised by the American critics without stint; they seem to like Marquand's spiritually costive boneheads. I don't.

BUT the book is not all weariness of the flesh. There are some splendid passages of satire in it. The war-correspondent Walter Newcombe is a brilliant caricature, and so is Milton Cooke, the financial wiseacre. Beckie and Fred, the urban rustics who fill their New England farmhouse with antique junk and have a playroom in a barn with fireproofed hay are touched off to a hair. The whole book is written with an art which any writer might envy, but because all the people in it are too dull to be interesting, and not grotesque enough to be fascinating the art is almost entirely wasted.

THE principal character is Jeffrey Wilson, who wanted to be a playwright, but who found that his small talent was best employed in tinkering the inexpert plays of other men, and so he became a successful and wealthy "play-doctor." He married a rich wife, and lived a dull life, and when war broke out in Europe he was seized with apprehensions lest his son Jim should have to fight in it. Of course Jim does, and of course Jeffrey himself is too old to fight again, and the book closes when he strays into St. Patrick's cathedral and begins to recite the Lord's Prayer. One closes the book wishing that he had gone either to a cathedral or a first-rate philosophical library twenty years earlier, thus avoiding the necessity for a long book about a very dull fellow.

Extra Fancy

Apples are now under a price ceiling, the prices varying according to grade. This would be all to the good if grading were compulsory in all provinces of the Dominion. As it is there is no real safeguard against all apples advancing to the extra fancy class in those areas in which such grading is not required by law.

Few consumers are qualified to do instanteous grading and concurrent legislation to implement Dominion legislation is not operative in the province of Manitoba. To make the price ceiling really effective here, grade standards would have to be defined by provincial law. The consumers would then know what they are buying and be sure of getting it.—Winnipeg Tribune.

For Fairer Voting

An Ottawa dispatch on Wednesday indicated that the government is giving serious consideration to the adoption of the alternative vote system in single-member constituencies. This reform appears to be necessary because of the advent of third parties and the consequent splitting of the vote in three or more ways.

It is obvious that in the next federal election, the electors will be called on to express a preference as between the Liberals, Progressive Conservatives and the C.C.F., and in Alberta at least the Social Credit party will nominate a number of candidates. Under these circumstances the voter should be given opportunity to declare his second preference.—Calgary Herald.

Capital Closeups

(By JOHN DAUPHINEE, Canadian Press Staff Writer)

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 —(CP)—A couple of weeks back we picked out some samples from an unofficial glossary of navy slang—and the army has its own "slanguage" too.

Some of the soldier's words and phrases already have been adopted into ordinary usage—"ack-ack" for anti-aircraft, "brass hats" for high-ranking officers, "recce" for reconnaissance, "walkie-talkie" for field radio equipment.

But there are others not so common.

"There's the description of army office workers as "armchair commandos" or "chairborne troops"; "guppy-puppy" or just plain "guppy" for officer candidates; "glass house" for detention barracks; and "rompers" for battle dress.

The Salvation Army canteen is the "Sally Ann"; the soldier's heavy anklets are "spats"; and the walking-out uniform is familiarly known as a "zoot suit." A route march is a "bunion derby"; a tank is a "blitz buggy"; an army haircut is a "bowl bob"; and (appropriately enough) the mask or respirator is called instead an "exasperator."

The cooks are "galley slaves"; the man who gets posted to an isolated station is "bushed"; and most troops at one time or another get "hutnutty"—just weary of camp life.

Turntable:

Around the navy they're telling a story of crowded quarters that's turned the tables on the advertisements.

Ten Wrens were needed for important duties at headquarters but navy accommodation was lacking. Then somebody decided navy ratings could be used for certain messenger work; so 10 Wren messengers were detached and ratings put on the job. The girls are being moved to other duties outside Ottawa; the Wrens coming here are getting their accommodation; and 10 ratings are being housed in men's barracks which have enough space to house them.

It's a very temporary arrangement—but anybody who suggests the ratings are releasing women for active service is really asking for trouble.

Socialism and Town Life

(LEAMINGTON POST AND NEWS)

A GOOD way to look at this talk of socialism, and a government which runs everything, is to think of how this would work in a Canadian city or town — especially in one of the smaller places.

After all, Canada consists only of communities, and it is quite easy to get an idea of what might happen in Canada as a whole by thinking of what might happen in one community.

The same sort of people are available here to run things as are available to run everything in the country. What the individual citizen might think about it, whether he really wants to have a system under which, in his own town, the local factories would be run by the local authorities; in which wages and working conditions would be set by town by-laws; in which the local stores would all be combined into one big store, run by the town; in which the price of everything which comes in from the country on the market and the price of everything which is sold to the farmer in the surrounding countryside would be fixed by the local authorities—that is different.

Of course, out on the farms which are tributary to the town, the farmers would have to plant the crops, pay the wages and do the work which the local authorities instructed them to do.

If the community was to remain a democratic one, then the local authorities would have to be elected by the townspeople and the farmers of the surrounding area.

That is socialism. It is just as simple as that. The more the individual citizen thinks this over, the less likely it seems that he will really like this system. Under it, of course, no individual would ever start a new factory or business. That would be something to be settled by the authorities. They would have to think of what might be profitable to make in this town, and then tax every one to pay for building the factory in which it was to be made. Of course, if the goods from the factory were to be sold outside a town and its own farm area, the quality and price of these goods would have to be settled by some more important central authority — but that would only be an authority very much like the town council. After all, the same sort of people get elected to Parliament as get elected to town councils; the same sort of people are civil servants at Ottawa as are employed by town authorities.

If the Canadian people could only get accustomed to thinking of socialism in these terms, they would have a pretty good idea of how it would work—and it does not seem likely that there would be so many people advocating socialism as there now are.

You First Take a Part of the Sea

IN one of the booklets issued by the Netherlands Government an Englishman when speaking of the prowess and determination of the Netherlands expressed himself in the following terms: "Wonderful people you are. You begin by taking a part of the sea, build a dike around it. You pump out the water and get a polder. Having done that, you dig a canal through the polder and the work is not complete before you have built a bridge in order that you may pass over the canal."....

In the seventeenth century the work of draining lakes and wrestling land from the sea by means of dikes and pumping was seriously and systematically undertaken. In north Holland, with funds provided by stock companies headed by such men as Usselinex and other enterprising Zeeland and Flemish refugees, who also figured so prominently in the West India Company, money was made by selling lands recovered by such reclamation works. These parcels of land were then called polders or drained marshes....

This poldering or drainage took its rise in the days of Charlemagne and on a much larger scale with the advent of the windmill, which had been brought to Holland during the Crusades. The inventive Netherlander, who improved upon what he borrowed, began to perfect this contraption to make it applicable to the Lowlands in a big way. He enlarged the size of the arms and wheels and also made the interior a place for storage and for human habitation. He also added the device of the rolling top which enabled the men draining the land to catch the wind. Then, with dikes having been rude and unscientific, hydraulic engineering took its rise. Not only were the canals surrounding the dikes and polders improved, but pile drivers came into use for the sinking of whole forests of trees with their heads downward. Thus the draining and drying of acres with the aid of these windmills was made much more effective.—From "Crossroads of the Zuider Zee," by Hendrik de Leeuw. (Philadelphia Lippincott.)

On Italian Primitives

The fourteenth century Italian painting at large may be fairly illustrated from the work of Giotto. No artist surpassed him in technical proficiency during the entire century. He was never surpassed in solemnity, in seriousness, in religious feeling, and in original power. The artists of his time were frequently his equals and worthy rivals in the individual works. The fourteenth century painting has then these following general qualities. It did not attempt facial portraiture, it did not elaborate backgrounds or landscape details, it did not attempt perspective. The action and gesture are treated with more or less success, according to the individual genius and talent. The idea was the main thing. The artist was satisfied when he had conveyed it, and the public was satisfied when it grasped it. — From "Roman and Medieval Art," by W. H. Goodyear, M. A. (1893.)

Donald Denham, son of W. H. Denham of th[e] Quaker Oats Company is dead here, a victim o[f] pneumonia.

A Bible Message

Now if we be dead with Christ, we believe that we shall also live with him: knowing that Christ being raised from the dead dieth no more; death hath no more dominion over him. For in that he died, he died unto sin once: but in that he liveth, he liveth unto God. Likewise reckon ye also yourselves to be dead indeed unto sin, but alive unto God through Jesus Christ our Lord....

I speak after the manner of men because of the infirmity of your flesh: for as ye have yielded your members servants to uncleanness and to iniquity unto iniquity; even so now yield your members servants to righteousness unto holiness. For when ye were the servants of sin, ye were free from righteousness. What fruit had ye then in those things whereof ye are now ashamed? for the end of those things is death.

But now being made free from sin, and becom[e] servants to God, ye have your fruit unto holiness and the end everlasting life. (Rom. 6: 8-11, 19-22.)

He that hath an ear, let him hear what the Spirit saith unto the churches; He that overcometh shall not be hurt of the second death. (Rev. 2; 11.)

Unconsidered Trifles

Father: "So you love my daughter?"

Suitor: "Love her? Why, I would die for her. For one soft glance from her sweet eyes I would hurl myself off a lofty cliff—glad of the chance to sacrifice myself in her name."

Father: "Well, I forbid the marriage. I'm something of a liar myself and one is enough in a small family like ours."

An English society matron, visiting a farm i[n] her new W.A.A.F. uniform, and feeling very pa[triotic], triotic, coldly eyed a young farmer, busy milking a cow.

"And how is it, good man, that you are not at the front?

The farmer took a straw out of his mouth, spat and replied:

"Because, mam, there ain't no milk at that end!"

One Negro was worrying about the chance of his being drafted for the army. The other consoled him.

"There's two things that can happen, boy. You is either drafted or you ain't drafted. If you ain't, you can forget it; if you is, you still got two chances. You may be sent to the front and you may not. If you go to the front you still got two chances, you may get shot and you may not. If you get shot, you still have two chance, you may die and you may not! And even if you die, you still has two chances."

Towards Equal Pay

The progress toward equality of status as between men and women doing the same work is slow and not altogether sure. Despite the government ordinance more than a year ago on the subject, through the National War Labour Board, women in industry are not being equally paid for equal work. It is not surprising, therefore, that the application of Ottawa women teachers to the Collegiate Institute Board for equal pay with the men has been refused.

Instead, a resolution was passed by the board in favour of an increase in maximum salary. The application in the first place by the women teachers probably was made more for the record than with any real anticipation of its being granted. The increased maximum will doubtless be accepted philosophically, with the resolve that it will be renewed again later on.—Ottawa Citizen.

80 Men Given Course At Armouries

Officers and N.C.O.'s who participated in the refresher training course held in Peterborough for the first time this year expressed the hope that they would be able to come back here for future training periods. Nearly 80 of these men, full-time members of Reserve training and administrative staffs, went through their course here and were pleased with the type of terrain afforded by the surrounding district, Major J. McGrath, M.M., of the Prince of Wales Rangers said yesterday.

"Some very good work was done from ridges," Major. McGrath explained, "and the ground lent itself admirably to the purposes of training. Formerly along basic training lines the course was of a higher grade this year and involved improvements of battle procedure and tactics on the ground. Training was in charge of Lt. Col. F. F. Grant, E.D., General Staff Officer of Military District No. 3."

Revealing that the theatre party last Tuesday had been a success, Maj. McGrath stated that plans were being formed to hold more parades of a recreational type, perhaps spaced at intervals of six weeks or so. "We have been going pretty steadily at our training," he said.

Qualifying Schools

At present the Rangers are holding qualifying schools for various officers and NCO's recommended by the Battalion command, new lieutenants who are qualifying for captain's rank and non-commissioned officers for rank up to that of sergeant. Classes are held every Thursday evening and every second Sunday morning, and examinations are scheduled to take place on the 11th and 12th of December. Formerly candidates had to go away from Peterborough to finish the more advanced parts of the qualifying course, but that has been made unnecessary now, since full facilities are available at the Armouries here in town.

Weather permitting, a tactical exercise will be held on Sunday for the regimental school involving the setting up of defense positions.

Police Recover Jewelry, Furs

TORONTO, Oct. 23 — (CP). — Police here said to-day recovery of $5,000 in jewellery, furs and clothing stolen from Toronto homes in the past two weeks has been made following the arrest of two St. Catharines and Hamilton youths.

The pair are under arrest on four charges of housebreaking and a fifth charge of carrying a loaded revolver was laid against one youth police said.

Detectives of the housebreaking squad arrested the two as they were leaving a downtown theatre. Numerous articles of jewellery were found on them, police stated, and a check-up revealed they had rooms in four houses. These were searched and more jewellery recovered, police said.

A solitaire diamond ring worth $1,400 was among the jewellery which police said was disposed of in various sections of the city. Most of the furs reported stolen from North Toronto and East-end homes has been recovered, police said, adding that the investigation is continuing.

BETHANY, Oct. 23 — (ENS).— Mrs. W. A. Thorndyke entertained the Women's Institute at her home on Glengarry Road for their October meeting, fifteen members and four visitors were present.

Mrs. H. Staples presided, Mrs. Roy Jarvis acting as secretary in the absence of the regular executive, Mrs. A. H. Monk.

Letters of thanks for fruit and cards were read from Mrs. Ernest Fallis and Mrs. Earl Smith.

An announcement regarding the annual convention at the Royal York Hotel, Toronto, was read and the president, Miss Staples was nominated the delegate for this year. It was decided to hold the boxes for the boys overseas until January because the church and home folks were remembering them for Christmas It was decided to replenish the first aid supply kit at the public school, with the most needful articles Mrs Prince reported that a box was sent to the returned men at Newfoundland, filled with comforts valued at $36.00. The quilt committee decided not to hold a quilting in October, but to continue piecing quilts for the coming November quilting. Mrs. Thorndyke then took charge of the following program.

A most interesting and instructive paper on the sugar beet industry, and prepared by Mrs. H. H. Ryley was read by Miss

Meet one of Canada's

*FIGHTING SONS

 FLIGHT-LIEUT. D. P. MacINTYRE, D.F.C., D.F.C. (U.S.)

Canadians, this is one of the men who is fighting for us. He didn't want his own story told, and only consented when we explained that it would help to sell Victory Bonds. Quiet, friendly and unassuming, he wears the ribbons of two Distinguished Flying Crosses side by side — one conferred on him by Great Britain—the other a decoration by the United States of America.

Born and educated in Saint John, N.B., from Public School to the University of New Brunswick, he took up the quiet life of a school teacher. He tried repeatedly to join the R.C.A.F., but he never got past the corporal at the front door. A travelling unit, with a medical examiner, arrived in town one day. They stopped MacIntyre on the street and inquired the way to the recruiting depot. He hopped on the running-board, drove past the corporal, and had his medical then and there.

His biggest thrill came in November, 1941, when his Wing Commander announced they were going to bomb the "Big City" that night . . . they bombed Berlin.

We asked him how he got his citation, but he put the matter off simply as a bit of good luck, and we had to get the details from Ottawa. He suggested that we should write up some of the other boys, "Martin for instance, with 98 trips under his belt."

Young MacIntyre had his adventures over the desert, too, and he got a ribbon from the United States for a job over Benghazi. He didn't want to talk about that, either. But he had some remarks to make about the comradeship of the desert, and the democracy. No ranks or badges except on duty. When the boys line up for grub, they stay in line. If the commander is eighth in line, he is served eighth. Once MacIntyre saw a big shot push ahead. The cook promptly roared, "get into line." The big shot grinned — and did.

Raids. They had plenty of raids. They bombed Hamburg, Ruhr, Essen, and the big Renault works north of Paris. Finally they were shot down in Norway.

After a series of breathtaking experiences that cannot be told now, Lieutenant MacIntyre escaped and found his way back to his own squadron. He got the British D.F.C. for that exploit. He's overseas again now, after a short holiday in Canada.

We asked him what the lads "over there" thought about our Victory Loans. He told us that the men follow any news of these with interest — and lots of them subscribe themselves. Flyers in England and Africa believe there is a very fine effort being put up at home — and that Canadians are really "digging deep" . . . that it was a pretty swell feeling to know that the folks at home were doing a "job."

FLIGHT-LIEUTENANT D. P. MacINTYRE'S OFFICIAL CITATION

"One night in April, 1942, Flying Officer MacIntyre and Pilot Officer Hewitt (RAFVR) were captain and navigator, respectively, of an aircraft detailed to carry out a low level attack on the German Naval Base at Trondheim. The target was located and in the face of intense opposition from the enemy's ground defences the attack was pressed home with great coolness and determination from a low level. During this operation the aircraft was hit. The outer portion of the wing caught fire and the fuselage and cockpit were filled with smoke. Soon the aircraft was well alight and as it became uncontrollable, Flying Officer MacIntyre decided to descend on to a lake to which he was directed by Pilot Officer Hewitt. This he achieved by a feat of superb airmanship. The crew then manned their dinghy and made their way to the side of the lake. After a perilous journey and suffering great hardships, Flying Officer MacIntyre and his crew eventually reached England. The greatest credit is due to both these officers for their calm efficiency and courageous devotion to duty."

We who stay behind have a deep and solemn obligation to our men in the armed forces. Our debt to the dead is to carry on the task for which they died—our obligation to the living is to shorten the war, to bring them home sooner. SPORTS – DAY BY DAY

By FRED D. CRAIG

The Peterborough Ladies' Basketball League is now all set for the coming season with six teams lined up for the campaign which is billed to start on November 12 with a double-header. The C.G.E. Generals and Electrics are back in the league again this season and the St. John's girls after an absence of a year have returned to the basketball wars. Herb Payne is sponsor for the new team made up of most of the stars of last year's Y.M.C.A. seniors and Cadets and the outfit will play under the name of the Transports. The Y Cadets are competing again and so are the Normal School girls. The teams all expect to field strong aggregations and league officials are predicting a good season with plenty of competition all the way down the line. Incidentally the opening night's schedule has already been arranged. It brings together the Generals and the Y Cadets in the first half of the twin bill and Herb Payne's Transports and the St. John's team will battle in the other end of the double-header. The two opening games should be keenly contested and get the season away to a classy start.

* * * * * *

The general feeling among the wrestling enthusiasts seems to be that next Tuesday night's clash between Palermo John Katan and Gentleman Jack Clayborne should be full of the old tobasco, no matter how efficient this new referee Tommy Nelson turns out to be. There is no love lost between the two battlers and both are still plenty angry over the climax of last Tuesday's bout so that they are liable to pick up the brawl just where they left off in which case Nelson will have to be a one-man riot squad if he has any serious hopes of keeping that pair under control. The Colored Comet has shown that when he loses his temper he can be just as ruthless as his opponent. In fact Clayborne has gone berserk several times here and Katan has been his opposition on each occasion. As for the Panther he is tough any time. He believes that anything is justified in the modern science of wrestling and so he hands out the works. We have an idea that Referee Nelson is going to have his hands full, especially if he tries to hold battlers too closely to the rules. In the mood in which they will take the ring next Tuesday night official interference is about the last thing they will be looking for or wanting. It all adds up to a colorful session with the result very much in doubt.

Nip Dwan Passes

Older ball fans and players will hear with regret of the death in Toronto Friday of John 'Nip' Dwan, best remembered in Peterborough as manager of the famous Toronto Hillcrests ball club in the days when that outfit was a name to conjure with in baseball. Peterborough's first association with Dwan came just after the First Great War when Jake Solomon staged a revival in ball here, floated a city league and had nerve enough to enter the winners in the newly formed O.B.A.A. senior series, thus making this city a charter member of the O.B.A.A. Nip was managing the Hillcrests who won the Toronto title that season and the Peterborough winners were tossed in against the strong Queen City outfit. With the celebrated Ed Cannonball Scott doing the hurling for them the Hillcrests took the series in two straight games. The local crew gave them a good battle in the first game, played here, thanks mainly to the effective curve ball pitching of Howard Kirn whose curves gave the hard-hitting Hillcrests plenty of trouble. The return game played in Toronto was easy for the Dwan outfit. Afterward Dwan often visited Peterborough for Central Ontario League games in which he was interested and he made many acquaintances here. He had a long and successful connection with sport, managing the Toronto Capitals and Toronto Argonauts in football and acting as a business manager of the Chicago Cardinals professional hockey team and in a similar capacity with the New York Americans. Afterward he organized the National Sea Fleas when the late Frankie Collins, Peterborough star, played with that team.

Alex Weir former Belleville baseball and hockey player is now a resident of Niagara Falls and has been distinguishing himself as a bowler. Weir is so well known here that the following reference to him in Ken Colling's Belleville column based on a letter the Quinte scribe received from a former Belleville resident: "In his letter Freddy enclosed a clipping from Bill Gaynon's sports columns in The Niagara Falls Review which has to do with Alex Weir's bowling prowess. We all remember Alex as a baseball and hockey player here over 15 years ago when he pitched and played outfield for the old Nationals and bounced 'em around on the defence for Eddie Thomas' pucksters. Regarding Alex's bowling accomplishments over a Niagara Falls alley in league competition recently, Bill Gaynon had this to say: "While we were getting all hopped up over our old pal Wilbur Whitehead posting an 812 triple in the City League matches, Alex Weir of C.N.R., popped in late to count 816 for the evening's big three. Incidentally this fella Weir has an athletic background that hooks him up with some of the best ball teams in Eastern Ontario. He was a regular outfielder on those great Belleville squads that boasted those immortals of Ontario diamonds, "Peenie" Mills, Hoot Gibson and Redskin Jack Williams."

Slated For Commandos

Kingston hockey enthusiasts had a look at a couple of good amateur stars the other day when Edgar and Remie Laprade, the Port Arthur stars were inducted into the army. However Bill Walshe, Kingston sports scribe, rather wistfully, we imagine, has to admit that the brilliant pair from the head of the lakes are pointed toward the nation's Capital, rather than to the Kingston army team. Here is what the Kingston sports writer has to say about the pair: "Edgar and Remi Laprade, brother stars of Port Arthur, who were lined up by Ottawa Commandos for Quebec Senior League play this winter, were inducted into the army in Kingston yesterday and if they are members of the Ordnance Corps they should be stationed here for basic training. Ottawa Army officials did not take any chances on missing out on the induction and assigned a photographer to snap the scene. The two brothers were at Fort Frontenac yesterday but it was hinted they will be rushed back to Ottawa to resume hockey practice with the Commandos. Remi Laprade is a younger brother who promises to continue the family fame in hockey. Bert and Edgar played star hockey in Port Arthur, refusing many professional offers. They would be more than welcome by the Kingston seniors but they enlisted in Ottawa, as is their privilege, and they will likely get their army training in the Capital, under James McCaffrey. Sports is playing a major part in the conditioning of men in the services and while the manipulating and manoeuvring of a few certain stars may be objectional the vast majority are benefitting by athletics which are compulsory as a method of physical training."

* * * * * *

Three of the members of last year's Peterborough hockey team, Joe Blewett, Perc Nicholls and Hub Macey were in the line-up of the Kingston hockey team which was defeated 7 to 1 in Cornwall last night. So were Ron Nelson and Red Tilson of the Oshawa Generals. The Cornwall version of the game is that Lex Cook's team had too much balance and polish for the new Kingston outfit and that is probably true. The Hamill gang have only been together for a few workouts and there has been little chance to develop any teamwork. The chief problem so far has been sizing up the material and trying to make the best selection from the players available. There is a lot of potential strength in that Kingston lineup, however, and the club will be heard from later on. Ron Nelson was the only Kingston player to fire a goal last night.

"Ghost" Of Grid

A real "ghost" of the gridiron is Private John Dudenake, 21, of Pocatello, Idaho. A year ago a U.S. Marine captain stepped over the form of a fallen paratrooper, looked at him and said, "He's dead," and passed on. The paratrooper, Dudenake, was not dead, although later officially reported killed. He recovered from wounds. Today he's a member of Lakehurst, N.J., naval air station grid team.

TRAINING CAMP NEWS FLASHES

By The Canadian Press

Ott Heller, 33-year-old Kitchener, Ont., defenceman who has served alongside 12 different partners in his lengthy career with New York Rangers, predicts Centre Bill Cowley of Boston Bruins will score 100 points in the National Hockey League this season. Heller obviously bases the prediction on frail defences most clubs are expected to present this season and the wide-open hockey likely to prevail under new forward-passing regulations. Even at that, it's hard to picture Cowley shattering so conclusively the existing record of 73 points in a season held by Cooney Weiland, former great Bruin centre.

Heller says his most effective rearguard partner was Walter (Babe) Pratt, now with Toronto Maple Leafs. Pratt and Heller had only 14 goals scored against them in 1939-40 when Rangers and their rivals were at full strength. Cowley was the principal troublemaker. "We used to sit up nights figuring out ways to stop him and the next game he'd shift us silly," said Heller.

Bert Gardiner reported to Montreal Canadiens, stilling speculation on whether he would play with Montreal, Chicago Black Hawks or Boston. Montreal officials said Gardiner "probably will remain with the club." Bert likely will receive stiff opposition for No. 1 netminding job from Bill Durnan and 17-year-old Jerry McNeill, who will play the full 60 minutes against Boston in an exhibition game at Quebec Sunday.

Frank McCool, in line for the goaltending job with Rangers, has been forced to quit hockey at least temporarily because of stomach ulcers. Frank recently was discharged from the Canadian army because of the ailment. Now the net job is open to Ken McAuley, Elwin Rollins and Don Murray, with McAuley favored.

Defenceman Bucko McDonald will lead the Blues and Pratt will head the White for Toronto's annual Kiwanis benefit game next Thursday. Leafs' first pre-season test will come against St. Catharines Saints of the Senior Ontario Association next Wednesday.

Manager Jack Adams says he will give his remaining rookies a chance to strut their stuff with Detroit Red Wings this week-end — against Cleveland Barons Saturday and Indianapolis Caps Sunday and Monday. Every Rookie will be used and their performances in the three games will determine whether they land regular positions.

McGill Plays

MONTREAL (CP). — McGill University returns to open competition today for the first time since the close of the 1939 grid season when a college team takes the field at Molson Stadium against Montreal Navy in a scheduled fixture of the Q.R.F.U. The Red and White will finish out the the season with the Union but, because of the late start, each game with Union clubs will count six points in the league standing.

Blewett Plays With Losers In Rough Tilt

CORNWALL, Ont., Oct. 23—(CP)—Lex Cook's new Cornwall Army hockey squad, entrants in the Q.S. H.L., handed Kingston Army of the Senior O.H.A. a 7-1 lacing here last night in the first exhibition game of the season, before 2,000 fans.

The Cornwall club packed too much balance and polish for Red Hamill's charges and there was never much doubt about the verdict after the scoreless opening frame. The home team scored three in the second and four in the third to coast to their win. Kingston's lone tally was slapped home in the last frame.

Bud Poile, former Toronto Leaf star, and Punch Imlach set the scoring pace with two goals each. The other counters went to Jack Riley, Johnny Dennison and Jerry Brown. Ron Nelson got Kingston's only goal.

The game was fast and bruising for a pre-season exhibition and the new rules speeded up the play considerably.

Lineup:

Kingston—Goal, Mortimer; defence, W. Mortimer, Booth; centre, Latoski; wings, Brydson, Macey; subs—Thompson, Hamill, Tilson, Nichols, Cooper, Nelson, Tisdale, Corrigan, Blewett.

Cornwall—Goal, Dion; defence, Knott, Shewchuk; centre, Poile; wings, Fasano, Woodward; subs — Church, Laurent, Mario, Conacher, O'Flaherty, Imlach, Brown, Riley, Dennison.

Referees — Contant and Ivan, Cornwall.

Marmora Wins

MARMORA, Oct. 23— (ENS)—Playing an exhibition rugby game on the Deloro ball grounds on Friday afternoon Marmora high school defeated Madoc by the score of 16-0.

Conspicuous for the winners were Earl Cousins, Ray Goodchild and Will McInroy in backfield, Glen Lavender on the line and George Cheeseman, snap.

Madoc high schol girls' softball team engaged the Marmora girls at the same time and avenged a defeat sustained in Madoc through winning by 12-6.

Sport Shorts From Britain

By ALAN NICKLESON
Canadian Press Staff Writer

LONDON, Oct. 23.—(CP).—The thousands who watched this strange (strictly from an English angle) softball circuit which this summer became an integral part of the Hyde Park sports season felt a definite let-down when the Canadian girls decided their league championship and packed their duds. The Canadian Women's Army Corps teams composed Britain's first female ball circuit and the Hyde Park watchers enjoyed it no end.

Many of that marvelling multitude never had seen such a sport before, let alone one in which the "gentle" sex tore wildly along the base paths, shouted encouragement to each other and insults at the umpire.

The fun came to an end in a high-scoring three-game series when the Commandos defeated the Bombers to take the London District championship of the C.W.A.C. and a trophy donated by Mrs. Vincent Massey, wife of the Canadian High Commissioner.

There were plenty of hits, errors and excitement as the winners, after dropping the first game 12-9, came back strongly to pound out 12-4 and 25-5 victories.

Let by their captain and shortstop, Cpl. N. Mercer of Manville, Alta., the Commandos showed a speedball pitcher in Pte. M. L. Taylor of Dartmouth, N.S., and a clever receiver in Pte. E. R. Morrison of Winnipeg. On the bases were Lieut. L. Chevrier of Winnipeg and L. Cpls. M. H. Glover of Winnipeg and E. M. Pembroke of Owen Sound, Ont.

Outfielders were Ptes. M. E. Sheldon of Cochrane, Ont.; H. F. Ings of London, Ont.; and M. E. Tweedy of Edmonton. Spares included Lieut. G. M. Delisle of Quebec and L. Cpl. J. J. Miller of Vancouver.

The Bomber team included Cpl. E. M. Waymark, pitcher from Toronto, and a couple of catchers, Cpl. T. E. Doty of High River, Alta., and J. L. Spence of Moose Jaw. Others were Cpls. M. Robins of Toronto, E. L. Melhuish of Winnipeg and H. M. Strickland of Broadview, Sask.; L. Cpls. M. Duck of Vancouver and M. L. Richardson of Kentville, N.S.; Ptes. A. J. Lacey, Lethbridge, Alta.; M. M. Gillis, Sydney, N.S.; J. Grieve, Prince Albert, Sask.

An exhibition game, they called it, but the Canadian airmen went at it with the same zest that marked their beating up targets in occupied countries.

It ended in a 9-5 victory for a train-busting squadron over a Mustang outfit, due largely to the batting and pitching of Lefty MacDonnell. The Ottawa pilot officer smashed out two home runs, allowed eight hits and struck out 10.

LAC. Sammy Rothwell of Winnipeg started on the mound for the Mustangs, but took a shower in the sixth inning when the Buster Boys staged a five-run rally.

Besides MacDonnell, Flt. Sgt. Alex Alexander of Toronto was a big gun at the plate with two hits, including a round tripper. Star for the Mustangs was LAC. Fred Friedlansky of Montreal whose play at shortstop prevented the winners from notching a high score.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

(By The Canadian Press)

President Maurice Podoloff of the American Hockey League announced a new and startling policy for the playing season which opens next Tuesday night, following an executive meeting of the circuit in Detroit last night. The decision was reached to stage double-headers with the same teams playing games on succesive nights in the one city —instead of a schedule of all one-night stands. For example, Pittsburgh was drawn to play at Indianapolis Nov. 13 and again Sunday night, Nov. 14. This plan is expected to reduce travel requirements to a considerable degree.

For the same reason, the league decided to split into two groups of three teams each. The eastern division comprises Providence, Hershey and Buffalo while the Western Division takes in Cleveland, Indianapolis and Pittsburgh. Apparently because of these developments, the schedule was not announced but the season's opener next week will be staged at Cleveland with Pittsburgh as the visiting club.

Watch Bruins

Manager Lester Patrick of the New York Rangers commented at Winnipeg last night that his choice as the team to beat during the coming season "at the moment" was Boston Bruins, adding, "they have Bill Cowley who is practically a hockey team in himself."

Regina Rough Riders are facing their "crucial test" in the western grid conference today in taking on Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers at Regina. The Roughies can clinch second place and a playoff berth with a victory, thus eliminating the other Winnipeg team, United Services. Both sides are short-handed through injuries to ace players.

Five candidates are in the field for the post of 1944 manager of the Brooklyn Dodgers, including ex-manager Leo Durocher, but President Branch Rickey wouldn't name his choice last night—said he'd hold a press conference Monday. Coupled with this news was word that Bill Terry, recently a hog-breeder, was returning to baseball after several seasons and was being considered.

From Algiers it was reported last night Gen. Dwight D. Eisenhower had awarded the Legion of Merit Medal to Cpl. Henry J. (Zeke) Bonura for promoting a baseball program on 20 improvised diamonds for the troops in the Mediterranean area. Bonura was a big league first baseman for many years.

Lee Savold KO's Ed Blunt

CLEVELAND, Oct. 23—(AP)—This city's fight fans got a brief glimpse of Lee Savold last night and what they saw satisfied them so well that the blind puncher from Paterson, N.J., undoubtedly will return here soon in a re-match with Jimmy Bivins, the No. 1 man among the heavyweights still out of uniform.

Savold spent only 62 seconds in the arena ring with New York Eddie Blunt, but in that short span he left both Blunt and the customers in a daze. The 220-pound Negro hit the canvas four times and took the full count on his last trip.

Normally a counter-puncher, Savold rushed from his corner last night and sent Blunt down for a two-count with a right. Another right dropped the Negro for no count, then came a left for a toll of nine, another left—and Blunt didn't get up.

Savold lost to Bivins in a dull fight at the Garden last November. "I guess the place has been fumigated by now," Lee quips. "We both had the same idea," he explains, "to let the other guy do the leading. After waiting for counter punches we both got so we couldn't do anything. That fight changed me I'm through with waiting for counter punching and am ready for Bivins."

Breaks His Arm Playing Soccer

No definite date has been arranged for the final soccer games of the Public School and possession of the Alex Kay trophy which is emblematical of the championship.

Received Broken Arm

During a game with Queen Alexandra last week, Doug. Dyer, fast moving centre-forward of Prince of Wales aggregation carried the ball right in on the custodian who blocked him hard. The goalie stopped the shot but Dyer recovered the ball and scored as he fell over the custodian. He immediately reported the incident to his superiors but did not complain because he thought it was only a strained wrist. When he played in the recent game against Queen Mary he was advised by the official in charge that he get it ex-rayed as it looked that it was broken in one place. Dr. Howson examined Douglas and found that his arm was broken above the wrist joint that required a cast.

Perhaps Prince of Wales may ask for a concession of two weeks so that the injured player may be able to play in the finals but nothing definite had been settled.

For many years, King Edward school held the school championship and on one occasion played Central in nine games that terminated in a draw and the teams divided the cup in six months possession. Les Ascott, now in the Navy, was the outstanding goal scorer for Central.

King George school won the trophy last season from King Edward. They meet Prince of Wales in the finals this year, and the latter have never won the cup.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 23—(CP)—Probably no Canadian sports incident in years raised such a fuss as the Broda case. Columnists in nearly every Canadian city commented. All were not critical of the indicated fact some hockey players in the services are paid to play hockey. For example, Jack Park of the Cornwall Standard Freeholder wrote: "Athletes, be they service or civilian, will be paid for their services whenever the interest in the sport they play is sufficient to more than clear expenses. No rules, regulations or restrictions will ever change this, even if a lot of well-meaning people believe differently."

Incidentally, it must not be taken for granted that service hockey players are paid in all cities. This corner had it on good authority that none of the Halifax R.C.A.F. team which won the Maritimes title last Spring received extra pay for their hockey. Frank Selke, manager of Toronto Maple Leaf Gardens, says he is certain no servicemen were paid for playing hockey in Toronto last winter. A high authority in the Air Force corroborrated Selke's statement.

General opinion is that the government must give service hockey a house-cleaning. Hal Cole of the Guelph Mercury wrote: "People are demanding that this trick of transfering star players from one place to another, and thereby adding to the strength of certain Army, Navy or Air Force teams, be severely handled." Hal Dean of the Edmonton Bulletin wrote that the average fan "didn't go for the principle underlying a situation which might permit some civilian or group of private individuals to capitalize on the hockey ability of soldiers, airmen or navy men."

Cost of Living

Just for the Record: The National Hockey League admission prices in Toronto are unchanged from last year despite some public suggestions they should be reduced. Prices at the Gardens this year again are greys 90 cents, greens $1.75, blue $2.50 and boxes $3.00. These prices have ruled since the 1941-42 season. For four years prior to that the prices had ranged from 75 cents to $2.50.

229 Give Blood During Week To Save Lives

During the past week 229 men and women appeared at the Blood Donors Clinic and gave donations of blood which will be sent to the front lines in Italy and Russia and other countries.

Science has developed an amazing system for preparing the dried blood system. Thousands of pieces of glass and rubber tubing are used in its preparation and each must be carefully sterilized and properly utilized or the donation will be useless. These are usually handled by volunteer workers who realize their responsibility to the full. In packing the various parts such as filters, counters, and observation tubes, necessary in an administration set, are assembled and sterilized. Every precaution is taken to ensure safe delivery.

WARNING OF HAZARDS OF WAR WEDDINGS USUALLY IGNORED

Young Folks Don't Want to Be Told About Changes Expected When Peace Comes.

DEAR MISS DIX—They say that anything goes in war. I wish that the young people who are rushing so headlong into marriage would stop and think a little about what comes after war. Elopements, illegitimacy, quick marriages, these are war and time is precious, but a war phrase isn't excuse enough for making snap judgments and decisions upon which a lifetime of happiness or misery.

True, many of the boys won't come back; many will come back gassed or injured; all will come back with a new outlook on life, new concepts of life and death, new trends of thought, new customs. All will come back older and wiser.

How many of the girls who are hastily marrying the Toms, Dicks and Harrys, whom they think they know so well—and how many who are not even allowing themselves a chance to become acquainted with the men they are promising to love, honor and obey—can acclimate themselves after the war to a stranger they call "husband"? Because the man who comes back will not be the man who went away.

It is a funny world. And a sad world. But the world which is going to come out of this war is going to be sadder and funnier still. And time will not be so precious then. It will not be so short then. It will be a lifetime with a blinded, gassed, shell-shocked, suddenly old husband. It is not going to be so short to the young wife who has tied herself down with a baby to keep her husband in 3-A, but who had to go anyway. Nor is it going to be short to the girl who has a nameless and fatherless little child to support.

It won't be war. It won't be peace. It will be plain hell to the girl who finds that the man she knew nothing about, except that he wore a uniform and she thought she loved him and so they were married, has a different background, social sphere, education from hers. Uniforms may level all classes, but peace doesn't.

This is our war and we will fight it out. But the peace which is coming can be war and hell, too. So can't the boys and girls of today wait for the security of tomorrow to build fine, clean lives together? Lives together from beginning to end? No, I know they can't. It is a funny world, isn't it?

MRS. ANNA C.

Opposition to War Marriages Unheeded

ANSWER—True, every word you say, Mrs. Anna C. True as gospel. But when you warn the young against the folly of war marriages and urge them to wait until after the duration to make the decision upon which the whole happiness of their lives depend, you are a voice crying in the wilderness. They won't listen. They don't want to hear.

They don't want to be told that the war will change every man who goes into it that he and his wife, whether they have been married for ten days or ten years, will meet as strangers. Nor do they want to be told that the wives themselves will be changed, and that the woman who has been working in a factory for good wages may never be willing to go back to a kitchen with no pay envelope on Saturday night.

Nor do they want to be told that when Johnny comes marching home he will have to start life over from the bottom, and that a wife will be a burden to him, and that if a girl really loves a boy she would put off marrying him until he had gotten on his feet again, instead of having a furlough wedding.

No, they don't want to be told any of these things. So the wedding bells ring merrily along and the divorce court gets ready for a rush business when the war is over.

DEAR MISS DIX—I am married to a divorced man who has a darling little seven-year-old girl named Betty who lives with her mother, not very far from where we live. My husband and I are very happy together except for one thing. When we go out at night to a show or something, he always wants to go by and see Betty, and as I am not invited into the house of my predecessor I stand in front or sit on the curb and wait for him sometimes as long as an hour and a half.

Now that hurts me more than I can explain, because I can't help wondering if my husband isn't going to see his ex-wife more than he is to see Betty, and that if he doesn't love her more than he does me. He always tells me good-bye when he leaves. Do you think he goes to see her, or the child.

MICKEY.

Second Wife Has No Cause to Fret

ANSWER — I couldn't possibly know that, but it seems to me you are borrowing trouble, because the mere fact that he didn't like his first wife well enough to stick with her indicates that he had lost his taste for her, while your wedding ring shows that he prefers you to her. She has lost him and you have him, so that should settle that matter.

Nor need you be worring about his telling the lady good-bye, unless it is one of these petting party good-byes. You are bound to make some sort of an adieu when your hostess shows you to the door.

But why don't you try to get your husband to have the little girl come and spend some time at your house with her father, instead of his having to call upon her at her mother's house? That would be less embarrassing for all parties concerned.

But your husband is certainly a man of little tact and with little regard for the proprieties, as well as for you when he makes you sit on the street for an hour and a half at a stretch while you are waiting for him to make a call. Don't do it. It cheapens you even in his eyes.

DEAR MISS DIX—What do you think of a man who withdraws the money from the savings fund we have been trying to build up for our little daughter for her education, and spends it for his own personal use? My estimation of him has gone down to zero, and I find it hard to live under the same roof with a husband for whom I have no respect because he has none for honesty or truth.

A WIFE.

ANSWER—I have always thought that parents who robbed the baby's savings bank had hit the all-time low, but I find that fathers and mothers take a very different view of this subject. They think that what belongs to the children belongs to them and that they have a priority on it.

Fathers so often speculate with the money that has been left their children, or else put it into their own business, or lose it, or spend it, that it is almost a rarity for any child to ever collect an inheritance. Father salves his conscience for betraying his trust by saying that he always intends to pay it back, but he rarely does. No doubt that is the way your husband feels about taking your baby's money. And maybe you have heard his views on the subject you will feel better about it. So have it out with him and get it off your chest.

For Sunday, October 24

SUNDAY'S horoscope holds portent of a sudden disruption, which if managed with conservatism and restraint might be turned to a successful and progressive climax. There may be unexpected change travel and adventure, with some sort of public or community reactions. Refrain from acting under tension, excitement or commotion. The nerves may be keyed to high pitch.

Those whose birthday it is may have an exciting year, with a sudden and unforeseen uprooting of devastating experience. If this is handled with poise, calm and decisive action there might develop certain benefits. But keep taut nerves under control, and accept the adventure with equanimity and conservatism.

A child born on this day may be talented and inventive, but erratic and high strung, marring chances for success.

For Monday, October 25

RATHER MIXED influences prevail on this day with some indications of benefits to be obtained by good nature, controlled temper and emotions, this to be enjoyed in both business and personal contacts. Sudden fusses will prove decidedly detrimental to the best interests.

Those whose birthday it is may have a year in which temper and strife make battle for dominance of benefits or loss and disturbance. A tendency to lash out with vindictive and hasty work, the indulgence of flashes of emotional excitement would prove disastrous and spoil all the fair chances for happiness and success.

A child born on this day should be skillful and talented in constructive work, but need precept and discipline in control of its emotions and temper, if it is to reap any satisfaction in life.

Saving Sense Of Humor Tides Over Rough Places

By PROF. JAMES A. ROY

(Editor's Note: Following is the 22nd in a series of articles written for The Examiner by Prof. James A. Roy, of Queen's University, Kingston, on wartime conditions in Britain.)

Travelling in wartime Britain is difficult; there is no doubt about that. But the people have a saving sense of humor and that tides them over many a rough place and helps them to put up with crowded compartments, packed corridors, late trains, shabby railway carriages, jammed buses, cold meat pies, dim-outs and black-outs, jostling queues at the station barriers, draughty windows, a scarcity of reading matter, prolonged halts at nowhere in particular, jolting and creaking and groaning and the indiscriminate herding of "firsts" with "thirds," upset schedules, pushing elbows, dripping mackintoshes, doors that won't open and windows that won't shut.

The other evening I was travelling from Liverpool to Edinburgh. My first class carriage was crowded as far as Carlisle. There it emptied and there were only three of us in the compartment until we got to Lockerbie. It was pitch dark by the time we reached Carlisle. The train was two hours late, we were all hungry, cold and bored. At Lockerbie there was a stop. Then a sudden commotion. Several people pushed open the door of our compartment, peered into the gloom, saw it was a First, and withdrew. People found places in other compartments, piled their baggage in the corridor, squeezed in any how. Then the door was opened again and a man's voice was heard in the darkness. "In ye go, Maggie." "But it's a 'First', John," Maggie protested. "We canno go in there." "In ye go. I dinna care what it is. We must get a seat someplace. And we micht just be as weel here as stannin' oot on the platform a' nicht." "You've nate objections to oor comin' in?" Maggie asked. "Not the slightest," I said. "Sit down and make yourselves comfortable." "Maybe the ticket collector 'ill no come rooound," said John. "You're an optimist," I said. "He's sure to come round if you don't want him to." "We'll maybe have to pey excess," said Maggie. "Not a bit o't," said John. "The railway company is bound to provide travellin' space." "But no' in wartime," Maggie cautioned. "You're asked not to traivel unless your journey as absolutely necessary." "I ken that, but oor journey is absolutely necessary as we have to be back in Edinburgh and I've got to be on my job the morn. If that's no' a necessary journey I dinna ken what a necessary journey is." "I agree that you may very likely have to be back in Edinburgh tonight in order to be back at your job tomorrow morning," I suggested, "but was it necessary to go where you went to in order to get back to Edinburgh tonight?" "I see what you mean. But you see this was a trup. The last holiday, Edinburgh holiday that is, this year. It's been a funny kin' o' a trup. Here's the ticket collector."

The ticket collector pushed his way in through the baggage in the corridor.

"Tickets," he said.

Three more people pushed their way into the compartment.

"Tickets," the ticket collector repeated.

LEAGUE SUSPENDS

A sports pastime casualty of the war is the Lucky Strike Bowling League which has folded indefinitely. This group of women have been playing afternoon schedules at the Duffus alleys for some years, and managed to struggle through last winter's game with about 1 pin boy to three alleys. That proportion of pin boys has grown even less, and the league has rolled into the scuppers for this season.

A SUBSTANTIAL DONATION.

Police Inspector James F. Reid, Dominion treasurer of the Canadian Police Spitfire Fund, has received a cheque from the Sault Ste. Marie police department for $700 for the 3rd Police Spitfire. This sum represented the proceeds of a dance recently sponsored by the Sault Ste. Marie police. Inspector Reid reports that the total now is around $14,000, leaving some $8,000 still to be raised before the third Canadian Police Spitfire can be fought.

Navy officers from Kingston paid a visit to the R.C.S.C.C. Howe Friday night to inspect their quarters and supplies. The officers were Lieut. Chamberlain, liaison officer between the R.C.N.V.R. and the Sea Cadets, and Lieut. Jones, supply officer of the R.C.N.V.R.

NO HOUSING DECISION

J. M. Pigott, president of Wartime Housing Limited, said yesterday the company "has not nor will not settle until after the war" the question of the disposal of the temporary homes built for the housing emergency created by shifts of workers to munitions centres. This was the point discussed at the city council meeting Monday night when Alderman Dutton proposed that information be sought from the company as to whether they were permitting tennants to begin buying the houses.

IN MOTOR ACCIDENT

R. P. Downey, Public School Inspector and L. W. Copp, also an inspector of schools, were involved in a head-on auto collision Thursday afternoon two miles west of Downeyville. The driver of the other car was Joseph Harding of Seagrave. Mr. Copp had a badly cut nose and a cut head as a result of the accident, but Mr. Downey, driving the car, escaped without injuries. Half Million Dollar Objective Is Passed In First Week Of Campaign; Drive Continues

Employees of C.G.E.-Genelco boomed over their half million objective Friday.

That was the big news at the Victory Loan headquarters this morning, and it was also intimated that several others of the big plants are knocking at the door.

When the empolyees of the big plant "beat the gun" a week ago Friday, as Ian F. McRae, works manager described the mass meeting on the Park street lawn, an immediate tackling of the big loan job was begun, he suggested that the shop campaign might reach the $500.000 objective in the very first week.

That challenge was accomplished in full yesterday, but the campaign is not being terminated yet. This morning's information was generally to the effect that the committee were going to coast along for a few days on "mopping up" operations.

And the sequel to the big demonstration with which the C.G.E. campaign opened will be a flag raising ceremony Monday at 5 p.m with the Army Medical Corps band from Camp Borden here to help celebrate.

This three-starred "V" flag is awarded to companies where 90 per cent of the employees participate and at least 15 p.c. of the payroll is being deducted for Victory Bonds.

Incidentally, the news from C.G.E.-Genelco will materially change the total of Peterborough's subscriptions for the first week, also thrust up the percentage of standing and bring the city-county total mighty close to the $2,000.000 mark, if it is not actually surpassed.

The report from the big steel plant, as some folks refer to it, had an electric effect at headquarters. Organization hit the objective in the very first week in contrast with the pedestrian progress of the campaign in the same plant last spring.

Credit at headquarters was passed out to the entire staff for the wonderful effect of this early attainment of the objective, in the spirit of the ancient apothegm 'he gives twice who gives quickly.' More details may be available from the Park Street works at the beginning of the week.

Band Coming Monday

By the good officer of Lt. Col. Walter Bapty of the Training Centre, and also with his interest in the success of the Fifth Victory Loan in Peterborough, although he is just a recent arrival, Peterborough is going to have the band from Camp Borden all of next week. It will consist of 26 to 30 instruments and is known as A. 22, R.C.A.M.C. Band. They will arrive Monday and will be accommoated at the Training Centre during their stay.

The Band is going to Lakefield Monday at 7 p.m. and on Tuesday they are making a tour of East Peterborough. They will be at Keene at 5:30 p.m., Norwood at 7 and Havelock at 8.30. They will take part in a parade here Thursday afternoon and will leave for Camp Borden on Friday.

Major R. Honey Guest Of Dentists

Major Ralph Honey was dinner guest of the local Dental Society at Hooper's Thursday evening. He is home on leave for a few days, having spent some time in the Old Land on adanced training.

In an informal after dinner talk, Major Honey related some of his observations and impressions gleaned in far travels since he closed his own dental office and suspended the practice of his profession. One thing he stated was his certainty that the Canadian Dental Corps in its personnel and equipment was second to none.

Major Honey said he noticed a sentiment in Great Britain leaning to the opinion that the government had gone far enough with state dentistry, and that generally reaction to regimentation would set in after the war.

Major Honey said he was sometimes surprised to notice the extent to which even the young children knew their civics, the name of the mayor of their city, the Prime Minister and other officers of state. He told the gathering that his own opinion was that the British people had stood up to the hellishness of the German bombardment from the air largely through their faith in themselves and in the integrity of their leaders, that their morale was an inspiring influence which took hundreds of years to develop and to infuse into the soul of the nation.

British children generally knew the names of their leaders, but they were also certain that theirs was a great country, and Major Honey said the young folks in the Old Land had impressed him with the very unity and solidity of the people who had come through the barbarous blitz.

Dr. Harold Long was chairman of the dinner.

Lindsay Youths Appear In Court

LINDSAY, Oct. 23 (ENS)—Three Lindsay youths, Gregory O'Connor, Clare McConnell and Harold James, were given one year suspended sentence by Magistrate E. A. Gee in police court Friday on charges resulting from investigations of complaints regarding a social dance at the Lindsay Collegiate Institute.

O'Connor and McConnell, charged with vagrancy, admitted that although not students of the Collegiate they attended the dance and annoyed several of the girls. James pleaded guilty to a charged of assault causing bodily injury to Peter Bakogeorge. The accused stated that on being called an offensive name by Bakogeorge he knocked him unconscious.

Crown Attorney J. E. Anderson stressed the case as showing a deplorable situation in regard to the manner in which many of the younger people of Lindsay were conducting themselves. "There are too few social functions under proper supervision that young people attend and it would be a shame if these were cut off," he said. "It has got to a point in the town of Lindsay where we must take stricter measures to teach our young men more proper respect for young ladies."

Bancroft Car Driver Collides With Cattle

BANCROFT, Oct. 23—(ENS)—H. G. Bailey, former operator and manager of the Bancroft creamery badly damaged his car near here on Friday night when he collided with a herd of cattle which crossed the road in front of him. On topping a knoll, Mr. Bailey found cattle crossing and before he could get his car stopped he had collided with one cow killing it. The cows were owned by F. Tentorry of Turiff.

De Laval Group Makes $100 For War Victims

There is an old saying that "he who gives quickly, gives twice," and while the full sense of this motto hardly reflects its meaning in this manner, experience has proved that in the majority of instances, those who responded promptly when the Peterborough and District British War Victims Fund first made its appeal, have come back time and again with further help, and thus fulfill the prophesy that this statement makes.

Among the first to respond when the fund first began to operate were the employees of the De Laval Co. Ltd., through their Social and Athletic Association, who have helped on a number of occasions since then in various ways, and now their latest effort has been the holding of a draw for the specific purpose of giving further assistance to the fund.

Starting off with the first two prizes, a lazy boy chair and a pair of blankets donated by the Association itself, they received donations of a hassock from the Swartz Furniture Store, a picture from Knox Jewellery Store, a shirt from Ed Riley's Men's Wear Store, and three sets of theatre tickets by the Capitol, Centre and Regent theatres respectively, to make a total offering of eight prizes in all.

The winners of these prizes in the order named were Irene Rumary of 352 Water street, Y. Lalonde of 270 Reid street, Mrs. Jean Hughes of 368 Dobbin avenue, L. Burville of 509 Chamberlain street, G. Newton of 184 Dalhousie street, Miss Edna Butler of 42 Sophia street, Mrs. S. Ball of 506 Stewart street and E. Tuck of 488 George street.

This effort raised the splendid amount of $100 credited in today's receipts through J. E. Garfield, their president, and Miss M. McIntyre, their treasurer, which gives a nice boost to the special donations now being raised for Christmas, among which is one to provide Christmas cheer for the boys and girls who have lost their homes through enemy action from the skies, or have been evacuated to safer regions in the British Isles.

Pass $64,000 Mark

This donation also bears the distinction of putting the fund over the top in adding another thousand dollar mark to its total, which is the 64th in its ownward march of humanitariam effort on behalf of other less fortunate souls, and speaks volumes for the sympathy the people of this city and district have displayed towards others less fortunately situated than themselves, besides evincing a loyalty to the motherland which is truly commendable in itself.

All people have an individuality of their own, among whom are many who take a litle pride in expressing their own support in a personal way to give play to that sympathy that all Christian people cannot but help feel for those who have suffered through no fault of their own. Today, under the name of "A Friend" a donation of $1.00 appears, and the fund would welcome many such a one who can help in this way.

Blast Victims Stayed At Indian River

A story appearing in the Examiner a week ago describing a dynamite explosion in Douro township on September 4, 1884, has revived interest in this unusual and much-talked of tragedy, and H. D. Hutchinson, 426½ George, who was living in Douro, a boy of five when the explosion took place.

While Mr. Hutchinson did not hear the explosion, he heard it discussed so often by his parents and other older people that he remembers the circumstances clearly.

Two men were travelling to Lakefield on the wagon loaded with explosives, which were to be used for blasting either at the site of the present locks or the Lakefield dam, when tragedy overtook them. They had come from Trenton.

Telling of the accident Mr. Hutchinson says in part—"I was five years old at the time, and of course I do not remember hearing the explosion, however as the youngsters grew a little older we wanted to know all about it. Many a time I've heard the story. Two men with a wagon-load of dynamite stopped at Indian River hotel situated on the boundary near the Indian River bridge, between Otonabee and Douro."

Guerin's Hotel

Mr Hutchinson says the men had their dinner at the hotel and the old folks often remarked that it was a good thing the dynamite didn't explode there or it would have wiped out the village. It is more likely the two men spent the night at the hotel, and while the letter writer doesn't mention it, they stayed at Martin Guerin's hotel. The village consisted of the Guerin hotel, another hotel operated by John Smith, a combined store and post-office operated by Michael Guerin, and a blacksmith shop run by Augustus Whibbs. Today there is one building there and the village is farther south at the railway station.

Continuing his letter Mr. Hutchinson writers: "All that was ever found of the two men was a portion of scalp and a piece of cheek with the moustache. Of the horses they found but one piece of horseflesh against a tree. They found a piece of a steel wagon tire and a small piece of the neck-yoke. The piece of neck-yoke was discovered in a farm field two miles from the scene of the crash.

The trees for some distance around were battered and slivered, and the old folks claimed this was caused to a great extent by flying gravel and stones. The cause of the explosion, of course will never be known, but the old timers believed it may have resulted from the wagon striking a hard bump. Others say it might have been from the boxes rubbing together for in those days the wagons had solid bunks, no springs. Still another school of thought indicates a spark from one of the driver's pines may have started a fire down between the boxes.

At that time I was living with my fester parents within one mile of the north-west corner of Asphodel, and the neighbors in the district heard the blast clearly."

Thus does Mr. Hutchinson deal with this interesting tale of other years.

The late F. H. Dobbin in his "History of Peterborough" states the hole in the ground was sixty feet in width and eight feet deep, and says trees for several hundred feet were sheared off as if by a giant mower. The blast took place on the Sixth Line, just south of the village of Lakefield, presumably in the vicinity of Buckley's Lake.

Any person having any additional information about this event is invited to write the Examiner.

Maynooth Youth Killed By Falling Tree

BANCROFT, October 23.—(ENS). —(ENS).—Roff Brose, 20, son of Mr. and Mrs. Fred Brose of Maynooth, was fatally injured on Thursday while working in the bush in the Nipissing district.

He was struck on the head by a limb of a falling birch tree and knocked unconscious. His fellow workers in the camp at Hay Lake immediately realized that the boy was seriously hurt and they transported him through the bush four miles and then four miles by boat to the camp. At the camp it was decided to rush him by truck to Renfrew hospiatl, a distance of 110 miles. A stop was made at Barry's Bay where Dr. McDermitt was called and he told the men to get the youth to the hospital as soon as possible. However, near Killaloe the youth appeared to come to, but it was only for a second and he rolled over and passed away. Dr. M. Sckart, of Killaloe was summoned and Dr. M. Maloney, Eganville, the coroner, empanelled a jury and after a brief inquest death was said due to concussion of the brain.

The body was returned to Maynooth and the funeral will be held Sunday afternoon.

The youth leaves, besides his parents, one brother John, of Maynooth and three sisters, Pearl of Trenton, Leona and Audrey of Toronto.

'Dr. Mom' Has Adopted Sons Serving Throughout World

Many strange and interesting stories about women in the news, and others who are known only to their own special groups have drifted out of the fighting nations. There is one about the American fliers who dated Madam Chiang-Kai-Shek, the Canadian girl who wanted to fly in Texas, "Mom" who has 465 flying "sons' and the New York girl who guides in ocean pilots to mention a few.

Dr. Margaret Chung, physician and surgeon in San Francisco's Chinatown, is one "mom" who has hundreds of sons scattered across the globe. Each is known to the others by a tiny jade Buddha tie-pin, a present from their guardian angel.

It is no easy thing to become one of Mom's sons. Her boys bring their friends to her home and she watches them carefully and if she decides they are really fliers, loyal and kind, they get a Buddha, and a number, and Mom remembers them all, both name and number. Once she adopts them, Mom keeps tab on her boys, and nothing is too much trouble.

Answers Calls.

Many times she has cabled money to a lad half way around the world, or caught a plane at a moment's notice to fly to a distant hospital where a "son" lay seriously ill demanding "Dr. Mom." She doesn't own a plane herself, although she has flown them. But she has a remarkable collection of aviation mementoes. In a room off her office the objects are piled knee high and telegrams are thumb-tacked to the walls ceiling high.

The accomplishments of her "sons" bring great pride to the doctor. Numbered among them is Commander Cunningham, son 348, who was on Wake Island. Captain Robert Flood some months ago flew the New Zealand Clipper around the world to get it out of the war zone. He's another.

Mom, who is a U.S.-born Chinese girl, is a power in Chinatown. She's in the late forties, trim and plump, breezily slangy, but bearing the inscrutable dignity of the Chinese. She loves the theatre, and often entertains the casts in her home.

Flying First.

Dorothy Jane Carson, Toronto, last October got to Texas after surmounting many obstacles, determined to become a flying instructor, because her three brothers are in the services. Since she did not care to do ground duties with the Air Force, she seized upon the idea of learning to fly in the States and becoming an instructor.

She learned to fly and put in 30 hours of instruction before her extra work in the study of navigation, meteorology, and ground duties caught up with her and forced her to take a rest. She is only 21 herself, and tells of one girl instructor, 17. Another girl to make a place for herself in the aviation world is Vera M. D. Covell, 21, who gives clearances and landing instructions, wind direction and velocity to veteran ocean pilots approaching New York from European trips. She is a licensed pilot, who has completed a ground instruction course and is a licensed operator of the radio telephone.

Slight Mistake.

Two American fliers in the Chinese Air Force happened to be at a Burma airfield one day when a plane landed, discharging two Europeans, two Chinese men and two very smart Chinese women. The fliers offered a ride to the ladies and made room for one of the Europeans, leaving the other passengers on the field. They drove to a pavilion for tea where, to their embarrassment, they learned that one of their guests was none other than Madam Chiang-Kai-Shek and the Chinese gentleman for whom they had no room, was the Generalissimo. However, China's leading lady stayed for afternoon tea, and back at the flying field, both she and her husband expressed their gratitude for this courtesy, to the trembling fliers, who visualized themselves facing a discharge.

Russian Trend Seen In Clothes

Each season a novel idea in women's clothes becomes a predominating feature for the smart wardrobe and this fall following the trend of adopting the styles from the countries which are fighting alongside Canada, the Russian influence is being strongly felt. The Cossacks have arrived.

This Cossack influence in feminine styles is not only spreading, but mounting, and while somewhat startling at first, seems to be taking hold, even to the high Russian boots, common to the steppes. Hats and capes add the zip to make the late fall fashions something to be remembered.

Girls are experiencing a boon since the outbreak of the war in wearing low heeled, comfortable shoes, without the bother of having to mince along in high heeled monstrosities for office work, just because that was the only footwear which could be contemplated by the well dressed young woman. Now women who are spending long hours on their feet in factories and offices have solid comfort in styles which look as attractive as any of the pre-war era. High heels have defintely become a party specialty.

One expert gives the following rules for comfortable feet. Every night a five minute routine will put new life into the weary peddle extremities. A hot foot bath, including a good sudsy scrubbing, a deep massage with a cream balm, and a final sprinkling with foot talc performs a miracle.

Nails are as much a part of good grooming as a well tailored suit, and add a sleek professional look to a woman's hand if properly cared for. Old and chipped nail polish should never be left on. It should be thoroughly removed and the nails shaped with an emory board, and an orange-stick and cotton-dipped in cuticle remover should be used to push back the cuticle. It is a good idea to push back the cuticle with a towel as the naails are dried individually after washing the hands.

Canteen Work Important In War Effort

Stage Door Canteen, a name which has thrilled the hearts of many Allied soldiers, among them Peterborough boys, and the picture of that name, have given women here and across the country, an insight into the importance of the work that is being done in canteens, whether they be in Montreal or Peterborough.

The men do not want to be separated into small groups and made to feel conspicuous, they say, but they want to have fun with their gang, in a place where they know they will meet friendly women, who understand their needs and who will adopt themselves as companions while they talk about their homes and families, and while away a few lonely hours of their free time when they are in a centre far from home. At each new centre nearly every face they see on the street bears a blank impersonal look, and even a smile is apt to be construed as a pick up.

On the other hand the young women who staff the canteens should go in to work, not with the idea of the fun they are going to derive from it. But the fun they can give to the men who drop in there, young and old, whom they may never even see again.

The size of the canteen is not important, and while the larger ones may glitter more, the smaller ones like the Uptown Recreation Centre are fulfilling just as important part in the sphere of morale building. Every Sunday hundreds of boys visit the Peterborough centre where each week a number of business girls donate time from their week-ends to make their contribution in another form to the war effort. Twice a month, different groups of business girls bring sandwiches and cookies as a special treat and many a soldier has blessed them for it on the days which fall near pay day.

A smile goes a long way to cheering up a homesick man in uniform. Recently three buddies attended an evening church service here and as they waited at the end to go out most of the congregation passed them with a nod or ignored them completely. Finally two "mothers" came along and with cheery smiles extended a cordial invitation to come again and to look them up at their homes. The boys, who were a long way from home were pathetically grateful and one boy said:

"Gosh, this is swell. You don't know how homesick we've been and how we'll appreciate having a home to go to while we are stationed here. We'll certainly be along."

Not every family has someone in uniform and this is an opportunity to help the families who have, and to give the soldiers something worthwhile to carry away with them.

Coming! Soon.

Shell Shortage In Ontario Saves Pheasants

TORONTO, Oct. 23 (CP).—Hundreds of Ontario hunters yesterday flocked to regulated area for the annual pheasant shoot which officially began at eight o'clock. In most areas the shoot continues tomorrow.

The hunters are given until five o'clock in the afternoon to bag their day's quota of three cock birds. Municipal and county police toured the countryside to enforce the regulations and anyone caught hunting before or after the regulated times is subject to prosecution.

Game overseers reported that birds were in abundance despite the comparatively dry period during the propagation period. In most regulated areas birds have been restocked in large numbers.

With little exception hunters faced a shortage of ammunition and many doubted if their supply would last out today.

Two meetings a month were held (one was a work meeting) The study of the different countries had been taken up and their songs and games were taught for each different place. A junior choir had been organized.

Grylls seconded the vote of appreciation. The offertory prayer was given by Mrs. C. S. Tanner and the Mizpah benediction brought the meeting to a close.

Britain Plans To Retain World Trade

By J. E. HOLDSWORTH
Canadian Press Correspondent.

SYDNEY, Australia, Oct. 23 — (CP Cable).—Maj.-Gen. J. H. Lethbridge, leader of the British military mission to the South-west Pacific, said on arrival here yesterday that "when the time comes for Britain to turn her attention from the task of knocking out Germany to the task of knocking out Japan it may be discovered we have a few nasty ideas which will give the Japanese something to think about."

Commenting on British plans to switch munitions production and army training methods to suit the special needs of jungle warfare, Gen. Lethbridge said: "There are going to be several yorkers in our bowling set up, and the bodyline will not be barred. It is unfortunate for the Japanese that they do not understand the game of cricket."

Gen. Lethbridge said that as a result of what his mission had seen in the Solomons, at Pacific Island bases and in New Zealand he had forwarded a number of recommendations to the War Office so that as early a start as possible may be made with a switchover of munitions production from certain types of weapons to new weapons.

He said it was possible that these recommendations would be as readily applicable to campaigns in South-east Asia as they would be in the Pacific.

Saving Sense

We all tendered our tickets and then it came to our friend's turn. He was a stout middle-aged man with a stout middle-aged wife.

"You're travellin' 'First' with a Third Class ticket," said the ticket collector, "and you'll either hev to pey the difference or get out."

"But there's no other accommodation," protested the stout man. "I couldna get into the Glesga portion when we might have changed at Carstairs. There's nae room in the Thirds for Edinburgh. There's no even standin' room in the corridor. And yet you want me to pey the difference."

"Are ye goin' to pey the differance?" said the ticket collector.

"How much is the difference?"

The ticket collector consulted a little book.

"That'll be eight shillings and tenpence."

"Eight shillin's and tenpence. Dooble that for the wife and hoo much does that mak? Ma Goad, I never heard the like. Eight and tenpence!"

"Seventeen and tenpence," said the condctor. "Will you pey the difference?"

"Pey the difference, John, and let's get on wi' the journey," pleaded Maggie.

John paid the difference.

When the ticket collector had left the compartment John turned and addressed his unseen audience.

"I'd jist like to tell you what kin' o' a day me and the wife hev had. It was what ye ca' a trup. A 'trup'! mind ye. The last holiday this year. We took return tickets by the bus and left for Dumfries at seven in the mornin'. It was rainin' a' day in Dumfries. There was naethin' to dae there and the wife said we should tak' oor denner. We got hardly onything to eat and when we were half wey through, the wife said she wanted to go to the pictures. That was worse." "It was na so bad, John," said his wife. "I enjoyed it." "Maybe you did, but I was peyin' for't, as weel as for the denner you did na gi'e me time to eat. Aboot half wey through the picture the wife said she wanted a cup o' tea. So we had a cup 'o tea. I had hardly got startit on that when the wife said it was time to queue up for the bus to return to Edinburgh. We queued up. There was a queue aboot a mile lang when we got there and we were kept stannin' in the rain for a couple o' hours. And when we got up to the bus the conductor said, 'No more room for ony mair passengers.' 'But I've got my return ticket,' I says. "That's no affair o' mine,' says the boy. 'But you've got to tak' us back to Edinburgh or I'll sue the company,' said I." "You should na have said that, John, it just angered the man." 'What do you expect us to do?' says I. 'Stand here a' nicht in the rain.' 'It's no affair o' mine,' he says. 'What I'd advise you to do is to try to find accommodation here for the night and return to Edinburgh in the morning.' Did ye ever hear the like o' that? And this as on a trup, mind you. We cam on as far as Lockerbie and had to change, and waited in the station for anither two whole hours. And when we do get on the train at last, what happens? I have to pey the dam difference. This trup has cost me aboot four pounds and a' that I've got to show for it is a couple o' bus return tickets that I canna use and I winna get a refund on. A trup! Ma Goad! Next time I get a chance to go on a trup I'll do what the Scotsman did when somebody asked him if he was takin' a holiday this year—I'll stop at hame and let my mind wander. A trup!"

Then he laughed heartily at the tale of his misadventures. So did his wife. So did the rest of us. "It's a' that man Hitler's faut," he said. "Never mind, we're winnin' the war onywey." "And you've got a couple of bus return tickets to show for your trup," said his wife.

Then our stout friend began to laugh again.

"What's the joke now?" asked his wife.

"I was just thinkin' that if I had refused to pey the difference and gi'e my name and address, I might have landed in the jail."

"That would have been the crowner," laughed his wife.

"Weel, onywey it would have been the perfect trup."

Then we all settled back and snoozed and "fugged" it till we reached Edinburgh.

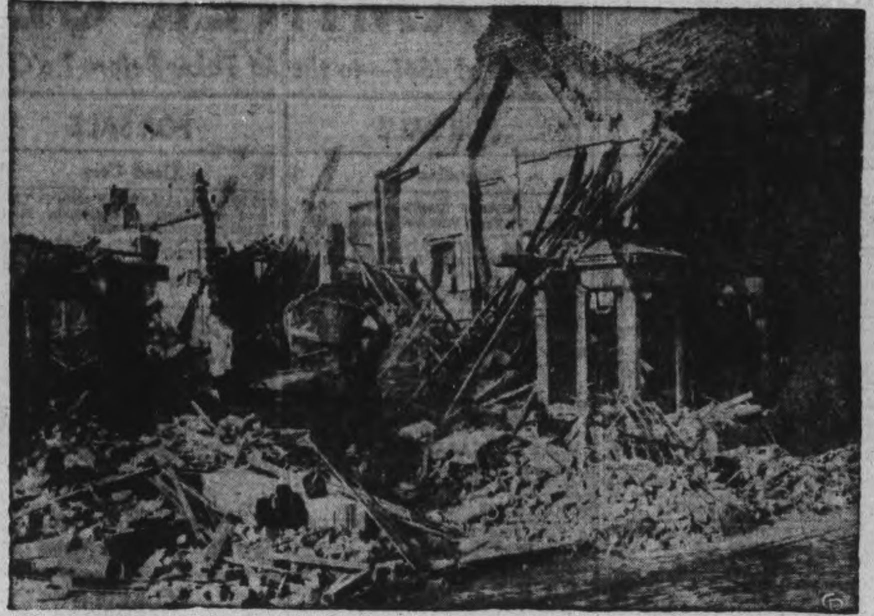
London Suffers "Propaganda" Raid For Goebbels



Wreckage is being cleared from the ruins of a London home following a 'propaganda' raid by Nazi planes on the night of October 9. The hit-run attack by a few of Marshal Goering's fighter-bombers was without military significance but for the sole purpose of making "good reading" for Propaganda Minister Goebbels' subscribers.

Soldiers Vote Unknown Last Election Says Officials

TORONTO, Oct. 23, (CP). —Ontario election officials yesterday said they still are unable to announce the proxy vote on behalf of residents of the province who were serving in the armed forces outside Ontario during the Aug. 4 election.

Official figures for 89 of the 90 constituencies were released to-day and they include the total vote—civilian, proxy and the Ontario military camp vote — with the returns from the camps segregated. The missing constituency is Toronto Beaches, final returns of which are being contested in the courts.

Official figures show the total vote for 89 constituencies to be 1,301,608 compared with 1,571,133 for the 90 ridings in the 1937 election. Unofficial figures show 15,831 votes cast in Beaches last Aug. 4.

The Progressive Conservatives polled 462,746 votes, the C.C.F. 413,623 and the Liberals 395,832. The segregated vote from Ontario military camps shows 11,736 for the C.C.F., 9,443 for the Progressive Conservatives and 6,755 for the Liberals. The remainder of a total of 28,528 camp votes were scattered among Labor and various Independent candidates with straight Labor representatives receiving 223.

C. F. Bulmer, clerk of the Crown in Chancery, gave no reason for the non-segregation of the military vote from outside the province. Prior to the election Maj. Alex Lewis, chief electoral officer, stated that segregation of the proxy vote probably would be impossible on election night but would be available later.

Opposed Plan

When informed that the proxy vote figures were unavailable, Premier Drew said he always had been of the opinion that "the method adopted would not disclose the proxy vote."

While he was leader of the opposition, Col. Drew opposed the proxy method and stated Ontario residents on service outside the province should be allowed to cast regular ballots.

"That was one of my objections to the system," he said. "It meant the vote of the men on active service outside Ontario would not be known."

It was unofficially reported that some returning officers put the proxy vote forms in the election boxes with the poll books and other election material, sealed them and returned the boxes to the chief electoral officer, except by court order and it appears probable the complete proxy vote will not be known unless the missing forms are retrieved when the boxes and legally opened one year after the election and their contents burned.

Hamilton Man Held For Murder

HAMILTON, Oct. 23 — (CP). — Joseph J. Kennedy, 51, Hamilton, candy maker, was committed for trial by Magistrate H. A. Burbidge yesterday on a charge of murdering Mrs. Betty Edwards, a neighbor and 22-year-old mother of two children and wife of an airman, in her home on Thanksgiving night.

After he had been arraigned, there was no question of the accused electing trial here or of entering any plea.

Detective Sergt. Stanley Gaylard the first witness called told of being sent to the Grove Avenue address where the body of Mrs. Edwards had been found following a series of small fires in the dwelling on the night of October 11.

He told of the arrest of Kennedy on a vagrancy charge following the finding of a blood-stained sweater owned by the accused and found in his bedroom on the night of the murder. Kennedy, he stated, was not apprehended until the evening following the murder. The accused subsequently made a statement to the police and this along with the sweater was filed as an exhibit, but its contents were not disclosed.

British Carrier In Pacific With U.S. Fleet

WASHINGTON, Oct. 23— (AP).—Participation of a British aircraft carrier with the United States Pacific Fleet in operations against the Japanese was disclosed yesterday by the British Admiralty delegation.

The carrier, the 23,000-ton Victorious, completed since the start of the war, served with a Pacific Fleet task force for several months, covering the Coral Sea, South-west and Mid Pacific areas, and averaging 9,000 miles of sailing monthly.

This is the first time that combat operation of a major British ship in the Pacific theatre has been reported since the battleship Prince of Wales and the battle cruiser Repulse were sunk by Japanese planes north of Singapore early last year.

The announcement did not say whether the force with which the Victorious sailed ever actually succeeded in engaging the Japanese, but the enemy-dominated areas in which it operated strongly suggested the admiral in charge was out looking for trouble.

It was made clear that the principal benefit gained was not any destruction inflicted on the enemy, but a practical test of British and American tactics which will be valuable as British ships join the Pacific War in increasing numbers.

Remember When—

By The Canadian Press.

The Stanley Cup was still a challenge trophy and Montreal Victorias filed the first challenge of the season for the cup held by Ottawa Silver Seven 38 years ago to-day. Montreal Wanderers finally emerged champions.

Sports Day By Day

Ted Miller clashing with Long Joe Christie....Story from Ottawa quotes an army source as saying that the sports writers have been criticizing the movement of hockey players from their own districts to other parts of Canada to enlist....That of course is not the real complaint that the scribes have been voicing. What they have been trying to do is to protest against the privileges that it would seem are being handed out to star soldier hockey players, including the privilege of remaining at home to play hockey while other young fellows who are not good puck carriers or rugged defence players are shuttled off in overseas drafts. So far as this column is concerned just where a hockey player enlists is immaterial.... What should matter in the fifth year of the war is what happens to him after he enlists....Jack Adams admits that he has a fair club which should mean that the Red Wings are looking decidedly strong at the present writing....It is expected that 12,000 would see the Hamilton Wildcat-R.C.A.F. Hurricane game at Hamilton today.

Don't Be Ignorant of Home Nursing Essentials

MAKING BED WITH PATIENT

At some time in our lives almost all of us go through the harrowing experience of having members of our families operated upon. It is after the patient returns from the hospital that your nursing duties begin. Especially in wartime it is necessary and even urgent that you should know the fundamentals of nursing because some wartime emergency might arise which would require your immediate knowledge to save a life.

Our 32-page booklet is helpful and instructive. In clear everyday language it gives the home nurse the important "do's." It tells how to manage practically everything from taking a temperature to changing an abdominal dressing.

No need to fret as to how to take care of a bed patient—it describes in detail how a graduate nurse takes care of a bed patient and the usual order of the daily routine.

This booklet is not only helpful in taking care of family ills but it also contains important information which might aid you should you come in contact with war casualties.

For your copy of WHAT YOU SHOULD KNOW ABOUT NURSING send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

BARCLAY ON BRIDGE

WRITTEN FOR THE EXAMINER

By SHEPARD BARCLAY

"The Authority on Authorities"

PROTECT ALL YOU CAN

YOU ARE not always able to guard yourself against all of the danger that may beset your contract, in the form of unpropitious distribution of the hidden cards. But the fine player protects himself against as many dangers as he can, just as the fine general or admiral disposes his forces with the same principle in mind. There are situations in which you are helpless if one defender has the outstanding trumps bunched against you, but in which you can defend the citadel if his partner has them. In such a case, play so as to thwart that partner if he holds the threatening force.

North: ♠ 7 6 2 ♥ K 9 6 5 ♦ A 6 ♣ 9 8 7 5

West: ♠ A K Q ♥ None ♦ 10 9 8 7 4 ♣ J 10 6 4 2

East: ♠ 10 9 8 4 ♥ J 10 3 2 ♦ 3 2 ♣ K Q 3

South: ♠ J 5 3 ♥ A Q 8 7 4 ♦ K Q J 5 ♣ A

(Dealer: West. East-West vulnerable.)

West	North	East	South
Pass	Pass	Pass	1 ♥
2 ♦	2 ♥	Pass	4 ♥

West naturally peeled off three spade tricks against this contract, then led the diamond 7. That gave South two chances to make a mistake. One would have been by winning that trick in the dummy with the A, and the other would have been following it up by scoring the first trump trick with the A or Q in the South hand.

The declarer, in this instance, however, knew his way about. He also knew that generally it was better tactics to take the first trump trick in the hand which held two of the three top honors. But he also recognized the specific situation which existed here. It was such that his contract was beatable only if West held all four trumps in the hands of the opposition. Against that he could not protect himself.

But he could guard himself against a bunch of four held by East, and that is exactly what he did. He took the diamond lead in his own hand, led to the heart K, and had East's trumps trapped then, as he could re-enter dummy with the diamond A for a second trump lead through East.

Your Week-End Lesson

Don't answer this one too quickly, just because it seems simple. What is it that makes a particular card by your partner either an "encouraging" or a "discouraging" signal?

"P.T" Streamlined By The R.C.A.F.

To condition men physically for combat flying and arduous ground crew duties the Royal Canadian Air Force has developed a new program of "Duty-Fitness" which almost completely eliminates monotonous "physical jerks." It is a program specially designed to develop in airmen the qualities of endurance, strength, co-ordination and burning desire to win. Considerable stress is placed on obstacle courses which include such hazard as crossing a stream on a tree trunk. This movement develops poise and balance. Done on the double it's harder than it looks. (R.C.A.F. Photo)

Five-Day Total Of $1,250,150 In Victory Loan

The employees canvass pushed its leadership in the Fifth Victory Loan campaign in Peterborough city and county into a long salient of accomplishment with 46.35 per cent of their objective as against the 27.77 per cent rekuired for the first five days of action.

That was the brilliant highlight of the summary of progress of the Loan announced at headquarters last night.

The employees' division of the local organization advanced their total from $312,350 or 32.88 per cent to $440,300 for 46.35 per cent of their objective of $950,000.

The second feature in this eventful week of helping the nation's financing of the war found North Monaghan out in front of the rural section of the county with 39.86 per cent, second only to the employees' canvass.

North Monaghan displaced Smith from the township and village leadership. Smith improved its percentage in the third position; Belmont-Methuen was fourth; special names committee fifth; city general canvass sixth, and Havelock was seventh.

The grand total for the five days was 27.18 per cent of the objective, only fractionally less than the required 27.77 per cent.

Such is a perspective of the response of Peterborough with one more subscribing day to count on for the completion of the first week of the public's co-operative effort in the doing of a big job that has two more weeks to go.

Total Is $1,250,150.

Total subscriptions up to last night amounted ao a million and a quarter dollars $(1,250,150 of the objective of $4,600,000.

The following summary for five days affords a glimpse of details of the result for five days, showing in order across the column amount of objective, amount of subscriptions, and percentage:

City general canvass .	$1,550,000	$333,500	21.52

City Canvass.

For the City of Peterborough general canvass, $333,500 has been secured to date, against an objective of $1,550,000, or 21.52 per cent. This represents a lot of real hard work on the part of the teams. The following is the standing of the various teams:

	Object.	% Obtd
G. Monkman	$50,000	66.40
C. J. Ray	32,000	36.00
K. S. Smylie	115,000	25.33
E. G. Pridham	60,000	24.25
C. Elliott	90,000	23.83
W. J. Hamilton	50,000	22.50
A. Sollitt	40,000	21.87
N. Hamley	38,000	15.10

In rural Peterborough the subscriptions havxe been a little slow in coming in, but they are starting to come in now.

Melville Johnston's team (North Monaghan, Otonabee, Asphodel, and Norwood) have turned in $47,-150, or 18.11 per cent of their objective of $260,000.

Harold Scott's team (Townships of Smith, Harvey, Burleigh, Anstruther, Chandos, and Lakefield), have turned in $48,050, or 24.02 per cent of their objective of $200,000.

Frank Paterson's team (Townships of Ennismore, Douro, Dummer, Belmont and Methuen, and Havelock) have turned in $21,150, or 14.10 per cent of their objective of $150,000.

North Monaghan has nosed out the Township of Smith to be in the lead with 39.86 per cent of their objective obtained, and Smith is now in second place with 36.95 per cent obtained. Next, Belmont and Methuen with 25.60 per cent and Havelock with 20.66 per cent. The other townships are a little slow, and the Loan Committee is making a special appeal to the citizens of Asphodel, Ennismore, Douro, and Dummer, to dig a little deeper when the salesmen come around.

Canadian Units Resting Along Adriatic

By LOUIS V. HUNTER
Canadian Press War Correspondent

WITH THE CANADIAN FORCES IN ITALY, Oct. 21 — (Delayed). — (CP Cable). — Two companies of a Maritime Regiment, now commanded by a Toronto lieutenant-colonel, have captured the seventh town yielded by the Germans to advancing Canadians since an important hilltop town was taken a week ago.

After this capture the Canadians, with other 8th Army troops, are enjoying a so-called rest period before the next stage of their advance.

This seventh town was taken without much infantry opposition, although the attackers were shelled and mortared heavily during and after the assault. The town, in the foothills of rugged, snow-topped mountains towering 5,000 to 6,000 feet, was under Allied artillery fire for two days before the capture.

The Canadians now hold strong positions on a range of hills overlooking a valley and the wooded slopes on the far side of a river.

Good Tank Terrain.

On the southern flank of the Canadian front, the troops are in a position to advance over good tank country through a valley to a heavily bombed town on a 1,500-foot ridge.

The last stages of the attack on this seventh town were directed personally by the lieutenant-colonel. Earlier one platoon moved through the woods in front of the town under heavy mortar fire and the men were shelled after they entered at 7:15 a.m. by noon two other platoons, which earlier were pinned down by mortar fire, entered.

The Germans didn't remain behind in strength to oppose the Canadians but the Martimers managed to take five prisoners. The enemy withdrew to high ground beyond the town and spent the rest of the day lobbing mortar shells into it and occasionally shelling it with artillery.

Canadian mortars were in action, too, and from an excellent observation post in the new Canadian positions an enemy machine-gun and mortar post was seen wiped out by a direct hit. Allied guns were believed also to have knocked out an 88-millimetre battery.

On other sectors of the Canadian front there was only patrol activity.

For the first time in several days enemy planes were somewhat active over the Allied lines. Two Messerschmitt 109's were seen flying high, apparently on reconnaissance.

Allied aircraft, however, were active and were believed to have inflicted heavy casualties in an attack on the German-held area.

Plastic Toys Prominent In Santa's Bag

By JAMES McCOOK
Canadian Press Staff Writer.

OTTAWA, Oct. 23 — (CP). — Maybe Santa Claus will be humming "Waltzing Matilda" this year. Laden with metal toys in previous years, Santa this Yuletide will flit like a feather over the rooftops carrying wood toys, plastic toys, cardboard toys, fluffy toys, and a few dolls that cry.

The Prices Board said wood and plastic toys would be available in fair supply. There will be cotton toys, although supplies of cotton for this purpose are not limitless. There won't be toys like miniature tents — tent cloth is needed for other and more serious purposes.

Toy fashions decree that the boy who used to build the Tower of London from metal sets will build the same structure with materials of cardboard and wood. Even wagons and trains are being made of cardboard— stout cardboard, they say.

Being short of labor, the toymakers like the idea of children building their own toys, so up in Santa's workshop the production line is busy on pieces of this and that, and the intention is to leave the intriguing assembly to Johnny himself.

Battleships, tanks, jeeps, airplanes, and guns are being made of plastics and wood, and they will mow down Japanese and Nazi soldiers, sailors, and airmen made of cardboard placed on wooden stands.

REDS REDUCE CRIMEA ESCAPE ROUTE

By EDDY GILMORE—Associated Press Staff Writer

MOSCOW, Oct. 25 (AP)—The Nazis today threw in reinforcements of troops, planes, tanks and artillery and fought back violently in a desperate bid to stem the mighty Red Army offensive which threatened to pin them in a large sack in the Dnieper River bend as the Russians rolled on to within six miles of the iron and rail centre of Krivoi Rog.

The only way out of the sack is a 50-mile-wide gap from Krivoi Rog south-eastward to the Dnieper.

As the Soviet right flank pushed down upon Krivoi Rog and other powerful groups moved through the broken Zaporozhe - Melitopol line toward the Crimea, several highly-important cities were definitely outflanked and it appeared dubious that the Germans could hold them much longer.

Flank Power Centres.

These included Dnepropetrovsk and nearby Dneprodzerzhnisk, one-time centres of Soviet electric power, the Nikopol, where some of the finest manganese ore deposits in the Soviet Union are located.

There is only one way out of Dnepropetrovsk for the Germans and that is down a single-track railway to Nikolaev, through the bottleneck of Kosionovn, also in the Dnieper elbow.

The big Red Army break-through of the Zaporozhe-Melitopol line brought another threat to the almost encircled Germans in the Dnieper elbow. If the Russians can push on through the Askaniya steppe the exist from the bend would be threatened from two sides.

A Russian communique broadcast from Moscow announced the capture of Losovatka, six miles north of Krivoi Rog, and said another Soviet column, rushing on six miles southwest of Melitopol, had taken the railway station of Taschenak, on the railway to the Crimea.

The communique, recorded by the Soviet Monitor, also told of the capture of seven German strongpoints south of Rechitsa as Nazi counter-attacks failed to halt a Russian flanking drive on Gomel in White Russia.

More than 6,500 Germans were said to have been killed or routed between the Sea of Azov and Gomel and Nazi armament falling into the hands of the Russians included more than 71 tanks, 243 machine-guns and 52 guns as well as stores of ammunition and other equipment.

As Moscow reports said the Germans were getting panicky in the Crimea, where their garrison has been estimated at 100,000, the Paris radio said "the dangerous position of the German armies in southern Russia can only be retrieved if some artifcial defence line exists somewhere in the Nogaisk steppes."

Reports leaking out of Germany through neutral sources described last week as Hitler's blackest of the war and hinted at a critical situation on the German home front.

Dr. Jenny, a well-known Swiss journalist, wrote in the Basler National Zeitung that "in wide circles, it is concerned possible that Germany shall break within a few weeks as the German people have reached a dead point."

The power city of Dnepropetrovsk in the upper corner of the Dnieper River bend has been captured by the Red army, the Moscow radio said tonight. The nearby city of Dneproderzhinsk also was taken.

Victory Loan Running In High Gear

Third Of Objective Subscribed In First Week

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 — (CP). — Aimed at $1,200,000,000 Canada's Fifth Victory Loan went into its second week today with more than $400,000,000 on the books from six days of campaigning.

National headquarters announced last night that subscriptions from the first full week's canvass totalled $417,144,200 compared with $372,544,900 at the same stage of the fourth loan, which had an objective of $1,100,000,000. Total subscriptions this time amounted to 533,574, against 386,994 in the last loan.

Best day to date in the current drive was Saturday, with 107,174 subscriptions totalling $81,710,900 against 102,509 totalling $59,785,000 the same day of the fourth drive.

In a week-end statement, K. A. Henderson, chairman of the executive of the National War Finance Committee, described the 18 day campaign as "going quite well," but stressed that only by "continuous hard work" could ultimate success be achieved.

The drive was said officially to be ahead of the fourth campaign all along the line, with a "great" increase in payroll subscriptions coming through the headquarters recording system.

An official statement said the Loan's objective will be reached and perhaps passed if the pace set during the past week can be maintained for the next two weeks, both in the effort of the workers and the response of the public.

For the first week, the armed services reported a combined grand total of $17,040,400. Approximately 65 per cent. of their total for the whole of the fourth campaign. The Army reported subscriptions of $7,001,850, the R.C.A.F. $7,763,200 and the Navy 2,275,350.

Soldiers Do Well.

The week-end report said Sorel, Que., with 109.37 per cent. of its quota, was leading the larger cities and towns competing in the combined general canvass and payroll

Marshal Petain And Laval Hated In France Middle Class Refusing To Obey Orders

LONDON, Oct. 25—(CP).—From one of France's leading collaborationists—Marcel Deat—came the admission today that a great body of Frenchmen hates Chief-of-State Marshal Petain and Pierre Laval and refuses to obey their orders.

A broadcast by the German-controlled Paris radio quoted Deat's newspaper L'Oeuvre as saying:

"Corsica fell like a ripe plum into the hands of the Allies At all costs we must prevent the same thing happening in France.

"Just as in Corsica, the whole administration in France is riddled with men who hate Marshal Petain and Chief of Government Laval. The middle class, government officials and military caste—all refuse to obey the government's orders."

Oakes' Family Doctor Says De Marigny Hated Sir Harry

By E. V. W. JONES—Associated Press Staff Writer

NASSAU, Bahamas, Oct. 25—(AP).—Dr. William Yohaunan Sayad, West Palm Beach, Fla., eye, ear, nose and throat specialist, told a Bahamas Supreme Court jury today that Alfred de Marigny once threatened "to crock the head" of Sir Harry Oakes, with whose murder he is charged.

He was the first witness of the second week of De Marigny's trial on the charge that De Marigny hammered his millionaire father-in-law on head last July and left Sir Harry to die on a burning bed.

The physician said Nancy de Marigny, Alfred's wife and Sir Harry's elder daughter, entered Good Samaritan Hospital at West Palm Beach last spring for an operation and four days later De Marigny came to the hospital for the removal of his tonsils.

Upset after a conversation with Sir Harry, De Marigny moved from the room and cancelled his plans for the operation, Dr. Sayad continued.

Admonished Him.

"I will crock Sir Harry's head," he quoted the defendant.

"I admonished him," Dr. Sayad continued. "I told him he shouldn't make such remarks about his father-in-law."

Dr. Sayad testified the remark "was made in anger."

"What had Sir Harry told De Marigny?" asked Defence Counsel Godfrey Higgs on cross-examination.

"Sir Harry told him to get out of the room next to Nancy's at the hospital or he would kick him out."

Dr. Sayad said Nancy was upset by the clash between her family and her husband, and said she did not want to see them.

She told her nurse to admit no visitors, but Dr. Sayad said he "would not deny the family their visits."

De Marigny insisted, the physician said, that members of the Oakes family be kept from Nancy's room. Dr. Sayad said he and the defendant had words as a result.

Spoke In Anger.

"Are you absolutely positive that the accused said he would crock Sir Harry's head?" asked Higgs.

"Yes," replied the witness.

As Dr. Sayad left the stand, De Marigny was taken from his dock for a brief visit to the police station. The two men met at the door, and De Marigny patted the physician on the back. They shook hands.

Airman Held In Wife Murder

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(AP).—New York police said Wayne Lonergan, 26, R.C.A.F. airman, was detained by Toronto police today for them for questioning in connection with the bludgeon slaying of his pretty estranged wife, Patricia Burton Lonergan, 22, yesterday.

Police said Toronto officials notified them Lonergan was being detained and arrangements were made immediately to send a representative of the District Attorney's office to Toronto to question him.

Acting Deputy Inspector Patrick J. Kenny, working on the investigation, said "we are extremely anxious to question him."

"He has cuts and scratches on his face, we are told," the inspector added. Kenny said that "if Lonergan consents to come back he will be returned to New York immediately," but "if he fights extradition, we shall have to wait until the necessary papers and details are arranged."

Blood stains on the carpeted staircase leading from the third floor bedroom where the woman was slain, meanwhile, furnished a principal clue for investigators.

Fought Assailant.

"This new development indicated there was a battle royal in which Mrs. Lonergan fought desperately with her assailant," a detective said.

Meanwhile, Mario Enzo Gabelline, 43, interior decorator, of New York, who police said escorted Mrs. Lonergan to night clubs last Saturday night was booked as a material witness.

Assistant District Attorney John F. Loehr said that among those questioned was Jeanne Murphy, blond showgirl, who he said had an engagement yesterday afternoon with Mrs. Lonergan's husband.

Police said Miss Murphy, 22, told investigators she had been out with Lonergan Saturday night, attending a show, and that they separated after the performance. The actress said she had not seen the airman since 1 p.m. Sunday.

Mrs. Lonergan was found dead yesterday, lying face up in her bed, her arms raised above her head. A bloodstained and broken lamp was found on the floor nearby, and a matching lamp, also bloodstained, was found under the bed.

The body was discovered by Capt. Peter Elser, marine stationed at Parris Island, S.C., and former Harvard football star, who, police said, had a dinner appointment with Mrs. Lonergan last night.

Police said Mrs. Lonergan eloped in August, 1941, with Lonergan and that they were married in Las Vegas, Nev.

S.O.S. Heard Believed From Bomber

Bad Weather Prevents View Of Ground

ANCIENNE LORETTE, Oct. 25 —(CP).— A faint SOS believed to come from one of the portable radio transmitters carried by the missing R.C.A.F. Liberator was picked up at 8:50 a.m. by a plane searching in the area 25 miles northwest of Grandmere on the Mattawin River, a tributary of the St. Maurice.

The plane, one of a fleet of searching craft that scoured the northern Quebec area in bright sunlight this morning after being grounded by bad weather since the search began six days ago, wheeled about the area of the signal for several minutes before it headed back to report the encouraging news to the station here, about 10 miles west of Quebec.

Ceiling Low

The crew saw no sign of the missing craft or its 24 passengers. However, other planes combing the same area, have yet to report to the interrogation room here. Meanwhile this signal report has spurred the searchers and planes are converging on the spot from various parts of Eastern Canada.

The plane which picked up the signal was piloted by Sgt. Lloyd Eccles of Toronto and both he and Sgt. Robert Young, Montreal, his wireless operator heard the regular beat of the SOS for some period. Other crewmen of the plane were LAC. John McCann, Windsor, Ont., and LAC. Stan Webb, Montreal.

The location of the signal indicated that the report of a heavy-motored plane being heard off the beam from Mont Joli on a course over the wild mountainous National Park area may have been well founded.

"When we first heard the signal," Sgt. Young said, "it was fairly strong; however, it later became weak and this might have been because their battery on the "Gibson Girl" was running low. (The Gibson Girl is the airmen's name for the portable transmitter).

"A patch of low ceiling in this particular area," Young added, "kept us pretty high in the air and we really couldn't make a very close inspection of the ground."

Until the SOS was picked up, the twisted tangle of mountain peaks, deep ravines and lake-dotted plateaus that make up the wild fastness of Northern Quebec held its secret of the missing Liberator. The passengers of the plane had rations for only three days and automatic positional bearing devises when they left an East Coast Canadian port for Montreal Tuesday.

"The "Gibson Girl" is also equipped to send manual signals and another search crew has landed and reported hearing a weak commercial SOS signal in the same vicinity. This plane was piloted by Capt. Al Parks, a Canadian Pacific Airlines civilian pilot. Sgt. Don Schurr of St. Caharines, Ont., the wireless operator on the plane, heard the signal. Others in the

Plan To Launch Corvette "Peterborough" At Kingston, Sometime In November

The corvette Peterborough will be launched at the Kingston shipbuilding yards sometime in November, it was announced today by the secretary of Hon. Angus Macdonald, Minister of Naval Affairs, in a telephone conversation to Gordon K. Fraser, M.P. The Peterborough citizens' committee in charge of looking after the corvette has been making plans for some months now securing the various articles to be placed on the boat. The launching, it is expected, will as usual be in charge of the shipbuilder who makes his own plans for the affair. However, it is possible someone from Peterborough will christen the corvette.

Devastating Assault Plan All Ready For Invasion

By ROSS MUNRO—Canadian Press War Correspondent

SOMEWHERE IN ENGLAND, Oct. 25—(CP Cable).—Devastating technique for an assault from the sea against a strongly-defended coast was used during manoeuvres here on the British coast by the Royal Navy and a Canadian Army formation.

By concentrated fire from warships, breaches were blasted through beach defences to give the infantry a path to gain the initial bridgehead.

This method, like hurling "blockbusters" from the sea, is an improved development of the combined-operations attack of the past year. It is designed to give assault infantry a much better opportunity of getting ashore and becoming established without heavy losses on a beach, storming machine-gun posts, gun emplacements, concrete walls and forts.

Details or weapons used are still secret, but this combined operation is a long step forward even from the Sicilian and Italian landings.

Problem Solved.

I watched these manoeuvres with the Army and Navy force and in these new advances combined operations seems to be the impressive answer to the problem of overcoming a fortified coast like sections of northwest Europe.

This system of blasting from the sea is possibly the method the Allies would use against Germany's "Atlantic wall." There are a number of angles still to be smoothed out, but much progress has been made since the Canadian Sicilian force trained in coastal assault in Britain last June before going to the Mediterranean.

A considerable naval force was massed at various ports and put to sea carrying a Canadian coastal assault formation which had been training in combined operations for months.

Several hundred ships—destroyers, landing barges, assault craft and infantry landing ships with escorts of gunboats and motor launches—were engaged in this manoeuvre which was the first large-scale test of sea-going blockbusting. Thousands of Canadian troops were involved.

Expect Small Losses.

The assault force descended on the beach in broad daylight with the sun glittering on the craft spread out over the bay. Numerous pillboxes and strong points had been placed on the beach to represent enemy positions, and a maze of wire, concrete and steel defences stretched across it.

On actual operations it would have been a formidable target. But with the tremendous support given the infantry they could have gained the beach and won a foothold without too serious losses.

The bombardment just about lifted the beach into the air. More than a mile of this coastal strip was plastered with bursting high-explosive shells and other deadly ammu-

Chetniks Battle Partisan Army

LONDON, Oct. 25 — (CP). — Rival Yugoslav forces of General Josip (Tito) Broz and General Draja Mihailovhic have clashed in a bitter battle in the hills of Montenegro, Tito's Free Yugoslav radio announced today as his Partisans continued to engage the Germans in other part of war-torn Yugoslavia.

The fighting between Tito's Partisan's and the forces of King Peter's War Minister was said to be particularly heavy in the Matesevo and Mont Cakor areas where, the radio declared, Mihailovic's Chetniks had joined the Germans.

An earlier communique, which announced the Partisans had stormed two German strongholds in Western Bosnia and captured 2,000 Nazi officers and men, said the Nazis and Chetniks were attacking "without success" at Matesevo and "so far they have lost 300 killed.

Tito repeatedly has accused Mihailovic of aiding the Germans.

WASHINGTON — A Japanese bomber operating in the vicinity of American positions on Attu Island in the Aleutians was attacked by a Navy patrol bomber and probably damaged yesterday the Navy Department reported today.

60 Fighters Oppose Bomber Fleet

Widespread Raids Lay Waste To Austrian Cities

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ALGIERS, Oct. 25 — (CP). — The Germans stepped up their air defence by throwing at least 60 fighters against the Allied attackers, consisting of American four-engined bombers which made the stab into Southern Austria over the week-end. They encountered bad weather and could not report an accurate observation of results.

Medium United States planes, sweeping over the Adriatic for a second surprise attack, carried out the mission to Tirana and destroyed a number of grounded aircraft. Fighters had skimmed low over the same target with cannon and machine-guns working over the troops, hangars, workshops and vehicles on the field. A Junkers-52 transport coming in to land was picked off by one fighter while 20 feet above the ground.

Australian Kitty bombers also streaked across the Adriatic and bombed landing craft on the Yugoslav coast, in the sheltered channel between Korcula Island and the mainland, and set a 2,000-ton ship smoking in Korcula harbor, north-west of Dubrovnik. A troop-laden launch also was set afire.

Lose 4 Planes.

The Allies lost four planes yesterday, having their major encounter with two-engined bombers over the Orvieto railroad bridge, 45 miles north of Rome, were met by 20 Messerschmitts. Five of the interceptors were shot down and the bridge blown up htmar fodafrthcs bridge was bombed.

Fifhter-bombers destroyed a locomotive by strafing near Cassino, north of Mount Massico, attacked two bridges near Gaeta and made a successful raid on Frosolone, 10 miles east of Isernia.

The viaduct at Terni, 40 miles north of Rome on the route to Florence, was also bombed.

A Headquarters communique said it was necessary to stress the fact that the 8th Army's offensive was not large-scale, but merely a "curtain-raiser."

Three mountains of 1,200, 1,700, and 2,200 feet dominate the river, he said, and behind them is another row of mountains even higher.

"It is necessary to take these mountains and the Germans are making every effort to hold on to them," he said.

The fighting along the entire front is now one of jockeying for vital positions from which to launch a terrific smash to break down Field-Marshal Albert Kesselring's

Bulgar Troops Turn To Balkans

ANKARA, Oct. 25—(AP)—Yugoslav reports to Turkey said today that Bulgaria, apparently yielding to German pressure for renforcements, was moving troops into Yugoslavia where guerilla forces are fighting Nazi occupation forces over a wide area.

The reinforcements, under the command of Gen. Nikolof, were reported to have taken up positions between Nis and Skolpje, on the Morava River in south-central Yugoslavia.

The Berlin radio said last week that Bulgarian regents Prince Cyril and Bogdan Philov had conferred with Hitler recently.

This presumably was another of Germany's numerous attempts to obtain greater assistance from her satellite partner.

Troops Scatter Striking Pickets

SHAWINIGAN FALLS, Quebec, Oct. 25 — (CP). — Troops from a nearby training camp made their way into plant 2 of the Aluminum Company of Canada this morning scattering a picket line with minor trouble and bringing relief to the handful of workers who had kept a pot-line hot since midnight on Saturday.

Several hundred soldiers took part.

Police had previously opened a way through picket lines and escorted into plant 1 workmen who had kept all pot-lines of the plant from "freezing" after a strike partially disrupted production at both plants. Three of the four lines in plant 2 had grown cold before help arrived, but the fourth was still in operation.

One Royal Canadian Mounted Police inspector and an army officer received minor injuries in a slight scuffle that preceded entry of troops into the plant. An unidentified man was arrested.

R. C. M. P. detachments from Montreal cleared pickets away from plant 1 last night, and the groups of workers made their way back to the pot-lines under police escort. There they joined workers who had started their shift at 4 p.m. Saturday and continued their work through the night and all day Sunday when the relieving shift failed to appear.

Moscow Conference Vitally Important

Great Battle Along Dnieper River May Result In German Debacle

By DEWITT MacKENZIE
Associated Press War Analyst

Russia continues to be the crucial theatre in the war, with vast issues of both war and peace at stake—the one along the bloody Dnieper front and the other in the tranquil atmosphere (we hope) of the conference table in Moscow.

These two momentous events may come to rank among the decisive developments of the world struggle. The titantic battle of the Dnieper is in that delicately-balanced stage where it could within a short time produce a German debacle. The politico-military parley among representatives of the big three—Britain, America and Russia — is dealing in the preliminary stages with problems which affect all mankind.

Because defeat of Hitler as quickly as possible means so much to us, the terrible conflict along the Dnieper may seem to be more important than the Moscow parley. I doubt whether it is, though. The Red offensive could bog down in the Autumn deluge and mud without damage to the Allied cause other than a delay in smashing the Hitlerites, whereas a failure of the big three conference to lay the foundations of full co-operation might be so disastrous as to precipitate another world conflict.

Remove Suspicion

The first task of Conferees Eden, Hull and Molotov is to remove the distrust and suspicion which have been plaguing the three major powers. Until that is done there can be little progress in settling such complicated problems as post-war boundaries and the political complexion of European Governments which now are in the melting pot.

It's logical to believe the battle of the Dnieper might influence the Moscow conference if the fighting should produce a sudden Nazi rout. Certainly the warmly-debated question of the "second front" would come up for review, since a great Nazi upset would be bound to revive the Russian demand for invasion of France in order to get Hitler between two fires and secure a quick killing.

Papers Launch Attack

MOSCOW, Oct. 25—(AP)—Diplomatic experts began today to set down in black and white the points agreed upon by representatives of Great Britain, the United States and Russia as the tri-partite conference on war and post-war problems moved into its seventh day.

The discussions proceeded amid growing signs in the Soviet press that the Russians considered a coalition of the three powers as necessary for future world peace, the plain-spoken publication "War and the Working Class" asserting "a combination of any two of them should not stand alone."

The nature of the documents to be drafted by the experts was not disclosed, but it was learned that Foreign Secretary Anthony Eden, United States State Secretary Cordell Hull and Soviet Foreign Commissar Vyacheslav Molotov already had begun deliberating on particular issues after having agreed in principle on some of the general questions.

"War and the Working Class," said the conference would have to overcome difficulties "which are not minor," but "will fulfill its important mission of breaking down the enemy's calculations for prolonging the war."

Asserting that this was the "first real problem," the magazine added its conviction that the post-war "unity of these three powers which head the anti-Hitlerite coalition is necessary and it should become the centre around which people striving for solid peace should unite."

Prisoners Reach Scotland

50 Canadians Back After 3 Years

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(CP).—Several thousand repatriated war prisoners, mostly Britons but including some Canadians and a handful of Australians and Americans, returning to Britain for the first time in three years came ashore at Leith, Scotland, to-day from the liners Empress of Russia and Drottningholm, welcomed by bright and lively music.

The first man to step ashore was a padre. His right sleeve was empty and as he came gravely up the gang plank his left arm rose and fell in smart salute to a woman provost.

The faces of those returning were thin and white, but as they filed across the gangway their expressions brightened and they smiled as thundering cheers were raised by those ashore. One enlisted man marched with a double bass violin on his back.

The third exchange ship, the Atlantis, was due at a port in North-west Britain to-night.

All three ships carry some civilian personnel in addition to the wounded and sick veterans.

Railway Men May Strike

350,000 Demand Revision Of Rules

CHICAGO, Oct. 25.—(AP).—The question of a strike vote among 350,000 railroad workers in the United States was broadened to-day to include possible action to force revision of working rules under an announcement by the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen.

The Trainmen's president, A. F. Whitney, said last night his union would include upon its strike ballot a request for authority to seek wide revision of certain working rules. It was not known whether the other rail unions would join the Trainmen in these demands.

Whitney was here for a meeting of the five Brotherhoods at which plans for a country-wide strike ballot over the question of wage increases were adopted. The unions have rejected a four cent an hour boost with a minimum increase of $3 per day.

A spokesman who declined to permit use of his name said yesterday's discussion centred about the form of the ballot to be used, and added that results would not be known for 20 or 30 days. After that, he said, the next move would be up to the government.

By WES GALLAGHER

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN ALGIERS, Oct. 25—(CP)—Violent mountain battles flared on the 5th Army front in Italy today as the result of an Allied drive of three miles that took the vital rail and road junction of Sparanise, 13 miles from the western coast.

The advance of the 5th Army placed British and United States troops north of the stoutly-defended Regia defence canal leading to the sea and imperilled the position of the Nazi troops in that area.

"If they don't get out they will be caught in a pocket," a military commentator said.

The Germans launched several counter-attacks in an effort to relieve their position but, in the words of the commentator, they were driven off with "a bloody nose."

The tempo of the war in the sea and air stiffened as heavy bombers blasted Southern Austria and raided the airfield at Tirana, Albania, for the second time.

The shelling and blasting lifted inland as the infantry-carrying craft with western Canada troops leading touched down.

Engineers rushed ashore with heavy charges to blow large holes in concrete walls through which infantry, tanks and other vehicles passed.

The widow arrived from the United States Saturday to testify against her son-in-law. Nancy was at the airport to meet her, but Lady Oakes left by a side door without knowing her daughter was in the waiting-room.

Capt. E. W. Melchen, an American detective called to Nassau by the Duke of Windsor, testified today he found singed and curled hairs on Alfred de Marigny's hands, arms and face the night after Sir Harry Oakes was beaten to death by an attacker who apparently tried to hide the crime by starting a fire. Capt. Melchen of the Miami police told his story to a supreme court jury which is trying de Marigny for the murder of his father-in-law.

Melchen said the accused man offered several different explanations of the burned hairs.

De Marigny was in good spirits as he listened to the testimony of the officer, who was summoned to Nassau almost as soon as the crime was discovered.

Melchen, repeating testimony he gave at a preliminary hearing during the summer, said de Marigny was unable to produce the shirt he told of wearing on the night of the slaying. He added the defendant's other clothing, when shown to police, "was well pressed, unwrinkled and the crease in the trousers was unmarred."

Believe Plane Down In North Quebec

By JACK BRAYLEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

ANCIENNE LORETTE, Quebec, Oct. 25 — (CP). — The twisted tangle of mountain peaks, deep ravines and lake-dotted plateaus that make up the wild fastness of Northern Quebec today held its secret of a missing R.C.A.F. Liberator with 24 men aboard. They had rations for only three days and automatic positional bearing devices when they left an East Coast Canadian port for Montreal Tuesday.

Equipped with new evidence of the course of a big plane which apparently took a wide off-beam loop through the wild north country area lying roughly in the triangle from Saguenay mouth Lake St. John and Quebec City, grimly-intent searching pilots are winging over that treacherous land again this morning.

Snow Interferes

Little searching activity was carried on from this focal point of the hunt yesterday when a low ceiling grounded all but a few of the planes, but on Saturday afternoon a big area was covered as patchy weather rolled back the clouds long enough to show tree-skimming airmen that the dreaded snow had reached the peaks before them.

It also revealed that ice formations were building up around the edge of the hundreds of lakes in this area. And this too was a cheerless sign for search directors are considering the possibility of flying in an amphibian plane if the missing Liberator is found, as expected, in an isolated spot. However, if the freezeup becomes general before the plane is located these lakes will become unsuitable for water landings.

Nearly 100 forest rangers in the Laurentian National Park, where most pilots think the plane will be found, are on constant patrol for signs of the missing craft and they are distributing word of its disappearance to more than 1,500 woodsmen, carrying out logging operations in this area. Meanwhile army, navy and police are giving full co-operation while aircraft from Bagotville, Mont Joli, Ottawa and the Royal Air Force Transport Command station at Dorval are participating in this biggest air hunt in Canadian history.

Tankers Collide 88 Sailors Die In Wreck

PALM BEACH, Fla., Oct. 25 (AP) —Two blacked-out tankers collided off the Florida coast in the darkness Wednesday night and 88 men died in the flames which spread from the explosion of one of the vessels laden with thousands of gallons of aviation gasoline.

The Navy Department permitted announcement of the disaster Saturday after investigating salvage possibilities.

Twenty-eight merchant crewmen and members of navy gun crews were saved, most of them leaping overboard as the flames whipped over the decks and spread out over the water.

Persons ashore heard the explosion and saw the towering flames, and gave the alarm which sent Coast Guard craft racing to the scene.

One of the ships, northbound and riding low in the water with the weight of gasoline, had 43 crewmen aboard, including seven naval gunners. Only seven men survived.

The other tanker, southbound in ballast, was manned by a crew of 73, including 25 gunners, and 21 reached safety.

Most of those on deck died instantly.

Christopher P. Finely, 28, of Miami, third assistant engineer aboard the empty tanker, was at his post at the time of the crash at 10.50 p.m.

"I knew something terrible had happened," he declared, "but every hand in the engine room stayed at his post, and that saved a lot of lives.

Allies Start Aerial Squeeze Against Axis Cities From Italy And Britain

LONDON, Oct. 25—(CP).—R.A.F. Mosquitoes bombed targets in the Ruhr and Rhineland last night, it was announced today as the Berlin radio hinted at the start of a crunching two-way Allied aerial squeeze on Germany by declaring that United States four-engined bombers based in Italy had attacked southern Germany, Austria and Hungary yesterday.

A brief Air Ministry communique announcing the R.A.F. raids gave no details of the overnight operations, which also included mine-laying in enemy waters. All planes were said to have returned safely.

The American attacks yesterday reported by the Berlin radio apparently were on a heavy scale.

Wolves Harass Sheep Flocks

LINDSAY, Oct. 25—(ENS)—Investigating a complaint that hunters were killing sheep in Sommerville township near Norland yesterday, Provincial Constable W. McBrien of Lindsay discovered that the animals had been killed by wolves. Six sheep were found with their throats torn open and one bleeding so badly that it had to be shot. Other animals of the flock belonging to Russell Brohm are missing. It is believed that they were dragged into the woods by the wolves.

The pack of wolves is believed to be one that was causing trouble in Lexton township. The sheep were evidently killed for the mere love of slaughter by the wolves and farmers in the district are taking precautions with their stock owing to the scarcity of shells it is not likely that a wolf hunt will be organized as farmers state that they are allowed only from five to ten shells in order to keep their property free of crop destroying birds and animals.

Canadian Army In Tough Duel

LONDON, Oct. 25.—(CP Cable.) —Canadian troops in Italy have engaged the Germans in the area between Alife and Venafro, the United Nations radio at Algiers said Saturday in a broadcast recorded by Reuters News Agency.

Reuters correspondent at Allied Headquarters in Algiers cabled that Canadian troops have opened a "tough duel" for possession of commanding heights "on a part of the front which is still an official secret."

Venafor is 20 miles northwest of Piedimonte along the upper reaches of the Volturno river and Alife also is in the Volturno Valley area. Alife was captured earlier this week.

"Battling over the roughest ground and against the most formidable German formations, the Canadians are making progress in this very important sector," said Stanley Burch, the Reuters correspondent.

He added the capture of the heights may soon allow the story of "their long, fierce, unadvertised struggle" to be told.

"Meanwhile it can only be reported that they are living up to the Alamein tradition" of the 8th Army.

John O'Sullivan Is Killed Auto Accident

CAMPBELLFORD Oct. 25. — (ENS).—An automobile accident on No. 30 Highway at 12.15 this morning claimed the life of Councillor John O'Sullivan, 78, and sent three other passengers to the hospital. At the time of the accident Mr. O'Sullivan was a passenger in the front seat of a car driven by his cousin, George O'Sullivan, who received a lacerated chin and chest injuries, and is a grocer of this town. Miss Mae O'Sullivan who was sitting in the rear seat of the car, received injuries and a possible fracture of the left leg, while Mrs. George O'Sullivan, the only other occupant, received minor injuries and is being treated at the Campbellford hospital for shock.

The O'Sullivan car was proceeding north on the highway when it came in collision with a parked car owned by Harry Hoard of town, and operated by his son, Flight Sergeant Stewart Hoard, 21, of Hagersville. According to the story told by Sgt. Hoard, he had just completed changing the right rear tire of his car which was standing on the side of the road facing north. He had removed the jack and had placed it in the trunk at the back of the car when he saw the lights of the other vehicle approaching. "I had to jump out of the way otherwise I would have been pinned between the two cars," he said. The force of the impact shot Hoard's car ahead a dozen feet but caused no injury to its occupant, Miss Chrissie MacKenzie of Campbellford.

Following the accident Sgt. Hoard assisted in removing Mr. John O'Sullivan, the most seriously injured victim, from the O'Sullivan car and placed him in his own car to bring him to the hospital. They had proceeded less than a mile when Hoard's car ran out of gas. The impact had punctured the tank. A neighboring resident, Mr. Frank Brown, was summoned from bed and he brought Mr. O'Sullivan the remaining two miles to Campbellford, but on his arrival at the hospital he was dead. Provincial Constable D. G. Hayes is conducting the investigation of the accident.

The sudden death of Mr. O'Sullivan removes from this town one of its finest citizens and a man who had served the corporation as a member of its council for upwards of twenty-five years. Though he had served on various committees of the council he will be best remembered for his work as chairman of the Road and Bridge committee, to which he gave many years of service with no reward other than his satisfaction of doing a good job. In his early days he was a lumberman with the Rathbun Company. He was a bachelor and a member of the Roman Catholic church. He is a cousin of Monsignor F. J. O'Sullivan of Peterborough.

He is a son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Dan O'Sullivan. Two brothers and a sister survive, Michael of Seymour Township, Dan of Toronto, and Mrs. [illegible] Coughlin of Toronto. Another brother, the Rev. Fr. Joseph O'Sullivan, of Wooller, died ten years ago.

Wm. Stephens Receives Award Of Merit

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25 (ENS) —William M. Stephens of Seymour township received the Agriculture Society's annual award of merit. The award was made at a director's meeting her on Friday evening when a post-fair report on finances was given by the secretary, G. G. Stephens.

Following their practice of each year giving recognition to a member whose contribution in the field of agriculture has been particularly meritorious, it was unanimously decided that the honor should this year go to Mr. Stephens, who is now one of the Society's oldest living members. In the absence of President Ward Archer, John Locke presided, and he gave the address which accompanied the presentation. In this he paid tribute to Mr. Stephens for his constant endeavour on behalf of the Society.

The report of Secretary G. G. Stephens indicated the Society was gaining in solvency as interest in the fair continued on the increase despite the war. His record indicated gate receipts of $895.95 were one hundred dollars above those of the preceding year. Only decrease in revenue was from concessions, as there were fewer of these than in former years, however, Mr. Stephens estimated that when annual memberships were paid the net income for 1943 would be up another hundred dollars. And with all prize money paid in full the Society could boast a bank balance of $900.00.

It was felt much thanks for this record year was due to the relentless and untiring effort of the president, Mr. Archer, whose energy had been largely responsible for the success both of the fair and of the street dance which preceded it. A motion of appreciation was soundly endorsed, and several voiced the feeling that he should continue as president for a second term.

Millbrook Native Passes At London

LONDON, Ont., Oct. 25—(CP).—Prof. John W. Russell, M.A., for 20 years head of the Department of Geology at the University of Western Ontario before his retirement in 1940, died suddenly Saturday at his home, 230 Sherwood Avenue.

He had the unique experience of being appointed to the faculty through the recommendation of a former pupil, Dr. W. Sherwood Fox, who had as one of his first duties after becoming dean in 1919, the recommending of a professor to head the geology department. Prof. Russell was appointed to Western because of his profound knowledge of Northern Ontario. Prof. Russell was born in December, 1870, at Millbrook, Ont. He was a graduate of McMaster College when it was part of the University of Toronto in 1895.

Prof. Russell leaves three sons, who all followed their father's interest in mathematics and geology in their own careers. They are Donald of Cobalt, who is engaged in mining; Max, teacher of mathematics at Toronto Central Technical School, and Bruce, a graduate of the University of Western Ontario, of Pickering, who is an engineer.

Continuing National Registration

The suggestion has been made — though its prime source is not clear— that after the war we should all continue to carry our national registration cards as a means of identification. Some newspapers have opposed the idea; others are for it.

We cannot see any really good reason for the scheme. The excuse that it would provide an easy means of identification does not hold water. It would be quite easy to steal another registration card, or forge one. The present cards could be run off by the thousand by any job-printer. The best way to identify a man in a bank or elsewhere is to get someone who knows him to testify, or else ask him to produce letters or personal documents which only he would be likely to have. The possession of a card would merely simplify matters for crooks.

Life has been complicated with too many papers already. Consider the birth certificate nuisance. How often we are asked for birth certificates, merely as a matter of verifying our age, and possibly our legitimacy! Coming down to cases, how often does it really matter whether a man is the age which he himself chooses to give, or a few years older or younger? Usually it is a matter of concern only when someone who is too young for a job wants to get it; and in such cases employers could use their common sense just as easily as they can ask for a birth certificate.

In the Registration Card suggestion we see nothing but another scheme for annoying and badgering the public about something which is of no conseqence. When the police have to identify a man they have excellent means of doing so, and they would put little faith in a card which might be stolen or forged. Otherwise, the things have no value. Let us not put ourselves in the position of the Germans, who for ten years have been forced to carry wads of paper about with them in order to prove their right to live.

An Actor And a Patriot

Actors are usually men of strong emotions, and they sometimes respond to circumstances in violent and unpredictable ways. In times of war actors often do strange things and sometimes heroic things. We hear that the great French actor, Raimu, has been killed by the Germans because of his activities in the underground anti-Nazi movement in Paris.

The loss to the artistic world is serious, for Raimu was one of the great actors of our time. His work was known on this continent through the moving-pictures only, but who will ever forget his great performance as the perplexed baker in La Femme du Boulanger? He was a great comedian, for comedy rose from the depths of his soul and expressed itself in every gesture of hand and eyebrow; he never grimaced or fell on the seat of his pants to get a laugh; Raimu could draw laughter with a glance. He was a great film star, and a great actor in the legitimate theatre as well; by his death the Comedie Francaise loses one of its chief ornaments.

And Raimu died as a patriot. Who could doubt that he was a humanist, a lover of freedom, watching his performances? What Rabelais and Montaigne were in literature, Raimu was in the art of acting. In some sense he was the successor to Coquelin, and like Coquelin he loved France and stood by her in her hour of need.

How different is Maurice Chevalier, also familiar to us through the films, who is now a "collaborationist", and works as hard as ever entertaining his friends the Nazis. Chevalier, brilliant as he is, has never been a great actor. Raimu was a great actor and a great man too; when times were good he lived and practised his art for the glory of France and when the hour came he died for her.

Education For Government

The report that Sir Michael Sadler is dead at the age of 82 recalls that he was one of the few men of our time who was prepared to set forward and defend the idea that government, business and administration of all kinds demanded an "elite", carefully educated for the job. The mention of such an idea nowadays brings cries of "Fascist!" but Michael Sadler was anything but a Fascist; he was a man of broad and comprehensive mind, a convinced Quaker, and one of the foremost educationists of his day; he was a democrat, but he did not admire democracy in its looser and more untidy manifestations. In particular he did not admire the idea that the highest offices in the state should be open to anyone who could get them, by hook or crook. The art of government, he was sure, was safest in the hands of those who were educated to know what power was, what political ethics were, and what history was.

Can anyone successfully contradict him? If Neville Chamberlain had had a better education, would he have been deceived by Munich? History and political ethics would have helped him there. If Ramsay Macdonald had had a better education, would he have proved a broken reed to the Labour cause? Some knowledge of the nature of power, and of history, might have saved him. Lord Baldwin certainly knew history, and had tasted power, but his political ethics were not of the Sadler standard.

Sir Michael was also opposed to the modern custom of sending everybody to the university who could scrape up the entrance fees. "Excessive numbers of students dilute the influence of great teachers", said he. And, he might have added, they create a demand for teachers which is too often satisfied with inferior men.

Sir Michael was something of a stoic in his attitude toward education; in a world where so many educators are debauched eclectics we can ill spare him.

A Letter Of Thanks

We publish elsewhere on this page a letter from Mrs. C. L. Gooding of London, England, who wishes to thank the people in Peterborough who showed kindness toward her son, Bernard H. Gooding of the R.A.F., when he was stationed at Trenton. He is now dead, having been killed in bombing operations over enemy territory on April 6; he is buried in northern France.

In these times when many young men and women are far from their homes hospitality takes on a special importance. "He who offers me meat wishes me to live", says an old Scots proverb; kindness, and recognition of the brotherhood of all who fight for our cause, are more important than the actual entertainment offered. We are sure that the people in this city who welcomed the young man from the R.A.F. to their homes did so because they liked him, and wished him well; now that he is dead they will be thankful that they did not neglect their chance to show themselves friendly. Kindness of the sort which Mrs. Gooding describes in her letter makes many friends, and is the best sort of cement for holding the nations of goodwill together.

Admiral Sir Dudley Pound

The whole Empire, we feel, will unite in sorrow for the death of Admiral Sir Dudley Pound. In the present war the Royal Navy has had a difficult part to play, and it has had to sustain many severe losses; it has also added some glorious victories to its long roll of honour. The strain upon the Admiral of the Fleet in such a conflict cannot be conceived by those who have had no part of it. Sir Dudley Pound was only sixty-six, and might reasonably have expected another decade of useful and enjoyable life; but he wore himself out in the service of the Allied cause; literally, he worked himself to death.

He was a grand fighter. His strategy was aggressive, and he sought the enemy out and made him fight whenever and wherever it was possible to do so. Often that meant heavy loss in men and ships for the Navy; but often it meant victory and strategic gain for us. His dashing strategy drove the Italian navy into port and kept it there; his drive against the U-boat almost drove that menace from the seas. Dudley Pound had the Nelson spirit; he was always eager for a fight.

He was a close friend and advisor of Mr. Churchill, and that lover of the sea and ships set great store by his Admiral. He worked unsparingly, seldom returning to his home or taking time for adequate rest. Vigorous as he was, four years of strenuous fighting took their toll; he was stricken when returning from the Quebec Conference; and he never recovered his former power.

He is succeeded by Admiral Sir Andrew Cunningham, a man of similar views and temperament, and we need have no fear that the Navy will be less aggressive under his care than it was when Dudley Pound directed its actions. But however great our trust in the new First Lord we cannot forget the one who is dead, and who died as surely for his country as if he had gone down with his own flagship.

Farming News and Views

By
HON. DUNCAN MARSHALL

THE trading in wheat futures on the Winnipeg grain exchange has been suspended and the Canadian Wheat Board is taking over all existing stocks of wheat and will pay farmers at price at country elevators which will be the equivalent of $1.25 per bushel for No. 1 Northern at Fort William. At the time this was done the price on the open market at Fort William, for No. 1 Northern, was $1.23½. We have heard a great deal about the "parity price" in wheat, at this time it would be $1.23. It must be kept in mind that this now places the government in the wheat trade and it is bound to be a holder of heavy stocks of wheat. This can scarcely be dangerous with the hunger for bread that is prevalent throughout the entire world.

It looks as though we on this continent would be facing a further meat shortage before next spring and that will result in the consumption of more bread. There is some complaint being made by those in the wheat trade about the action of the government, but this must be regarded as a war measure and made to curb speculation in what is one of our most important foodstuffs.

At the outbreak of the war the government fixed the Fort William price of wheat at 70c. In August of 1942 the government raised the price to 90c and now this further advance has been made to $1.25. The price in the United States and in other countries seems to fully justify this increase in price. The price of wheat now is estimated to have a purchasing power of slightly over 101 per cent of what it had in 1913-14, so it is above to that extent of what is called the "parity price."

Oats and barley are still open to trading on the exchange. It will be interesting to watch the trading in futures on these grains. There is a very keen demand for both oats and barley in the United States for pig feed, and as our production of them, in all Canada, greatly exceeds the home demand, it is to be expected that sales of them will be heavy. The United States authorities also state that their country will require 50 million bushels of feed wheat from Canada.

THE odd person from a College of Agriculture has taken up the condemnation of the plough. The claim I last saw was that continuous ploughing would produce a dust bowl. To prevent this we must, it is said, leave the trash on the top. That is an argument only used by the man who wants to use up the fertility of the soil, without adding to the humus content. That is the policy of the soil robber and farmers who live by the land know better than to follow any such plan. England has given an example of good farming to the world in the last few years. Before war began the British Minister of Agriculture, Sir R. H. Dorman-Smith, began a ploughing up policy. Old pastures, down for years, were ploughed and if a field was in grass for seven years the government paid a bonus of £2 per acre for ploughing it up. Now the British farmers are busy seeding their fields to grass and clovers and after a two year crop plough them up again returning humus to the soil through the rotting of the ploughed in sod. The British Minister of Agriculture expresses the opinion that in this way, and by the addition of commercial fertilizer, the fertility of British soil is not being depleted, but rather increased.

To grow food crops we not only need a supply of nitrogen, phosphates and potash, but we require this plant food to be made available to the growing crops, and this is best done through the action of soil bacteria on these plant foods. The best stimulant for soil bacteria is oxygen and one of the best methods of letting oxygen into the soil is by means of the plough.

The use of a plough best be left to the man who makes his living by the soil. He may have years of experience in soil cultivation. He knows the methods that have served him best in preparing a seed bed. Different soils require very different kinds of treatment. A stiff clay soil does not need to be treated as you would a sandy loam. Hard and fast rules to follow on every field on your farm cannot be made. There is no feature of farm work which requires greater study and the exercise of more judgment than the preparation of soil for planting crops. If you plough stiff clay land when it is wet you will make the field almost unworkable, but the plough is not to blame for that: it is the careless or stupid use of it, and it would be sheer foolishness to say, because of that, the plough must go. This is not the first time I have heard the plough consigned to oblivion. It happens every once in a while, usually promoted by some one who doesn't farm for a living. This time it is from a man down in Oklahoma. This southern state is mostly light land with a low rainfall, and a good deal of the State is used for cattle ranches. Corn does not do well in this State and oats are light in weight. Any plans of cultivation which would probably apply to this State would not be useful on heavier land or on farms in areas where there is a better climate for growing grain.

MR. GARDINER, Dominion Minister of Agriculture, is seeking a two year contract for bacon with the British Government. His purpose is to continue this so that when the war does end there will be one year's purchase of bacon ahead at the agreed price and farmers will have the minimum of adjustments to make. He announced that the Government was assuming the responsibility of maintaining a floor in farm prices so that farmers will not have to fear a sudden collapse. It is not likely the amount of bacon will be increased over last year as due to Eastern farming conditions it will be a considerable effort to repeat in the following twelve months what has been accomplished during the past year, when the hogs marketed were double the output of 1938. The production of cheese and eggs have been remarkable, and butter has substantially increased.

Some complaint is made that these agreements with Britain are not made earlier, but the British Ministry of Foods has a thousand things to do and all in a hurry, and its record in feeding armed troops is one that has caused all the world to wonder. Ontario's short crop this year may well give us cause to think of what a famine might do to us in the midst of this gigantic struggle. The only thing to do is to make the best of it and fight on as the armies are doing.

I NOTICE where a weekly newspaper is commenting on Mr. Gardiner's opinion that Western grain is better than that grown in this province. One has only to weigh a few bushels of Western oats to find them reaching 40, 42 and frequently 45 lbs. to the measured bushel, while 35 lbs. is quite heavy oats in this province, and some this year will not weigh 25 lbs. Barley and wheat also weigh heavier as a rule and so make better feed. In oats and barley this means less fibre and more meal. In Scotland a bushel of oats has to weigh 42 lbs. and only our Western oats will usually qualify in that class.

HOW TO TORTURE YOUR WIFE

Goethe in the Role of Prophet

FEBRUARY 21, 1827.—Dined with Goethe. He spoke much, and with admiration of Alexander von Humboldt, whose work on Cuba and Colombia he had begun to read, and whose views as to the project for making a passage through the Isthmus of Panama appeared to have a peculiar interest for him. "Humboldt," said Goethe, "has, with a great knowledge of his subject, given other points where, by making use of some streams which flow into the Gulf of Mexico, the end may be perhaps better attained than at Panama. All this is reserved for the future, and for an enterprising spirit. So much, however, is certain that, if they succeed in cutting such a canal that ships of any burden and size can be navigated through it from the Mexican Gulf to the Pacific Ocean, innumerable benefits would result to the whole human race, civilized and uncivilized. But I should wonder if the United States were to let an opportunity escape of getting such work into their own hands. It may be foreseen that this young state, with its decided predilection to the West, will, in thirty or forty years, have occupied and peopled the large tract of land beyond the Rocky Mountains. ....In such a case, it would not only be desirable, but almost necessary, that a more rapid communication should be maintained between the eastern and western shores of North America, both by merchant-ships and men-of-war than has hitherto been possible with the tedious, disagreeable, and expensive voyage around Cape Horn. I therefore repeat that it is absolutely indispensable for the United States, to effect a passage from the Mexican Gulf to the Pacific Ocean; and I am certain that they will do it."—From "Conversations of Goethe with Eckerman."

Our Enemy Coryza

According to a recent dispatch from England, the common cold is regarded there as a great enemy. We hope they don't think they are different over here. Certainly we never heard of anyone in this country who considered the ailment a friendly or beneficent one. It works its wasteful way in Canada the same as in Britain, and the season has once again arrived when coryza is king among the indispositions of man. Authoritative advertisements and sincere health authorities are busily warning us about colds and the measures we should take to avoid them. We read and we listen and we think we heed—and the first thing we know we've caught a cold.

Then the matter becomes less lightly regarded. Although one reads from time to time about new-fangled treatments for the old-fashioned cold, the minute it comes along there seems to be a tendency to revert to plasters and inhalants, pads and purges and bed. Not for a moment do we question the efficacy of the treatment; we have witnessed its working too often. What we would really like, however, is a magic pill to cure our cold overnight—some super-sulfa drug, some specific which will put this mean and treacherous ailment in its place. As it is today, the common cold causes time losses out of all proportion to its own actual seriousness, because of its potentialities for greater ills. And until the bright day dawns when colds are as easily cured as caught, we can but continue to guard against them to the best of our ability, submitting to treatment as soon as one raises its sniffling head. By so doing the sufferer's loss of working and leisure time may be substantially curtailed.—Kingston Whig-Standard.

Conversation

Conversation, then, in which the Socratics are the best models, should have these qualities. It should be easy and not in the least dogmatic; it should have the spice of wit. And the one who engages in conversation should not debar others from participating in it, as if he were entering upon a private monopoly; but, as in other things, so in a general conversation he should think it not unfair for each to have his turn....

The subjects of conversation are usually affairs of the home or politics or the practice of the professions and learning. Accordingly, if the talk begins to drift off to other channels, pains should be taken to bring it back again to the matter in hand—but with due consideration to the company present; for we are not all interested in the same things at all times or in the same degree. We must observe, too, how far the conversation is agreeable, so there should be a point at which to close it tactfully.—From "De Officiis," by Marcus Tullius Cicero.

Definite Pattern

We are beginning to see a definite pattern. We and our governments are in complete agreement that winning the war is the greatest humanitarian effort now possible. But we are starting from the basis that every human life that can be saved is something to the good. — Richard K. Law, British delegate to Anglo-American war refugee conference.

Embarrassment

....I got to telling of a talk I'd had with a coloured lawyer a few days before, remembering the sense I'd got from him of the restriction of Negro life, the feeling they had of being hedged in within the walls of a ghetto. He'd said it was worse for them now than it had ever been because they were better off. This war was the first time there had been anything like equal wages for them. In most jobs they were making as much as whites for the same work. More jobs were open to them than ever before. But when they wanted to spend their money they felt the restrictions. "Embarrassment" was the word the Negro lawyer had used.

As I told about it I couldn't help imagining myself in his shoes. Suppose the pair of us tonight were Negroes....Suppose we wanted to invest our savings in a house. It would cost us a fourth more than it would cost a white man. If we wanted to go to a movie or a dance hall nothing was open to us but the third-rate. "Embarrassment" was the word the Negro lawyer kept using. "Our lives are subject to continual embarrassment," he'd said. — From "Washington Evening," by John Dos Passos, in Harper's for October.

Valuable Co-operation

An observant citizen in Windsor offered the police information which led to the arrest of two escaped German prisoners. He overheard their conversation in a restaurant, recognized their German accent, remembered that he had read of Germans escaping from Port Colborne, put two and two together and acted promptly. Thus he was instrumental in rounding up the last two of five German prisoners who had escaped custody.

This is the sort of co-operation from the general public which is arpreciated by the police and the country at large. If everyone would be as active in showing a disposition to assist in law enforcement, there would be less crime, and fewer criminals roaming the countryside.

It was found that these two prisoners were dressed like farm workers and had on leather jackets and work pants. They evidently had secured these clothes after they escaped from Port Colborne. Evidently some other citizen was not as patriotic or observant as the Windsor man, and provided these prisoners with clothes—unless the garments were stolen by the culprits. At any rate they must have come in contact with many Canadians after their escape—and it is reasonable to suppose that they must have aroused some suspicions — but they got all the way to Windsor before they were detected.

This should be a lesson to all citizens to exercise their wits and their patriotism, by reporting their suspicions to the proper authorities—Chatham News.

$100 Hand-Painted Neckties!

A sales tax is a good remedy for inflation because it taxes spending. It is deflationary.

For the benefit of congressmen toying with the idea, their attention ought to be called to those $100 hand-painted neckties going like hot-cakes in Detroit.

Any man has a right to pay $100 apiece for his neckwear if he wants to, but a more suitable subject for taxation we never saw.

These are free-spending times, which is why inflation threatens and why a sales tax, in our estimation, should be part of the wartime tax structure.—Detroit News.

A Bible Message

And I saw as it were a sea of glass mingled with fire: and them that had gotten the victory over the beast, and over his image, and over his mark, and over the number of his name, stand on the sea of glass, having the harps of God. And they sing the song of Moses the servant of God, and the song of the Lamb, saying, Great and marvellous are thy works, Lord God Almighty; just and true are thy ways, thou King of saints. Who shall not fear thee, O Lord, and glorify thy name? for thou only art holy: for all nations shall come and worship before thee; for thy judgments are made manifest. (Rev. 15: 2-4.)

To him that overcometh will I grant to sit with me in my throne, even as I also overcame, and am set down with my Father in his throne. (Rev. 3: 6, 12, 21.)

Letter To The Editor

THANKS FOR KINDNESS

Editor Examiner:

Sir,—I wonder if you would please help me with the following? I want to thank all those very kind Canadians who were so good to my son, Bernard H. Gooding, R.A.F., when he was stationed at Trenton. I know they will be grieved to hear that he was killed while on bombing operations over enemy territory on April 16, and is buried with the members of his crew in N. France. He so often spoke of the great kindness of friends in Canada especially in Peterborough and Toronto, but as I have no addresses I cannot thank them personally.

If you would be good enough to print this letter in your paper I should be very very grateful.

Thanking you, I am, yours sincerely,

CARRIE L. GOODING.

Chelsea Team Defeats Crystal Palace

LONDON, Oct. 25—(CP Cable)—For a long time the "joke" team of British soccer, Chelsea jumped into leadership of the English Southern League by beating Crystal Palace, 2-1, today in one of a series of matches that shook up the standings in nearly all divisions, including the Northern, where Aston Villa took over the sole possession of first place with a 3-1 triumph over West Bromwich.

The futility of the Chelsea team has in other years been the basis of music hall jokes, but now they have won five straight and remain one of the few undefeated clubs in all Britain this season. They lead West Ham United and Queen's Park Rangers by a single point. Reading, last week's leaders, fell into fourth place by losing, 1-0, to West Ham.

Other Southern League games saw Arsenal defeat Watford, 4-2, with Lewis performing the hat trick; Portsmouth licked Charlton Athletic, 5-1, and Brighton downed Queen's Park Rangers, 3-1, for Rangers' first defeat of the season.

Aston Villa's victory before the biggest crowd of the day—18,000—shot them from third place to the top of the Northern League standing, as Manchester United handed Liverpool a 4-3 setback on Liverpool's home ground. Shortly after half time Liverpool led, 3-0, but Manchester scored four times within 25 minutes to gain their triumph.

Sunderland played a 1-1 draw with Bradford, Nottingham Forest defeated Derby, 4-3, and Blackpool eked out a 2-1 victory over Bolton in other Northern League games.

In the Western League the leaders maintained their pace, with Bath City defeating Lovells Athletic, 3-1, and Cardiff City walloping Swansea, 5-0.

Dumbarton, sharing leadership of the Southern Scottish League with Hibernian, scraped through to a 1-0 triumph over Albion Rovers, while Hibernians whitewashed Third Lanark, 2-0. Glasgow Rangers fell further behind in the race for the championship as they were held to a 1-1 tie by Morton.

Raith Rovers took sole possession of the Scottish Northeastern League leadership by downing Dundee, 2-0.

Grove Firsts Beat Lindsay At Lakefield

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 25 (Special) The Grove first team chalked up another victory against the Lindsay Collegiate team on Saturday afternoon when they won an exhibition game played here by the score of 21 to 16.

A field goal kicked by Harris counted the Grove three points in the first period.

Early in the second quarter, the Lindsay backfield ace Murray Schell was hurt and had to leave the game temporarily, and the Lindsay plunging offensive noticably slackened, Mackenzie of Lakefield ran the ball well up the field, and Giroux cut through the right end for twenty yards and a touchdown. Lakefield did not convert the touch, and the score remained at 8-1 at half-time, Lindsay kicking a single point.

At the start of the third quarter, Lindsay recovered their own kick-off, and started a drive down the field which netted them a touchdown. Worsley carrying the ball over the line. The convert was not good. Minutes later, Giroux of Lakefield dashed over for another touch, Harris converting. The score stayed at 14-6 at the end of the third quarter.

The next score came for Lindsay. They kicked on a third down, the ball was juggled behind the Grove line and a Lindsay player fell on the ball to count five points. They failed to convert. The Lakefield team came right back, and after some fine ball-carrying by Harris, Giroux and Mackenzie, Giroux ran across the line for his third touch-down of the game. Harris again converted. With the score 20-11 against them, and sparked by the return of Schell to their backfield, the Lindsay boys began a determined drive for a touch-down. A fighting Lakefield line held them out for some time, but at length a cut-back on the Lakefield one-yard line got them the touch. Lindsay pressed hard for the remainder of the game but the Lakefield team was in possesion of the ball, and played it safe. Final score: Lakefield 20 Lindsay 16.

By FRED D. CRAIG

A decidedly important meeting of the Peterborough Hockey Club has been called for Wednesday night at 8 o'clock in the Duffus board room. This will be the annual meeting of the organization and the chief order of business will be to discuss the question of carrying on this winter in the face of the obstacles that are in the way of smooth operating of a hockey team. The officers of the club, the players and all others interested in Canada's national winter pastime are asked to attend in order that the meeting may be as representative as possible. The situation is well known to the fans. There will be no ice available at Brock St. Rink which means that the only way O.H.A. hockey could be carried on would be to again use the Lindsay rink as home ice. The gas ration has been cut down since last winter and it is obvious that the patronage accorded by Peterborough fans then cannot be duplicated during the coming campaign, a condition that will affect the club's financial welfare. Those are serious problems to be overcome if there is to be any hockey.

* * * * * *

In addition there is the feeling among the players that the task of trying to win a hockey championship when every game you play means a trip out of town and loss of sleep is too tough. That is no serious matter when it only happens occasionally but last winter the Petes were playing three games a week and all of them away from home. Under the circumstances they made a wonderful showing. They won out their own group, after a tough playoff series with Belleville Reliance, disposed of the Trenton R.C.A.F., knocked off a well-balanced Brampton army team and finally were nosed out in a three-game series by the Owen Sound Orphans. By the time they met the northerns the team was stale, worn out with too much travelling and the result was they were eliminated by a club that they would have taken in their stride a month earlier. It was close enough as it was and this column hasn't the slightest doubt that the Petes with the zip and drive they had in mid-season before constant travelling wore them down would have found the Owen Sounders easy picking. But you can't work regularly, and play twenty-five games out-of-town in a season and expect to be rolling toward the end of the campaign.

Will Pack Them In

It looks like the biggest crowd of the season for the Frank Tunney wrestling card at Brock St. Arena tomorrow night. The fireworks last week when Jack Clayborne went mad at the end of the battle has the grappling fans all excited and they are looking for plenty of trouble when the ill-natured Katan and the fiery black mat artist tangle again in the main bout Tuesday night. Additional interest has been added by the securing of a new referee for this all important tangle. Maxwell never did succeed in satisfying either of the opponents or the crowd and there is natural curiosity as to how the new official Tommy Nelson will get along in control of the renewed grudge fight. Clayborne is still seething over his disqualification by Maxwell last Tuesday and is out for revenge while Katan is just about as angry. "Surely I won that one without any argument," he declares. "I took the first fall with a chin lock and made Clayborne like it and everybody in the rink could see what he did to Maxwell in the second round before he was disqualified. Why should I have to meet him again when he couldn't get a fall in the 40 minutes we fought?" That consistent disturber of the peace Rowdy Dick Hogan is back on the Tuesday bill, matched against Freddy Steele in what should be a bitter battle and Sergt. Ted Miller of the R.C.A.F. who has been steadily improving gets a chance to show his stuff against the tall Joe Christie. Incidentally the arena will be heated for the bouts.

Fred Simpson of Alderville was in town Saturday. That will not mean anything to the present generation. To some of the older sporting fans however the name will recall the early days of The Examiner Road Race when that Thanksgiving Day race from Lakefield to Peterborough ranked as one of the major sport events of the year. They will remember the tall, quiet Indian from Hiawatha who loped down George street so easily after finishing his ten mile jaunt and whose good work on that occasion brought him into the limelight to such an extent that he was picked as a member of the Canadian Olympic team in London in 1908 and was the first Canadian to finish in the marathon event. That was the occasion when the Italian Durando was first home in the marathon but was disqualified because he had been helped near the finish and first place was awarded to Hayes of the United States. Fred Simpson afterward turned professional and raced against Tom Longboat, Alfie Shrubb and other great runners of the period in distance races in New York, Toronto and other centres. He was taken under the wing of Tom Eck, famous trainer, and under the guidance of Eck was being trained in the southern states when he developed pneumonia and gave up the racing game for good. Fred moved from Hiawatha to the Alderville reserve years ago and has been living there ever since. He admitted Saturday that he doubted his ability to run the marathon distance nowadays. Simpson incidentally was not the only marathoner the Examiner road race developed for Canadian Olympic teams. Albert Smoke a later winner of the Lakefield-to-Peterborough event went to Antwerp in 1920 with the Canadian team but an accident in training killed his chances of bringing the honors to Canada.

Not Far Enough Yet

In answer to the chorus of complaint from sport writers all over the country in regard to soldier athletes, the Defence Department has issued a statement of policy. It stresses the fact that while sport in the army will be encouraged hockey players and other athletes are primarily soldiers and they will receive "the same treatment regarding duties, training and discipline as all other army personnel. If a player is enlisted for general service and up to the standards for overseas service he will on the completion of his training," says the statement "be despatched overseas." That is all fine. It recognizes the truth of the complaints that have been made. But it still does not go far enough. It doesn't as a matter of fact reach the real trouble at all. It gets nowhere if an athlete has been shoved into the shelter of a staff job, where he is immune from training and apparently from overseas drafts as well. It might interest the Defense Department to look into that angle of the situation. The investigator might be impressed by the coincidence that sees so many star puck-chasers and other athletes dug in in positions that are are more or less permanent and are seldom affected by draft orders. Other soldiers who have no particular skill on the ice or the football field come and go as they finish their training but many of the athletes seem to have been overlooked in the marching orders.

Because both clubs forgot an old football maxim about taking single points when they were available, Hamilton Wildcats and R.C.A.F. Hurricanes are still unbeaten in the O.R.F.U. race. They played a 9-9 tie at Hamilton Saturday in a game in which both outfits had frequent opportunities to boot for singles and passed them up in favor of attempts for major scores that did not materialize. The Wildcats in particular were guilty of this doubtful strategy in the last period when they undoubtedly could have kicked out a win if they had not gambled for a mess of points, instead of cashing in with singles. While Ross Trimble's first string line lasted, the Hurricanes badly outplayed the Cats but the Fliers had little or no reserve strength and the keymen faded with the result that the Hamilton forward wall was roaring through in the final stages. The Wildcats were within a few seconds of victory when Peterson picked up a Hurricane fumble on the last play of the game and had a clear run to the goal line, only to fall over his

Training Camp Notes

By The Canadian Press

Manager Jack Adams announces that his defence quartet for Detroit Red Wings' National Hockey League opener against New York Rangers Sunday will be Cully Simon, Hal Jackson, Bill Quackenbush and Gordon Sherritt. All but Sherritt, who played last season with Indianapolis Caps of the American League, have had previous major league experience.

Jockey Bobby Summers of Winnipeg, injured Saturday at Dufferin Park on the final day of the Canadian racing season, declined an offer to turn professional with Montreal Canadiens. Bobby, who won $400 for finishing second in the Dufferin jockey contest, has returned to Victoria where he will work in an ice arena.

First player to leave the St. Catharines, Ont., training camp of Toronto Maple Leafs was Ross Knowles, 33-year-old defenceman from the Lakehead. Knowles has been taken on an option basis by Providence Reds of the A.H.L.

Coach Clarence (Happy) Day says he hasn't signed a single player to a Leaf contract this year. A few players are signed for 1943-44, but their contracts extend over from last year.

Lester Patrick, manager of New York Rangers, last night announced he had selected 13 players at Rangers pre-season training camp here for Rangers' farm team, New York Rovers in the Eastern United States Amateur League. The players from Ontario, Manitoba, Saskatchewan and Alberta, include defence—Lloyd Mohns, 22, of Petawawa, Ont.; Jimmy Jamieson, 21-year-old Cayuga Indian of Windsor, Ont. Forwards—Claire Gaw, 17, of Kemptville, Ont.; Sammy Kelly, 21, of Pembroke, Ont., and Bob McDonald, 21, Windsor, Ont.

New Referee May Cramp Katan's Style

When heavily-muscled John Katan climbs onto the Brock Arena mat on Tuesday night for his bout with Gentleman Jack Clayborne, the Palermo heavy will have to watch the rules as well as his high-flying opponent. Irish Tommy Nelson, newly appointed referee for this final clash, is one official who is likely to be in Katan's hair every time Honest John makes an illegal move. Nelson is reported to be a strict and absolutely impartial official and his presence in the ring tomorrow night should help materially in settling a feud which has involved the referee in each bout. Promoter Frank Tunney is impatient to establish a definite superiority between Katan and Clayborne so that he can go ahead with his British Empire Elimination for Whipper Watson's title. One of Peterborough's old favorites will be back tomorow in Roughhouse Dick Hogan the Housepainter. Hogan creates excitement wherever he wrestles and looks to have an edge on Fred Steele, but the latter comes up with some might good moves and may surprise the Texas Mustachio.

The thrid bout pits Flt. Sergeant Ted Miller of Trenton against Skyscraper Joe Christie in a bout that should be smart and clean all the way.

HAMILTON WILDCATS TOP ORFU TYING HURRICANES SATURDAY 9-9

Peterson Trips 10 Yards Out On Final Play

By ALAN HARVEY
Canadian Press Staff Writer

Coach Brian Timmins of Hamilton Flying Wildcats is becoming the Hitchcock of Canadian football. His team has the same flair for taut melodrama, the same capacity for sustaining suspense to the final climatic moment.

Timmins first showed symptoms of directorial genius last Wednesday when Hamilton shaded Toronto Balm Beach 18-17. Possibly he shaved things a trifle fine, for Beaches based a protest (slated for hearing Thursday) on a play which occurred after regulation time.

The curtain was just as thrilling at Hamilton Saturday as Toronto R.C.A.F. Hurricanes held Wildcats to a 9-9 tie in the season's first meeting of the Ontario Union's two undefeated teams. On the game's last play, score tied and an open field ahead, Paul Peterson of Hamilton stumbled and fell on the Air Force 10 yard line. Toronto players promptly smothered him, ending the game.

12,000 Attend.

Before that, Wildcats kept 12,000 fans on edge by driving from behind a 7-0 deficit, then falling behind again 9-8, getting the tying point in the fourth quarter and missing about half a dozen gilt-edged opportunities by electing to try placements instead of for single points. After Peterson's swan dive, Hamilton argued another play should be awarded and the fans surged on the field, but nothing happened.

The standoff, and the tense way it was accomplished, added extra advance flourish to the return meeting between the two clubs in Toronto next Saturday. Wildcats now lead Hurricanes by one game but they have played one more than Coach Ross Trimble's club.

Results of the other two contests Saturday served to break the league down into two watertight compartments, one containing Wildcats, Hurricanes and Beaches and the other Toronto Navy, Toronto Indians and Ottawa Combines. Beaches remained in the running for one of the Union's two play-off spots by defeating Indians 21-10, at Varsity Stadium, while the Sailors killed their chances of reaching the charmed circle by dropping a 20-7 decision to Combines at Ottawa. Navy is four points behind Beaches and two ahead of Combines and Indians.

Earl Selkirk scored all 10 points for Indians, but the East Enders never were a serious threat after Beaches gained a 15-6 lead at the intermission on touchdowns by Leo Deadey and Ross McKelvey, a convert by McKelvey and a convert and placement by Annis Stukus, who played only a few minutes in the game. Chad Bank scored the final Beach touchdown in the fourth quarter.

Combines, scoring their first victory in seven attempts, never were behind after Ace Powell's first-quarter touchdown. Jerry Lefebvre and Frank Seymour tallied other Ottawa touchdowns while OS. Tom Waldon drove across for Navy's only major score.

Canadian Sport Snapshots

By CHARLES EDWARDS
Canadian Press Staff Writer

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—(CP).—Dave Dryburgh of the Regina Leader-Post complains that Saskatchewan was overlooked when the services were spotting their hockey players this year. The way it looks now, Regina will have no team at all, Yorkton will try to struggle along on a mediocre R.C.A.F. team and the Navy is trying to dig up a club in Saskatoon. Dryburgh writes: "The point is, the Services are still in the hockey business and are as deeply involved as ever in Eastern Canada. Their player rosters put the National League clubs to shame ....Saskatchewan could go for a slice of that cake, too."

Jim the Fearless:

After the way in which Capt. Jim Sutherland snatched the hockey hall of fame right from under Halifax's nose (Bluenose is more apt), you'd expect the "grand old man" would steer clear of the Nova Scotia capital until the storm died down. But not Jim! He even telephoned the papers while visiting Halifax to suggest Montreal and Halifax might like to donate memorial windows for the shrine setting forth the history of hockey in those two cities.

Football Feuds:

Annis Stukis reports Toronto Balmy Beach and Hamilton Wildcats blossomed out into a major feud in that hectic grid game at Hamilton last Wednesday. Still hostile from an earlier game the teams slugged it out with no holds or punches barred—Montreal gridders are still steaming over the crack by Hal Walker of the Toronto Globe and Mail that the Quebec Union isn't in the same class as the Ontario circuit, and that Quebec's Grey Cup challenge is just tossing their $250 affiliation fee away. Baz O'Meara of the Montreal Star writes: "In reviving something of the old feud between Toronto and Montreal he (Walker) has made Montreal fans aware that they really have a dash of old time rugby to look at."

Incidentally:

Bill Brydges, former New York Americans hockey star, now is working on the Alaska highway.... Young Howie Morenz startled his Montreal hockey buddies with a clever performance on the piano... Jackie Turner, Vancouver amateur flyweight who lost only five of 65 fights, has been posted to Halifax with the R.C.N.V.R.

Peoples Lose To Hamilton

HAMILTON, Oct. 25—Toronto Peoples not only lost the third game of the final softball playdown series for the Ontario crown to Hamilton Majors here on Saturday night, the count being 8-5 against them, but they lost for the balance of this season at least the services of Whitey Farrant, who has been suspended by President Spooner of the Ontario Softball Association for his attack on Umpire Jimmy Sout. In the eighth inning Farrant singled sharply through the infield, and when he tried to stretch it into a double was called out. Farrant grabbde Stout by the throat and this came near being the cause of a free-for-all as players from both teams rushed on the field and it took some time to quell the disturbances.

Peoples, behind the five-hit pitching of Grant, enjoyed a 4-3 lead going into the sixth frame and then elected to replace the veteran with Cam Ecclestone. With "Ekky" on the hilltop the team went to pieces and practically handed Hamilton five runs with loose fielding. That clinched the contest for from then on Johnson was too good in the clutches and Toronto had to be satisfied with a single counter.

Veterans Recall Famous Lacrosse Game

MARMORA, Oct. 25—(ENS)—Marmora's playing grounds have been changed four times in the last half century the Examiner learned recently through a group of old sportsmen sharing their reminiscences. Originally lacrosse and baseball games were featured on the commons of that day, which lay between the cemeteries and also embraced the grounds where the residence of Dr. C. V. Wallace now stands. These same commons furnished accommodation for the Pan American Circus, which visited the village about the year 1899. To advertise the big top three large billboards were designed. The largest, 100 feet long and 12 feet high, was placed near the present site of Sweet's store. The others were placed at the eastern and western extremities of the village. Reg Pearce handled the requisitions for ice, water, hay, potatoes, etc. and the arrangement was that the bills amounting to about $600 were to be paid on the morning of the show before delivery of the goods. With the manager of the old Sovereign Bank at Marmora, Reg went for the money which was done up in packets of quarters. To expedite the checking, the money was weighed on scales rushed from the bank. Then it was found necessary to have the late William Gray, teamster for the Pearce Company, to bring round the horse and buggy to transport the cash to the bank.

The venue for local sports was first moved to what was called "Kelly's Field" north of the old stave mill. Some top lacrosse games were played here. The most memorable one was that with Kingston when Marmora introduced goal nets for the first time. Somehow or other the team from the Limestone city evinced an aversion to the nets but boasted they would fill the "fish nets" full of goals. However the local lads scored a victory by a close margin. The net question came up again as the return game was to be played in Kingston.

Support of the Marmora team was so strong that an excursion train was run from Marmora to Kingston. Marmora took their nets along but Kingston would not tolerate their usage and the large number of excursionists returned home without witnessing a game.

The Marmora team of that period according to an issue of the Marmora Herald of July, 1900, comprised: Goal, Sid Brown; point, Wilson Pinner; cover point, Harry Leal; first defence, Arthur Waters; second defence, Will Handley; third defence, Elliott Robinson; centre, Tommy Graham; third home, Charles Shannon; second home, Ed Gladney; first home, Fred Pinner; outside home, Alf McWilliams; inside home, Jake Kennedy. Jack McWilliams was manager of the team and Charlie DeMille the secretary-treasurer.

Ball grounds were later established on land of the Pearce Company by Jim McCormack's farm on the Cordova road, next on the road to Crowe Lake and finally on the Marmora Fair grounds.

Sandlot Series 4 Out Of Seven

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — (CP). — The National Baseball Congress of America will hold only one international championship series each year for the duration of the war, Lloyd Douglas of Toronto, Canadian Commissioner of the Congress, announced to-day.

The series will be the annual playoff between the American and Canadian sandlot champions, starting August 30. It will be a seven-game series in 1944, Douglas said. The Canadian branch of the Congress will hold 12 national championships in 1944, the winner of the one at Toronto entering the final against the American champion.

Douglas said that national tournaments are being established by the Congress in all countries in both North and South America where baseball is played. After the war, two national champions will be zoned to play each other in series patterned after the 1944 Canadian-American final. Winners will play each other until two teams remain. These two teams will meet in a "World Series" of the sandlot ranks.

Kingston Army Beats Cornwall

KINGSTON, Oct. 25. — Kingston Frontenac Army of the O.H.A. Senior A group scored an 8-4 victory over Cornwall of the Quebec Senior League in an inter-league exhibition game to open the hockey season in Kingston on Saturday night before a large crowd of fans. The teams also played in Cornwall last Friday with the Quebec Soldiers, winning by 7 to 1. The complete reversal of the result was caused by a change in Kingston's style of play. The Kingston khaki-clad team adopted a forechecking plan with high speed skating that raced the star-packed Cornwall club into the ice.

Cornwall gathered a two-goal lead early in the second period and seemed away for another win, but the Kingston soldiers started a high pressure drive to bottle Cornwall in its own end of the ice and five successive scores followed. Kingston had a 5 to 3 lead after the second period and increased it in the final frame when Cornwall faded from the furious pace.

Farmers Rap Regulations On Maple Syrup

TORONTO, Oct. 25.—Possibility many farmers will go out of the maple syrup business next year "because of Government interference" was forecast at the week-end by producers who claimed ration coupon checking was "too much bother" and facilities for bottling small quantities of syrup were not available.

James E. Featherstone of United Co-operative Farmers, said most syrup was sold on the black market last year and will be again unless Wartime Prices Board regulations are amended.

According to producers the most troublesome regulation is that which requires syrup to be sold in 12-fluid-ounce containers. One-gallon cans, they claim, are the only profitable containers. "Last year we handled 400 gallons of syrup," Mr. Featherstone said. "This year we received only 12 or 13 gallons. Farmers who regularly in the past had sent us their syrup said consumers drove out to their farms and bought it direct from them, evading price and other regulations."

So far as 12-ounce bottles are concerned, he said, "the producer simply will not do it."

Maple syrup is not an industry—it is a sideline for some farmers, according to Walter Akitt, Flesherton. "They haven't the facilities to sell in small containers, and to sell through wholesalers and retailers will make it definitely unprofitable."

"Until present regulations are revised I shall have to let my equipment remain dormant," said Walter Ratcliffe, Ringwood.

"The acute farm help shortage is not so big a handicap as Government interference," declared W. J. Bryans, who has supplied Owen Sound customers for years with syrup. Since sale of honey was brought under Government supervision the price has increased almost 50 per cent. and "the same situation will apply in the sale of maple syrup," he said.

of Yugoslavia, were not forthcoming immediately but the German broadcasts gave every indication the attack was a big surprise and was carried out in force.

It came at the moment when a major new development was being unfolded in Britain for the two-direction attack against Germany—the installation of British bases of squadrons of fighters equipped with extra fuel tanks to give them a range of 1,100 miles.

300 Bombers.

In the Berlin broadcast, the German News Agency D.N.B. declared 300 heavy bombers escorted by 200 fighters attacked unspecified towns in Germany and Austria, explaining that targets in the Austrian provnice of Styria were among the objectives and that at one place "major damage was caused."

If true, this would constitute the first time an air blow has been struck at the Reich itself from the south by planes based in Italy.

The German Agency described the attack force as "large formations of four-engined bombers and added;

"Bombs were dropped over a fairly large area between Vienna and the northern approaches to the Alps."

The last big raid on the Vienna area was the attack on the aircraft factory at Wiener Neustadt October 1 by Americon bomebrs based in North Africa.

Hungary Blasted.

A Budapest dispatch by way of Stockholm said bombs, incendiaries and leaflets were dropped in southwestern Hungary in the first bombing of that country.

Another Budapest report suggested yesterday's operation was a shuttle raid, with the bombers coming from newly-captured airfields at Foggia and flying on to bases in England after the attack.

United States medium bombers blasted three airfields yesterday within a 60-mile radium of Paris and returned without loss.

They were escorted for the first time by powerful long range American fighters and R.A.F. and R.C.A.F. Spitfires. The bombers were credited with downing three enemy planes and the Spitfires seven. One R.C.A.F. Spitfire was lost.

However, on the credit side of the ledger the Canadian fighters had five Nazi fighters and a reconnaissance aircraft destroyed, a number damaged and five locomotives shot up.

It was announced that a few enemy aircraft again returned to Britain last night, dropping bombs over the eastern coastal area. Damage was reported slight.

Fight Again

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 — (CP).—The Soviet-sponsored Union of Polish Patriots said in a Moscow broadcast that the Polish Kosciusko division went into action against the Germans on the Russion front, October 12 and that "even slips of girls went into battle with hearts of heroes."

Jolliffe Says Drew Stalling On Reform Plan

OTTAWA, Oct. 25 — (CP). —E. B. Jolliffe, C.C.F. Ontario Provincial Leader, said in an address Saturday that Ontario now has a coalition of Liberals and Progressive Conservatives "in all but name."

Warning that a Federal general election and a new Ontario Provincial election may be called at any time, Mr. Joliffe said the association of the two older parties was "a coalition in disguise, an illicit union without either legal blessing or public recognition."

Mr. Jolliffe was guest of honor at a banquet arranged by the Ottawa C.C.F. Club.

M. J. Coldwell, C.C.F. Leader, attended and said the C.C.F. had become the logical political instrument in the evolution of Canadian democracy. The C.C.F. was making great progress and "before long we shall be called upon to form the Governments of several of our Provinces and of Canada itself."

Mr. Jolliffe said the Progressive Conservatives, who elected the largest group of members in the Ontario Provincial election in August had appealed to the people on a 22-point platform. They had been in office almost 10 weeks and not one of the 22 points had been implemented.

The Legislature still was being treated "in the same casual and negligent fashion" as when Mitchell Hepburn was the Premier, and Lt.-Col. George Drew, the present Premier, was the Leader of the Opposition.

Mr. Jolliffe charged that the Drew Government was "merely stalling" over the establishment of an Ontario Labor Relations Committee and the creation of advanced labor laws "in the hope that the Dominion Government will make up its mind what to do about labor legislation—and that, as everybody knows, might take years."

Says House Ignored

"Instead of consulting the House at an early session, the Premier and his minority Government prefer to rely on secret committees and Orders-in-Council," said Mr. Jolliffe.

Apart from the farm group, committees set up by the Provincial Government to study various questions were "thoroughly undemocratic, hand-picked little groups of Drew's advisers meeting in secret," he continued.

" . . . We believe that some of the 22 points can be implemented and should be implemented at once."

The Progressive Conservatives had manoeuvred to obtain the support of Liberals.

"Two or three years ago the Tories were rending the air with lamentations about partisan government and their pleas for coalition, although the Liberals had a large majority at Ottawa and nobody took the Conservative Opposition seriously," said Mr. Jolliffe.

"However, when the same Tories were offered office in Ontario they took it, deliberately choosing to be a minority Government."

The Liberals had let it be known they would support the Progressive Conservatives in the Ontario House, and a Liberal continued as chairman of the Liquor Control Board and a Liberal would be Speaker of the House. Certain Liberals continued to dispense "the patronage without which the old party machines cannot function."

Sees Early Election

Another Provincial election and a Federal election might be called at any time.

Mr. Jolliffe said that under the arrangements for members of the services to vote in the Provincial election, 200,000 had in effect not been allowed to vote. He said he warned other politicians, including Prime Minister Mackenzie King, to beware of any such procedure in the future which would deny their rights to those serving overseas.

In the Legislature, the C.C.F. would support measures brought forward by the Government and considered for the good of the people, and, as the Opposition, would not oppose simply for the sake of opposing. But the C.C.F. would not fear to challenge the Government if it failed to keep its promises or take the proper steps toward meeting war and postwar problems.

A. R. Mosher, president of the Canadian Congress of Labor, said the congress had recommended its unions affiliate with the C.C.F.

"We propose we shall get inside and behind the C.C.F. and make it a success," he said.

Bernard Montgomery's men poured into an enlarged bridgehead across the Trigo River to attack German positions beyond.

On the 5th Army front heavy German counter-attacks flared east from Sparanise toward Pignatore and Maggiora. Allied troops smashed back four Nazi assaults in 24 hours.

The 5th Army advance in a mountainous area overlooking the coast constituted a severe threat to the entire German position and if continued would seriously endanger the enemy's Massico Ridge line.

Sparanise, captured by the 5th Army, is about seven miles north of the Volturno near the centre of the 5th Army line, and four miles due west of Pignatoro, in Allied hands for several days.

The advances of the 8th Army posed an increasing threat to the inland road junction town of Isernia and eventually the rear of the German Massico ridge line.

The 5th Army beat off four heavy counter-attacks, headquarters said.

Tirana in Albania and targets in Southern Austria were raided by heavy bombers, the bulletin said.

The railyards and aircraft factory at Pistoia near Florence were bombed last night, and other communications line at Formia on the west coast and nearby Minturno were blasted again.

In turn the Germans struck again at Naples, now being converted into an Allied supply port, and 15 Nazi supply planes were shot down yesterday, mostly in sky tangles over Italy. Three of them were bombers which attempted to raid Naples.

The flaming hulls floated slowly northward in the Gulf Stream. The empty, less seriously damaged tanker ran aground. Salvage crews floated the vessel and towed it to port, with the dead still aboard. The navy said it will be repaired.

The laden tanker drifted almost 20 miles, burning so fiercely that it could not be approached. It struck bottom almost atop the hull of a freighter sunk by enemy submarines in 1942.

The masters of both ships, and all except one of the navy commissioned officers assigned to the gun crews, were lost, the navy reported.

Aussies Stall Japanese At Finschhafen

ALLIED HEADQUARTERS IN THE SOUTHWEST PACIFIC, Oct. 25—(AP)—Japanese forces which for a week struggled to break through Australians lines to reach the New Guinea coast near Finschhafen have been whittled down and thrust back into the jungle-matted hills, it was announced today.

Allied bombers and fighters and hardened Australian jungle troops crushed the enemy's efforts with co-ordinated blows.

Four Japanese attacks were repulsed Saturday. Australians hurled back the attackers with heavy losses and kept their hold on Katika village, which has changed hands four times this month.

The communique said the Japanese apparently had hoped to open a route to the sea either to escape or to receive supplies.

In the air, too, the Allies remained dominant. Bombers and fighters last Friday and Saturday destroyed at least 26 enemy planes, sank two 1,000-ton ships, scored three direct bomb hits on a large ship resembling an aircraft carrier, and destroyed or damaged two other ships and 16 barges. Five Allied planes were missing.

Twenty grounded planes were destroyed by medium bombers in raids on the Dagua and But airdromes near Wewak, strong enemy base on the New Guinea coast 350 miles northwest of Finschhafen. Three of 28 intercepting fighters were shot down.

A lone heavy bomber on reconnaissance Saturday chose a large carrier-like craft for its target and dropped three bombs amidships. The ship was aflame when last sighted.

JUDGMENT DEFERRED

Stating that he had not had time to fully consider the case, Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C., announced in police court this morning that he would defer judgment for one week in the charge against John Drummond, taxi owner, of operating a taxi at the radius of more than 15 miles from Peterborough. Evidence was heard in the case a week ago.

FINED FOR ASSAULT

Charles Ward entered a plea of guilty in police court this morning to a charge of assaulting W. J. Bolton and was fined $10 and $1.75 costs by Magistrate O. A. Langley, K.C. Ward was defended by T. J. Carley, K.C., while John A. Bradshaw appeared for the complainant.

PLEADS GUILTY

Facing two charges of having obtained $10 under false pretences from S. Goldstone and the Meyers Studio, Mark Rappaport, of Toronto, pleaded guilty when arraigned in police court this morning and was remanded at the request of the crown until Tuesday morning. Rappaport, who was arrested in Toronto, had his left arm in a sling, and stated that it had been broken recently and was giving him considerable pain. Magistrate Langley said that the jail physician would look after it.

QUEER SENSE OF HUMOR

There is some one in Peterborough with a queer sense of humor. Early Sunday evening this individual tossed a door knob through the window of a house on Aylmer street. Attached to the knob was a note reading, "Your window has been broken."

IT'S FAME SPREADS

VOL. LXXXVIII, No. 96 — PETERBOROUGH, MONDAY, OCTOBER 25, 1943

46 PER CENT OF OBJECTIVE RAISED

Peterborough Unit Subscribes To Fifth Victory Loan $2,118,100 During First Week

Peterborough's subscription for the first week of the Fifth Victory Loan campaign was $2,118,100 or 46.05% of the objective of $4,600,000 for the city and county.

The required percentage for the first week was just one-third of the total or 33.32 per cent.

City and county began the second week of this war financing drive from the splendid position of being almost half way to the allotted peak three days ahead of schedule.

The big accelerating factor at the week-end was the report of Special Names Committee of which Robert Abbott of Canadian Raybestos Company is the chairman.

They had piled up their total to $1,100,000, for the week or 74% of their allotment of $1,500,000, a contribution to the city-county effort which chiefly accounted for the long stride reflected in the total percentage from 27.18 Friday evening to 46.05 per cent Saturday night.

Smith In Lead Again

Smith township returned to the county leadership with 46.17 slightly better than the average percentage for the city and county. After a temporary stretch of pace-setting North Monaghan was holding second place in the rural standing, but Asphodel was close behind the city's northern neighbor.

By the way, Asphodel probably showed the most improvement of the entire communities in the city and county as they pushed their percentage from 10.92 on Friday to 33.16 on Saturday. They came from far back in a couple of days to register on the expected percentage of subscriptions as the first week closed.

Other percentages are: Havelock, 28.42; Ennismore, 27.5; city of Peterborough, general, 26 per cent; total rural general canvass, 23.95.

Close To The Top

The Peterborough employees canvass hit the 48.57 per cent. level Saturday night, and there have been strong rumors that this industrial sector of the campaign is mighty close to their objective. News from some of the factories has been exceedingly bright, but it has also been in the nature of progress reports.

For example, it was known on Saturday that the subscription list at Quaker Oats stood at 110 per cent. of their objective with 98 per cent. of the employees signing up for Victory Bonds.

J. J. Turner and Sons was 128 per cent.; Peterborough Canoe Company, 143 per cent.; Canadian Sealright Company, 113 per cent.; Western Clock Company, 107 per cent., and so on, but if they were not quite ready for announcement and, also addition to the grand county total, the ultimate reports from these quarters will be exceedingly acceptable when it does arrive.

Bill Reid Happy

The work along the industrial front is highly pleasing to Bill Reid, who has the assignment of promoting and generally aiding the payroll savings plan along to big things.

Mr. Reid may be inclined to object to mentioning him in this campaign because he contends that whatever he is able to do is not so important as the co-operation of the shop leaders and committees; that leadership and the common sense of Peterborough men and women in knowing a gilt-edged investment when it is offered to them. Mr. Reid quietly said the other day that all these subscribers will know the final satisfaction of saving to win the war when they eventually cash their bonds for things they need.

Last spring Mr. Reid was also helping the Peterborough campaign, and by this time he has quite a long list of local friends. In the spring drive he seemed uneasy all the way through, dubious about the total and anxious for returns as they came in from the factories. It was an ultimately successful campaign, but nothing like this one (as far as it has gone).

They hardly need a barometer at the Customs House. All the committee has to do is to order Bill Reid to the corner, and leave the registration to the candle power of the gleam and lustre in his eyes.

Intimations, and again these are not from headquarters, have been suggesting that the payroll savings section of the campaign may be wound up before this week closes, and that for the rest of the way it will be only a matter of taking subscriptions from those who decided they could stand another bond or two.

This week may continue the good report that reached its cheery high note Saturday night.

Sealright Goes Over Top With 151 Percent

Employees of Canadian Sealright Company have concluded their shop response to the Fifth Victory Loan with total subscription of $4,250, or 151 per cent of their objective.

The allotment for Sealright staff was $2,800, and every one of the thirty-five subscribers has bought a new Victory Bond.

Sam Whitehouse, manager of the company, directed the plant organization for the canvass, but the actual work was carried out by Mrs. W. Buchan and Frank Ronco with results that indicate a thorough job as indicated by 100 per cent participation in the Loan by the staff for 151 per cent of their allotment.

Group Payroll

Turning from the employees savings division to the group payroll further substantial accomplishment in the Peterborough campaign was reported from headquarters this morning as follows:—

Sun Life Assurance Company: 150% of their objective with all the staff participating.

Empress Hotel: 141% of their objective.

Loblaw Groceteria: 118% of objective and 100% of staff investing.

Dewart Milling Company: 100% across the board, that is in objective and number of Bond buyers.

Cherney Brothers: 100% buying and have 100% of their objective.

Barrie's Limited: 118 per cent of their objective with all members of the staff lending.

Louis Cafe, Charlotte street: 100% buying and have 100% of objective.

News Cafe, Charlotte and Bethune street, 105% of their objective.

222% of Objective

Outstanding in the group payroll section was investment by the staff of Central Ontario Credit Exchange, Bridgeway Building, Charlotte street.

Their total was 222% of their objective, with everybody participating in the Loan.

CAMPBELLFORD

Former Resident Given Afghan

CAMPBELLFORD, Oct. 25. —(ENS).—Red Cross officials here have long known the work they were turning out was being sent to many parts of the world, but they regard the latest communication received concerning an afghan, forwarded by the local branch, as a particularly happy coincidence.

According to information received by the secretary, Nurse Margaret Henderson had become ill while on duty at a Naval hospital in Scotland. She was later sent to a Nurse's Rest Home outside the city of London. It was while there that she was given an afghan to use on which was a tag bearing the stamp of the Campbellford and Seymour Red Cross Society.

Nurse Henderson, a daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Alex Henderson, of Toronto, was born in this town and lived here till she was four years of age. Later she trained at the Toronto General Hospital and enlisted as a Naval Nurse early in the war.

In her letter, which was addressed to the secretary, Miss Lillian Benor, Miss Henderson enclosed a picture of herself, taken on the lawn of the rest home, covered with the afghan. She suggests that some local member of the Society 'may recognize her handiwork.'

FIRE REPORT

Only a small fire of burning leaves at 230 Dublin street at noon Saturday marked an otherwise quiet week-end for the Fire Department.

Victory Workers Repeat Aid For War Victims

As a general thing, most groups gathered together in welfare work feel they are giving a good service by meeting regularly once a week, so it aroused a bit more interest on enquiry to find that the group known as "The Victory Workers" meet regularly twice a week to work on behalf of various objectives, all of which are directed at helping to hasten the day of victory.

This group of which Mrs. Bruce L. Fowler is president, and Mrs. S. S. Simpson is treasurer, chose a good name and by giving up two afternoons each week, live more fully up to their name, for it must be recognized that in all work pertaining to the war effort, the harder one works, the sooner the objective will be realized.

This group, which is composed of only twelve to fifteen active workers, have on a previous occasion given assistance to the Peterborough and District British War Victims' Fund, and today another donation of $10.00 is listed in their name, to make the second time the fund has been one of the war assists to benefit from their work, among the many who have profited from its endeavors.

A Londoner Helps

For the past eight nights, the city of London has heard the wailing of the sirens which announce that the enemy is in the vicinity to attack from the air, so it would seem most appropriate that one of its former residents should come forward with a nice personal donation of $10.00 to give the people of the old home a helping hand.

This is listed under the name of "A former resident of London" and the writer could hardly fail to admire the spirit of this donor, who had saved up this money in order to give them a helping hand for the Christmas season.

Letter of Thanks

Speaking of Christmas, now would seem an appropriate time to remind everyone of just how the special donations for Christmas were appreciated last year, and this is best done by quoting from original letters received in response to the help it gave them at that time.

Beryl Smith, a young girl attending St. Mary's (R.C.) School, located on St. Alphonsus Road, in Clapham S.W. 4, London, wrote to the Mayor of Wandsworth through whom some of the money sent was administered, in these words, "Your Worship, the children of St. Mary's School wish to thank you, and our Canadian friends for the delightful party we were able to have yesterday.

We had cakes, and paste sandwiches, Tizer and lemonade, and after the party we had spotlight prizes and the singing of carols. We all had a very enjoyable time. Please thank the people of Canada for us, and we hope they all had a happy Christmas."

The special fare mentioned for this party is an ordinary every day occurrence to the people of this country, itself something that all parents living here must be thankful for, all of which could surely find expression in further help to them this Christmas so that they may know some of the joy that this season usually brings to all children in the name of Him whose Birth is thus celebrated.

Lakefield Man Wins His Appeal

Marvin Armstrong of Lakefield, who was convicted July 29 by Magistrate O. A. Langley on a charge of being intoxicated while in charge of an automobile and sentenced to seven days' imprisonment, was acquitted on appeal today before Judge S. L. Smoke in County Court.

Armstrong's car was found on the C.P.R. tracks on the Provincial Highway south of Springville just prior to the approach of the midnight train. Judge Smoke found today that the defendant had been intoxicated to such a degree as to render him incapable of having control of the car, and that he could not start it, drive it or give directions.

G. N. Gordon, K.C., appealed for Armstrong, and V. J. McElderry, K.C., handled the case for the Crown. Provincial Constables McClure and Murphy, and James Dutton, Jr., who discovered the car and pushed it off the tracks, gave evidence in the case at the police court hearing.

Apples Expensive

Robert Whaling Dies In Action

The death of a sailor whose parents lived in Peterborough a quarter century ago was revealed today when a letter and a clipping from the Erie, Pennsylvania Daily Times were sent the Examiner by the father of the boy. He was Robert G. Whaling, 22, son of Mr. and Mrs. Emmett R. Whaling, 1114 E. 4th Street, Erie, and he was reported killed in action in the South Pacific while serving with the U.S. Navy.

In the letter which accompanied the clipping relating the loss of his son, Mr. Whaling said that he and his wife lived in Peterborough a quarter century ago and that they had many friends here in the city. "I was connected with the Canadian General Electric Company," Mr. Whaling said, "and my wife, formerly Josephine Clancy, was born and educated in Peterborough."

Enlisting in June, 1942, Robert Whaling had seen action in the Atlantic and Caribbean Seas and in Africa, and had been in the South Pacific since last January. He was serving on a destroyer when he met his death "in performance of his duty and in the service of his country."

Passenger Is Hurled Through Windshield

Thrown against the windshield of the car in which she was riding in an accident early Sunday morning in which four automobiles were involved, Gladys Masters, 183 Edinburgh street, sustained a cut on the right knee that required twelve stitches to close and a gash over the eye that also had to be stitched.

According to the police report Stanley McBride, driving south on Aylmer street, slowed up to park his car on the west side of the street, just south of Rink street. Another south-bound car driven by John O'Toole, 826 Water street, following behind, also slowed down, and a third car driven by Harvey Staunton, 760 Stewart street, collided with the rear of O'Toole's machine. After the crash the Staunton automoblie came into contact with a parked car owned by Jack Thompson, Y.M.C.A.

Gladys Masters, a passenger in Staunton's car, was tossed against the windshield in the crash. She was taken into a nearby house and then removed to Nicholls Hospital where her injuries were treated.

The left rear fender of O'Toole's car and the front left fender of Thompson's vehicle were damaged.

Victory Loan Sidelights

Rufus Payne of Alex Sollitt's Victory Loan team in the city general canvass mentioned this morning the keenness of a young bond subscriber Norman Cranley, 634 Ross street, Ashburnham.

Norman is only 13 and a student at the Collegiate Institute and Vocational School. After school hours he works at a grocery store, and from his earnings he pays board at home, helps the family and had saved up enough money for a considerable down payment on a $50 bond.

Mr. Payne said he was impressed by the boy's thorough knowledge of Victory Bonds, their meaning and the manner of subscribing.

On CHEX at 6.10

Fred F. Potter, manager of the Bank of Toronto, is the speaker on the Banker's Broadcast at 6.10 this evening for the Victory Loan: H. G. Fitzgerald, manager of the Bank of Nova Scotia, was the speaker Saturday evening.

Gordon Monkman's team is leading in the city general canvass with 50.90%.

Dr. C. M. Scott, chairman of the Board of Education, will be guest speaker on the School Quiz feature of the Loan over CHEX at 8:30 o'clock tonight. This program is for city pupils.

Bob Everett requested today a correction in the story that he had sold his car and used the funds for Victory Bonds. "I don't own a car," Mr. Everett said, "and the story referred to a subscriber whom I mentioned at headquarters. I suppose that is how the mistake crept in, giving me the credit."

YOUR SPINE AND YOUR HEALTH

Every function of the living body is directly and indirectly under the control of the nerve system. Since the nerves radiate to all parts of the body from the spinal cord, they must pass between the bones of the spine to reach their destination.

because of this close relationship to the spine, it is obvious that any derangement or malalignment of vertebrae of the back bone not only throws the entire supporting skeletal system out of order, with resulting stresses and strains on all organs, but it interferes with the normal function of the nervous system

Girl Guide Unit To Be Organized

MILLBROOK, Oct. 25—(ENS)—A meeting was held in the library of the Continuation School on Thursday evening with the object in view of forming a local Girl Guide Company, and particularly, as a preliminary step, the organization of a live association including not only the mothers of the girls interested, but also of other women of the town, so the movement may have a good backing. The chair was taken by Miss Honor Gibson, of the Continuation School staff, who was captain of a Guide Company in Port Hope before coming to Millbrook this fall, and the guest speakers included District Commissioner Kathrine Baines, Mrs. Howard Jordan, formerly of Millbrook, and Senior Girl Guide, Doris Ballard, all of Port Hope.

Commissioner Baines stressed particularly the importance of training received in the Guides, and the absolute necessity of having an association "that will hold up the hands of the Guides, and of their Captain. Backed with an active and interested Association, all will be well. I, as Captain at one time of a very fine Guide Company in Port Hope, saw it actually go to pieces because we had no backing to help us in the many times of need which arise in connection with the work." Details of the organization were explained by the visiting Commissioner, and Mrs. T. A. Campbell was chosen as chairman, and Mrs. W. R. Howard, secretary-treasurer.

Meet November 1

A public meeting, to which all the women of the community are cordially invited, will be held in the school library on Monday, November 1, when it is hoped there will be a large attendance showing interest and support, and further organization will be effected.

Mrs. Jordan, who is head of the Brownie Pack, in Port Hope, spoke from the standpoint of a mother, telling of the benefit her own daughter, Natalie, who was born at Millbrook, had received during her Brownie training, and, now, having reached her twelfth year, she automatically is promoted to the Junior Guides. "The whole movement is aimed at developing good citizenship among the girls; there are 70,000 Guides in Canada now, and the movement is organized in 43 countries, having as its objective loyalty to God and the king, and service to others."

Senior Guide Doris Ballard, like the others on the platform, wore her uniform, and looked very smart, the Commissioner pointing out its various details, and the many badges on her right sleeves, Doris enumerated the courses she had completed in order to receive these. work, stenography, home nursing, first aid, housekeeping, gardening, and several others, the Senior Guide explaining, for the benefit of the 30 or more girls who have already signed up as wishing to join the local Company when it is formed under Captain Honor Gibson, what she had to cover in order to win these coveted awards. Twenty names of the women present were enrolled as wishing to join the association, and there is every prospect that Millbrook will shortly have a Girl Guide Company, senior and junior, as a worthwhile community undertaking.

The Commissioner made particular reference to the fact that the village is peculiarly fortunate in having Miss Gibson to act as Captain, her proficiency being well known in Port Hope, her home town, and stating also that she is continuing her studies and going on to rank among the highest leaders in

Explosion Fires Big Gas Works

EASTON, Pa., Oct. 25 — (AP). — Seventy-five thousand persons and more than a score of war plants in Easton and surrounding towns were without fuel for cooking, heating and industrial purposes today, following a Sunday morning explosion and fire that destroyed a large part of the Easton Gas Works.

Saying a "serious health problem" existed, Mayor Joseph Morrison proclaimed an emergency last night and pleaded for all possible speed in restoring service.

The blast took a toll of three lives, injured 19 persons seriously enough to require they be sent to hospital, and caused minor injuries to scores of others.

Mayor Morrison said $500,000 would be a conservative estimate of the damage.

Masons Observe Burning Temple Mortage

NAPANEE, Oct. 25 — (CP). — A gleaming milestone in Eastern Ontario Masonry was observed with due ceremony on Friday night and witnessed by about 200 Frontenac district Masons at the Napanee Masonic Temple.

Past Grand Master John A. McRae of Kingston officially burned to ashes the note that represented the last financial obligation of Union Lodge No. 9, Napanee, in connection with the purchasing and remodelling of the former St. Andrew's United Church into a Masonic Temple.

The property was purchased by members of Union Lodge three years ago and on October 22, 1941, was dedicated to Masonry by Past Grand Master W. S. Herrington, K.C., himself a member of Union Lodge. M.W. Bro. McRae commended the Masons of Napanee for the enterprise they had shown for completing such a distinguished task in a comparatively short period.

Assisting the Past Grand Master in the ceremony was Lodge Secretary George T. Walters, architect of the building, T. H. Herrington, Financial Custodians W. S. Wilson and H. L. Vanluven, W. S. Herrington scattered the ashes.

The ruling Master W. O. Coates presided for the meeting and during the evening the members observed one minute's silence in memory of the late R.W. Bro. William W. Mills, Grand Senior Warden of the Grand Lodge in the Province of Ontario, who met his untimely death a week previous.

Church Worker Declares Plant Has Poor Morals

LAKEFIELD, Oct. 25 (ENS). — "Morals of people in interior China are much higher than they are in our great Canadian war plant at Ajax," was the startling statement by Miss Letitia Whitworth, Anglican deaconess of Toronto, and formerly of China, in the feature address at the Annual Deanery meeting of the Anglican Women's Association of Peterborough District in St. John the Baptist Church, Lakefield, recently.

"The set up at Ajax," said the speaker, "from a physical point of view, is marvellous but — it is similar to setup in Japan—without God. The government makes no provisions for the spiritual life of of the workers."

Miss Whitworth spoke with feeling and painted a rather dark picture from the religious standpoint after a discouraging 13 months at the plant.

Too Busy For Religion

One manager of a department when asked to aid in establishing a church said his job was production and that was all he was interested in, not the spiritual or moral welfare of his staff. Although Miss Whitworth was given permission to hold meetings in the lounge, she could not get lodgings at the plant and was refused even space for a desk. She had to live in Toronto and go back and forth each day — and in spite of this she stayed 13 months.

Eventually she did get one manager interested and he said he would give her a site for a church if she raised the money to build it. Miss Whitworth raised $1,400 then the man died suddenly and no one else would take any interest.

Now a church has been erected at Ajax, but it does not reach the girls, as it is a good 15 minute walk and it is not the fashion to go to church. The girls are not allowed to have men in their dormitories after 10:30, and are chaperoned by a house mother and two housekeepers in each dormitory, but they can stay out as late as they wish — as a result they all go out."

Communion Service was held in the morning with Canon Robertson as celebrant. Rev. H. F. Freeston of Apsley gave an excellent address.

Dinner was served some two hundred delegates in the Parish Hall by the Lakefield W. A.

Mrs. R. E. Lemon of Norwood, president of the Deanery, presided for the afternoon session.

Mrs. Lemon in reviewing Miss Whitworth's talk said she felt the government was making a big mistake by feeling that they have supplied everything by providing Physical Services. In the army the padre is the only officer who goes without equipment.

Another vital issue at the moment the President said is that landlords will not rent apartments to people with children, and cited the incident of a woman she knew with her husband overseas, and two small children who had been unable to get a flat in Peterborough because she had children.

The Adults of Tomorrow

"Children," said the speaker, "should be regarded as an asset, and people who have the courage to bring up a large family today should be helped in every way. Our adults of to-morrow are today's children."

Mrs. S. White, president of the Lakefield W.A. gave a short address of welcome. Reports were given by the secretaries of the W. A.'s from the following places:

Campbellford, Hastings, Havelock, Lasswade, Norwood, All Saints, Peterborough; St. John's, Peterborough; St. Luke's, Peterborough; Roseneath; St. Mark's, Otonabee; Lakefield, and an especially fine one from Young's Point.

Rev. H. R. Deering of Cobourg showed some colored slides and spoke on the missionary work at Loon Lake in Western Canada. He said the settlers went into the district in 1929 during the drought years. The Indians who reside there are pagan Indians, Cree-speaking and very primitive. Some instructive pictures of the work accomplished by the church were shown.

Rev. Filer Nominated

An offering was taken to refurnish the Staff House at Fort St. George, B.C., by Mrs. F. Crawford and Mrs. S. F. M. Touchburn.

Afternoon tea was then served the delegates in the Parish Hall.

During the afternoon a clerical meeting was held in the rectory and Rev. W. A. Filer of Peterborough was nominated as the Rural Dean of Peterborough District.

Junior Officers Attack Brockville

BROCKVILLE, Oct. 25.—(CP).—Non-commissioned instructors in training at the officers' training centre here, landing from assault boats in battle order near a railway tunnel under cover of shell and mortar "fire," put on a realistic demonstration of establishing a bridgehead on enemy-held territory.

As the boats crossed Tunnel Bay to make a landing, explosive charges were set off both in the bay and on the shore. Resistance was met from the "enemy" who had taken up position in a freight shed near where te assault troops landed, but they were soon cleaned out by concentrated rifle and shellfire.

Planes of the R.C.A.F. took part in the manoeuvres.

The demonstration, under command of Lieut. H. Campbell of Belleville, followed a Victory Loan parade of "Red Army" cadets and members of the C.W.A.C.

Other demonstrations were carried out by the Royal Canadian Engineer wing under command of Maj. E. H. Lawrence of Brockville.

Oratory Contest Great Success

MILLBROOK, Oct. 25.—(ENS).—The annual public speaking contest for pupils from the Millbrook and Cavan public schools was held at the local school on Friday afternoon, with a number of the parents in attendance, and Mr. Coulter, chairman of the committee, presiding.

The contestants from the Millbrook and Cavan schools were judged separately, and a division was also made between those from the senior and intermediate rooms of the local school. The judges had a difficult task in arriving at their decisions, manner, enunciation, voice, memory, as well as material all having to be considered, and all being of a high standard.

Anna Stinson, who spoke on General Bernard Mongomery, was awarded first prize for the Millbrook senior contestants, with Kathryn Bigelow, who chose "The Life of General Chiang Kai-Shek," a close second. In the inter-room, Arnold Brackenridge, whose theme was Airplanes, won the highest number of points. For North Cavan, Myrtle Seymour, speaking on "Our Neighbors," had top place, and in South Cavan, Juane Miller, whose choice was "The Life of Madame Chiang Kai-Shek," came first, with Leon Patton second, his subject being: "How to help the war effort."

The judges were Rev. A. L. Sisco, Mrs. W. R. Howard and Miss E. L. Hetherington. The winners go to the county contest which will be at Orono, and the winners there again to the district competition.

Prizes given on Friday were War Savings Stamps, and contestants who took part creditably, though not reaching the status of prize winners, were: Joan Wright, Jessie Dawson, Jerry Deyell, Yvonne Richards, Betty Wright, Vivian Chapman, Margaret Dawson and Billy Smith.

Feed On Treacle

FORT ERIE, Oct. 25 (CP).—Salvage crews yesterday raised the barge Mary M. to the Niagara River surface near here after 64 days of immersion—minus its $35,000 cargo of treacle. The recovery solves a problem for district fishermen, who complain simple lures such as flies, worms and minnows no longer intrigue Niagara fish.

Sectional Rally Held At Westwood

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25 (ENS). — The 16th annual sectional rally for this section of Peterborough Presbyterial was held in the United church at Westwood, for an all-day session, when Miss Ida Mackenzie, Field Secretary of Home Missions for Canada, was the guest speaker.

The vice-president, Mrs. Basil Tucker of Norwood, presided. The devotional exercises were taken by the Havelock W.M.S. with Mrs. George Chiles reading the scripture, Mrs. J. W. Wilkinson leading in prayer and Mrs. James Freeman giving the topic, "Who is thy neighbour."

Miss Mackenzie was connected with the Church of All Nations at Montreal and Hamilton, and is now the Field Secretary of Home Missions across Canada. Choosing for her subject "The eternal stars shine out," she divided her address into three sections of stars, the first star dealing with a new realization of the inner dependence of Nations; the second, a star of Christian unity throughout the world, and the third star, revealing a new sense of the value of the faith to which we belong.

Mrs. Franklin Bannister gave the report of the Whitby School for Leaders and Mrs. J. McKerchar of Lakefield gave a most comprehensive report on the Bay of Quinte Branch meeting held at Oshawa in August.

Mrs. Davis, the literature secretary, had on display all literature and helps available for Mission Band, Circles and Auxiliary work.

At the morning session a vocal duet by Mrs. Rork Ferguson and Mrs. W. Munro of Norwood, "Pilot Me, O Gracious Saviour," and in the afternoon a vocal duet by Mrs. J. E. Glover and Mrs. J. Faux "Doing His Will," were much appreciated.

The Presbyterial president, Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, attended and urged all mission enterprises to show greater enthusiasm in their efforts, especially in the work of the Mission Bands and Young Peoples. Next rally will be held in October, 1944, at Norwood.

CALLING ONTARIO LABOR

you who work in FREE ONTARIO:

can you pay FREEDOM'S PRICE?

● The liberty you now enjoy—the rights and privileges of labor—has been paid for—in blood, sweat, tears and cold, hard cash—through other wars and years long past. The liberty that you and yours expect to know in years to come has its price, too. It is the price of Victory, to be paid in this war, this year, NOW!

Before we can enjoy to the full the prosperity and contentment that is due all workers, we must destroy beyond all hope of resurrection the evil, enslaving thing that has already ruined the trade unions of enemy-occupied lands across the sea and left the workers destitute of all their hard-won rights.

Canada—and you are Canada—is now asking you for a small part of the price of continuing freedom. Not blood or sweat or tears. Not taxes or donations. Just Bonds—Victory Bonds—your surplus cash loaned for a little while to meet the costs of war.

It is not your nature to do things half-heartedly. Go all out for this. Put off for a while every unnecessary expenditure . . . let the less important things wait on Victory. Put your money . . . all you have beyond the necessary expenses of decent living—where it will help your fight for freedom and later return to you in full for extra prosperity in peace.

A MESSAGE TO ONTARIO WORKERS

. . . you are protecting the rights of LABOUR, too!

● Every Victory Bond bought by the free workers of Ontario does two all-important jobs. It helps to speed the Victory and it helps safeguard the rights and privileges for which labour has striven so long.

Right now, whatever we as workers may feel about Government policies, about rights and privileges, the one thing that matters most is a speedy Victory over the Axis powers. Those who have trampled into the earth all the hard-won freedom of trade unions in Europe, must themselves be banished from the world forever—and at the earliest moment possible.

To that end—that social justice and security may prevail—Canada now seeks your help. You have not failed before; Canada counts on you today.

The hard-won rights of labour all free workers set such store by, cost lives and toil and money. Huge sums, beyond taxes and beyond compulsory savings, are required to pay the wages of war. To meet this urgent need, Canada once again calls to Canadians to lend their dollars to speed the Victory.

Tremendous forces still oppose our arms on every front. The road that remains to be travelled is both long and hard. Only an overwhelming weight of weapons will free the millions already enslaved and assure a larger and continuing liberty to us and all the workers of the world.

This is more important than any expenditure beyond the needs of decent living . . . more urgent than any spending that can possibly be postponed.

Your money in Victory Bonds will do two things for you. It will help hold your freedom sure . . . and it will come back to you in full for better living after Victory is won. These Bonds are guaranteed by Canada and the people of Canada as to principal and interest. They are readily convertible into cash at any Canadian chartered bank, should immediate funds be required for illness or other urgent necessities. There is no safer method of saving. There is no better buy.

Hill—Cannon

HAVELOCK, Oct. 25 — (ENS).— Runnymede United Church, Toronto, was attractively decorated with ferns, palms, and tall standards of shell pink mums for the wedding of Georgina Eileen Margaret, daughter of Mrs. James Campbell and the late W. A. Cannon of Cobalt, to William Kenneth, eldest son of Mr. and Mrs. W. W. Hill of Havelock. Rev. D. H. Gallagher officiated, with Clare Taylor at the organ and Mrs. Stanley Handforth as soloist.

She was attended by Mrs. William Turnbull as matron of honor, wearing a long gown of rose-orchid sheer, with Queen Anne headdress, and carrying a shower bouquet of deep yellow roses. The two bridesmaids, Miss Dorothy Campbell and Miss Hazel Pringle, were gowned alike in floor-length gowns of French pink and turquoise blue, with matching headdresses and finger-tip veils, and carried bouquets of American Beauty and Sunset roses.

Variety Program by Band Delights Large Audience

Although the Salvation Army Temple Band has lost twenty of its members to the armed forces, it put on a concert in the Collegiate Auditorium on Sunday night, under the sponsorship of the Major Bennett Chapter, I.O.D.E., that carried the audience into the enchanted world of music, delighting them with its artistry and skill.

By far the most difficult number given by the band was "Sunbeam," based on the Sunday School hymn "Jesus Wants Me for a Sunbeam." The story told in this song was that of a child's day, beginning at dawn, taking the playtime, going to school, difficulties in school and the after-school delight. Each incident required definite interpretation, and it was done so well that that audience had no trouble following the story. The doleful measures brought trouble to the fore, and the happiness at being let out of school was portrayed by a skipping pace, typical of small children. The main hymn theme was carried out in each incident.

A tone poem, Minuet in G, with its delicate rhythm and charm, and a favorite which has lived through the years, was played with an understanding and lightness, which is not generally associated with a band, but rather with stringed ensembles. The third number which ranked among the most difficult, was march "Montreal Citadel." This par particularly effective because it provided such a contrast with the opening number "O God, Our Help in Ages Past."

A group of British melodies, which included "Mary of Argyll," "Londonderry Air,' "Farmers Boy" and "Wales," was popular, along with the marches "Contemptibles' and "Star Lake."

One of the outstanding features of the whole program was the intricate shading obtained by each section of the band. Under the splendid direction of Gerald Routly, who knows what he wants and gets it, the players were able to give their best. His baton wielding was definite, allowing no chance for misunderstanding. The opening and closing pieces were played under the direction of the deputy-bandmaster S. J. Richardson, in the same fine manner.

There was considerable variety to the program and several band members took solo parts. Bandsman Arthur Shadgett, 16, who leaves to take up his duties with teh R.C.A.F. next week, played a euphonium solo "United' with great dexterity. It was a most difficult number, with innumerable runs, and they were played smoothly without a hitch, backed by a soft accompaniment of the remainder of his companions.

A cornett duet "Deliverance," whose sprightly air captivated the audience, was played by Bandsman Shel Richardson and R. Jones. Both boys are 16 and played with sureness and smoothness as a single unit. Bandsman Richardson also played a cornet solo, "Tucker," a tricky piece, and did a good job, and although his first few runs were slightly unsteady, the remainder of the solo was done well, bespeaking long hours of practice.

The hit of the program was a surprise number by the band, which had a quartette made up of Bandmaster Gerald Routly and Bandsmen Frank Robinson, Art Smith, and Ronald Routly sing "In the Ranks of Truth." This was a song with a peppy air and a rousing band accompaniment, and was received most enthusiastically.

Two vocal solos were sung by Mrs. M. Braund. In "The Lord is My Light," Mrs. Braund's diction and interpretation were excellent and her staccato phrasing served to emphasize her expression. Her second number, "The Lord's Prayer," where many singers find the breathing very tricky, was well done, although the expression was not as forceful as it might have been. She was accompanied by Mrs. S. J. Richardson at the piano.

In definite contrast to the rest of the program were two recitations given by Miss B. Craig. The first, "Letters from England," was in a serious vein, paying tribute to the Navy for running the gauntlet of the seas and to the British people for their magnificent courage and unbreakable spirit. "The Furnace Door" by Edgar Guest, lent a humorous touch to the proceedings.

The chairman for the evening was Gordon K. Fraser, M.P., and under his direction things moved along quickly. Miss Margaret Preston, Regent of the Major Bennett Chapter, spoke briefly, thanking all the performers who had helped make the evening a success.

Lipstick Refill Easily Changed

In spite of the fact that the metal shortage has been stressed, many women still forget about buying refills for lipstick containers, instead of purchasing brand new ones. There is no difficulty in obtaining them as several of drug stores have a good supply.

It is a simple job to change it. By using a nail file or an orange stick, with pressure at the right point, the lipstick can be removed in one piece and the case can be cleaned with alcohol or hot water and soap.

The refill is easier to handle if it is placed in the refrigerator for a short time before it is put in the case and screwed down. After the case has been properly filled it is a good idea to keep it in the refrigerator as much as possible, because it will last longer and can be applied more easily when it is chilled.

THE STARS SAY . . . .

By GENEVIEVE KEMBLE

For Tuesday, October 26

THE ASTROLOGICAL testimonies on the affairs of this day are deemed as of "mixed influence." There are several signs of progress and gratification in many directions, with the mind surprisingly simulated for brilliant achievement, with energies keyed to initiative and novelty. However, there may be an undercurrent of subtle and malicious undermining, with jealousy and vindictiveness, and this may beget depression, discouragement, and a bitterness that may prompt to reprisals of a kindred nature. If this could be tactfully and shrewdly handled the promises are for financial success and personal satisfactions. Be diplomatic.

If It Is Your Birthday

Those whose birthday it is are likely to encounter a year to try their patience, endurance, and give them a chance to test their philosophy, cleverness and diplomatic spirits. With these contrary and perverse circumstances tactfully and even graciously manipulated, with awareness to the deep and sinister undercurrents of jealousy and envy there is excellent promise of more than brilliant accomplishment. The mentality should be stimulated to exceptional performance, should they not yield to fear, depression and a kindred spirit of revenge and reprisal. Placate elders.

A child born on this day, although gifted with excellent mental abilities of a creative and ingenious nature, yet may give way to depression and morbidity, to ruin their chances. Health should be considered.

Luke Appling Goes To Work

ATLANTA, Oct. 25. — (AP).— Fishing is fine down in Georgia but Luke Appling, the Chicago White Sox shortstop, must lay aside his rod and reel and go to work.

Frankly, big Luke, who copped the American League batting crown for 1943. hasn't done anything except play baseball since he finished Oglethorpe University 13 years ago.

"But, my wife says I'm going to go to work," he grinned sheepishly, "so I'm going."

"That's right," put in Mrs. Appling. "I think he ought to. I think everybody should be working. I don't know what he can do, but there must be some place for him. Maybe he could be a guard at a war plant."

The idea of taking a war job—possibly swapping his hefty hickory club for a night stick—seemed to have pushed baseball out of the picture for Appling. He wasn't crowing much about his batting crown. The season, he admitted, was a success—"but I wish the club had finished a little higher."

Mrs. Appling and their two daughters, Carol Fay, five, and Linday, four, have Luke in 3-A now, but he doesn't figure this is permanent.

"If the country needs me, it'll be all right," the 34-year-old star said. "That is, if they can use an old wreck like me."

Player Problem

NEW YORK — (AP). — The major baseball leagues will hold a meeting at Chicago, November 1, to deal with player drafts from minor clubs, it was announced here last night. A second meeting with minor league representatives will start on December 1 in New York to consider schedules and plans for the 1944 season.

Soldiers Lose

MONTREAL — (CP). — R.C.A.F. did the expected at Molson Stadium on Saturday when they smothered the winless Huntingdon Army team 16-9. But Coach Bill Hughes' men were hardly impressive in sending the Soldiers down to their ninth straight defeat in the Senior Q.R.F.U. race. A crowd of about 2,500 witnessed the game.

DOROTHY DIX . . . .

MAYBE IT'S "APPLESAUCE," BUT PRAISE KEEPS WIFE SERENE

Overdoing Head-of-House Act Just as Bad as "Milktoast" Role for Man in Home.

A YOUNG man who is about to be married asks me to give him a few tips on how to manage a wife. Well, son, it is easy as falling off a log, if you go about it in the right way, but it requires a bit of doing, as the English say. Tact. Diplomacy. Finesse. That sort of thing, if you get what I mean.

The trouble with most young husbands is that they get off on the wrong foot in marriage. They are either too soft, or too hard. They either have the doormat complex, or are afflicted with the head-of-the-house neurosis; and both are equally fatal to getting along in peace and harmony with Angel Face. For every wife has a contempt for her husband if he will let her henpeck him, and she keeps boiling mad and resentful and spoiling for a fight if he is always throwing in her teeth the fact that he is the boss.

Tactlessness Infuriates Wife

It isn't that women object to the obey clause in the marriage ceremony. What makes them sore is the raw way their husbands go about enforcing it. Practically every wife wants to look up to her husband and feel that he is stronger, wiser, with better judgment and more experience of the world than she has, and the happiest marriages are those in which the Mrs. begins every sentence with: "John says." But it makes even a female worm of the dust writhe in fury and want to bite the hand that feed it and pays for its clothes, to have her opinion scoffed at, and to be ordered about as if she were a servant who couldn't give notice and quit.

Of course, there is a lot of preliminary spade work that even the most infatuated lover should do before marriage in laying the foundation of his house of happiness, if he expects it to be sturdy enough to stand the domestic tempests of thirty or forty years.

He should begin by sort of acclimatizing the girl to marriage, so to speak, by adopting the attitude towards her that he intends to keep up. He should not, for one thing, be the adoring slave on one side of the altar, or the bully or brute or block of ice on the other. It isn't fair for a man to lead a girl to think that he is going to make life a perpetual petting party to her and for him to starve her to death for even a kind word after they are married. Nor is a man giving a girl a square deal if before marriage he lavishes expensive gifts on her and feeds her on champagne and filet mignon, and after marriage he is such a tightwad that she has to chloroform him to get a new hat out of him.

Be Yourself to Girl Before Marriage

So before marriage drop your romantic camouflage and show yourself as you really are. Give the girl a taste of your real disposition. Make her wise to your little peculiarities. Tell her exactly how much money you make and whether you will expect her to help you pinch pennies, or blow it all on parties. Instead of yes-yessing her about everything, hand her a few emphatic "No's," and stick to them. Tell her of her faults that you will expect her to correct. That will give her a chance to either take you, or leave you, and whichever she does it will ensure your happiness, or save you alimony.

The husbands who have bungled the job say that no man can manage his wife because no man can ever understand a woman, or find out what makes the wheels go round in her head and heart. But this is a mistake. Women are so easy to work that even babies can do it, and the only reason husbands fail at the job is because they don't take the trouble to study the intricate human mechanism to which they are welded.

So in dealing with your wife, if you want to keep her feeling that she is still a bride on her golden wedding day, keep these few simple basic facts in mind: Keep up your technique of courtship. Never let the supply of sweet talk run low. As long as you tell your wife every day how beautiful and wonderful she is you can beat her and starve her and she will still believe that she married Prince Charming.

Wife Needs Some Entertainment

Remember that wives nag because they are bored stiff with the monotony of cooking and washing and baby-tending. Having nothing else to think about, they concentrate on their husbands' faults. The sovereign cure for this is to take them stepping one night a week and let them get their minds off of you on to a movie hero.

Never criticize your wife's hats or clothes unless you are prepared to buy her others. It will be money in your pocket to wax enthusiastic over her old duds and tell her how beautiful she looks in them.

Never praise another woman to your wife. Always say you didn't notice her. Whether your wife will believe you or not, she will swallow the statement whole.

Praise your wife's cooking. Laud her thrift. Boast in the market place about her amiability. And you will have a wife like the lady in the Scriptures whose price was above rubies.

Follow these rules, son, and you will have a wife who will eat out of your hand.

Five Schools Enter Contest

FAIRVIEW, Oct. 25 — (ENS).— The annual oratorical contest was held Friday evening, October 22, in Hall's School house, S.S. No. 4, Smith Township. Five school sections competed, namely, Lily Lake, Brailey's School and Town Hall, North Monaghan; S.S. No. 4 and No. 11, Smith.

Fifteen pupils from the various schools delighted the audience with a wide variety of speeches on subjects such as Churchill, Shakespeare, Hitler, Princess Elizabeth, Madame Chiang Kai-Shek, and others.

The speakers were Kelly Wilson, from Brailey's, from Town Hall, Margaret McNeil, Eleanor Bowles, Hazel McIntosh and Delbert Davis. From Lily Lake, Joyce Nicholls. Violet Steinkraus and Gerald Donaldson. From S.S. No. 4, Smith, Joyce Gorfey, Lois Brooks, Roy Tulle and Bert Kelly. From No. 11 Smith, Caroline Trotter, Mary Milburn and Naomi Trotter.

The judges: F. E. Kerr of Peterborough and George Ball of Peterborough, gave their decision in favour of Margaret McNeil, first; Eleanor Bowles, second; and Mary Milburn, third. All pupils competing were presented with War Savings Stamps. The winners will take part in another contest at the Normal School next Friday evening.

Wesley Bell was chairman and an enjoyable program of folk dances, solos and two-part songs were given with each school contributing one number. Henry Batten led in community singing.

HERE AND THERE IN SPORTS

By The Canadian Press

Alonzo Stagg, 81-year-old gridiron mentor, saw his College of Pacific team experience its first reverse of the season Saturday when it bowed 6-0, on a fourth-quarter touchdown, before the formidable University of Southern California while 75,000 fans looked on. In the East, machine-like Notre Dame rolled the Illinois eleven to the tune of 47-0 to keep its record unbroken. After next Saturday's engagement with Navy at Cleveland, however, the Irish will lose some of its enlisted stars, including Angelo Bertelli, who are to be transferred to training bases after completing special courses.

There were plenty of runaway scores in Saturday's feature college fixutres. Army trounced Yale 39-7 but it was the first time this year that the Cadets' goal line had been crossed. Pennsylvania smothered Columbia 33-0; Brown ran up a 62-3 count against Camp Kilmer and Michigan had little trouble with Minnesota while Indiana administered a 34-0 walloping to Wisconsin. Two of the largest scores of the afternoon were registered in the southwest when Texas blanked Rice 58-0 and Tulsa measured Utah 55-0. In the South's No. 1 game, Louisiana State made it two straight over Georgia with a 27-0 rout.

Western Unbeaten

Two players of Windsor, Ont., Jimmy Jamieson, 21-year-old Indian, and Bob McDonal, also 21, are among those selected by Manager Lester Patrick from his training squad at Winnipeg for the Rangers' farm club, New York Rovers. Most of the other selected rookies are westerners.

Mustangs of the University of Western Ontario extended its unbeaten record of exhibition grid games to three Saturday at Little Stadium, London, by walking through the Trenton R.C.A.F. Flyers 47-0. Previously, Western had blanked Hamilton Army 23-0 and tied Toronto Hurricanes 20-20.

In the first clash of the season between N.H.L. clubs, Montreal Canadiens outscored Boston Bruins 6-5 Sunday at Quebec before 7,000 fans, the game being virtually a preview for the league opening at Montreal next Saturday night with the same teams in action.

Wins Road Race

LAC. Ab Morton of Toronto Saturday won the 19-mile road race at Hamilton of the Army and Navy Veterans, finishing 300 yards in front of Sgt. Gerard Cote of Verdun, winner of the Boston Marathon. "Whitey" Sheridan of Waterdown was third. The time of 1.49 was slow.

Regina Rough Riders went down to a 34-24 defeat Saturday on their home grounds before the Winnipeg R.C.A.F. Bombers in a scheduled fixture of the Western Football Conference, leaving the Peggers' record for the season unsmirched. Star of the set-to was LAC. Ken Charlton of the losers who managed to notch three touchdowns.

Lions Beaten

In U.S. pro football yesterday, Detroit Lions succumbed to Green Bay Packers 27-6 for the Detroiters' second loss in a row. The Chicago teams broke even, with Bears trimming Brooklyn 33-21 and Cardinals losing to Washington 13-7. New York trounced the Philadelphia-Pittsburgh Combines 42-14.

The first two-year contract to be signed by a Washington pilot since 1929 has been given to Ossie Bluege who piloted the Senators to second place in the American League in his first year as manager. Bluege also received a boost in salary.

Hamilton defeated Toronto Peoples 8-5 Saturday at Hamilton in the Ontario Softball Senior "A" finals in which the Toronto team is leading the series two games to one. A dispute has arisen over the arrangements for future encounters and the Hamilton club was reported to have called it quits.

HULL, Que., Oct. 25—(CP)—Rain forced postponement Sunday of the second game of a best of three series between Hull Volants, inter-provincial champions, and Lachine, Que., champions of the Montreal Starr league, for the Province of Quebec baseball championship.

Officials said it had not been decided when the game would be held. Lachine won the first game at home.

Long Shot Wins

BALTIMORE — (AP).— The four-year-old Anticlimax, A 19-to-1 shot in the betting, registered an upset in the $17,600 Washington Handicap at Pimlico on Saturday, leading six other seasoned campaigners throughout the race. Son of Peace was second and Shut Out, 3-to-5 favorite, finished a poor third.

C.W.A.C. Arrested On Robbery Count

NEW YORK, Oct. 25—(AP).—Pte. Betty Trimble, 19, member of the Canadian Women's Army Corps who led pistol-brandishing policewomen around a Fifth Avenue block Saturday, was arraigned in felony court on a charge of grand larceny and held in $3,500 bail for grand jury action.

The girl was arrested, police said, in connection with thefts of more than $1,000 in valuables from service women. She broke away from the policewomen when she was apprehended at the Women's Military Service Club and was captured, the policewomen said, when she "couldn't run another step."

Potatoes stretch meat and still give the kind of meal men like
When you get down to brass tacks meat-and-potatoes is still the favourite meal of most men. Of course roast beef and roast potatoes is not a meal we can serve frequently these days, but there are other meat-and-potato meals, delicious in flavour and thrifty in ration coupons.

MEAT 'N POTATO OMELETTE
½ cup chopped left-over meat
1 cup left-over mashed potatoes
2 tbsps. milk
½ tsp. salt
1 tsp. baking powder
4 eggs
2 tbsps. butter or shortening
Separate eggs. Beat yolks thoroughly. Combine with potatoes, milk, salt and baking powder. When well mixed fold in stiffly beaten egg whites. Pour into pan in which fat has melted. Sprinkle chopped meat over top. Cook slowly over low heat until set.

POTATO BURGERS
½ pound ground meat
2 medium-sized potatoes
1 tsp. salt
1 egg, slightly beaten
Grated onion to taste
Grate the raw potatoes (about 1½ cups). Mix ground meat, potatoes, grated onion, salt and egg. Shape into 4 large or 8 medium-sized patties. Pan-fry slowly for 15 minutes or until well browned.

Mission Bands Hold Autumn Rally

A rally of children of the Peterborough Presbyterial for fall and winter work in Mission Bands was held at George Street Sunday School on Saturday afternoon when a large crowd of children gathered under the direction of Mrs. Robert Hanscom, Presbyterial secretary of Mission Bands.

Wearing an Indian costume, Evelyn Wallace the announcer of St. James' Mision Band introduced the theme of the afternoon's program "God the Father of All." Oris MacIlraith and Aileen Todd of Knox Band gave the call to worship and Joyce Hanes, Knox, led in prayer. The 67th Psalm was the scripture lesson read by Dorothy McGee, Margaret Ingram, Joanne Currie and Donna Munro of George Street Mission Band.

A dramatized reading "Habits" was an interesting feature with Nancy Rowell, Margaret Munro and Barbara Harrison of St. Andrew's Band taking part. Each carrying a letter of the word peace, five members of St. James' Band enacted an exercise on this theme, with Gordon and June Bullied, Ray Harris, Evelyn Wallace and Helen Dalgleish as reciters.

Have Their Part

A dialogue "The Missionary Box" illustrating how boys and girls can share in giving to missions was given by Arlene Ashby, Gail Craig, Gwenneth Mitchell, Roddy Delaney and Trevor Mitchell of Trinity Mission Band. The call for offertory was given by Evelyn Wallace and the dedicatory hymn sung by Lois and Jim Hutchinson, Knox Band.

Miss Ida Mackenzie, Field Secretary of the W.M.S., Dominion Board, was introduced by Mrs. F. W. K. Harris, Peterborough Presbyterial president. As guest speaker, Miss MacKenzie who appeared in Ukrainian costume gave an inspiring talk to the children. Illustrating her theme "World Friendship" by actual experiences in her own groups of children in the Church of all Nations, Montreal. She made world friendship a personal matter to her hearers. Urging the boys and girls to cultivate a friendly spirit toward all those of other races. She pointed out that this would be their share toward a better world after the war.

Mrs. W. H. Frise, George Street Band Leader, expressed the thanks of the rally to the speaker and to all assisting in the program. After which a short social time was enjoyed, when Miss MacKenzie taught the Band leaders and children several new singing games.

Mrs. H. A. Mitchell acted as pianist throughout the afternoon.

Veteran Curler Dies At Ottawa

OTTAWA, Oct. 25—(CP)—Funeral services will be held here tomorrow for John Hamilton Coward, 63, for many years secretary of the Rideau Curling Club, who died yesterday. Mr. Coward, partner in an Ottawa tailoring establishment, became a member of the Curling Club in 1921.

In 1929 he was elected secretary of the match committee, and was made secretary of the club in 1935, holding that position until his retirement in 1941.

In 1937 he skipped his rink in the Central Canada Bonspiel, held in Ottawa, to capture the Manuel Cup, and in 1942 he was third on a rink skipped by W. F. Page, which took the Gilmore Cup, consolation prize in the Jubilee Bonspiel held in Montreal.

Mr. Cowan, one of the Rideau club's most proficient skips, was a member of the Governor-General's Rink from 1935 till 1941, and was also a keen fisherman. AC. Edward Cowan, R.C.A.F. stationed at Victoriaville, Que., is a son.

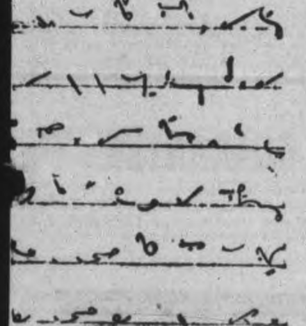
Shorthand Necessary for Business Success



THIS IS SHORTHAND

At first glance, this may look like old Egyptian hieroglyphics to the reader, but to the business girl it is something she will recognize immediately. It is shorthand. And, without shorthand, no girl can become truly successful in the business world.

If you have ambitions to rise to the top and become some important business executive's private secretary you must have a working knowledge of shorthand. It is much shorter than writing by longhand—one reason being that only the sound of the word is recorded. And no busy executive wants to dictate slowly and repeatedly, so shorthand is the solution.

Not hard to learn, as in all other arts, it is really practice that makes perfect here.

Our 32-page booklet helps you to learn the Pitman shorthand system, which is used throughout the English-speaking world to record rapid speech. It contains 18 lessons, with exercises, and two pages of additional short forms.

...ELF-INSTRUCTION IN SHORTHAND send 15 cents in coins or stamps to the Peterborough Examiner Home Service. Be sure to write plainly your name, address and the name of booklet.

"The Authority on Authorities"

WHAT IS ENCOURAGING

"A SEVEN or higher is encouraging, and a six or lower is discouraging." That is an untrue statement frequently made by players who have a little knowledge, which often is worse than none at all. The truth is that even a nine can be discouraging, if you can read it as your partner's lowest of the suit, and a three spot can be encouraging when you are pretty sure your partner has the deuce. In brief, a card readable as higher than your partner's lowest is optimistic, and his lo...st is pessimistic.

West led the heart A against the small slam and, seeing the nice-looking big seven-spot played on it by his partner, "obeyed the signal" and repeated the suit, with his fourth-best 3. South, of course, won that in his own hand, took two rounds of trumps and used the clubs to discard his three diamonds, so that the contract was made without difficulty.

And then the storm broke. East used murderous words in describing the second heart lead by West when a diamond was clearly marked.

"Oh, no," said West. "It was not clearly marked, when you gave an encouraging high card, a seven, on my lead of the ace. It practically compelled me to repeat the suit."

West then was treated to a gratuitous lesson. East, a fellow who watches all of the small cards, pointed out that West was able to see the 6, 4 and 3 of hearts in his own hand and the 5 and 2 in dummy. Consequently the lowest East could possibly have held was the 7, the card he played. So, unless West reckoned that East held a singleton, he should have considered the 7 as a low card.

Ontario Favors Hospital Plan

TORONTO, Oct. 25 — (CP). — Hon. Dr. R. P. Vivian, Ontario Minister of Health, yesterday said the province was prepared to underwrite the cost of general ward hospital care to make certain every Ontario resident would be able to obtain hospital accommodation when necessary free from fear of the expense involved.

The minister told the Ontario Hospital Association's annual convention that the Government would either carry out its policy by direct payment from the province's consolidated revenue fund or through a hospital insurance plan.

He said he had asked the executive of the association and the Ontario Catholic Hospitals Association to appoint a committee as soon as posible to bring in a report on the matter as well as other hospital problems as soon as possible.

Salary increases for nurses and other hospital personnel were suggested by the minister, who said: "Our nurses deserve the greatest credit for the manner in which they have carried out their arduous tasks. It is my sincere hope that their work and devotion to duty may be more tangibly recognized by suitable increases in salary."

Emily Teacher Arranges Party

At 6:30 everyone sat down to supper.

NEW YORK, Oct. 25 (AP). —The United Nations radio at Algiers, in a broadcast reported by the United States Office of War Information, urged Italians in the Nazi-occupied section of Italy today to take all moveable art objects from localities that may be bombed so that after the war the nation will still have the treasures "the whole civilized world admires."

Exchange Ship Due December 2

MORMUGAO, Portuguese India, Oct. 25 — (AP). —The America-bound exchange ship Gripsholm pulled away from shore at 8 a.m. yesterday (11 p.m. E.D.T. Thursday) with aproximately 1,500 repatriates eager to get far away from Japan.

The Gripsholm's departure followed by one day the sailing of the Japanese exchange ship Teia Maru, which left for Japan on Thursday with Japanese nationals brought here by the Swedish ship which is now taking the Canadians and Americans home.

Proceeding on schedule the vessel should reach New York December 2.

The Gripsholm carries 1,236 Americans, 221 Canadians, and 40 citizens of Latin-American countries.

The Teia Maru carries large quantities of mail and relief supplies for persons still detained in Japanese-occupied territories.

CHINESE BUYING PROPERTY IN NIPPONESE SECTION

By H. L. JONES
Canadian Press Staff Writer

VANCOUVER, Oct. 25 — (CP).—An estimated 23,000 Japanese have been evacuated from British Columbia's coastal regions since Pearl Harbor but the shift has been carried out with hardly a pause in the province's war-quickened industrial life on which they had such a healthy grip in days of peace.

Chinese and whites moved in when the Japanese moved out. Former Japanese stores, fishing boats, timber holdings and farms were taken over, either outright or by lease.

Vancouver's one-time 'little Tokyo' is fast becoming a 'little Chungking.' Many old Japanese signs are still there. But most have been replaced as Chinese — quick to snatch the opportunity to spread their own little district into the Japanese sector they one shunned — bought up Japanese businesses.

F. G. Shears, Vancouver representative of the custodian of enemy alien property, said an orderly policy of liquidation of Japanese property has been followed through public tenders and advertising. All money is credited to former Japanese owners.

However the Dominion Order-in-Council for compulsory sale of Japanese property in British Columbia is being challenged by three former coast Japanese now in evacuee camps. A suit is pending against the Dominion Attorney-General.

Keep Close Behind Him ... All the Way!

AMONG the sailors, soldiers, and airmen now at grips with the enemy is someone you know . . . perhaps someone very dear—perhaps just "the boy who lived down the street."

Your heart is with him, no doubt. He needs more than that! His power to speed the victory—his very life, in fact—depends on the things that only the money of the people at home can supply.

Unless you and people like you are behind him with an abundance of everything he needs, his valour cannot prevail. Long and heavy fighting is ahead of him. His need of you will increase rather than diminish. Now is the time for your greatest effort as well as his.

That is why you should now determine to buy more bonds in this 5th Victory Loan than ever before seemed possible. Do not abandon him in the crucial hour—keep close behind him all the way.

SPEED THE VICTORY
Buy VICTORY BONDS

How much VICTORY will $100 buy?

● When peace comes everyone in Canada will share in it.

Yet more than two million gainfully employed Canadians who could buy a Victory bond, have not done so, yet.

You, perhaps, belong to the other three million or so who have bought a bond. And you will buy again and again.

You consider these bonds your share in victory.

But have you stopped to ask yourself how much victory $100 will buy?

Have you seen the latest figures on what Canada must spend if we are to shoulder our full share as a free and prosperous nation in the cost of the war?

● Do you know that up to June of this year Canada has spent 4½ billions on war munitions?

Do you know that since the war began Canada has built and launched 230 frigates, corvettes and minesweepers, over 100 patrol ships, and 178 freighters?

Do you know that over half the military vehicles which carried General Montgomery's army to victory in North Africa were made in Canada?

Do you know that the Air Training Plan for the next two years will cost $1,500,000,000, of which Canada will pay half?

Do you know that so far we have spent on industrial expansion and defence construction—in Canada itself—more than a billion dollars?

● These billions add up to Canada's share in victory.

Do you think $100 is your share of the total?

You are paying taxes, yes.

And perhaps you have some bonds already.

But have you bought your share?

Only you, yourself, after you have thought everything over and determined to save every dollar you can—only you can answer that.
